Speak To Village Board

Students Ask Support For Ecology Project

Two Elk Grove High School students, in behalf of the school's Ecology Club, are seeking village support for their bottle and newspaper recycling project.

The students, Al Benson, 17, of 501 Yarmouth Rd., and Don Baete, 16, of 360 Yarmouth Rd., both of Elk Grove Village, appeared before the village board

Tuesday to ask approval of the conservation project.

Although board members appeared receptive to the idea, they requested more information.

The project would involve the designation of collection points in the village where residents may bring their old newspapers and glass bottles. The items would be taken away on a regular basis by firms dealing in reclamation.

Money from the project would be used by the Ecology Club for community educational programs on pollution.

The students indicated they would like to establish the collection points in the Park and Shop Center on Arlington Heights and Higgins roads, and the Grove Shopping Center on Arlington Heights and Biesterfeld roads.

The recycling project is the first undertaken by the Ecology Club, which began this year. Started in September by Benson and Baete, who at first were the only members, the club has grown to a membership of 20 to 30 students.

The club has three leaders, Benson, Kris Borgias and Kathy Carroll, who comprise the coordinating committee.

Two more committees have been formed to handle projects, the education committee and the recycling committee.

"We want to try and educate the people in Elk Grove Village and take action against pollution when the opportunity is open to us," Benson said.

The education committee is planning a "teach-in" this spring, according to Borgias, who is presently lining up a day and a speaker for a program which will be given for the student body.

The club distributed literature in November urging approval of the pollution bond act. Members passed out fact sheets in the school Tuesday on ways people can help fight pollution.

Sponsors of the club are Dave Truelsen and John Peters, biology teachers at the high school.

The club meets once a week, each Tuesday from 3:45 to 4:20 p.m.

Seek Home Business Ban

A village committee has recommended that no home businesses be permitted under the proposed zoning ordinance.

The recommendation was announced Tuesday by the planning, zoning, and judiciary committee.

If the recommendation is included in the ordinance it would prohibit such occupations as home beauticians, cosmetics saleswomen, and others.

The recommendation is contrary to one made to the committee by the plan commission which held four public hearings on the proposed ordinance one year ago.

At those hearings the provision eliminating home occupations created a controversy with many women speaking against it.

The plan commission earlier this month recommended to the committee that the home occupation prohibition be eased.

The plan commission's recommendation imposed several restrictions on home occupations but none that would have excluded a small beautician's operation.

In other action the board voted to adopt an ordinance granting a special use permit to the Elks Club Lodge 2423 for their use of a building at 115 Gordon Street as a meeting hall.

The 175-membership organization, formed 15 months ago, has been meeting at various locations. The address has 3,240 square feet and room for parking 92 cars.

Trustee Richard McGreenera commended police Sgt. Raymond Marinac and Patrolman Jay Akely for their role in apprehending two men involved in a burglary of $8,000 in tires from a railroad boxcar Sunday behind 2300 Arthur Ave.

The board also awarded a contract with EmCor Inc., Elk Grove Village, for custodial services at the new municipal building, 801 Wellington Ave. The contract calls for a payment of $1,854 a month or $19,850 a year.

Here's The Tally For Constitution

—For the Constitution: Yes, 9,380; No, 3,907.

—For cumulative voting: 6,238.

—For single member districts: 6,490.

—For election of judges: 3,437.

—For appointment of judges: 9,686.

—For abolition of the death penalty: 4,712.

—For retention of the death penalty: 8,412.

—For a lower voting age: 8,671.

—For a 21-year-old voting age: 6,461.

Choral Groups Sing At Randhurst Center

The Elk Grove High School choral department, including the concert choir, the jazz choir accompanied by Diane Rasmussen, girls' glee club, and girls' ensemble made its annual Christmas appearance at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect last week.

O'Hare Airport, the Northwest suburbs neighbor, on a busy day.

No O'Hare Growth 'Till '72?

Plans by Chicago to use the military side of O'Hare Airport for expansion probably will not be resolved until 1972 when a new national administration comes in, J. Patrick Dunne, airport manager, said Tuesday.

Dunne, who spoke to a meeting of the Des Plaines Kiwanis Club, said Chicago's airport authority has been unsuccessful in its efforts to relocate Air Force reserve units stationed on the military side at the northeast corner.

He said the airport authority may be unable to get cooperation from the Defense Department "until 1972 when a new administration comes in," indicating that Chicago officials don't feel President Nixon will be reelected to a second term.

The City of Chicago reportedly has asked for at least 100 of the more than 350 acres of land occupied by the 91st Air Force Reserve Unit, the 928th Troop Carrier group and other military facilities.

ACCORDING TO Cong. Harold R. Collier (R-10), Chicago plans to build an additional five runways if it can acquire the 100 acres. Collier has said he will try to block any expansion and has opposed relocation of the military units.

Dunne defended growth of O'Hare and said hearings on airport expansion held recently by a state senate subcommittee were "strictly political."

At those hearings, officials from several area suburbs called for a halt to growth of O'Hare and demanded that Chicago release details of its plans for the airport.

Some of the subcommittee members were defeated in their bids for reelection Nov. 3. Dunne told the Kiwanians with a smile, referring to Arthur Swanson and Walter Duda, former Republican state senators from Chicago.

"We want to be good neighbors. We think we've had something to do with the economy of the neighborhood," said Dunne, who cited the tremendous growth of the northwest suburban area since completion of O'Hare.

LAND PRICES have gone from $400 an acre in the 1950's to $100,000 an acre for O'Hare area land, Dunne said, and most nearby suburbs have increased their population by at least 50 or 60 per cent since the airport opened.

"If they think this just happened and this place (O'Hare) didn't have anything to do with it, they're nutty as a fruitcake," Dunne said of airport expansion critics from this area.

Construction of O'Hare, which Dunne said is both the world's largest and busiest airport, was publicized worldwide and its subsequent growth has not been hidden from area residents.

"It wasn't any secret," he said. "That would be like hiding a bass drum in a closet. We didn't try to hide it. We were proud of it."

Chicago officials have been criticized for not giving adequate notice of a 1969 Chicago Plan Commission hearing on plans for airport expansion.

DUNNE SAID the airport will increase its number of arrival-departure gates from 70 to 115 and provide room for expansion of international flight terminal facilities.

Despite federally imposed delays, so outgoing passengers can be searched for weapons to prevent hijackings and arriving passengers can be searched for smuggled drugs, international traffic is up 17 per cent, he said.

For the first 10 months of this year, Dunne said, air traffic at O'Hare is down six per cent compared to 1969. He blamed the decline on a severe winter last year, the air traffic controllers strike and current economic conditions.

Seven Kids, A Few Field Mice — And No Neighbors

The James Niehoff family has the only house on the block.

It has no next door neighbors and probably won't have any until spring or whenever someone decides to build a house near them.

THE FAMILY IS the first to move into the custom lot section of the 287-acre planned unit development behind St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village.

There are only three other homes near them, but none are really close enough to be considered next door neighbors.

The Niehoff's live in a two-story brick-and-wood frame house at 490 Lakeview Circle, across the lake from the townhouses in the Elk Grove Estates subdivision.

Though Mr. and Mrs. Niehoff live in what no wis virtually an open field, they are not alone.

"With seven kids I'm quite busy," asserted Mrs. Niehoff, running down a list of her children: Jim, 13, Mike, 11, Carolyn, 10, Jeffrey, 8, Mark and Marcy, 4, and Susan, 2.

"How's it living out here in the boon-docks?" she was asked. "Well, the children miss their friends. We used to live on Essex until late September when we moved."

"That's the reason we stayed in Elk Grove Village. The children didn't want to move."

The Niehoff's moved to Elk Grove Village five years ago from the Brighton Park area on Chicago's Southwest Side.

"We always wanted a home and heard about the schools here," Mrs. Niehoff said. "It's so quiet here and the air seemed fresher after nine years of living in an apartment in Chicago."

"We moved to 63 Essex Rd. and then we had twins so we moved to a larger house at 69 Essex when our neighbors moved away."

WITH A LARGE growing family they then decided to move again to their present location.

"It's got its ups and downs," Mrs. Niehoff said. "Right now we've got a lot of field mice — seven so far. We've got traps set in the attic."

Some of the "downs" include: getting the morning paper delivered in the afternoon.

"At first they weren't going to deliver it at all," Mrs. Niehoff said. "And up until a week ago we were picking up our mail at the post office."

When her husband, a LaSalle Street stockbroker is away at work, Mrs. Niehoff said she feels "stranded without a car."

That situation may be remedied. She added: "I'm taking driving lessons and we're talking about buying a car."

ONE OF THE ASSETS to living where the Niehoff's do is that they have paved streets and a sidewalk, two conveniences that sometimes aren't put in a new subdivision until the homes are in.

The family also has a pleasant view from the living room.

"It was really nice in the fall," she said, glancing at the lake outside her window. "The little boats with their white sails were really pretty."

"And there's a lot of room for the children to play," she said. "There's even a farm back there where they play."

"Frequently, the children go back to their old neighborhood near Brantwood Park to play with their friends," said Mrs. Niehoff.

"I hope we get some neighbors through," she said.

NINE-ROOM HOUSE in Elk Grove Village is virtually isolated from the rest of the community. The home is located in a largely undeveloped area north of Biesterfeld Road. Mr. and Mrs. James Niehoff, the residents, have no neighbors but a large family of seven children.

New Interchange Is Now Open To Traffic

DESPITE SNOW AND COLD weather, more than 800 persons waited in line last Friday night for the second moonlight sale to be held at the Sears Roebuck and Co. catalogue outlet store in the Dun-hurst Shopping Center on Dundee Road in Wheel-ing. Off-duty Wheeling policemen helped control the crowds. Store officials said the sale attracted 3,000 shoppers.

'Soviet Defectors Will Be Assisted'

A fleet of private vessels will begin op-erations in the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast soon to help Soviet fishermen defect to the United States.

The announcement of the measure was made Tuesday by The Rev. Paul Lind-ström, of Prospect Heights. Lindström is the chairman of the national "Remem-ber the Pueblo" Committee.

Rev. Lindström told newsmen at Logan International Airport, Boston, that the boats will approach Soviet ships with signs in Russian, saying "The United States welcomes you to freedom. Jump overboard, and we will rescue you and take you safely to the U.S."

Rev. Lindström did not say exactly when the operation would start or how long it would last. Rev. Lindström was reported to be in New Bedford, Mass. yes-terday working on the project.

THE OPERATION is being set up af-ter a Soviet fisherman unsuccessfully sought political asylum aboard the Coast Guard vessel "Vigilant" several weeks ago off the Massachusetts coast. Coast Guard officials, at that time, ordered the man returned to his Soviet ship. The in-cident touched off a controversy that re-sulted in the suspensions of several Coast Guard officers.

"There are many aboard Soviet fishing vessels who long for freedom as did Simas Kudirka (the fisherman involved in the incident several weeks ago) and they are willing to take the risks in-volved," Rev. Lindström said.

Rev. Lindström admitted he expects the U.S. State Department to block the rescue operation. He added, however, the state department has taken no action on the matter. He said, "I do not feel any international incident is going to result from this type of operation."

Rob Station Attendant At Knife Point

Two men, one of them armed with a knife, beat a service station attendant yesterday and escaped with $200 in cash from the Clark Service Station at Hintz and Elmhurst roads, near Wheeling.

The two men, in their early 20s, fled the station in a dark-colored car driven by a third man, according to Cook County Sheriff's Police.

The station attendant, Walter Bjorn-son, 18, Wheeling, told police that one man held a knife at the back of his neck and told him not to move while a second man searched the station for money.

The two men tied Bjornson's hands with a necktie and put a shirt over his head before leaving. They told him not to move for 10 minutes.

Bjornson summoned police by stopping a passing motorist after he managed to leave the station.

The motorist flagged down a Wheeling police car. Wheeling police called County Police to the scene.

Bjornson told the Herald that the two men jumped him in the station at about 3 a.m. He said three of his teeth were knocked out, and his eye was blackened. Bjornson said the money was taken from a cabinet in the station's safe.

Install Chrome Fire Hydrant

The Elk Grove Village Fire Depart-ment has a first class fireplug in front of its new fire station at 101 Beisterfield Road.

The fire hydrant, installed last week, is chrome plated.

It was a gift from the manufacturer in Traverse City, Mich., to Elk Grove Vil-lage.

Elk Grove Band Attends Clinic

The Elk Grove High School concert band will attend the Mid-West National Band Clinic at the Sherman House in Chicago today.

The band will tour exhibits, observe band directors from throughout the United States directing clinic bands, and attend concerts, including one by the North Shore Municipal Band of Wilmette.

Elk Grove High band director, Douglas Peterson, is a member of the North Shore band...

Seek Gifts For 'Toys-For-Tots'

The Elk Grove Village Fire Depart-ment and the local 7-Eleven Food Store are cooperating with the Chicago Marine Corps Reserve by serving as collection points for the Toys-for-Tots project.

Each year during the Christmas ses-sion the reservists collect toys for needy children in hospitals, orphanages, and other institutions.

Residents may deliver new and used toys to the fire station at 666 Landmeier Rd. at any time.

The 7-Eleven Food Store, 1301 Arling-ton Heights Rd., is accepting toys for the Marine project through Sunday between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m.

Four Christmas Programs Today

Several Elk Grove High School groups will present Christmas programs at Dist. 50 elementary schools today.

The girls' glee club and boys' chorus, under the direction of Harry Swenson, will sing at 9:15 a.m. at Mark Hopkins School, 231 S. Shadywood Ln., and at 10:15 a.m. at Rupley School, 305 E. Oak-ton Rd., both in Elk Grove Village.

Orchestra members will present the "Little Drummer Boy" and other dance numbers at 9 a.m. at Forest View School, 1901 Estates Dr., Mount Pros-pect.

Two performances will also be given at 1 and 1:45 p.m. at Adm. Richard E. Byrd School, 285 Wellington Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Mrs. Lorie Walker is the high school faculty member in charge of Orchestra.

Bus Driver's Case Dismissed

A case involving Michael Bird, 23, charged with driving too fast for condi-tions Nov. 2, was dismissed Monday in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

Bird, of 941 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, a bus driver for Davidmeyer Business Service Inc., was driving an empty school bus when it collided on wet pavement with a truck making a left turn at Elmhurst Road and Rte. 62 near Des Plaines.

Bird, who no longer works for the bus company, was temporarily suspended from driving by the firm after the acci-dent.

by ROBERT A. LAHEY

Thousands of Tollway travelers using the spanking new Arlington Heights Road interchange today will be driving on pavement which was nearly 10 years in the cement mixer.

The interchange was opened to traffic shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie snipped a red ribbon, the last obstacle holding back the horde of commuter cars.

The road will provide access to the Northwest Tollway to eastbound motor-ists from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows, and an exit for westbound autos.

Ogilvie cited a 1968 consultant's report which estimated the new facility will generate an additional 300,000 Tollway trips in its first year. According to this estimate, the interchange will earn back its initial cost in 10 years, the governor said.

"WE CAN ESTIMATE that this inter-change will save a bare minimum of 1,000 man-hours a day in traveling time for the residents of this area," he said.

On hand for the opening ceremonies were many of those who waged the con-struction campaign which began in 1961.

They included Dr. Carl F. Mees of Ar-lington Heights and Neil Cooney of Elk Grove Village, co-chairmen of the Toll-way Access Committee, which originated the campaign.

Mees introduced members of the com-mittee and Robert Greenaway, an Illi-nois Toll Highway Authority commission-er, who told about 200 spectators gath-ered in a soggy snowfall:

"This facility will add another important factor to the growth of your area, which has been fantastic."

OGILVIE SECONDED that thought, saying the interchange signifies recogni-tion by the authority of the past growth of the Northwest suburbs. "It will itself serve to promote that development dur-ing the years to come," he added.

He called the interchange "only one small cog" in the entire tollway system. "But it is a vital one," he said, "located as it is in the very heart of Cook Coun-ty's most rapidly growing area, astride this artery so indispensable to the daily lives of tens of thousands of commuters."

"Only time will tell if the projections for the importance of this facility are correct. If past experience is any guide, we probably will find them con-servative."

Ogilvie also called it a "safe guess" that the interchange will contribute to adding thousands of dollars to the tax rolls in surrounding communities.

ALSO ON THE platform with Ogilvie and local officials from the three com-munities were state senators John A. Graham, R-Barrington, and John W. Charroll, R-Oak Park; and state repre-sentatives Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mt. Prospect. State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, was in Washington.

Ogilvie and his party drove to Arling-ton Heights from Chicago where he had announced opening of bids for sale of $135 million in bonds to finance the ex-tension of the East-West Tollway from Aurora to Rock Falls.

Area Construction Valued At $445,000

Construction of industrial buildings for November in Elk Grove Village was val-ued at $445,000, the building department reported. Permit fees for industry total-ed $2,917.

All construction including commercial, residential, and industrial buildings and alterations was valued at $669,153. Fees collected totaled $4,836.

Total value of construction in 1970 was $20,202,382 with $164,113 in fees collected.

Permits in November were issued for industrial buildings at: 1501 Landmeier Rd., 170 Lively Blvd., 2575 United Ln., 40 Lively Blvd., and 50 Lively Blvd.

Village May Get Movie Theater

A movie theater may be ready for Elk Grove Village residents as early as April, according to Neil Cooney, an Elk Grove Park District Commissioner.

The president of the Bank of Elk Grove, Cooney made the brief comment at a meeting of the park board last week. He said he is aware of a party who has begun plans to construct a 600-seat the-ater in the village. He did not disclose the site of the building.

Cooney was responding to a question from Gerald Smiley, of 1156 Cheltenham Ln., who wanted to know if the park board was considering a theater.

"The park district should only get into operations that private businesses cannot find profitable," Cooney said.

A theater has been sought for the vil-lage for some time. In a survey taken by the park district several years ago the youth rated it their main interest.

A 3-Foot Card! Pity Poor Mailman

by DOUG RAY

Mail carriers may have to enlarge their mail sacks this year, as Christmas cards have taken many unusual forms.

An unfortunate postman somewhere will be delivering a three-foot Christmas card.

"We produce a three-foot Santa Claus Christmas card and it sells very well," according to Ed Letwenko, creative director of United Card Co. Inc. in Rolling Meadows.

"Our Christmas cards are contemporary," according to Letwenko. What is a contemporary Christmas card? "It's a Christmas greeting with a smile," Letwenko said.

THE CONTEMPORARY card business began only about 20 years ago, according to officials at United.

"The first cards produced were called studio cards and were much longer than wide. The market has grown steadily and contemporary cards make up about 20 per cent of the total greeting card market. Christmas cards comprise about 5 per cent of the contemporary market, officials said.

A contemporary Christmas card can be made humorous in a number of ways. "Some Christmas cards are classified as contemporary because they send a humorous greeting or message. Others might be given a contemporary classification because of their unusual size or shape, Letwenko said.

SOME OF THE cards produced by the company for this year's Christmas market have washcloth and even wallpaper backgrounds.

The company formulates ideas about a year in advance of holidays. The creative department is now developing ideas for 1971 Christmas cards.

Though some of the ideas for Christmas cards come from the company's creative department, most ideas are submitted by free lance writers. If the writer sends an idea that can be used by the company, he is paid by the firm.

The process of polishing the ideas submitted by free lance writers is the job of the creative department.

"RIGHT NOW A large part of our market is made up of persons under 25 years of age," according to United Sales Manager Dick Prybell. Prybell believes the market will continue to expand as these young people grow older and more youths enter the market. "About half of the country is under 25 years old now," Prybell said.

Servicemen receive many of the contemporary cards, according to Prybell.

The firm many times takes traditional Christmas characters, such as Santa Claus, reindeer, and even elves and adds a humorous touch to make them "contemporary."

What is planned for next Christmas? "We aren't sure, but we are always looking for something funny," Letwenko said.

If this is the case, the postman probably won't be laughing, if he has to deliver a four or five-foot cardboard Santa next year.

Teenage Generation Film To Be Shown

"Happiness Ended Last October," a surrealistic art film on the teenage generation produced by Elk Grove High School instructors, will be shown at the school beginning at 7:30 p.m. today.

Students and former students provide the acting in the film, made by James Walker, art instructor, and Joseph Frenck, film study instructor.

Other showings, $1.25 each, will be tomorrow at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The show is open to the public.

The film, which was a year in the making, is the third one which Walker has made. He is a surrealistic painter.

Council Suggests Peace Corps Plan

Students at Fremd High School, Palatine, will be asked by their student council representatives to build a school in a foreign country. If they agree, they'll be taking part in the Peace Corps School Partnership Program.

Paul Mack, Midwest representative of the Peace Corps, explained the program to council members yesterday. Should the students decide to build the school, they would have to collect $1,200, Mack said.

If reaction to the proposal is favorable, council members will call a school-wide meeting in February to vote for or against the proposal. If they vote in favor of building a school with the Peace Corps, a fund-raising drive will be started.

The idea for Fremd students getting involved with a Peace Corps program originated with Candy Jacobsen, chairman of the council's services committee.

MACK, WHO JUST returned from Brazil four months ago, served with the Peace Corps for two years. At yesterday's meeting he explained terms of the agreement.

Local residents of the area where the school is to be built would become partners of Fremd students, Mack said. The $1,200 Fremd would donate would pay for three quarters of the school's building materials. The local residents would donate the other quarter of the funds and would supply the labor.

Mack pointed out that the schools are generally built in rural areas. The farmers often build the school themselves with the help of a professional bricklayer.

"It takes about 50 days for them to build a school," Mack said.

He said that even though the farmers grow only enough food on their land to feed themselves and their families, they still take time off from farming to build the school.

MACK HELPED IN five school building projects while he was with the Peace Corps in Brazil. In one case, it was bean harvesting season, but the farmers helped build the school rather than harvest beans.

Battery Charge Is Dismissed

A charge of battery against an Elk Grove Village man was dismissed last month by Magistrate Martin Laiken in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

Gerald Hamel, of 618 Grosvenor, was found innocent of striking Kenneth P. Serzen, a Commonwealth Edison Co. employee, who turned off the electricity at the Hamel residence because of an alleged unpaid bill last October.

Ecology Magazine Started On A Shoestring

by KATHLEEN NEUMEYER
WOODLAND HILLS, Calif (UPI)—Ira Ritter has what you might call chutzpah. A lot of nerve.

Only 21 years old, not yet graduated from San Fernando Valley State College, he's attempting to publish a nationwide quarterly magazine about ecology with no experience and a staff of 250 unpaid volunteers.

The November premier edition was distributed to bookstores here and in New York and to businesses which ordered about 10,000 of them in lots of 100 to pass out to employees and customers.

Ritter estimates the publication of the first 50,000 copies of Environmental Quality magazine cost about $20,000, financed by "grandmothers and friends."

The 80-page periodical includes articles contributed by Ralph Nader, Kurt Vonnegut, and Paul Ehrlich, 16 color pages, and a guide for housewives listing the phosphate contents of various detergents.

None of the authors was paid, and all the editing, laying out and pasting up was done free by college students and other young volunteers.

"THE PRINTER even donated $5,000 worth of paper when we told him what we were doing," Ritter said.

The project got started last June when Ritter, wanting to "get involved" in fighting pollution, tried to find a magazine which would tell him specifically what he could do.

He couldn't find one.

"So I went around my apartment complex, and to a housing development, and within half an hour I had found 26 persons who said they would like to subscribe to an ecology magazine," Ritter recalled.

"They asked me who was going to be writing for it, and I didn't want to say I was, so I said people like Ralph Nader, Paul Ehrlich, college professors, and so on."

Next he and a friend flew to Washington and knocked on doors, extracting promises from Sens. Thomas Rees, D-Calif., Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, George McGovern, D-D.C., and Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., to contribute material to the magazine which so far didn't even have a mockup.

Back in the Los Angeles area, he and his friends persuaded friends of their parents to donate office space, and they set up shop.

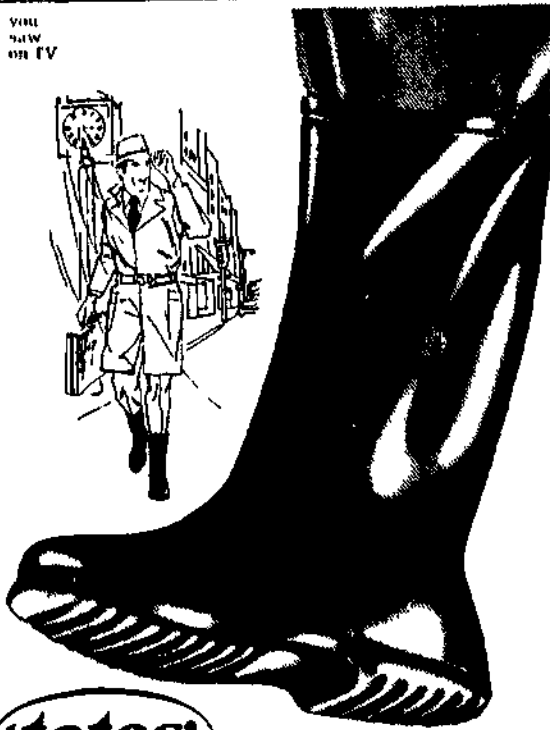

The Los Angeles Times printed a story about the enterprise in its business section, and Ritter received more than 5,000 letters from persons asking to help or ordering subscriptions.

They sold bumper stickers ("Live Dangerously, Breathe Deep") and T-shirts to raise money, and a flock of enthusiastic youthful volunteers started writing articles.

The first edition includes no ads ("we thought we should prove ourselves first") and the editors plan to accept no advertising from companies which aren't doing anything to abate pollution.

A biweekly newsletter, Ecology Briefs, will be sent out to subscribers in addition to the magazine, giving them specific advice on fighting pollution.

'Quiet Man' Is Remembered

by JUDY BRANDES

People who know Dan Bergman say he is a quiet man.

His family has owned a 178-acre farm on Algonquin Road since 1867. Dan and his father, Dan Sr., used to haul milk to market in Palatine back at the turn of the century.

Now he and his son Harold work the farm. Harold and his family, as well as Dan's daughter Irene, live in the family house at 2150 Algonquin Rd.

"This house was built when I was seven years old," Bergman said. "I was born in the first home, just east of here."

The large family dining room is decorated with one wall paper pattern on three walls, a different one on the fourth. "That's the way they used to do things. You see, we've also got the life around the lower part."

A DESK, A SEWING machine, and an expandable table fill the room now. "I was married in this very room on Thanksgiving night," he said. His wife died in 1954.

Through the front window you can see the sign on the barn across the road: "Highland Dairy Farm."

"We haven't had any cows on the farm for five years. The forest preserve bought the 140 acres across the road in 1965. We've been allowed to farm it until this year, but next year the preserve wants to have it."

Dan and Harold Bergman will still have the 38 acres on the north side of Algonquin. They will have to move the well off the forest preserve property where it has been for almost a hundred years. The farm is in Hoffman Estates, but water and sewer lines haven't been installed yet.

"We'll farm the north side like we've always done, usually planting corn and beans," said Dan.

WHEN THE FOREST preserve bought the Bergman land on the south side of Algonquin, the school house which Dan and his children attended was torn down.

"That was the Dist. 18 school house. We held out from consolidation because we liked having the school so near."

In 1946, elementary school districts in Palatine Township joined to form Community Consolidated Dist. 15, but Dist. 18 did not join the township district until 1958.

"I got my eighth grade diploma from that school, the Highland Grove School. That was the only education I got. After that I worked as a road engineer in the township for six years and then in 1920 I started farming with my dad."

Dan Bergman says he had no contact with high schools until 1921 when a friend, Fred Rohde, died. "I was attending his funeral down the road at St. John's (United Church of Christ) when Tom Hart and George Butler stopped me outside the door and told me they had picked me to take Fred's place on the high school board."

HART WAS PRESIDENT of the Palatine High School board of education and Butler was principal.

Bergman served for 25 years on the High School Dist. 211 board, the first member to serve continuously for so long. He was never board president or secretary.

"They always had someone qualified to be president and I only had an eighth grade diploma, so I didn't want to be out in the public eye."

smart boy who was one of the top graduates of the school." William Fremd, for whom the high school is named, joined Bergman on the high school board in 1938, after graduating from Palatine High School in 1920.

Tonight, Fremd and the present Dist. 211 board will give official "thanks" to Bergman for his long service on the board.

"I don't know as I deserve all this. They tried to balance the board with three farmers and four from the village. I ran every year and was never opposed," he said.

BERGMAN RETIRED from the board in 1946. He had served during the difficult years of the 1920's when the voters rejected a referendum to build a new high school, the present Palatine High, three times; the depression, when the board had to cut salaries 10 per cent; and the 1940's, when discussions of adding Schaumburg Township to the school district were prominent. Schaumburg was finally added in 1953, after Bergman left the board.

As a farmer, Bergman was interested in agricultural vocational education, and supported implementing vocational programs in the high school curriculum.

"I don't really want to talk much about the issues. It might bring up some old feelings in people. Let's just say I was a board member."

Bergman "retired" from the board in 1946 when he was 65: "But I didn't retire from farming. I still farm. In fact, today we got the last of the crops in."

Today was also his 88th birthday: "I don't like people to make too much fuss over me. I usually go visiting with friends or relatives, but today I thought I'd stay home. I like my quiet life."

Gifts For Some, Coal For Others

by ED MURNANE

If Illinois' new Constitution is to be viewed as a Christmas gift for citizens of the state, then it must also be viewed as a lump of coal in the Christmas stocking of the state's 235 state legislators.

For while the citizens of the state are rejoicing (or at least the 1,072,297 who voted for the Constitution are rejoicing), the legislators are preparing to report to Springfield in less than three weeks to face a monumental chore of preparing the state for the July 1 effective date of the new Constitution.

Estimates are that as many as 1,000 pieces of legislation will be required to get the state statute books in accord with the new provisions of the constitution.

And that project is placed on the shoulders of a legislature which also must come up with a redistricting plan for the state's 24 congressional and 50 state districts. There also is the matter of the governor's budget and the appropriations bills that will accompany that.

So the senators and representatives who leave for Springfield in early January had better bid farewell to their home towns. Chances are they won't see much of the old neighborhood until half-way through the summer.

ILLINOIS' WON'T be the only state with a busy legislative session next year. According to the Commerce Clearing House news bureau, an estimated 400 new laws will be enacted in the 49 regular sessions of state legislatures scheduled for 1971.

The CCH says more than 120,000 bills will be introduced and the topics will range from abandoned cars and property to zoning.

The only state not scheduled for a legislative session in 1971 is Kentucky, where the legislature meets in even-numbered years. Thirty-one states now hold annual sessions of the legislature, including Illinois.

Redistricting of congressional and state districts will be one of the major jobs in most states.

YESTERDAY'S OPENING of the Arlington Heights Road interchange on the Northwest Tollway was a big event for the area but, unfortunately, one of the key people who managed to get the interchange wasn't here for the opening. State Rep. Eugenius S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, was in Washington as a delegate to the White House Conference on Children and Youth. As the only Democratic representative from the area while the Democrats were in power in the governor's mansion, Mrs. Chapman was very instrumental in getting approval for the interchange.

CON-CON DELEGATES John Woods and Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights were accompanied to the Con-Con victory party Tuesday night by John White, attorney from Arlington Heights. White was Woods' campaign manager last year and is currently one of the stars in the Chicago Bar Association's annual Christmas spoof.

ANNE EVANS, Con-Con delegate from Des Plaines, also joined the reunion at the Sherman House Tuesday night. Mrs. Evans, who worked particularly hard for passage of Proposition 2B, which would provide for appointment of judges, said her efforts were "10 times as great as they were the last time a judicial reform question came up but this one lost and the last one won."

Loire Attracts Tourists

by MURRAY J. BROWN

UPI Travel Editor
PARIS (UPI) —The glorious days of the French Renaissance can come alive for American tourists in the Valley of the Loire, only a few hours south of Paris by car, bus or train.

For this is the famous Chateaux country. It was here, along the banks of the Loire and its tributaries, that the kings of France built elegant palaces, castles and mansions for their queens and mistresses, as did members of the royal courts for their families.

The bones of the kings, queens, courtiers and courtiers have long since crumbled into dust. But scores of their magnificent residences have withstood the ravages of wars and weather and other assaults by man and nature.

Many of the chateaux, some with original furnishings, are open to the public. For a few francs admission fee, the American visitor can walk in the footsteps of the great and not so great who helped write the history of feudal France.

NATURALLY, how many you visit will depend on how much time you have to spend in France. One-day guided trips to some of the outstanding chateaux can be arranged in Paris, Blois, Tours and other cities in the valley in Central France. But to really enjoy the chateaux and other attractions, several days are necessary, at least.

There is Chambord, the largest and most spectacular of the Renaissance period, begun in the early 1500s by Francois I who brought the new age of enlightenment to France from Italy. Situated about 10 miles east of Blois, in a park as big as Paris surrounded by 20 miles of walls, the chateau overwhelms the visitor from his first glimpse at the end of a long tree-lined walk.

With its four main spired towers and about 365 chimneys of various sizes and shapes, it looks like something out of a Walt Disney fantasy.

A few miles away is the stately 17th century Chateau de Cheverny in a park-like setting with formal gardens. It took 30 years to build the Louis XIII style mansion which is the residence today of the Marquis de Vibraye, a descendant of the original owner.

ABOUT MIDWAY between Blois and Tours is 450-year-old Chenonceaux, known as the "Chateau of Six Women" because of the roles played by its various mistresses in the history of the graceful castle and its gardens. Henri II gave Chenonceaux to his favorite paramour, Diane de Poitiers, who had a bridge built from the chateau to the other side of the Cher. After Henry's death, his widow, Catherine de Medici, took possession and had a two-story gallery built on its 180-foot-long arched span.

A few miles west of Tours are other outstanding chateaux, such as Azay-le-Rideau built partly over the Indre River in the early 1500s with its white walls and steep slate roof reflected in the waters below and its rooms furnished in Renaissance style, and Villandry, a U-shaped building with an art museum inside and a three-tiered Renaissance formal garden outside with an 8,400-square-yard lake.

There are a wide variety of clean and comfortable accommodations available at moderate rates in family-type and commercial hotels and charming wayside inns. There also are excellent restaurants throughout the region.

Main roads are first class and well marked, with speed limits and distances posted in kilometers. Secondary roads also are good. But be particularly careful passing on three-lane roads — French motorists apparently enjoy playing "chicken" with one another.

The Tube Will Feature Number of Special Events

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Viewers on the lookout for something special on the home screen will have a number of events to keep an eye on in the near future.

By all odds, the most special happening in video's near future is the end of cigarette commercials, which will disappear from the air in just about two weeks, on Jan. 2.

On the entertainment side, meanwhile, the most immediate event to look forward to is tonight's guest appearance of the radiant new singing star, Melba Moore, of "Hair" and "Purlie" fame, on NBC-TV's Bing Crosby Christmas special.

The cast on the Crosby hour also includes Jack Wild of "Oliver" and the Doodletown Pipers. Personally, the Butterfield Blues Band does more for me than the Doodletown Pipers, but anyway there's Melba.

NBC-TV has also announced that the first special of "Laugh-In" graduate Goldie Hawn will be presented for an hour on Feb. 15.

Miss Hawn, who won an Oscar in her first movie, "Cactus Flower," and currently is getting raves for her performance in the new film "There's A Girl in My Soup," will have Johnny Carson and Ruth Buzzi of "Laugh-In" among the guests on her special.

On Jan. 2, NBC-TV will present one of Hollywood's most memorable musical films, "An American in Paris," with Gene Kelly, Leslie Caron and Oscar Levant.

The film, with music by George Gershwin and lyrics by his brother Ira, won seven Oscars in being named best picture of 1951.

On Feb. 1, one of Kelly's former leading ladies, Rita Hayworth, makes her first television appearance as a performer on CBS-TV's Carol Burnett series.

LAST SEPT. 28, Miss Burnett's show offered a spoof of one of Miss Hayworth's most famous movies, "Gilda." Miss Burnett played the role created in the film by Miss Hayworth, who saw the spoof and sent the comedienne a telegram that said: "I loved it. You should have done the original." The two performers got together personally, and Miss Hayworth agreed to appear with Miss Burnett.

On Jan. 15, novelist Philip Wyhe, renowned for his "Opus 21" and other works, has his first television script turn up as a science fiction drama on NBC-TV's "The Name of the Game."

Wyhe, long concerned with ecological matters, has titled his drama "LA 2017." And according to the network, the story, which stars Gene Barry, Barry Sullivan and Edmond O'Brien, deals with a magazine publisher who "is mysteriously transported to the year 2017 and finds Los Angeles has been forced underground by life-killing world pollution."

Y and Z have taken up JACOBY MODERN, although their bidding does not meet with our complete approval. Z's opening bid of two clubs was the artificial two-club opening and the only forcing opening at his disposal. Y's two-spade response was also artificial and showed seven-nine high-card points.

Z might well have explored to see where those points might be but the old auction player was not going to be bound by too much modern science. He placed the contract at six diamonds.

West opened the six of trumps. Z looked at the dummy for an instant and smiled, as if recognizing an old friend. Then he cashed three high trumps. This gave East time to signal strongly in hearts. Z's next play was the five of spades. West ducked and the old man was able to come back to his hand, run off the rest of the trumps and make the proper end-play against poor West.

"Had you seen this hand before?" asked a kibitzer.

"Yes, I played it in one of Milton Work's columns back in 1926 and 1927. Since the game was auction, I opened with three diamonds and played the hand there. I would get my slam bonus as long as I made six A, who always sat West, opened a heart. Naturally, this made the hand a sure thing when I found that A held three trumps."

Before you disagree with the old man, let's look at the sure-thing play. He ruffed the heart high, cashed two high trumps and threw West in with his last trump. West was caught in a three-suit end-play and had to give declarer the rest of the tricks.

Santa's Crew To Visit Area

Better watch out, Santa Claus is coming to many local towns during the Christmas season.

Santa, two elves and five reindeer will ride through Elk Grove Village on a flatbed trailer, courtesy of the Elk Grove Park District. The float will visit preschools, kindergartens and first and second grade at schools through the middle of next week. Next Tuesday, Dec. 22, Santa will be at the Park and Shop center, Arlington Heights and Higgins roads, from 9:30-11:30 a.m., and at the Grove Shopping center, Arlington Heights and Butterfield roads from 12:30-2:30 p.m. Candy provided by the shopping centers will be given to children.

Santa will visit with his young friends every Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the northeast corner of Duntun and Campbell in Arlington Heights. Each child will receive a candy cane from Santa. Special lighting facilities are provided for photographs.

SANTA'S HOURS in Arlington Heights are: Thursday, 10 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.; Friday, 10 a.m. to noon, and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.; and Saturday, 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. During Christmas week Santa will be standing on the corner from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday.

In Hoffman Estates, Santa can be found at the Golf Rose Shopping Center. He will be in the trim and tree section of the W. T. Grant store, at the invitation of the Hoffman Estates Chamber of Commerce.

SANTA'S VISITS to the Hoffman Estates center will be from 4 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, and from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday. He will also be in Giant's restaurant between 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Saturday. Polaroid photographs of children with Santa Claus are available for $1.

Strolling through the malls at Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles, Santa will give candy to children every weekend until Christmas. The week before Christmas, he will be at the center Monday through Thursday.

Sitting on a gilt and red velvet throne, Santa Claus is greeting children in the mall of the Rancho shopping center in Oak Park. Every day through Dec. 21, his hours are 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Santa will be at the Ranchmart Shopping Center on Dundee Road in Buffalo Grove starting Dec. 12 until Christmas. His Saturday hours are between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., and Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. Weekly hours are 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

SANTA WILL visit with children at the Buffalo Grove Mall in Buffalo Grove every Friday, Saturday and Sunday through Dec. 20. Friday hours are between 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. His last appearance at the mall will be Monday, Dec. 21, from 11 p.m.

A Santa station is at the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center. Santa will be there through Dec. 23 daily from 3-8 p.m. Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Sunday noon to 5 p.m. Color photographs of children with Santa may be purchased. Each child will receive a ring.

The Rolling Meadows Jaycees put a Santa's mailbox in the shopping center mall. All letters will be answered.

The jolly old man makes his headquarters at two sites in Palatine. One is the A-frame house in the Palatine Plaza and the other is in the new Herald Building at the southeast corner of Slade and North streets. Thursday and Friday (Dec. 17 and 18), Santa will be downtown from 2-4 p.m. and 6-8 p.m. in the plaza. On Saturday, Dec. 19, he will be at the plaza from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and downtown from 2-5 p.m. Santa's headquarters will be open from noon to 3 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 20 in the plaza. On Dec. 21, 22 and 23 Santa will be at the plaza from 2-4 p.m. and downtown from 6-8 p.m.

Oxygen Used In Waste Treatment Process

The use of pure oxygen rather than air to treat waste water is a new trend gaining popularity in the effluent society.

Researchers at the National Cylinder Gas (NCG) Division of Chemetron Corp., 2100 E. Lunt Ave., in Elk Grove Village are predicting that oxygen-producing plants will have to be built to supply sewage treatment facilities. A. F. Chouinard, director of research at the Chemetron plant, said the new process for the secondary treatment of sewage is proving "very effective."

The division's supervisor of gas processes, John B. LaPota, said the process has not yet been fully developed. NCG is conducting a pilot study in cooperation with Wood Dale at its waste water reclamation complex on Irving Park Road in the testing of the process.

"We will modify the present equipment based on what we have learned so far in the Wood Dale operation," said LaPota. A common means of disposing of waste is the "activated sludge" process, according to LaPota. He said this is being used at the Wood Dale site, but the innovation is in the use of pure oxygen rather than air.

Describing the activated sludge process, LaPota said, "It requires powerful blowers to force large volumes of air under atmospheric pressure through a mixture of sewage, bacteria or activated sludge and water. As the bacteria assimilate oxygen absorbed by the water, they become activated. They grow, consume organic materials and pollutants, and reproduce rapidly."

The mixture is then transferred to another tank or area for final clarification and the bacteria collect as a deposit of sludge. Some of it is returned to the aeration tank to be re-mixed with air, to maintain the process. The rest is removed and dried and sometimes sold as a fertilizer.

CHOUINARD SAID that the use of pure oxygen speeds the bacterial action that consumes organic pollutants in water. "Treatment is faster, a smaller aeration tank is required and power requirements are greatly reduced," he said. He said this may help some communities with overloaded facilities.

Chemetron Corp. has air separation plants in the United States and around the world, which produce oxygen. The basic function of the NCG division is to develop applications for the company's gas products, including nitrogen and argon as well as oxygen. Most applications of the gas processes are in the chemical, metallurgical and food industries. "We have had an interest in this type of pollution control for some time," said LaPota. "Some of our other divisions also develop water and air pollution control processes."

Give Candy Elves To Little City

Candy elves made by the Up and Doing 4-H Club of Arlington Heights were delivered to Little City yesterday.

Each elf contains different flavored roles of Lifesaver candy and two packs of gum. Ribbon and felt hold the candy together, making the object resemble an elf.

Esther Goebbert, an adult leader of the 4-H Club, said all 15 girls in the club participated in making the gifts. They paid for the materials used with money from the club treasury.

About 25 elves were made by the 4-H'ers, she said.

Last week, the club held a Christmas party and regular meeting at the home of club member Luanne Goebbert where they exchanged gifts.

Interested In Cottey College? Party Set

The Philanthropic Education Organization sisterhood will hold a Coke party Dec. 28 for high school girls interested in attending Cottey College in Nevada, Mo.

The party will be held at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Frances Higley, 223 N. Emerson St. in Mount Prospect.

PEO is a women's organization which lends its support to the all-girl college, which has a student-faculty ratio of 10 to one. The organization has encouraged girls from Arlington Heights, Park Ridge and Hinsdale to attend the college, according to Mrs. Frances Higley, a PEO member.

High school girls interested in attending the party or obtaining further information can call Mrs. Higley at 259-2023.

$76,000 Raised For Little City

Proceeds of the recent Chicagoland Little City Testimonial Dinner honoring Greek Orthodox Bishop Timotheos totaled $76,000. The money will be used to build a research complex at Little City.

Little City, a non-profit residential community especially created and geared for treatment of mentally retarded children, has been planning to build a research complex for some time. To honor Bishop Timotheos, the complex, when built, will bear his name.

The recent testimonial dinner was the kick-off event for the building of the research complex. In addition to the money collected by the dinner, several $5,000 donations were made by prominent citizens and foundations before the dinner.

Little City is located near Palatine.

The Way We See It

A Tribute to Wisdom

Approval of the new Illinois Constitution was, as Constitutional Convention Pres. Samuel W. Wilwer called it, "a monumental victory for Illinois citizens."

Twelve times in recent years, voters in other states faced constitutional reform measures and on seven occasions, they turned them down.

Last month, two of three proposed new constitutions were defeated by voters in statewide referenda.

But in Illinois Tuesday, the margin of victory for the new Constitution was of overwhelming proportions.

It was not only a victory for the citizens of the state, it also was tribute to the wisdom of the delegates at the Sixth Illinois Constitutional Convention and the wisdom of the voters.

The delegates deserve praise for their decision to submit the new Constitution to the voters in separate sections, rather than as one package. Had any of the four controversial proposals which were defeated Tuesday been included in the main body of the document, the Constitution itself would have been likely to go down in defeat.

As it was, however, the voters could approve a new Constitution while at the same time they could determine certain provisions to be included in the Constitution.

The campaign leading to Tuesday's referendum was, as many political campaigns are, marked with frequent distortions, misrepresentations and half-truths.

Yet the voters rejected the false arguments and ratified the charter, giving the state its first new Constitution since 1870.

So it was indeed a monumental victory and a tribute to delegates and voters alike. Illinois will move into the 21st Century with a Constitution that was written for that century, not for the horse and buggy days of the late 1800s.

If Illinois citizens decide they do not like certain provisions of the new document, they will have ample opportunity to change them since the new Constitution is much easier to amend than the old, and because the voters will have a chance to call another constitutional convention during the next 20 years. That provision is contained in the Constitution.

There is some disappointment among proponents of the four separate submission items which were defeated Tuesday.

We would have preferred to have the voting age lowered, the death penalty abolished, single member districts and merit selection of judges.

But even defeat of the four proposals cannot lessen the magnitude of the victory. The voters had their say on each proposal, and each was rejected. Nothing could be fairer, and nothing could be a better indication of voter sentiment.

So we and others who wished a different outcome on the special propositions will not weep over those results. The important vote was on the Constitution itself and the others, if they are right for Illinois, can come later through amendments.

Nothing should be allowed to detract from the resounding victory of the new Illinois Constitution. It placed Illinois in the forefront among the states in constitutional revision and has proved that, even in a state where political party lines are drawn on most issues, good government can succeed.

Illinois could have received no nicer Christmas present.

Coping with Teen Drug Problem

If you have a teenager, the chances are better than 50-50 that he's tried marijuana. How can parents meet this problem without making it worse?

Ask your child about it. This is the advice of drug experts who say you might be surprised at his willingness to talk. Don't, however, react angrily to the news. Tell him how you feel, but avoid a rejection, which might simply confirm, or worsen, his drug habit.

Dr. Joel Fort, an author and drug specialist, suggests that you try to find out just what drugs mean to your child and why he thinks he uses them. His answers may give you some insight into your youngster's feelings about his friends, his school, and his family. Regular drug use is a symptom of inner problems, not the problem itself.

All experts agree that a disconnected family life can push young people toward the drug experience, from which they derive sensations of love and belonging that they fail to get elsewhere. The major thing a parent can do to ward off the drug threat is to maintain a close and loving family circle during the years when their children are growing up.

Finally, don't lecture your teenager on the law; he knows what the drug laws say, and he considers them unjust. Instead, discuss the value of facing tension and uncertainty — whether as an adolescent or as an adult — without artificial aids.

By the same token, most experts advise that voting money to put more policemen on the streets is simply handling the problem, not facing it. All citizens should exert pressure on federal and state legislators for more funds to develop professional treatment centers, drug research, and drug education programs in every school grade.

Good Utilization of Federal Funds

A pilot program, to stimulate creativity in sixth graders, is earning approving reviews in Des Plaines Elementary Dist. 62.

Children have found the project stimulating and have responded well to it. Seventy-five sixth graders working in the program choose their own topics and do research in them, under the guidance of social studies, math and art teachers and librarians.

According to educators, school children lose much of their creativity by fifth grade, and the project is designed to rekindle it. The pilot course begins with a creativity test, asking the student to suggest ways of handling a problem. Answers are compared and evaluated by teachers.

The student then picks a research topic and uses the facilities of the school library — books, tapes, records and other teaching aids — to piece together answers.

Recognizing the value of this program, the state superintendent of public instruction recently approved a Dist. 62 request of $13,194 to pay the cost of this year's program. This is a good example of how state and federal funds can be used as seed money to permit local districts to improve their teaching methods and concepts.

New Calmness Has Overtaken Village

by MARTHA KPER

Village board meetings in Palatine aren't as noisy as they used to be.

I wonder why. The issues haven't changed too much. There're still a lot of controversial subjects which come before the board, but oddly enough the audience isn't shouting anymore.

Remembering back to the days when the mayor had to use his gavel more than his microphone to obtain order, I'm amazed by the sudden hush.

Those were the days when the board room was overflowing with angry homeowners who acted more like they should be home doing their grade school homework than expecting a voice in local government.

Those were the days when a village board meeting couldn't proceed for fifteen to twenty minutes because residents thought it was more important to talk to each other than listen to discussion and action taken by the board.

But within the past couple of weeks a new calmness has overtaken the village hall.

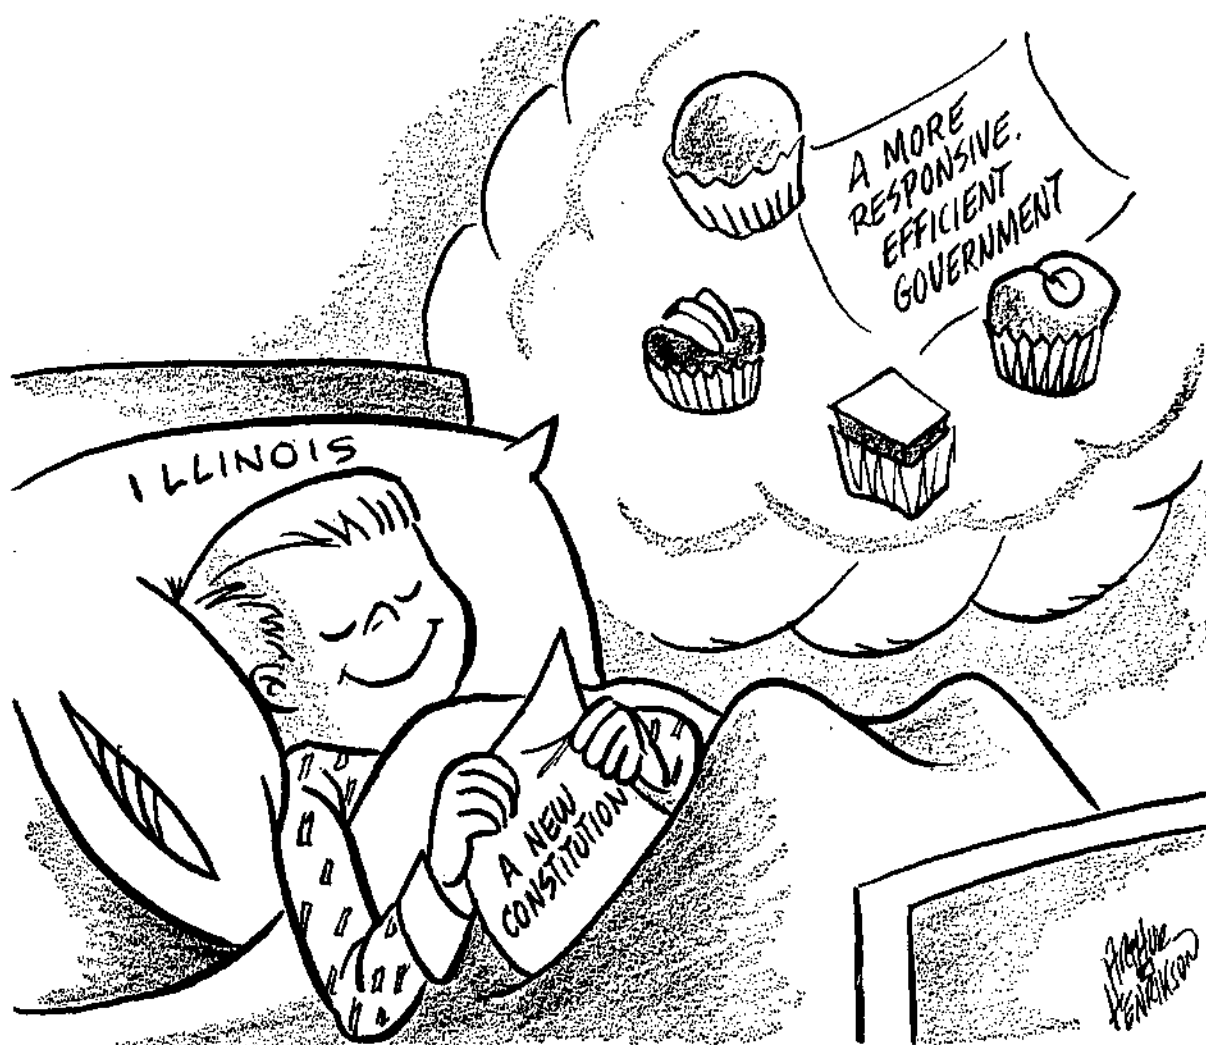

Two sections of town are intensely interested in a couple of matters currently before the board of trustees, but residents representing both areas are quietly listening and courteously talking.

One group is interested in proposed improvements to Palatine Road west of Route 53. The Winston Park Homeowners group is concerned that the proposed plan will only cause worse traffic jams. Some homeowners even stand to lose their houses. But a shouting match has been avoided.

The other group has been together a long time and the incidents haven't always been as quiet as they are now. They must have learned a lesson.

Homeowners from subdivisions at the north side of town near the Pebble Creek Golf Course property are still working to block development of the land into some

A Lesson To Be Learned

by ANNE SLAVICK

Wheeling's Village Board approved a new gas station in the village a year ago on the premise that a clean, uncluttered station which sold only gas and oil products and was open 24 hours a day would be a benefit to the community.

The idea behind the station seemed palatable at the time, but the gas station is far from what developer promised.

The station is a maze of bright-colored signs advertising giveaway prizes for buying gas and the sale of various items such as milk and paper tissues.

When the village approved the zoning for the station, a covenant limiting sales at the station was submitted to the village. The covenant, which is on file with the village, specifies that the station cannot be used for rental of trailers, sale of tires, batteries or accessories, or for lubrication, automotive maintenance service or towing.

The covenant also specifies "there will be no grocery items sold or given away in any form as a part of the operation of said service station. This does not preclude the sale of refreshment items normally sold at auto servicing stations for the convenience and needs of customers."

The covenant is signed by Martin Oil Service Inc. president, Carl Green and is in effect for 50 years.

Despite the covenant, the station has been giving away everything from candy bars to glasses ever since it opened. Moreover, a milk machine has been installed advertising the lowest milk prices in town.

Signs advertising the various unrelated products give a garish cluttered look to the station far from the clean simple lines shown on drawings presented to the village board last year.

In January 1970, when five of the village trustees voted to allow the station, they overrode the objections of the village manager.

The trustees said that an all-night service would be an asset to the village.

The resulting station is a good example of what happens when you try to make something as unpopular as a gas station more palatable by limiting its activities.

The last thing Wheeling needed a year ago was another gas station in a town with 15 operating stations and four abandoned ones.

In the short run, village officials might consider enforcing the covenant they have on file to bring the new Martin station up to the standards the developer promised the village.

In the long run, the new station should serve as an example to encourage board members to seek more varied business development for prime Dundee Road sites.

A Political 'Happening'

by STEVE NOVICK

The Republicans in Hoffman Estates held a convention Sunday night to select their candidates for three village board seats available in next April's election.

The convention can be best termed "a success," and should be used as a guide other suburban party organizations can use in their selection of candidates.

Prior to the convention, there was talk that the entire event was a publicity stunt and that the winners were established before the roll call of delegates was taken.

The delegates numbered 189, and the chain of events Sunday night indicated that nothing was fixed.

In the weeks before the convention the names of six contenders were announced. They were names put out with the endorsement of the Republican organization's endorsement after a series of interviews were held.

The contenders then had the task of mustering support from key party leaders, precinct captains and individuals before the convention date.

Steve Novick

One contender, William Lewis, dropped out of the race because business demands did not permit him to campaign properly.

It was said also that he could not concede to the thoughts of certain key precinct captains in the village.

William Catlin, another contender, never got his campaign off the ground, blaming illness and business to his limited effort.

Catlin, however, accrued limited support, kept his name in the running on convention night and helped others by swaying his votes back and forth between the four major contenders in the five ballots taken.

Mrs. Diane Jensen and Dyrle Rathman each had strong campaigns prior to the convention and came to the event looking like winners.

In the third ballot taken, Mrs. Jensen swung her supporters into Rathman's camp to give him the 96 votes needed to secure a ticket on the slate.

In the next ballot, Mrs. Jensen was given a ticket position in a mutual exchange.

Incumbent Trustee William Cowin and Arnold Nikula, a plan commissioner contending, tied with 38 votes each in the fourth ballot . . . and no one knew who would win.

Cowin came out victorious, but it was not the result of any power block held by precinct captains or any other party leaders in Hoffman Estates.

Cowin won because 111 Republicans wanted him to run again and only 77 Republicans preferred Nikula, according to the final ballot.

Any Republican who had been registered in Hoffman Estates for the preceding two political primaries was eligible to vote at the convention.

The Republican candidates were selected by the 189 persons who cared enough to attend the convention on a cold Sunday night.

Two of the candidates were victorious because during advance campaigns they drummed up the support needed from the people.

Cowin won on an expression by 111 party members which said he's been a good trustee in the past, let's slate him again.

As the convention process matures in Hoffman Estates, it is possible that "favorite son" candidates could be selected from the floor without advance blessings from the party slate-making committee.

The convention was a fine democratic exercise to observe, and a happening that hopefully will spread across the suburbs.

This Program For 'Johnny'

by JOHN B. BARRETT

GARY, INC. (UPI) — You remember Johnny. He couldn't read. He still can't. Johnny's now at a school here, acting as a guinea pig in an innovative educational program.

Johnny is a mythical child, but he symbolizes 800 pupils at Gary's all-Negro Banneker Elementary School.

Banneker has become what is called a contracted curriculum center. That means a private company has contracted to teach Johnny and his friends reading, writing and arithmetic. If it does not, the company will lose money.

Behavioral Research Laboratories (BRL), Palo Alto, Calif., runs the school. BRL is no different from any private firm; it detests losing money, and $800 a year per pupil is at stake.

Projects read, bath and learn—developed by BRL researcher M. W. Sullivan—form the backbone of the program materials. Other firms' materials also are used. The heart of the program is the concept of individualized instruction in an upgraded structure.

After three years, each child will be tested by an independent evaluator to determine if he is up to national norms in subject areas. BRL will refund to the Gary School Corporation the $800 per year it might owe for each pupil still behind in the three Rs.

THE FIRM this fall pre-tested Banneker's pupils for placement. Each pupil was placed in a skill group rather than a grade. Each works at his own level and speed, according to 33-year-old Donald Kendrick, manager of the school. The child advances to faster groups as he gains proficiency.

Kendrick said each pupil receives individualized instruction from certified personnel aided by para-professionals. The certified teachers are called curriculum managers and the para-professionals are known as learning supervisors.

So far, Johnny is responding well.

Frances Butcher, curriculum manager, cited two of her pupils as examples.

Leslie Lloyd, 8, was a special education pupil under the graded system. "He's doing a beautiful job," Miss Butcher said. She also mentioned Rodrick Hightower, 8, who was slated for special education under the old system.

"They're progressing now, although they are with younger children," Miss Butcher said.

I think it's a beautiful program. A 3-year-old could learn the alphabet."

Mrs. Ray Scott, another curriculum manager and a teacher at Banneker for almost a decade, agreed the program works for children having difficulty.

One boy and one girl she teaches—both 8 years old—would have been lost in the third grade, she said. They now read well at the first grade level and are improving daily, according to Mrs. Scott.

"The average child is moving by leaps and bounds as far as reading and bath are concerned," she said.

MRS. SCOTT transferred her son, Marlon, to Banneker this year. Marlon, a little above average according to his mother's assessment, "likes school now. He was somewhat indifferent before except for music, art and gym."

Mrs. Ford, who formerly taught sixth grade, now has children in her skill group ranging from 7 to 12. She sees benefits not only for the slower pupil, but also for the bright child who was often bored under the old program.

Despite all this praise, not everyone is overjoyed with the program at Banneker in this steel city.

Robert L. Thornberry, executive director of the Indiana Federation of Teachers, said it "threatens our public school system."

League Gym Action Continues Tonight

by KEITH REINHARD

No sweat.

This is the way a full slate of Mid-Suburban league gymnastics action shapes up this week when all five of the supposedly stronger teams in the circuit are paired off against weakside foes.

The second chapter of conference competition takes place Thursday night with Fremd entertaining Arlington, Conant journeying to Hersey, Forest View hosting Wheeling, Prospect invading Palatine and Elk Grove clashing at Glenbard North.

The Cardinals, Huskies, Wildcats, Knights and Grenadiers have all fashioned 100-plus averages thus far in the young campaign. Their opposition tonight has not attained this plateau once yet, meaning in theory that all five century squads should continue their winning ways.

There will be some sweat of course. As any gym coach knows, there is always the possibility that a favored team will have breaks in every routine while the underdog is hitting right down the line. This is where upsets are born and gymnastics is just as vulnerable to the turn-about as any other sport.

In at least one corner, the concern will be more than passing too. While it's true the Cougars (2-1 overall) are still looking for their first 100-point night, their rate of improvement has indicated Hersey (3-0) is anything but unbeatable for that showdown in the Huskie gym this evening.

Bob Ferguson's visiting unit just missed the magic mark last weekend when they split a double dual at Mundelein, settling for a 96.14 tempo. Led by veteran all-arounder Bill Anderson who teams with Steve Riggio to give them a handsome 1-2 punch on the high bars and parallel bars, the Cougars would like nothing better than to ring up their second straight conference win and their first 100 night at the same time.

Don Von Eber's defending conference champs can score in the 110s but they totaled out at only 104.44 in topping Palatine last week and will have to do better to leave a safe margin between them and Conant.

Headed up by specialists John Weaver (tramp) and Ed Hemm (side horse), Hersey will need to begin scoring higher anyway if they wish to contend with an Arlington outfit, hot after regaining the loop title. The Huskies have a little more incentive now after, paced by talented all-arounder Jeff Farris, they nosed out the defending state champs from Hinsdale Central in the Evanston Invitational last weekend.

The Cards (3-0) face somewhat stiffer competition tonight too after gliding past last winter's league doormats from Glenbard. Fremd (1-2) is improving toward the 100 mark and with an excellent free ex team led by Bob Mellin are bound to eventually surpass it.

The Vikes still will have a way to go if they expect to catch Tom Walthouse's surging crew. The Cards are up in the 130s now with a potent lineup that includes eight-point performers in high bar man Joe Temko and rings specialist Bob Wilson along with Jeff McGuire, nearing eight on the side horse, and Doug Law, approaching it in at least a pair of events.

Wilson may have an easy time of it tonight but he faces tough challenges in the future as rings shape up to be the MSL's strongest event. Elk Grove's Jim Mahmedahl appears to be the class of the circuit at present but Prospect also has a nifty still rings squad headed by Don Liston and Palatine's veteran Jim Yaeger is still another threat.

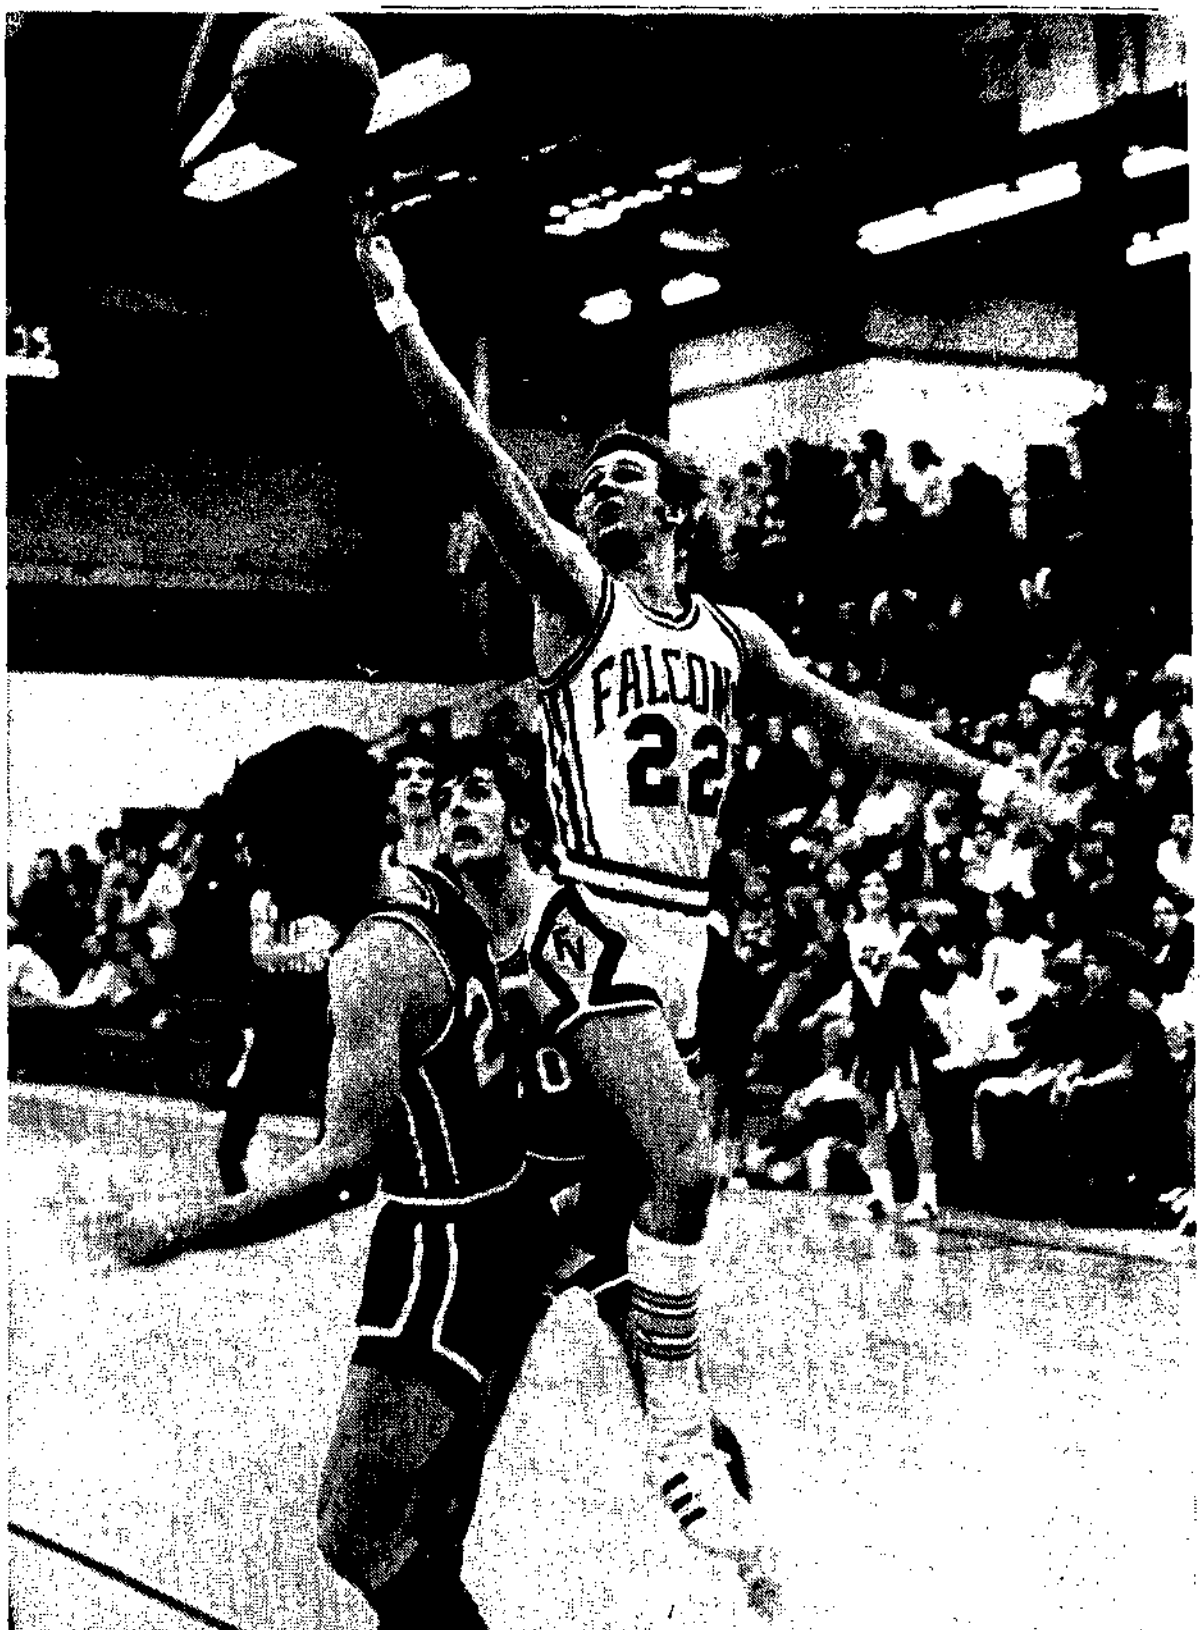

The rings are also probably Wheeling's strongest suit. By contrast it appears to be Hersey's weakest event, a situation that favors other with this competition now coming right at the climax of each meet.

That should make for a nice spectator windup at Palatine although Prospect (3-1) has more than rings ammunition with Jim Lutz an eight point performer on the high bar and Jim Wilcox approaching that plane on the side horse to spearhead a continuously improving Knight team now scoring near 120.

The best the Pirates (1-1) have tallied this winter is near 80.

In other action Wheeling (2-1) hopes to get into the conference win column behind the solid all around performing of Rene Mathis and should have little trouble against a surprisingly thin Falcon club. Forest View (0-2) shows some promise in the free ex and high bar areas.

Elk Grove (2-1) and their steady all around man Landy Fernandez face a similarly easy go in the Panther den tonight.

A SCOOP THAT MISFIRED. Forest View's Bob Kasper John Macdonald, but his effort curled off the rim. The slips between Conant's Mark Harold (foreground) and Cougars went on to win by a 62-46 score.

Walkin' the Sidelines

by PAUL LOGAN

Howie-He Turns 'Em All On

EACH WEEKDAY, both morning and night, a gestapo-like sports voice fires away like a machine gun.

This rat-a-tat-tat radio announcer takes his shots at the sacred sports world with the cool craftsmanship of a Clyde Barrow.

His name is Howard Cosell. His game is telling the truth as he sees it.

Cosell's cutting tongue is like a heart surgeon's scalpel. He, too, performs transplants. He carves out the core of the controversy and replaces it with his all healing truth. His victims are many.

Howie uses his two-a-day "Speaking of Sports" radio shows to tell what's really happening behind the locker room and management doors.

His articulate, brash, knowledgeable style is sometimes hard to listen to, but the truth usually is. He's gutsy, tough and hard-hitting. You need a dictionary to understand him sometimes because he's a master of the language.

In short, he's beautiful.

Cosell has to be the inventor of the now overused expression — "telling it like it is." If he didn't coin that phrase, he certainly must have inspired the person who did.

HOWARD COSELL
Judge, Jury and Executioner

Sports fans have been fed the pro-management publum for much too long. Some have become so used to the stereotyped Jack Brickhouse jabbering that they can't think for themselves. They have accepted the cheerleading of the Brickhouses so long that they resent the daily sermons of St. Howard, both chapter and verse.

A few announcers, such as WIND's Bill Berg and CBS' Brent Musburger, have attempted to use the Cosell approach, but both have fallen far short of succeeding. They've tried to be controversial for controversy sake and it's all too obvious. With Cosell, controversy is a way of life.

Many in the journalism profession envy him because of his unique style, but none will admit it.

Cosell is the most effective on television going one-on-one with a sports personality. When both voice and piercing eyes go to work on a victim, it's a delight to watch the tickle squirm. "Judge" Howie truly reveals his law background as he prosecutes a celebrity. Such as:

"Carl Yastrzemski, they say you don't put out 100 per cent in every game. In fact, they said that you only give your best when it's to your advantage. What do you say (plead)?"

After a Cosell interrogation, the viewing audience usually is satisfied.

It has been said that Howard speaks with all the deliberation of a guy who has an arrow in his chest. However, no arrow has ever appeared to have pierced his tough New York hide. Instead, his mouth turns back all attacks and sends out missiles of its own that strike with deadly accuracy.

It's a shame that "Fun City" couldn't loan Howie to "Second City" for just one year. What wonders he might accomplish.

Cosell's critical eye might get this former sports capital back in the big time again. He might even be able to badger Mayor Daley into having a sports complex built. But even Howie might not be enough to change the loser's attitude that pervades in this town.

Howard admits that he gets his share of hate mail, but adds that the majority of good words come from the young people. He said this about them:

"They're not growing up the way I grew up. They're worried about the war, the plight of our cities and our ecology. They know how superficial their parents were and they're not about to buy a lot of bland banter. They're on my side because I put it all on the line. That's why I can reach them."

The sports world needs more Howard Cosells. But nobody, but nobody will ever replace him. He is a pro, an artist, a living legend.

Honesty. That's something that's lacking in the world today. Howard has it and gives it out daily. If you've never tuned him on before, do it tomorrow...

... I'll guarantee that he'll turn you on.

Bowling Tourneys Began In 1952

Paddock bowling tournaments have become legend in this area, ever since that first tournament for Men's leagues at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine in 1952.

Year before, a trio of golfers had persuaded Bob Paddock, now publisher of Paddock Publications newspapers, to sponsor a tournament between leading teams of twilight golf leagues in the area for "the grand championship."

The initial golf event was such a success, the same formula was followed that fall in drumming up interest in a bowling tournament with the first place team of each league in the area eligible.

THE FIRST MEN'S event was held in Palatine with 16 leagues represented.

The following year, another tourney for women's leagues was developed with the two events moved from one establishment to another. Tournament for mixed leagues was initiated in 1966.

Locations of all of the tournaments to date:

Hill, Bedow Capture Quad Wrestling Titles

Individual titles garnered by Jim Hill and Guy Bedow highlighted Schaumburg's third place finish in a wrestling quadrangular hosted by Proviso West Saturday.

The home-standing Panthers were easy team winners while the Saxons battled Elgin and Morton West for the runnerup slot. Proviso tallied 103 points in claiming victory while Elgin scored 58 to nudge Schaumburg at 54 and Morton at 52.

Hill and Bedow both pinned their opening round foes and advanced with another pair of Saxons to the finals. Hill went on to capture a 6-2 decision in overtime at 112 pounds to up his season slate to 7-1-1.

Bedow, at 119, captured a 12-5 nod to capture his crown and improve his record to 8-1. The flashy sophomore has taken his last seven bouts in a row.

Heavyweight Bob Hammond and 145-pound Ric Butler were the other members of Rick Gerz' crew to gain berths in the championship matches.

Three other Saxon matmen, Blaine Macius, Glen Kumurska and Gill Ross earned consolation titles.

Gerz takes his group on the road again this weekend for meets at Fenton on Friday and Maine East Saturday.

At Beverly Lanes

In the Elks Ladies Auxiliary league Helen Scharringhausen had a 517 scratch series with games of 147-195-175 and Betty McKinley rolled a 513 with 154-194-165.

Top games with handicap: Marilyn Roy 227, Ella Kramer 222, Pat Greener 219, Helen Scharringhausen 217, Doris Kelly 214, Doty McKinley 213, Betty Hennessy 212, Nan Larsen 208, Nancy Summers 202, Yvonne Henderson 201, Alice Clark 200.

The Pirates hold the lead with a 43-13 record while the Padres are in second at 33 1/2-22 1/2.

St. Viator Keeps Winning

Upon entering back-to-back dual swimming meets with Waukegan and Marmion over the weekend, the only blemish on St. Viator's four meet record was a second place finish in the Big Red Niles West Invitational.

Being second didn't seem to affect the Lions, though, as they proceeded to conquer Waukegan, 56-39 and Marmion 56-35. And now, a re-examination of the final tabulations of the Niles Invite show St. Viator the winner with 72 points to Niles North's second place total of 68!

The discovery now lifts the Lions back into the unbeaten ranks through four duals and two invitationals — very impressive credentials.

Against Waukegan, perhaps the only St. Viator shortcoming was the disqualification of the 200-yard medley relay team who otherwise posted a winning 1:54.5 clocking.

The seven-seven-point absence was hardly felt, though, as Dave Takata twice, Rick Moran, Rich Fitzsimons, Mike Duffey, Mike Schroeder, Tom Gallagher and the 400-yard freestyle relay quartet of Duffey, Fitzsimons, Ed Moore and Bill Geiser all cashed in for blue ribbons.

The Lions' wake never calmed when they re-entered the water against league opponent Marmion. Despite getting only four first place medals from Bill Geiser, Mark Savage, Mike Salerno and Mike Schroeder, the balance in the important second and third place positions was overwhelming.

The foursome of Gallagher, Randy Robertson, Takata and Fitzsimons sank Marmion in the medley relay in a time of 1:52.6 while Savage, Fitzsimons, Takata and Geiser sported another winning performance in the 400-yard free relay.

St. Viator will put their win skein on the line Saturday when they again travel to Marmion for the Marmion Relays.

SONY'S FM Stereo FM-AM Receiver with an 8-track tape player...

starts off small.
But it grows on you.

Sony's HST-388 is the growing thing in stereo. Basically, it's a fine FM Stereo/FM-AM Receiver and an 8-track stereo tape cartridge player on one neat little unit.

To make it bloom into a complete music system, just feed it a pair of speakers.

It can flower into a record player too, if you decide to add a turntable.

However you listen to it, the HST-388 gives you clean, clear, powerful sound—at every frequency.

The tuner has an easy-to-read tuning dial, a local/distant switch that lets you pick up weak stations, AFC for drift-free FM listening, and stereo indicator lights.

Plus, a headphone jack and controls conveniently located on the front panel. All in a handsome walnut cabinet.

Come in for a demonstration and we'll show you how to grow a complete stereo music system with Sony's HST-388.

'Y' Girls Rout Elmhurst

The Northwest 'Y' girls swimming team whipped the Elmhurst Park District girls team this past weekend 256-93 to claim their second win of the season.

Taking first place in all but one relay, the Northwest girls overpowered their competition individually while setting three team records.

Cindy Antonik set a new record in the Prep 50-yard butterfly with a 31.4 clocking. Betty Lou Evans set a new record in the 200-yard freestyle with a 2:23.9. A junior division record was set by Kay Corbett in the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:37.0 clocking.

In the Cadet Division (eight year olds and under) Linda Stanhke was first in two events — the 25-yard freestyle and the 25-yard backstroke. Jill Kallos nabbed first place in the 25-yard butterfly and the 100-yard freestyle relay team of Therese Drexler, Sheryl Pritchett, Lorraine Behnke and Linda Stanhke took first.

The Northwest 200-yard medley relay Midget (nine and 10 year olds) team took first place with Barb Loner, Laurie Nelson, Barb Behnke and Wendy Meyers.

Wendy Meyers, Terri Westdale, Kathie Schrieber and Barb Behnke won the 200-yard freestyle relay. Barb Behnke won the 50-yard freestyle, Terri Wilken the 100-yard freestyle and Barb Loner the 25-yard backstroke.

In the Prep Division (11 and 12 year olds) the 200-yard medley relay of Josie Fitzsimmons, Cindy Antonik, Dawn Grunwald and Ann Di Francesca was victorious. Northwest won the 200-yard freestyle relay with Cheryl Takata, J. Grunwald, Josie Fitzsimmons and Cindy Antonik.

Individual winners were Jemma Allen in the 100-yard individual medley, Cindy Antonik in the 50-yard butterfly, Cheryl Takata in the 100-yard freestyle and Josie Fitzsimmons in the 50-yard backstroke.

The Northwest Junior Division team (13 and 14 year olds) swept both relays with Lisa Baysinger, Sue Stanhke, Jodi Epstein and Karen Jore in the 200-yard medley relay and Carol Geisler, Karen Jore, Kay Corbett and Lee Anne Doehler in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

Betty Lou Evans won the 200-yard freestyle, Lee Anne Doehler the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard freestyle, Kay Corbett the 200-yard individual medley, Jodi Epstein the 100-yard butterfly, Kay Corbett the 100-yard backstroke and Sue Stanhke the 100-yard breaststroke.

In the Intermediate Division (15 and over) Sue Dragoon, Kathie Dalton, Sue Chips and Claudia Gentzler won the 200-yard medley relay.

Individual winners were Barb Volden in the 200-yard freestyle, Kathie Dalton in the 50-yard freestyle, Sue Chips in the 200-yard individual medley and Jan Takata in the 100-yard breaststroke.

The Intermediate 200-yard freestyle relay team of Sue Chips, C. Gentzler, Sandy Gabler and Kathy Dalton also won.

The Northwest girls will again be in action against LaGrange at LaGrange on Saturday, Jan. 9.

Banquet Honors Top Players On Celtics

The Palatine Celtics soccer team held its awards banquet last weekend, giving three honors on each of its three levels.

On the intermediate (age 12-15) team, Steve McGinnis was most valuable player, Paul Thompson was most improved and Larry Gackowski was named most sportsmanlike.

For the midgets (age 10-12), Steve Sobie was tabbed most valuable player, Brad Byker most improved and Brian Scolino most sportsmanlike.

On the junior midget (age 8-10) level, Bob Cudney was most valuable, John Deamer most improved and Tom O'Driscoll most sportsmanlike.

The team has also received the trophy the junior midgets won last spring in post-season cup playoffs. It is on display in the Palatine Park District building.

Coach Jim Kinsella reports that many of the intermediate boys will be too old to play this spring when league action resumes, so boys 13 through 15 years old are in need. Any boys interested are urged to join the team in the spring by calling Kinsella or the park district.

Flag Champions Jets, Packers

The Hanover Park Park District flag football season is now over, with the Jets (Senior Division) and Packers (Junior Division) crowned as undefeated champions.

Coaches this year in the Senior Division were Ralph Norman (Jets), Jim Kamradt (Cardinals) and Bill Zsrlaub (Giants). Junior Division coaches were Harry Vosburg (Packers), Frank Keyes (Vikings), Mel Deming (Colts), Lawrence Solecki (Lions) and Jim McElroy (Rams).

The Park District would like to thank all who helped to make the season a successful one. Awards Night was Saturday, Dec. 12 at Ahlstrand Fieldhouse.

Final standings and records:

Hoffman Squirts Win In Hockey

In hockey action at the Polar Dome in Dundee, the Hoffman Estates Squirt team defeated the Palatine Vikings 2-0 in the South Suburban League.

The first goal was scored in the second period by Stephen Pryor, a right wing, assisted by defenseman Glen Fancutt. The other score was unassisted by defenseman Tom Adams, his second in two games.

Goalie John Martinez earned his first shutout.

Next game for Hoffman Estates is this Saturday at 5:10 p.m. at the Polar Dome against St. Jude.

TRADE-IN ALLOWANCE towards purchase of new skates

by ROBERT KAYLOR
PHNOM PENH (UPI)—If at a distance of several thousand miles it seems difficult to understand what's going on in the Cambodian War, don't be too distressed. It's a puzzle close up, too.

On the scene, the problem is there are two views of the war. One is based on official announcements of the progress of the fighting and reports on Communist designs and capabilities. The other is what one sees.

Even having made that distinction, nothing comes through very hard and clear.

In a war where communications are poor and soldiers wearing baggy pants and two left-footed tennis shoes ride off to battle in gaily painted commercial trucks, it is often an exercise in frustration to try to separate reality from unreality.

The situation is further muddled by the fact that no one really knows what Communist intentions are in Cambodia. One Western observer who is in day-to-day contact with the war says there may be some indication when the dry season gets firmly established. Now he says simply, "I wish to hell we knew."

THE PUBLIC statements are relayed mainly through a military spokesman in Phnom Penh who has gained a fame of sorts as a military briefer because of his apt name—Lt. Col. Am Rong.

Some ranking officers in the field add to the fog on occasion. Casualty figures or which side controls a piece of territory at a given time are the most elusive points, but the range of misinformation and misconception covers the entire military situation.

Despite the confusions, Western sources with access to high levels of the Cambodian Command say that their estimates and the battlefield reports with which they work are often quite accurate.

The Cambodian Command's estimate of the number of Communist troops fighting the Cambodian army is 50,000 men. Western sources put the total of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers in Cambodia at about 40,000 men. The figures are not far apart.

The sources believe, however, that most of the Communists are either occupied protecting supply and infiltration routes in the northern part of the country, or are in bases to the east of the Mekong River where government troops never venture.

They estimate that, at most, only about 5,000 regular Communist soldiers actually are fighting the Cambodian army.

In addition to this force, there are Cambodian "Khmer rouge" guerrillas fighting with the Communists. Some of them are holdovers from the day of former chief of state Norodom Sihanouk and others have been recruited since the March 18 coup ousted Sihanouk.

GOVERNMENT spokesmen do not like to discuss "Khmer rouge" or the possibility that Cambodians would fight on the side of the Vietnamese Communists. They dismiss the subject by saying there are only a few Cambodian drifters, hoodlums and other "bad people" with the Communists.

Western sources say, however, that from a pre-coup estimate of 2,500 to 3,500, the present estimate of the total number of "Khmer rouge" in Cambodia is about 10,000.

There is no way to gauge the reliability of the figure.

With the total force at their command, the Communists now control roughly half of Cambodia, particularly the northern area and the region east of the Mekong north of Phnom Penh. They can move freely through many other sections.

Despite the credibility gap, Western sources say that the Cambodian army has displayed considerably more enthusiasm and willingness to take the initiative than South Vietnam did at a similar stage in its war.

"Maybe it is because they (the Cambodians) were used to living alongside the North Vietnamese army in the past and they realize that Communist soldiers are not supermen," one source said.

The Lighter Side Problems Of Yuletide Are Easily Solved

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON UPI — Coping with Christmas — four handy hints for overcoming Yuletide problems before they overcome you, compiled after reading the December issues of several household magazines:

PROBLEM: HOW TO dispose of old Christmas cards. Each year the question arises, "What shall we do with our old Christmas cards? They are so pretty it seems a shame to throw them away."

Solution: Enjoy the cards for as long as you like, then put them into envelopes and mail them back to the people who sent them to you.

PROBLEM: HOW TO dispose of left-over eggnog. Tradition decrees that you prepare a bowl of eggnog for your Christmas party. Experiences show, however, that very few, if any, guests are going to drink the stuff. The cop-out most commonly used is that eggnog is fattening. Experience shows, however, that the real reason most guests turn down eggnog is because they prefer something stronger.

Solution: After the party, take the left-over eggnog into the arbor and pour it into the birdbath. Unlike your guests, birds love eggnog. A few of them may become a bit obstreperous but that is a small price to pay for getting rid of a bowl of eggnog.

PROBLEM: HOW TO dispose of left-over guests. Each Christmas party produces a certain quota of leftover guests. The trick is to get rid of them. For if they suspect that, they will never leave.

Solution: Leap upon the eggnog table and call out, "Hey, everybody! I've got a great idea! Let's all go caroling!" As the guests are lurching out the door, make certain each has his or her wrap, so they will not have an excuse to come back in again.

Once outside, start them lurching down the street singing "We Three Kings." Quickly slip back inside, douse lights, lock doors, disconnect doorbell.

PROBLEM: HOW TO dispose of Christmas carolers. Each year your neighbors have a Christmas party, after which some of the guests go caroling. Experience shows they will appear on your lawn at 3 a.m. singing "We Three Kings."

Solution: There is only one sure way to ward them off. Invite them to come in for a cup of eggnog.

The Almanac

by United Press International

Today is Thursday, Dec. 17, the 351st day of 1970.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history:

In 1903 Orville and Wilbur Wright made the first successful airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. It lasted 42 seconds.

In 1925 Gen. William "Billy" Mitchell, advocate of a separate air force, was found guilty of criticizing the Army and Navy and suspended for five years. In 1945 the Senate voted to award Mitchell the Medal of Honor posthumously and promoted his rank to major general.

In 1939 the Nazi warship Graf Spee, being chased by British attack vessels, was scuttled off the coast of Uruguay.

In 1941 Adm. Chester Nimitz replaced Adm. Husband Kimmel as commander of the U.S. Fleet in the Pacific, 10 days after the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

A thought for today: Writer Sydney Smith said, "When you rise in the morning, form a resolution to make the day a happy one for a fellow creature."

State Scholars Named

The Illinois State Scholarship Commission named 16,517 students as state scholars yesterday. Among them were numerous students from Palatine.

State scholars represent nearly every high school in the state. The winners were picked from the 56,800 students in Illinois who entered the competition by taking the examinations administered by the American College Testing Program on April 25 and July 18, 1970.

Winners were picked on the basis of high scores on the examinations and their high school academic record.

Monetary awards up to $1200 for 1971-72 for use toward tuition and mandatory fees at the public or private schools of the student's choice in Illinois will be conferred upon the state scholars who have financial need as evidenced by data provided by the student and his family. State scholars will also get certificates of merit for their outstanding scholastic achievement.

Doris Day's Never Alone On Her Strolls

by VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Doris Day is the most visible star in Beverly Hills. Tourists need only seek out a pack of assorted dogs in a tangle of leashes, in the midst of which they will find the freckle-faced actress who walks her mutts as many as five miles a weekend.

Miss Day refuses to divulge the number of dogs she harbors under her roof for fear some official will descend on her with a show cause order why she should be keeping a kennel in the heart of Southern California's most exclusive community.

Owning dogs herself is only the beginning. Doris is convinced everyone with a suitable yard should own at least one pooch.

"Do you know how many dogs they incinerate every day in the pound?" she asked with the fervor of an evangelist. "It's terrible."

"WHY DO YOU THINK I have so many dogs?" To save them from being put to sleep.

One must take pains not to admire any of her pets. A pat on the head, a scratch on the back or cooing sounds made in the direction of one of the animals is a virtual invitation to ownership.

If Doris is too fond of the particular fleahound you've admired, she will give you instructions and directions to the nearest pound.

This great good fortune has befallen most of her friends as well as cast and crew members of her weekly CBS television show.

Doris brings wall-to-wall dogs to her dressing room. One treads carefully and sits in a chair only after making sure it is not already occupied by one of Miss Day's furry friends.

IT ISN'T ENOUGH that Doris has a compulsion to find homes for stray curs, she is obsessed with seeing all dogs are not abused.

"On my walks, I must admit I look into yards and dog runs to see that dogs aren't being penned up or treated cruelly," Doris said.

"It probably makes some people angry. But not half as angry as I get when I see some poor dog chained or locked up for days on end."

As a one-woman SPCA, Doris is determined to see that homeless dogs are cared for other than by execution.

Her intentions, clearly noble, have had a curious effect on the actress' acquaintances. They greet her warmly and talk of many things, but they have learned to ignore the animals as though they were stuffed.

Defending Home With Force Legal-If

The law protects the person who may have to use force to protect his home against the unlawful intruder.

However, the Illinois State Bar Assoc. warns that persons should not consider that this law allows them to indiscriminately "shoot to kill."

Only under two conditions is a person justified in using force which is intended or likely to cause death or great bodily harm.

One, is that the intruder or intruders made or attempted to make the entry in a "violent, riotous or tumultuous manner" and the person believed that the force was necessary to prevent an assault or violence upon himself or others who were in the dwelling at the same time.

The word dwelling doesn't refer only to one's home. It can be "a building or portion thereof, a tent, a vehicle, or other enclosed space which is used or intended for use as a human habitation, home or residence."

THE SECOND circumstance where a person is justified in using force capable of causing death or great bodily harm is if there is an attack on his dwelling and he "reasonably believes that such force is necessary to prevent the commission of a felony in the dwelling."

Before the state legislature changed the law in 1967 the only way a person could employ great force was if he were trying to prevent a "forcible felony." This meant rape, murder, armed robbery, burglary, arson or other serious crimes.

While a person has the authority to use force, he is not relieved of his legal obligation to exercise great discretion and restraint, the bar group stated.

U.S. Air Force Capt. Walter Hill recently received two awards of the Air Medal for his service in Vietnam.

Capt. Hill, a B-52 Stratofortress heavy bomber pilot, received the awards for "outstanding airmanship and courage on 100 successful and important missions completed under hazardous conditions."

The captain was honored during ceremonies at Kincheloe Air Force Base, Mich., where he now serves with a unit of the Strategic Air Command. He was recently selected to participate in SAC's elite combat competition held at McCoy Air Force Base, Fla.

The captain is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill, 408 W. Thomas St., Arlington Heights.

AIR FORCE CAPT. Morry Schalin, retired, recently received a letter of commendation from a captain in the Defense Supply Agency.

Capt. Schalin was stationed as a government representative at Bell and Howell. The latter stated, "During this period you performed very effectively in the inspection and acceptance of material used by the various departments of defense."

Capt. Schalin lives at 836 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights.

MILITARY POLICE Investigator William Kizorek recently received the Army Commendation Medal.

He serves as an agent for the Army's Criminal Investigation Division of the 504th Military Police Battalion. Kizorek's home address is 611 Appletree Lane, Arlington Heights.

CAPT. WILLIAM SKARREN was recently promoted to aircraft commander prior to leaving for his third assignment in Southeast Asia.

At 24, Capt. Skarren was the youngest aircraft commander stationed at Wright Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, before being sent to Vietnam.

The captain is a 1963 graduate of Notre Dame High School for boys in Niles and received a B.S. degree in Business from Parks College of Aeronautical Technology of St. Louis University. He received a commission in 1966 upon graduation after completion of the Air Force reserve officers training corps program.

Capt. Skarren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Skarren of 816 W. St. James St., Arlington Heights.

AIRMAN 1ST CLASS Thomas Johann is presently on duty at Tan Son Nhut Air Base, Vietnam.

He is a security policeman assigned to a unit of the Pacific Air Forces. Before arriving in Vietnam, Johann served at Grand Forks Air Force Base, N.D. The airman is a 1969 graduate of Wheeling High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johann, 16 W. Suffolk Dr., Arlington Heights.

MARINE PVT. James Seger was recently promoted to his present rank while undergoing individual combat training at the Marine Corps Base in Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The private is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Seger of 1322 S. Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights.

AIRMAN HERBERT LA was graduated recently from the U.S. Air Force communications specialist course at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

The airman, now qualified to operate radio-telegraph and teletype equipment, has been assigned to Tinker Air Force Base, Okla., for duty with the Air Force Communications Service.

Airman Lai, a 1966 graduate of Arlington High School, attended the University of Illinois and Harper College, Palatine. He is the son of Wing Lai of 100 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights.

The Northwest Suburbs . . .

a great place
all year 'round!

No matter where you live in the Northwest Suburbs, you're never far from one or several of the many parks, playgrounds and recreation centers that make the area a favorite with children . . . and their parents.

The clean, safe and wholesome environment is one of the many reasons that make the Northwest Suburbs of Chicago one of America's most desirable residential areas . . . a great place to live, work and play.

Announcing the savings certificate that looks like a passbook, for people who like to watch their savings grow.

And doesn't everybody?

It's fun to watch things grow—particularly when it's your own money. That's why the Bell savings certificate looks just like a passbook. At many savings places, you don't see how much your savings have grown until the end of the year. At Bell, you can watch your savings grow, every quarter and at the highest rate of interest.

We think it's more fun that way. And if you get your money to us by the 10th of the month, we'll pay you interest from the 1st.

	ANNUAL YIELD*	ANNUAL RATE	MIN. BALANCE	MIN. TERM
CERTIFICATE ACCOUNTS	7.79%	7.50%	$100,000	ONE YEAR
	6.18%	6.00%	$5,000	TWO YEARS
	5.92%	5.75%	$1,000	ONE YEAR

*When compounded daily and paid quarterly. Your Savings Counselor will be happy to explain the various interest payment procedures to you in more detail.

Local Sales Move Upward

The MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service sales figures for November showed an increase in both sales and listings over the same period last year.

MAP Real Estate offices recorded a total of 462 listings in November compared to 259 in 1969 and a total of 217 home sales as compared to 172 in the same period last year. The 217 sales represented a total volume of $7,161,000 in dealing an average per home sale price of approximately $33,000. The cooperative sales influence of MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate offices is reflected by the total of 128 cooperative sales totaling $4,738,240.

"MAP offices are noticing a definite increase in Real Estate sales activity," said Edward Busse, president of the MAP Multiple Listing Service organization.

"The current availability of mortgage money plus indications of reduced interest rates will and is having a favorable effect on the Real Estate market. We expect our sales influence to continue upward in 1971," he said.

The total of 128 sales is directly attributed to the cooperative multi-office MAP sales system.

INCORPORATED

Four Firms Consolidated

McGuire Realty of Mount Prospect is one of four firms which recently pooled their resources to form Continental Real Estate, Inc.

Two Northwest Suburban sites at 55 W. Slade, Palatine; and 259 E. Rand Road, Mount Prospect, are the first offices wholly owned by the new company. Continental will also extend into the North Shore, West and South Suburban areas.

The four companies which have formed the new real estate firm are: Brueckner-Neuses Real Estate; McGuire Realty; McGuire & Orr, Inc.; and Thorn Creek Realty, Inc. Offices are located in Winnetka, Evanston, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Elmhurst, Villa Park, Wheaton, Park Forest, Chicago Heights, Rich-ton Park, Steger, Homewood and Mat-te-son. They represent $25 million in com-bined annual sales.

Headling Continental Real Estate is Robert N. McGuire, principal of McGuire & Orr, Inc. He is a past president of the Illinois Association of Real Estate

Robert N. McGuire

John H. Townner

John O. McCabe

Boards (IAREB) and the Evanston-North Shore Board of Realtors. He studied at John Marshall Law School, and has a de-gree from Beloit College. McGuire is the chairman of the Illinois Joint Real Es-tate Broker-Lawyer Committee.

Serving as executive vice president is John H. Townner, principal of Thorn Creek Realty, Inc. A former district vice president of IAREB, he has also served two terms as president of the South Sub-urban Board of Realtors. Townner has a B.S. degree from Michigan State Uni-ver-sity, and has a master's degree from the University of Illinois. He is on the faculty of Prairie State College, and is on the Speakers Bureau of the National Asso-ciation of Real Estate Boards (NAREB). He is certified to use the designation, GRI, Graduate, Realtors Institute.

John O. "Jack" McCabe is treasurer of the new firm. McCabe has served on the board of directors of the Northwest Sub-urban Board of Realtors since 1961. He has held all board offices in that time including two terms as president. McCabe is a graduate of the University of Miami, Fla., with a degree in business administration.

McCabe is a former member of the Home Builders Association of Chicago-land and has served as a director of the Young Builders Council. He is a past president of the Park Ridge Multiple Listing Service. McCabe has been active in IAREB committees and currently serves on two NAREB committees.

Other offices of Continental Real Es-tate include: Herman G. Brueckner, sec-retary and vice president in charge of the Western Division; John E. Townsend, vice president in charge of the North Shore Division; Judith E. Dellorto, vice president in charge of the South Sub-urban Division; and Don P. Neuses, vice president in charge of the appraisal divi-sion.

Two major reasons prompted the for-mation of Continental Real Estate by the four smaller companies, according to McGuire. "First, we wanted to give bet-ter service to the public by affording them continuity of service," he said.

"We also want to afford our sales per-sonnel more benefits, and to expand our operations until we encircle Chicago. We feel that we can be more strategic in helping people in all types of real estate transactions in this way," he said. "We are primarily residential but we offer as-sistance in commercial and investment field."

McGuire said the combination of mul-tiple-office firms will become a trend. He said the company is already working on the addition of other real estate sales of-fices.

Continental Real Estate has a com-bined staff of 140 sales associates. Its es-timated annual mortgage financing vol-ume is $18 million.

Professional affiliations of Continental Real Estate include: American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, DuPage Board of Realtors, Evanston-North Shore Board of Realtors, Homewood-Flossmoor Board of Realtors, IAREB, NAREB, Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and South Suburban Real Estate Board.

The new company has a separate ap-praisal division. In addition, it offers ser-vices in real estate sales, investment, management, development and syndica-tion, financing, insurance, multiple list-ing affiliates and national computer bank participation.

Gudgeon Hits Sales Target

Barton Stull, president of Barton Stull Realty, Inc., announced that Daniel F. Gudgeon of the firm's Hoffman Estates office passed the $1 million sales mark in November.

Gudgeon's sales were in the Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg area, including 16 sales and 18 listings. He joined the Barton Stull staff in 1969.

Gudgeon has been a resident of Lake Zurich for 28 years. He is a past pres-ident of the Lake Zurich Jaycees, of which he is a charter member, and has served as vice president and director of that organization. He and his wife Gail have four children.

Banks Assuming Easier Posture

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported that business loan demand in mid-November was "moderately weaker" than it was in August.

So reported eight of the 15 largest seventh district banks in the quarterly survey of lending practices. None of the surveyed banks expect demand to get much stronger in the immediate future. The recent weakness was not anticipated at the time of the August survey. Statistics on outstandings indicate that business loans have failed to show even a normal seasonal growth this fall.

With the exception of lower interest rates, reflecting the lower prime rate, commercial and industrial loan terms and conditions in mid-November were similar to those prevailing in August. However, about half of the survey respondents reported a "moderately easier" posture with respect to business loan applications of new customers and of local area customers. The reports also suggest increased willingness by the banks to make consumer installment loans, single family mortgage loans, and term loans to business.

OFFERING RATES on certificates of deposit (CD), issued by major Chicago banks in denominations of $100,000 or more dropped rapidly in October and November, and the inflow of CD money slowed. When ceilings were suspended on 30-to 89-day CDs in late June, some banks paid as much as 8 1/8 per cent for funds. As yields in the money market declined, rates on these maturities were gradually reduced to a high of 7 per cent by the end of September. Quoted rates for all maturities now range from 5 to 6 per cent, with the top rate applicable only to maturities of a year or more.

In the third quarter, outstanding CDs of Chicago banks increased about $500 million. In the past two months, they have risen an additional $150 million but are still $300 million below the peak level reached in 1968. Some banks have ceased to bid aggressively for CD money in the face of weakening loan demand. Part of the increase in outstandings has offset reductions in funds acquired from the commercial paper and Eurodollar market.

Builders Set To Celebrate

Home Builders of Greater Fox Valley the newly-chartered association of builders in the Kane and Kendall County area, will celebrate the holiday season with a social meeting — ladies' night on Thursday, Dec. 17.

The event will be held at the Community House in Presbury, near Aurora, according to Robert Appel, president of the group. Appel will host the social hour which begins at 6 p.m., and dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

The Fox Valley group received its charter as a division of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago, the builders' umbrella organization in the Chicago area, at a recent HBAGC Board of Governors meeting. Fox Valley joins four other divisions in HBAGC membership: the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland, Northern Illinois Home Builders Association, the Home Builders Association of Lake County and the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago.

Fox Valley builders or suppliers to the building industry interested in attending the meeting can call Appel at 466-4321 for further information.

Good News For Home Buyers

The holiday season is bringing words of good cheer to the home buyer.

Encouraged by increased savings, many Chicago metropolitan area savings and loan associations dropped interest rates on conventional mortgages last week. Service charges were also slashed by some associations in an attempt to spur sluggish consumers.

Interest rates were lowered from 7.9 per cent, to 7 3/4 per cent by larger associations in Chicago, including First Federal Savings and Loan Association and Chicago Federal Savings and Loan Association. This means a small savings in monthly interest charges, compared to the previous rate.

Service charges were also lowered by some associations from 2 1/2 per cent to 2 per cent. On a $30,000 home for example, with a 20 per cent down payment, the buyer pays $480 rather than $600 in service charges at the new rate.

Several local savings and loan associations have been charging the 7 3/4 per cent rate for several months, and have lowered service charges as well. "We never went up to the 7.9 per cent level as many associations did," said John Eagle, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Des Plaines. "We've always felt that residents in the Northwest Suburban area should benefit from lower rates. Our service charges are 1 or 2 points depending on the amount of money borrowed. We consider loans as high as 85 per cent, but every loan is considered on an individual basis."

A lender which has had the 7 3/4 per cent rate for almost a year is Des Plaines Savings and Loan Association. President Hugo Dahm added that he does not foresee any changes in the next few months. The association charges $50 plus 2 per cent service charges.

A spokesman for Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association said the institution has ample funds available at 7 3/4 per cent interest, with a 30 per cent down payment. A 2 per cent service charge is required.

"We've been at 7 3/4 per cent for a long time," said Donald Morton, president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association. "We dropped our service charges from 3 per cent to 2 per cent last week. This is likely to change again in the near future."

Two factors have influenced associations to lower rates or service charges, according to Morton. "First, the real estate market isn't as active as we'd like to have it; also, especially in the last 60 to 90 days, savings are definitely up," he said. Arlington Heights Federal's savings growth this year of $5.2 million is 61 per cent better than last year's growth of $3.2 million.

First Federal Savings of Wilmette has lowered interest rates on conventional mortgages, for certain single family homes with a 20 or 25 per cent down payment, to 70 per cent. Its service charge is 2 per cent.

Two local savings and loan associations which are holding out at 7.9 per cent are Palatine Savings and Loan Association and Douglas Savings and Loan Association in Arlington Heights. John Grawbowski, executive officer at Douglas, said he anticipates a lower rate in the next several months, but said his firm is experiencing heavy loan demand. Anthony R. Di Benedetto, vice president, mortgage loan department of Palatine Savings, said there is some negotiating in the association's interest rate and service charges.

Another bit of good news for the home buyer, is in the secondary (government backed) mortgage market. The interest rate on Federal Housing Administration (FHA) loans was recently lowered from 8 1/2 per cent to 8 per cent, but the buyer still had to contend with higher discount points, or service charges. Bell Federal Savings and Loan Association in Chicago, which upped discount points after the rate drop was announced, said Monday of this week that it is no longer charging discount points on FHA loans. The prime reason for this action, a possible trend-setter, is a good money supply according to Bell.

Welcome Aboard Agency is Open

Announcement of the tour was made by owner Richard A. Deane of 415 Haven Drive, Arlington Heights; and manager Hugh M. Gillespie of 21 Overlook Drive, Golf. A grand opening is planned for a later date.

Commenting on his new venture in the travel business, Deane said the agency will offer service for both business and pleasure travel needs.

Gillespie added, "The new Welcome Aboard will offer, free of charge, a traveler's information bureau which will furnish travelers with tips on traveling, local customs and culture, language, currency exchange, dress, climate, food and entertainment."

Deane has had 20 years' experience in construction machinery sales and manufacturing. He earned a B.S. degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Rochester.

Gillespie has been involved in the travel and transportation fields for 30 years. He is a former vice president of All Tours and Travel Systems, Inc., in Chicago. He held the same position at Sealanes International in Chicago. Gillespie previously owned an agency in Chicago and was associated with American Express Isbrandtsen Lines in New York.

Gillespie attended North Carolina State College and Rutgers University. He also received training at the Special Officers Training School in the U.S. Maritime Service. He is an associate member of the American Society of Travel Agents in both the Midwest and Mid-American chapters.

The Welcome Aboard agency is part of a national network of travel agencies.

Sola Electric Co. Names Marketing VP

Sola Electric, Elk Grove Village, a division of Sola Basic Industries, has announced the appointment of James D. Kimball to the position of vice president of marketing.

In addition, William F. Cosgrove has been appointed general sales manager with the responsibility of field sales in the United States.

The appointments were announced by Glenn E. Ronk, president of Sola Electric as well as Sola Basic Industries' new Electronics and Communications Group.

Sola Electric is a manufacturer of constant voltage transformers, ballasts for mercury and xenon lighting, electromagnetic and electronic power supplies and electronic controls.

Previous to his new position with Sola Electric, Kimball was the Western Regional sales manager for the firm, headquartered in Elk Grove Village, Cosgrove was the Eastern Regional sales manager headquartered in New York. However, Cosgrove will now move to the Elk Grove Village facility.

Kimball has replaced Steven E. Speltz who has assumed the responsibility of executive vice president of G-V Controls, Inc., Livingston, N. J. G-V Controls is Sola Basic's 9th operating division and the 4th division in Sola Basic's Electronic and Communications Group.

G-V Controls, Inc. is a producer of solid state controls for telephone automatic dialing, emergency communications, fire, pollution and smog warning alarms.

Focus Attention On Home Design

Home builders and architects throughout the Chicago metropolitan area have been invited to participate in Design 71, a home design competition being sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland (HBAC) under the auspices of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago (HBAGC).

All members of the HBAGC are eligible to enter the competition. Homes of all types and in all price ranges will be represented from Cook, DuPage, Kane, Kendall and Lake Counties.

The objectives of the contest, as outlined by Joshua A. Muss, chairman of Design 71 and immediate past president of HBAC, are: to direct public attention to the new homes available today in the greater Chicago market; to provide individual builders and architects with recognition by their peers; to establish a marketing platform which builders can use as a tool in selling, and to focus attention on the progressive trends and contributions of the entire Chicagoland home building industry.

The Design 71 competition has been organized into four divisions: single family, townhouse, condominium and apartment. Several price range categories are included in each of the divisions.

First prize and two awards of merit will be presented in each of the categories. One grand prize will be awarded in each of the four main divisions. Special awards may also be given.

Judges, to be announced, will inspect the entries and base their decisions on total value for the dollar and use of new ideas.

A mailing explaining the competition is being sent to all HBAGC members. Entry applications must be received by the Design 71 committee by Feb. 1, 1971. The winners will be presented with plaques at a special awards dinner in April.

Other members of the Design 71 committee are: Robert K. Widdicombe Jr., executive vice president of HBAC and HBAGC; John Hensley, Centex-Winston Corp.; William Sladek, 3-H Building Corp.; Fillmore W. Galaty, Chicago Title & Trust Co.; Len Birnbaum, Hoffman Rosner Corp.; Alan J. Inbinder, Kenroy Realtors, Inc. and Harry Wogman, Centex-Winston Corp.

Food Producers Plan New Office

Nicholas B. Pizzo, frozen food producer has purchased a 25,000 square-foot site at Centex Schaumburg Industrial Park in Schaumburg.

The company plans to erect a new home office and packaging plant on the Estes Ave. site.

James H. Dana of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates, developer of the industrial park, was sole broker in the sale. The property is located on Estes Avenue in Schaumburg, Illinois.

Prudential Has Palatine Lease

Arthur Rubloff & Co., a Chicago-based real estate firm, announced the completion of lease negotiations for the Prudential Insurance Co. of America's new district sales office in Palatine.

The office is located at 800 E. Northwest Hwy., in the Suburban National Bank Building. The transaction totaled over $200,000.

Co-brokers were Lewis C. Leonard and assistant vice president Glenn J. Smith, both of the Rubloff firm, representing Prudential. Lessor was Centex-Winston Corp.

Rate Cuts Don't Hold Down Costs

The recent mortgage interest rate cut by leading lending institutions in mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and guaranteed by the Veterans Administration (VA) will provide stimulus to new home building and sales, said a spokesman for a national housing producer and community developer.

"The lowering of the FHA and VA rate from 8 1/2 per cent has been long awaited," said Michael L. Tenzer, senior vice president of the Larwin Group, Inc. "It will undoubtedly offer significant financial relief in helping prospective home buyers to qualify for FHA and VA financing programs."

"It's an important move to the nation's housing producers and home builders primarily because it means that now more people will be able to qualify for home mortgages," Tenzer said.

Tenzer suggested, however, that the lowering of the FHA-VA mortgage rates will have little effect on the increased cost of new homes in 1971.

Tenzer said the price of new homes will continue to rise at the annual rate of five per cent, due to higher costs of labor, land and materials. He predicted that mortgage rates would remain stable, with little hope of a significant reduction in the near future.

"now is definitely the time to buy a home, while families can take advantage of reasonable interest rates and avoid the impending increase in new home prices," said Tenzer. He said that people who wait to buy a home will either have to pay more for a house, or settle for a smaller home.

The Larwin Group, Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif., is a diversified housing producer and community developer. The company is currently building in Hanover Park. Larwin is a subsidiary of CNA Financial Corp., headquartered in Chicago.

Palmer is New Council Leader

H. Bruce Palmer, formerly president of the Conference Board, Inc., has been elected president of the Council of Better Business Bureaus, Inc., effective Jan. 1, 1971, announced Ellsah Gray II, Council chairman and chairman of Whirlpool Corp.

BBB/Chicago's president, Earl R. Lind, and its executive vice president, Michael A. Caliendo, together with Canteen's Patrick L. O'Malley, vice chairman of the council and former chairman of the BBB/Chicago Board, attended one Washington, D. C., session where the announcement was made.

At the same time, Gray reported the launching by the council of a 14-point program designed "to make our consumers the wisest and toughest in the world and our businessmen the most responsive to their needs." Gray said the program and the recent formation of the council are aimed at revitalizing the Better Business Bureau network.

Communications between buyer and seller threaten to break down because of the vastness and complexity of the market, according to Gray. Gray said that the businessman has a chance now to meet the consumer's needs voluntarily. He pointed out, however, that "the days remaining in which that choice will stay in his hands are numbered unless the businessman takes action in the area of consumer assistance forcefully, imaginatively and unequivocally — before other forces in society do it for him."

Palmer said that support for the council effort will be sought from all sectors of business, whether or not they are directly involved with the consumer.

The idea for the council began less than three years ago, according to Gray, when a group of businessmen expressed concern for a stronger business response to consumer demands for better information, goods and services.

"The deeper we probed," Gray continued, "the more convinced we became that our goals could best be accomplished not by establishing a new agency, which would, at best, only add to the confusing proliferation of existing groups, bureaus and committees, but by building into an organization that had been in operation and very successfully so, for 50 years — the Better Business Bureaus."

Palmer was president of the Conference Board (formerly the National Industrial Conference Board) from 1963 to 1970. He was with the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. from 1951, the year he graduated from the University of Michigan, until 1962, serving as president during the last nine years.

Included in the 14-point program are plans for greatly expanding local bureau capacity for handling consumer queries, employing computers to provide faster and better information to consumers and businesses, creating new consumer education techniques and correcting false or misleading advertising.

The Council of Better Business Bureaus, Inc., consolidated activities of two previous organizations, the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., and the Association of Better Business Bureaus International, Inc. Its membership consists of 139 bureaus in the United States and 11 in Canada, more than 1,000 national companies, about 800 Chambers of Commerce and a number of trade organizations. It is supported by voluntary membership fees.

Starck Employes Attended Course

Dick McArthur and Roy Meyers of the Schaumburg office of Robert W. Starck & Co. recently completed a five-day course in real estate techniques sponsored by the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards.

The course, held at the 7th annual Realtors Institute of Illinois in Peoria, is part of a three-year program which certifies participants as Graduates of the Realtors Institute.

McArthur, who serves as office manager at the Schaumburg branch, has been with Starck & Co. for 2½ years. During this period, he has twice exceeded the million dollar annual sales mark. He is a resident of Schaumburg.

Meyers, a sales associate of the firm, also works in the Schaumburg office, and has been with the company for three years. He has had experience in industrial and residential building.

Robert W. Starck & Co. also has a branch in Arlington Heights. Its main offices are in Mount Prospect.

Do-It-Yourself To Cut Expenses

Rising labor costs have inspired many homeowners to do their own home improvements.

The U.S. Commerce Department said that 17 per cent of the money recently spent for repairs and alterations costing over $25 went for do-it-yourself projects.

Housing Industry Growth Expected

The housing industry is a likely candidate for the growth-minded investor, according to the investment firm of Thomson & McKinnon Auchincloss, Inc.

Writing in the firm's December Financial and Business Review, economist Horace Buxton said, "It will take more than a dip in long-term interest rates to cause a permanent improvement in the stock market. With interest rates still above dividend yields, investor must have his faith restored in earnings growth before bidding stocks up strongly once again."

Buxton cited the housing industry, "which is expected to grow 15 per cent in 1971. The analyst said housing has led previous business recoveries, stimulated by lower interest rates."

"This time it will have the added stimuli of low vacancy rates, above average family formations and special government sponsorship," he said. "The post-election Congress is expected to pass three housing bills, one of which provides for reductions of up to one third in the downpayment on FHA-insured home purchases."

Buxton said present consumer caution will be changed by the business buildup resulting from the combined impact of General Motors' return to the economy and hedge buying in the steel industry against a possible strike next summer.

"Once these special demands are satisfied, the consumer himself may be spending enough on housing and its ancillary items — furnishings, appliances, financing, insurance, utilities, etc. — to create the long-term growth trend the stock investor is looking for," he said.

Now a Matter Of Simple Addition

Some 1,104,000 rooms will be added to existing homes in 1970, according to the Bureau of Building Marketing Research. This is the research arm of the Building Industry Marketing Center, a group of five Chambers Publishing Co. building industry magazines.

Building Marketing Research noted that adding new rooms is becoming easier, as some mail-order stores offer ready-built rooms.

Merger Vote Is Set For Dec. 30

Commonwealth Edison Co. common stockholders will receive 5/15ths of one share of Mid-Illinois Gas Co. common stock for each share of Edison common owned of record 5 p.m., Nov. 24, announced Edison Chairman J. Harris Ward.

Ward said details of the previously declared distribution are in a proxy statement being mailed this week to Commonwealth Edison stockholders who now own the stock of Mid-Illinois, formerly a wholly-owned Edison subsidiary. The new Mid-Illinois shareholders will meet in Rockford, Dec. 30 to vote on a merger of Mid-Illinois into Northern Illinois Gas Co. NI-Gas stockholders have already approved the merger.

In the proposed merger, Mid-Illinois common shares now being transferred to Edison stockholders will be changed share-for-share into new NI-Gas convertible preference stock. For every 151 shares of Edison held on the record date, owners will ultimately receive five shares of the New NI-Gas preference stock.

Each share of the NI-Gas stock will have an annual dividend of $2.90, be immediately convertible share-for-share into NI-Gas common and be callable after five years at $42. Ward indicated that the new preference stock will probably have a somewhat higher market value than NI-Gas common.

Mudroom Aid For Cleaning

When it comes to coping with tracked-in mud and snow, nothing beats a mudroom, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Natural Way To Save Fuel

This winter, when it's cold outside, the American Gas Association suggests that you take advantage of nature to save fuel costs.

When the sun is shining, open up the window blinds, shades and curtains, and let the sun shine in. When the sun goes down or doesn't shine, keep the window coverings closed, and let them form an insulation against the cold outside air.

Allstate Honors Palatine Resident

William A. Jones, 1405 Gloria Dr., Palatine, field sales manager for Allstate Life Insurance Co. in the Illinois region, has been singled out for his leadership during a recent life insurance sales program.

Jones compiled the best record of the company's field sales managers in Illinois in a special sales program that has helped establish Allstate as one of the fastest growing life companies in the United States, it was announced.

Allstate Regional Manager, Richard A. Hogan, said that during the special life insurance program, Allstate agents sold more personal life insurance on individuals, in terms of total amount of insurance written, during a five-week period than all but 32 out of the more than 1,300 other legal reserve U.S. life companies individually issued and placed during the entire year of 1969. Personal life insurance issued and placed by Allstate during the period was more than $700 million.

Jones, who also is regional field sales manager for Allstate Insurance, automobile, family, home, and business insurance lines, has been with the company since 1960.

Schaumburg Site Of Headquarters

John Sakash Co. has purchased a 38,000 square-foot site on Estes Avenue in Center-Schaumburg Industrial Park, Schaumburg.

This was announced by Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates, developers of the industrial park. The construction company plans to erect its headquarters on the property.

James H. Dana, Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates, who was sole broker in the sale, reports the selling price of the property was $18,000.

CONSTRUCTION HAS started on the new Commonwealth Edison Co. Elgin District Headquarters building. The new Elgin facility is scheduled for completion late in 1971. It will serve almost 46,000 customers in Elgin, Bartlett, Streamwood, Hanover Park, Carpentersville, Dundee, Sleepy Hollow, Valley View and Wayne. Architect is Guy V. Prisco of Aurora.

Heat-With-Light Concept Is Used

Commonwealth Edison Co.'s new Elgin District Headquarters is slated for completion late next year.

Construction has already begun on the 10-acre site located at South and Second Streets in Elgin.

According to Parker Rowe, manager of Edison's Elgin district, the headquarters will enable the utility to improve customer service by expanding its operations in the Fox River Valley area.

"The new Edison facility in Elgin will consolidate under one roof operations now scattered in three separate offices and provide more efficient service," Rowe said. "We will bring together a total operating force of some 130 employees consisting of engineering, commercial, construction, sales and clerical staffs."

The 18,000-plus square-foot-area structure will feature a design highlighted by the heat-with-light system. By-product heat from standard fluorescent lamps will provide the bulk of the building's heat. Supplemental heat will be supplied by electric resistant type heating.

The office will meet the needs of almost 46,000 customers in a 255 square mile area centered around Elgin. Suburban communities including Bartlett, Carpentersville, Dundee, Elgin, Hanover Park, Sleepy Hollow, Streamwood, Valley View, and Wayne will be served by the new facility.

Guy V. Prisco of Aurora is the architect for the project. The contractors are Lamp Construction of Elgin, Premier Electrical Construction Co. of Montgomery and Clearing Heating and Air Conditioning Corp. of Chicago.

Calls For Priorities

The reins of the National Apartment Association were turned over to a new leader this month but before Jenard Gross relinquished the president's post to Joe Sexton of Indianapolis, Ind., he warned that "we cannot live comfortably in a country that has such wide gaps of housing from the rich to the poor."

The Houston, Texas apartment owner and builder called for a priority system on government housing programs, favoring the lower income groups. He said "there are some 13 million families earning less than $5,000 per year. These people need assistance most and need it prior to the assistance to families who are earning $9,500 per year."

Gross said that in 1969 some 200,000 single family and multi-family dwelling units were covered by commitments to accommodate low and moderate-income families.

He said the number will "soar to 400,000" in 1979 and predicted the unit total will exceed 400,000 for the next several years as there is a federal goal of 600,000 units per annum from 1968 to 1978 on federally assisted housing.

It was estimated by Gross that this year's apartment unit output will reach 600,000. He predicted apartment builders will be doubling this volume on an annual basis within five years.

About 20,000 persons are members of NAA. Gross said collectively they must come up with the answers to such problems as rising costs in building and operating apartments, tenant unions and rent control and expensive money.

Keep Warm Air Inside

One way to save money this winter, the American Gas Association advised, is to reduce your use of fuel.

You can do that by keeping the warm air inside your house inside — and the cold air outside. If you have a fireplace, be sure the damper is closed when the fireplace isn't being used. Try to keep the opening and closing of doors to the outside at a minimum. Each time you open an outside door, some of the heat from inside your house escapes.

Innovator In Steel

by LEA TONKIN

A standout in stainless steel is the new Arlington Heights headquarters of the Cincinnati-Forte Co.

Just one year ago, the company moved from Niles to 316 University Drive in the Arlington Industrial and Research Center. This move replaced two separate rented facilities in Niles, where the company was based since its formation in 1962.

The first plant in the Midwest to be built almost entirely of stainless steel, the facilities consist of separate office and production facilities, totaling 58,000 square feet in size. They are connected by a 40-foot long passageway.

The gleaming exterior of the production building features some 10,000 square feet of brush finish stainless steel panels set between stainless steel columns. Almost 1 1/2 stories high, the panels on this building are topped off by plate glass panels near the roof. Face brick is used at the base of the building.

Structural framing of the two component buildings is of stainless steel, as well as truss members and building columns.

Steel frame and trim defines the design of the office structure. The 70-foot by 30-foot building has tinted glass walls.

The architect, Robert L. Friedman and Associates of Chicago, had to contend with two factors in the use of stainless steel on the building exterior: the stiffness of the material, and reflections of light off the surface. If all the surfaces were not in true plane, they would present an irregular pattern of dark and light. To avoid this the architect chose an exterior design in which panels form a shallow "W" shape.

Interior walls in the production facility also feature stainless steel. Baked enamel steel panels were installed. They are marked only by the dark vertical lines of steel columns.

Cincinnati-Forte, a manufacturer of metal processing equipment, decided to build its new facilities of stainless steel to reflect its image, according to John Porter, marketing manager. "We're in the business to make high quality metal products, which this building reflects," he said.

"Also, it requires practically no

STEEL COILS weighing as much as 60,000 pounds are among the representative products processed on Cincinnati-Forte equipment. The coil maintenance, making up for the relatively high initial cost," he said. "After 15 years, when an enamel finish building might need resurfacing, stainless steel will still present a good appearance."

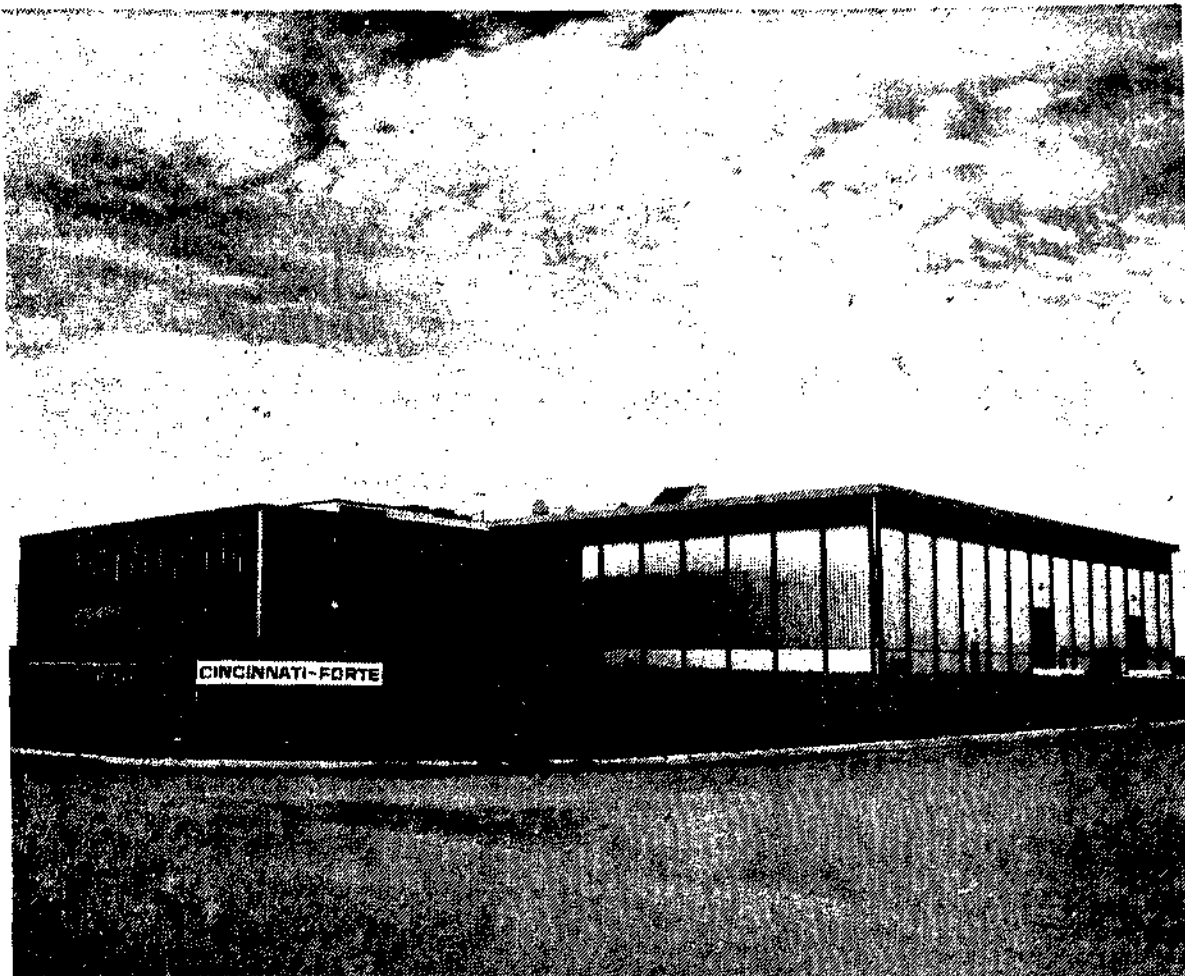

Porter said more companies will use stainless steel for building exteriors as they notice the damage caused by sulphur dioxide pollution on other metal surfaces. He said stainless steel is relatively impervious to this kind of damage.

Equipment produced by the company includes complete slitting and blanking lines. "The finished machinery is capable of processing coils from 3/8 inch to

.006 inch thick," said Porter. "The cost ranges from $100,000 to $500,000."

The company also produces peripheral equipment for slitting and blanking lines. This includes removable slitter heads, scrap winder/ballers, coil loading cars and other items.

Subsequent production lines to be added in the plant will be automated, according to Porter. He added, "This is not a mass production type of plant. It is more for innovative, developmental type of projects. Most of the equipment is custom-built and takes six months to a year to complete."

quarters and manufacturing plant of the company, a producer of coil processing equipment.

Referral Sales Almost Doubled

Robert W. Starck & Co. has announced that Inter-City Relocation Service, Inc., a not-for-profit real estate referral service, posted an increase of almost 50 per cent in sales in the past 12 months.

Most of the gain was attributed to the Inter-City member's sales and purchases of homes by company-transferred employees. Robert Starck was recently elected to serve another term as a director of the association, and was presented with a plaque commending referral sales of over $1 million during the past year.

In the past 12 months ended Oct. 31, Robert W. Starck & Co. and other Inter-City members reported 47 per cent more sales, than in the same period last year.

Robert W. Starck

Membership was increased by 24.75 per cent.

Inter-City was established in 1960. The relocation program includes listing and sale of a transferee's previous residence and referral of his housing needs to an Inter-City member in his destination city.

Real estate sales through Inter-City in the past year averaged nearly $35,000 per transaction, according to Ralph Pritchard, out-going Inter-City president. He compared this to National Association of Real Estate Board median sales of $23,499.

Metropolitan area committees have been formed, through which the needs of a transferee referred to one Inter-City member will be re-referred through the entire area until his housing problem is solved. Such a committee is operating in Chicago.

Named Vice President

James R. Garts

James R. Garts, a resident of Rolling Meadows, has been elected vice president of Wilson Sporting Goods Co.'s International Division. News of the appointment came from company President, Thomas P. Mullaney, in a statement issued from Wilson's River Grove, Illinois headquarters.

Garts joined Wilson's headquarters staff as manager of the Chicago Sales Division in 1960. Prior to that time, he was vice president in charge of marketing for Wonder Products Co., a subsidiary of Wilson.

Garts carries an extensive sales background to his new position. He started as a salesman for the company in 1952, covering the state of Virginia as a representative of Wilson's Washington D.C. sales division. In 1959 he was named European sales manager, a position he held until transferring to Wonder Products Co. in 1960.

Wilson's newly organized International Division will be mainly concerned with expanding the company's sales and manufacturing capabilities throughout the world.

Arlington Man Elected VP

Gary A. Van Laven

Gary A. Van Laven of Arlington Heights, has been elected vice president of finance for Data Processing Security, Inc., of Hinsdale one of the nation's leading firms specializing in the protection and security of computer centers for business, industry and government.

Van Laven, who also has been named treasurer and elected to the board of directors of the company, previously was audit manager for Litton Industries.

Van Laven is a graduate of the University of Michigan where he was awarded a bachelor's degree and master's degree in business administration. He is a Certified Public Accountant.

Sugar 'n Spice

AND EVERYTHING NICE ABOUT FOOD

A popular type of entertaining for the holidays is an informal brunch - relaxed, simply served, and appropriate from mid-morning to early afternoon.

The foods can be elegant, but their preparation is easier than for a dinner party and costs correspondingly less.

The menu usually features two or more special hot breads along with an assortment of fruit, main dish of eggs with meat, and beverages.

Hot breads sparked with peanuts - whether salted or in peanut butter or peanut brittle - are distinctive and put punch into the brunch.

Please come for Brunch

Peanut Apple Coffee Cake

Topping

- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 2 medium apples, peeled, cored and sliced thin

Batter

- 1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons peanut oil
- 1/2 cup chopped salted peanuts

For the topping, mix together flour, sugar and cinnamon. Cut or rub in butter or margarine until mixture is crumbly. Prepare apples.

For the batter, sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into bowl. Combine egg, milk and peanut oil. Add to flour mixture and stir in chopped peanuts until smooth. Pour into 9-inch round baking pan. Arrange apple slices on top of coffee cake in desired pattern. Spoon topping mixture between slices. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) about 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Makes one 9-inch coffee cake.

Peanut Butter Raisin Rolls or Drop Doughnuts

Peanut butter flavors the batter for these yeast rolls which can be fried as drop doughnuts, if preferred. The batter method is quick and easy since kneading and shaping steps are eliminated. If you choose the doughnut variation, be sure to fry them in peanut oil. The high smoke point permits foods to cook to a golden brown without burning.

- 1 package compressed or dry yeast
- 1/4 cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 cup peanut butter
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 to 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup raisins
- Confectioners sugar frosting
- Salted peanut halves

Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Pour over peanut butter, sugar and salt and stir until dissolved; cool until lukewarm. Stir in about 1 cup of flour. Add softened yeast, egg and raisins and beat well. Add enough more flour to make a thick batter. Beat well again. Cover and let rise in warm place until bubbly (about 1 hour). Stir down.

Spoon into greased, medium muffin cups. Cover and let rise again until doubled in size (about 45 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes or until browned. Remove from muffin cups at once.

Frost with confectioners sugar frosting and decorate with peanut halves, if desired.

*Peanut Butter Raisin Drop Doughnuts: After stirring down batter, drop by spoonfuls into deep hot peanut oil (365 degrees) and fry until brown, turning once. Drain on absorbent paper. Dust with confectioners sugar.

Candied Peanut Coffee Ring

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup flaked coconut
- 1/4 cup crushed peanut brittle
- 2 tablespoons grated orange rind
- 2 packages (10 each package) refrigerated biscuits

Measure butter or margarine into 6 1/2-cup ring mold. Place in preheated oven a few minutes until butter is melted. Remove from oven and tip mold to coat bottom and part-way up sides. Sprinkle coconut evenly around mold and press lightly against bottom and a little way up sides. Blend peanut brittle and orange rind; spoon over coconut in mold.

Separate biscuits and stand upright (crosswise in pan) in single row around prepared mold. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes, or until top is browned. Turn out immediately onto serving plate. To serve, pull biscuits apart with two forks. Serve hot. Makes one coffee ring.

Peanut Ham Corn Sticks

- 1 cup sifted enriched flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 cup yellow corn meal
- 1/2 cup chopped salted peanuts
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup melted shortening or oil
- 4 1/2 ounces (1 can) deviled ham

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into bowl. Stir in corn meal and peanuts. Combine egg, milk, oil or shortening and ham. Add to flour mixture and stir until batter is just smooth. Pour into well-greased corn stick pans. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from pans at once. Serve hot. Makes 14 to 16 corn sticks.

A Christmas Surprise

Make Breakfast A Fun Meal

On Christmas morning, once all the gifts have been unwrapped, there's a holl — and that's the time for a hearty leisurely breakfast. Decorated Florida grapefruit halves ring up the curtain on a festive meal.

For the children; grapefruit garnished with marshmallow snowmen, their faces and buttons painted with food coloring and the hats triangular red paper cones. Spearmint leaf candles are a favorite with children and provide a simple grapefruit garnish. Or you can top the halves with avocado slices or delicious ambrosia, made by combining grapefruit and orange sections with flaked coconut and a combination of sour cream and whipped cream.

AMBROSIA

1 grapefruit
¼ cup heavy cream, whipped
¼ cup sour cream
1 cup orange sections (about 2 oranges)
1 cup grapefruit sections (about 1 grapefruit)
1 cup flaked coconut
Cut grapefruit in half; cut around each section. Reserve sections. Discard membrane and wash shell. Fold whipped cream into sour cream. Cut orange and grapefruit sections in half. Combine with sections reserved from grapefruit shells. Fold into cream. Spoon into grapefruit shells.

To serve, garnish with additional orange and grapefruit sections. Sprinkle with coconut and top with cherry.

Waffles with sausages can be a luxury breakfast if the sausages are fixed in an unusual way. Ground pork is mixed with seasoning, shaped into small balls and then baked.

SAUCY SAUSAGE with WAFFLES

1 egg
6 saltine crackers, crumbled
1½ teaspoons poultry seasoning
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
¼ teaspoon Tobasco pepper sauce
1 pound ground pork
Hot waffles

In medium bowl beat egg with crackers, poultry seasoning, nutmeg, mustard and Tobasco. Mix in ground pork. Shape pork mixture into small meatballs about 5/8 inch in diameter. Bake in shallow pan in 350 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until lightly browned.

Yield: 6 servings.

Or if you prefer a delectable french toast, make it with a batter of beaten egg, orange juice and grated rind. Brown as usual, garnish with orange sections, and sprinkle with sugar.

FLORIDA FRENCH TOAST

1 egg
¼ cup Florida orange juice
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons grated orange rind
4 slices day-old bread
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 oranges, sectioned
Confectioners sugar

Beat egg with orange juice, sugar and grated orange rind in shallow dish. Leave bread slices whole or cut in half, if desired. Dip bread in egg mixture. Brown on both sides in butter in skillet over low heat.

Place orange sections on each slice of toast. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar. Serve immediately.

Yield: 4 servings.

Elegant Brunch Entree . . .

A FAVORITE brunch entree is an omelet, this one filled with canned pineapple tidbits and chopped ham, then topped with sour cream and a garnish of pineapple. It's fruit, eggs and meat all rolled into one. With the omelet, airy popovers are a tasty complement.

For festive holiday brunch, let the symbol of hospitality, the pineapple, add a delicious tone to the party. A combination of a late breakfast and an early lunch is a great way to entertain during the busy holly season.

An entree that has long been a favorite is the tender filled omelet. The filling for this holiday version contains canned pineapple tidbits, and chopped ham — an unbeatable twosome for great flavor. Seasoned gently with mustard, the omelet is topped with sour cream before serving. With the omelet, airy popovers are delicious.

One of the most elegant and festive of all brunch entrees is a quiche with the added golden flavor of canned pineapple. The crusts for individual quiches or for one large one can be prepared the day before and stored in the refrigerator overnight. Fill with the pineapple-cheese-custard mixture in the morning and bake. They'll be warm and perfect for the party. With the quiche, marinated fresh vegetables and watercress make a refreshing accompaniment.

ONE OTHER IDEA for a brunch is slices of canned pineapple, dipped into buttermilk pancake batter, and fried golden brown. Served with a dusting of powdered sugar, they are luscious with a slice of ham or pork sausages.

Eggnog Serves Holiday Hostesses...

In Updated Style

ONE OF THE most delicious and traditional of recipes, eggnog is now easily convenient. Preparation time is pared down to nothing by using economical and convenient evaporated milk. This recipe will ensure a holiday that's easy and fun!

Splendid slivers of sparkle spike this punch with the wintry beauty this menu deserves. While our table setting is sophisticated, the recipe's main ingredient is as traditional as Christmas — evaporated milk.

Our easy-to-fix eggnog calls for a pared down list of ingredients that insures this recipe's convenience, economy and nutrition.

While we've used a modern up-to-the-minute setting, our easy-to-make recipe is served, warm, like the Christmas punches of olden days.

A way to add holiday shine and sparkle to your serving table is by using some or all of your glass and crystal accent pieces. Anything from paperweights (like our crystal antelope) to a glass dish filled with marbles will do. This will add an additional aura of sophistication to your serving.

Our traditional and honored eggnog recipe gets its modernization from convenient ingredients. Treat your table to an equally up-to-date setting and treat your guests to this delicious, convenient eggnog punch.

EGGNOG PUNCH

3 13-ounce cans evaporated milk
2 cups water
4 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
1-inch piece fresh orange rind
4 teaspoons rum flavoring (see note)
Mix evaporated milk, water, eggs, sugar and orange rind in large saucepan.

Stir over medium heat until steaming hot. Stir in rum flavoring. Serve warm topped with whipped cream and nutmeg. Makes approximately 12 servings.

NOTE: You may use 1 cup rum in place of rum flavoring.

CHOCOLATE JULIP PUNCH

3 13-ounce cans evaporated milk
2 cups water
1 cup chocolate syrup
1 tablespoon peppermint flavoring (see note)
Mix evaporated milk, water and chocolate syrup in large saucepan. Stir over medium heat until steaming. Stir in peppermint flavoring. Serve warm topped with grated chocolate. Makes approximately 12 servings.

NOTE: You may use ¼ cup white creme de menthe and ¼ cup creme de cacao in place of peppermint flavoring.

ALEXANDER PUNCH

3 13-ounce cans evaporated milk
2 cups water
1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons vanilla (see note)
2 tablespoons rum flavoring (see note)
Mix evaporated milk, water and brown sugar in large saucepan. Stir over medium heat until steaming. Stir in vanilla and rum flavoring. Serve warm. Makes approximately 12 servings.

NOTE: You may use 1 cup gin and 1 cup white creme de cacao in place of vanilla and rum flavoring.

It's An Easy-To-Do Dessert

Just to prove you can do a lot more with dairy eggnog than drink it, here's a high and handsome Eggnog Torte. Nothing could be easier to make than this spectacular looking holiday dessert. It's a combination of dairy eggnog, currant jelly and a prepared angel food cake. You don't even have to bake your own cake or mix your own eggnog, as those time consuming jobs have been done for you. Put it all together it spells good eating and a perfect choice for holiday guests.

attraction at your next holiday party or buffet supper.

EGGNOG TORTE

2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups dairy eggnog
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup (1 stick) cold, firm butter
1 round angel food cake, 8-inch (about 1 lb.)
Currant jelly
Chopped pecans

In 1-quart saucepan combine cornstarch and sugar; gradually stir in eggnog. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook 2 additional minutes. Add vanilla. Cover and cool completely. In a small mixing bowl cream butter until light and fluffy. Beating at medium speed, very gradually (1 tablespoon at a time at first) add eggnog mixture. Cut cake horizontally into 4 layers. Thinly spread jelly on top of 3 cut layers; spread ¼ of eggnog filling over jelly. Spread last ¼ of eggnog filling on top slice. Reassemble layers; sprinkle pecans on top. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 16 servings.

Even the beginning cook finds Eggnog Torte easy to do because so many steps have been eliminated by the use of convenience foods. The main effort is preparation of the creamy eggnog filling. Cornstarch and sugar are cooked with dairy eggnog until it has become a thick sauce. Then it is cooled thoroughly to a pudding consistency. Then cold, firm butter is beaten until fluffy and the cooled eggnog mixture beaten into it. It's important to add the cooled eggnog slowly at the beginning — one tablespoon at a time — increasing the amount as the mixing continues.

The packaged cake can easily be cut into four layers. Assembling the torte is then a simple matter of sandwiching these king-size slices of cake with contrasting layers of ruby-red currant jelly and creamy eggnog.

Give the cake a festive look by sprinkling the top layer of fluffy eggnog filling with a handful of chopped pecans. Serve your quick Eggnog Torte as the main

Use It For Sauces

Think of all the really festive dishes you'd like to set before your holiday guests, and chances are your thoughts have already turned to the refreshing, full-bodied goodness of eggnog.

Eggnog is as much a part of our Yuletide celebration as the tree in the living room or the holly wreath that adorns the door.

One of the reasons for this continuing popularity with party goers of all ages is versatility. It's a colorful refreshing beverage that also can be used as a base for any number of creams and sauces to turn an ordinary dessert into something special.

The rich color and texture of this chilled drink of eggs beaten up with sugar and milk has great eye appeal and fits right in with other equally colorful, festive dishes set out for guests.

Eggnog adapts well to sophisticated or casual entertaining. Sherry or bourbon add bounce to the beverage; served in a well-chilled punch bowl, sprinkled with nutmeg, the drink is bound to please all who gather around the buffet table.

Eggnog is delightful when used as the mainstay ingredient in desserts that are definitely out of the ordinary. This recipe for eggnog dessert pancakes has been developed in the Meadow Gold kitchens just in time for the holidays. Meadow Gold home economists suggest the dessert pancakes be topped with either sour cream or a special eggnog raisin sauce for the finishing touch.

EGGNOG DESSERT PANCAKES

2 eggs, beaten
1 ½ cups eggnog
1 cup sifted flour
brown sugar-cinnamon mixture ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 pint (1 cup) sour cream
Nutmeg
Combine eggs and eggnog. Sift together flour, salt, nutmeg. Add to eggnog mixture. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Batter will be thin. Using two tablespoons of batter for each pancake, bake in a lightly buttered hot 6-inch fry pan or on hot griddle. Bake until top appears dry; turn and brown on other side. Cook slightly. In center of each pancake, put a spoon of sour cream. Sprinkle with brown sugar-cinnamon mixture. Roll up and arrange two or three on each dessert plate. Spoon sour cream over top; sprinkle with nutmeg.
Makes 12 6-inch pancakes.

EGGNOG RAISIN SAUCE

2 eggs, well beaten
1/3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 cups eggnog
¼ cup golden raisins
½ teaspoons rum flavoring
Combine eggs, sugar, cornstarch, eggnog and raisins. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until smooth and thickened. Do not boil. Remove from heat; stir in rum flavoring. Chill.
Makes 2 ½ cups.

Hanukkah . . . . Festival Of Lights

by FRAN HECKART

Gifts, decorations, friends and fun are all a part of the approaching Jewish holiday, Hanukkah. The Festival of Light begins the evening of Dec. 22. The menorah candles will be lighted in the ritual fashion, presents will be exchanged and the traditional crisp potato pancakes will turn up for dinner.

Mrs. Sam Chiprin and Mrs. Stanley Lieberman are two Buffalo Grove homemakers preparing their special dishes for the Hanukkah season. Latkes, Potato Kugel and Maudel Brodt are a few of the traditional favorites.

Hanukkah cookies shaped as menorahs or dreidels are always on hand for the children.

Hanukkah commemorates the recovery of the temple in Jerusalem by the Maccabee warriors in the year 165 B.C. Israel had been captured by Antiochus, who dedicated the temple to the worship of Zeus. When the Jews recovered the holy place, they purified the altar and once more wished to kindle the "eternal light" customarily burned before the ark of Talmud.

THE ONLY consecrated oil remaining was a tiny vat . . . enough for one day. Miraculously, the oil burned for eight days. It was then decreed that every year the eight days beginning with the 25th of Kislev by the Hebrew calendar should be celebrated by burning candles to commemorate the event. Thus, the holiday from the "miracle of light" became the Festival of Light.

In each Jewish home, the miracle is enacted symbolically. The menorah, or nine-branched candelabra is lighted on the first night. The center or "servant" candle is lighted first and with it one lights the right-hand candle on the first night of Hanukkah. On the second night, the servant candle lights the second from the right and so on through the eight nights.

Leah Chiprin described Hanukkah as the "spirit of giving and sharing of gifts and sharing with the underprivileged and poor."

The following recipes for the Hanukkah feast were submitted by Carol Handelsman, Leah Chiprin, Judy Lieberman and Joan Sidman, all Buffalo Grove members of the Sisterhood of Congregation Beth Judea.

LATKES

- 6 medium-size potatoes
- 1 small onion,
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Peel and grate potatoes and onion either by hand or in a blender. Let stand 10 minutes so that liquid will rise to the top. Remove liquid. Stir in eggs, then add other ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls into a hot well-greased skillet. Brown on both sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot with applesauce, sugar or sour cream.

POTATO KUGEL

Peel 6 medium potatoes. Grate, add 2 eggs and beat until smooth and mixed well. Sift together 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Add to potatoes. Grate 2 onions. Add to batter and beat well. Grease dish. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for about 1 hour, or until crisp and brown.

MAUDEL BRODT

1/2 pound butter
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
2 1/2 cups flour
2 heaping teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package almonds, sliced or slivered
Cream butter with sugar. Add eggs and beat well. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Toast the almonds and add to the flour mixture. Gradually add the dry ingredients to the beaten eggs. Add vanilla.

Shape the batter in long rolls, about 1 inch wide. Place on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until slightly browned, about 25 minutes.

Remove from oven and slice diagonally about every 1/2 inch. Spread the slices on the cookie sheet and return to the oven, this time at 400 degrees, for about 10 minutes or until toasted.

HONEY COOKIES

1 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
4 tablespoons honey
2 1/2 cups sifted all purpose flour
Cream butter, sugar and honey. Add flour slowly. Mix thoroughly to a smooth dough.

Chill in the refrigerator for two hours. Roll out on waxed paper to about 1/4 inch thick. Shape with cookie cutters.

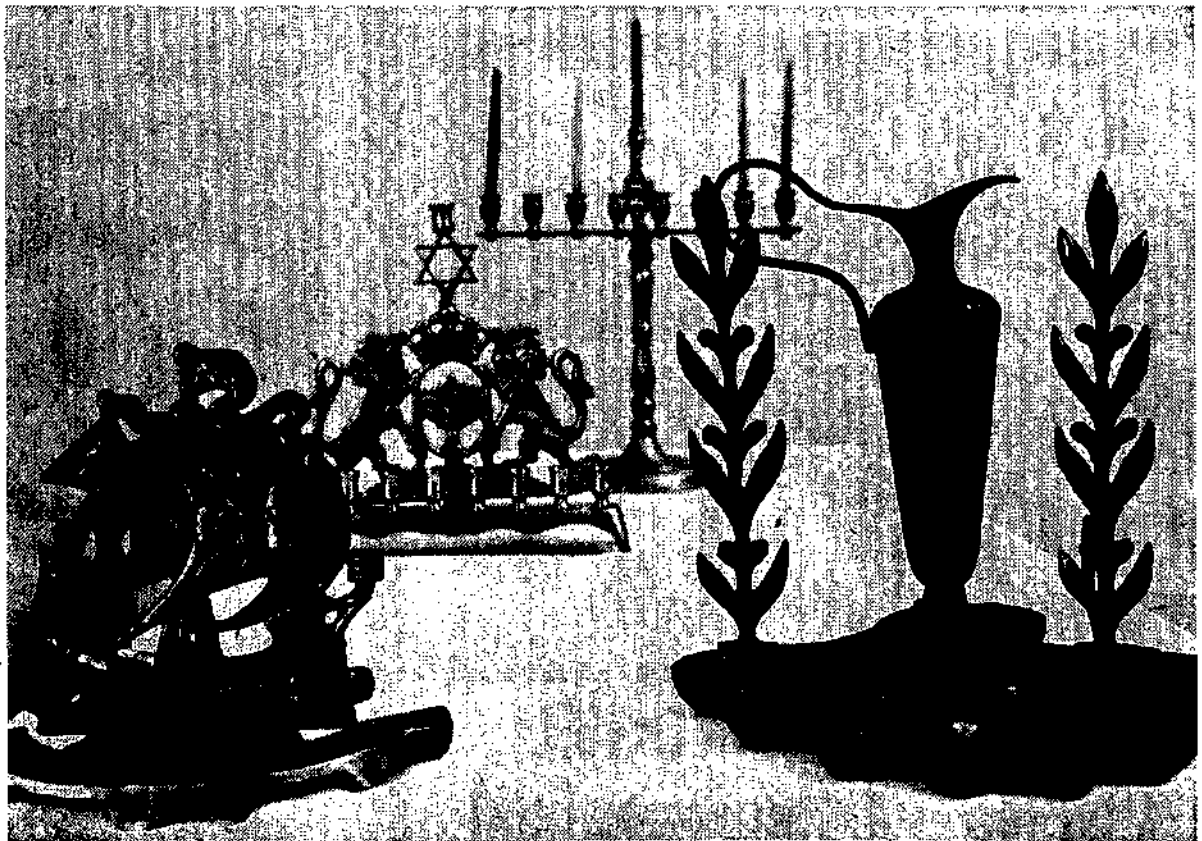

Place on an ungreased cookie sheet and bake in a 300-degree oven for about 25 minutes.

CHOCOLATE HANUKKAH COOKIES

1 package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1/3 cup white corn syrup
2 ounces rice cereal
Melt chocolate in double boiler, and stir in corn syrup. Pour in rice cereal and mix until all kernels are coated. Spread in a jelly roll pan. Cut with cookie cutters.

HANUKKAH COOKIES, Potato Kugel, latkes and festive decorations are sure to be on hand Dec. 23 in the homes of Mrs. Stanley Lieberman, left, and Mrs. Sam Chiprin, both of Buffalo Grove. Hanukkah requires a fine feast, and Jewish homemakers are sure to delight their families with holiday specialties.

MENORAHS OF various styles will be lighted the evening of Dec. 22 in commemoration of the "miracle of light." Each menorah is a nine-branched candelabra with a servant candle which is lighted first. With it one lights the right-hand candle on the first night of Hanukkah. On the second night, the servant candle lights the second from the right and so on through the eight nights.

Kitchen Magic

A GOOD pot of soup can be made from a couple of turkey necks, so if the necks of your holiday birds are not usually enjoyed roasted, save them in the freezer until you have two or more and make soup.

INVERTED, the top of a plastic bleach bottle makes an excellent funnel after the lower two-thirds has been cut away.

Irene Andersen
Rolling Meadows, Ill.

FOR A colorful and tasty winter salad, combine crisp mixed salad greens with fresh grapefruit segments and onion rings. Toss in French dressing and sprinkle with fresh herbs.

ADEQUATELY filled spice containers not only look better, they also keep the contents better. Clear glass shows off the spice colors best, but should be kept away from strong sunlight, which bleaches the colors and reduces the spices' pungency.

AFTER THE party, get rid of cooking odors and cigarette smoke in minutes by burning a candle in each room.

If you have a hint or suggestion you would like to share, send it to Kitchen Magic, Box 280, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

All items on sale Thursday, December 17 thru Wednesday, December 23, 1970 unless otherwise indicated.

CHRISTMAS WOULDN'T be Christmas at the Robert R. Loesch household in Addison without a traditional baked ham dinner with all the trimmings. Each year Ginny Loesch serves a moist juicy ham decorated with pineapple slices and maraschino cherries. The festive ham is glazed with a molasses or corn syrup mixture which gives the ham a delicious sweet favor.

Her Baked Ham Dinner Is A Christmas 'Must'

by LOIS SEILER

When the family gathers 'round the tree in the Robert R. Loesch home on Christmas Eve, they look forward to Ginny Loesch's traditional baked ham dinner with all the trimmings.

Ginny has been preparing ham by a method learned from her husband's family for years. Festively decorated with pineapple slices and maraschino cherries, it is basted frequently with a molasses or corn syrup mixture which builds up a beautiful glaze and gives the ham a delicious sweet flavor.

"The glaze also makes the ham juicy and moist," Ginny remarked. To serve, she arranges ham slices on a platter surrounded by the pineapple and cherries.

This good cook devised a unique baked bean recipe which makes an excellent accompaniment for the ham.

"The basic recipe is also from Bob's family," Ginny said, "but I improvised a bit and changed some of the ingredients to suit my taste."

It consists of canned baked beans doctored up with bacon bits, brown sugar and catsup. Worcestershire sauce and garlic salt add just the right amount of zest.

AT CHRISTMAS she always adds pineapple chunks, which taste so well with the ham, and green pepper bits for Christmas color.

All of the ingredients blend together in an interesting fashion to give the beans a sweet flavor and rich, dark color.

German potato salad, a jello mold made in the shape of a wreath, a relish tray and brown bread complete this appealing menu.

The brown bread is one of this homemaker's favorite recipes. She acquired it from a neighbor over ten years ago and has used it constantly ever since.

"It is so easy and so simple that it can be made anytime," she enthusiastically exclaimed.

The brown bread contains raisins, and although the batter itself is light in color, through some mysterious process it turns a deep, dark brown during the baking process.

Ginny bakes it in tin cans saved especially for this recipe. "It is most important to let the bread cool in the tins," Ginny emphasized. "Evidently the steam penetrates the bread, giving it a moist texture; if it is removed too soon, the bread will be crumbly and dry."

She highly recommends serving the brown bread with vegetable soup or bean soup as well as with baked ham.

Another recipe which she always makes at Christmas time is a special snack to serve with drinks or just for nibbling. It consists of three different types of cereal, pretzels and salted nuts coated with salad oil, Worcestershire sauce and seasonings. She bakes the mix in a slow oven for a couple of hours, stirring it often.

"This makes a huge quantity, as just half the recipe fills a turkey roaster," Ginny said. "However, I always make the whole recipe, filling the roaster twice, as my family eats it as fast as I make it," Ginny laughingly exclaimed.

She also fills big Mason jars with this tasty cocktail mix and gives it as gifts to relatives and friends.

All of these recipes are easy to prepare and the beans and bread can be made a day or two ahead, leaving the cook free to enjoy her Christmas Eve guests. Leftovers taste equally as good on Christmas Day.

BEING A GOOD cook is just one of this capable homemaker's many accomplishments. She modestly calls herself a "Jack of all trades and master of none" because her interests extend in so many different directions. She paints a little, refinishes antiques and sews quite a few of her own clothes. However, Ginny is an expert with the crochet needle, a talented musician who plays the organ for 11:30 mass each Sunday at St. Philip's Catholic Church, and an experienced gardener.

In addition to her enjoyment of outdoor gardening, she specializes in growing 40 to 50 different varieties of African violets and also serves as president of the Addison Community Garden Club.

All of the members of the family play an instrument, so music is an integral part of the Loesch Christmas celebration at 232 Country Club Drive in Addison. Included in the gathering will be their son Kerby, 14, daughter Kim, 11, married daughter and son-in-law, Sandra and Michael Dobey of Addison, and their little granddaughter Heather, who is almost 2.

BAKED HAM

- 1 butt half of ham (pre-cooked)
- Whole cloves
- 1 can pineapple (15½ ounces)
- Maraschino cherries
- 1 cup dark corn syrup or molasses
- 1 cup brown sugar

Remove rind from ham. Score ham diagonally and insert clove in each section.

Drain pineapple, reserving the liquid. Arrange pineapple slices decoratively over the ham, using toothpicks to secure. Place maraschino cherries in the center of each pineapple slice.

Combine pineapple juice, corn syrup or molasses and brown sugar. Stir well and pour over ham, basting frequently during the baking time. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes per pound, or until the glaze turns golden brown.

Allow 30 minutes cooling before slicing. Arrange sliced ham on platter, using pineapple and cherries as garnish. Serves 10 to 12.

GINNY'S BEANS

- 4 strips bacon,
- cut in 1-inch pieces
- 1 28-ounce can pork and beans
- ½ cup catsup
- ¾ cup dark brown sugar
- ¼ teaspoon garlic salt
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 small can chunk pineapple
- and juice (optional)
- 1 green pepper, chopped (optional)

Fry bacon until crisp. Stir in beans and all remaining ingredients. Simmer for 20 minutes until flavors blend, or turn into a casserole and bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Serves 4 to 6.

BROWN BREAD

- 1½ cups raisins
- 1½ cups water
- 1 tablespoon shortening
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 2½ cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt

In a saucepan, combine raisins and water. Bring to a boil. Set aside to cool.

In a large mixing bowl, cream together by hand the shortening, sugar and egg. Sift the remaining dry ingredients together over the top. Add boiled mixture and blend all ingredients together well.

Turn into three ungreased 15½-ounce cans. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Let cool completely in cans. Remove and wrap in Saran or foil to keep bread fresh.

COCKTAIL MIX

- 1 package Rice Chex
- 1 package Wheat Chex
- 1 package thin pretzels
- 1 package Cheerios
- 2 pounds salted mixed nuts
- 2 cups cooking oil
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon garlic powder
- 2 tablespoons savory salt
- or seasoned salt

Combine cereal, pretzels and nuts. (One-half the above amount fills a turkey roaster.) Mix Worcestershire sauce and cooking oil together and stir into cereal mixture. Sprinkle with garlic powder and salt and stir well. Bake for two hours at 250 degrees. Store in covered containers.

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

Rare are foods which can be offered in so many ways as shrimp. These crustaceans which vary in size from the tiny "angles" to large prawns may be served hot or cold and often utilized as just the right flavor ingredient for fish dishes.

This is my version of Scampi Rossi, a delightful appetizer to serve away from the table or the principal ingredient of a light supper. I use a medium-sized shrimp (26 to 30 count when packaged, which means that number of shrimp per pound), while in Italy the large prawns called scampi are the main ingredient.

To serve 6 purchase 1½ pounds of fresh shrimp. Peel and devein, but do not cook. You can use fresh frozen shrimp which are already peeled and deveined and this is a real time saver. When using frozen shrimp, I find it a good procedure to thaw in cold water to which I add about an ounce of pepper vinegar (pepper sauce in bottles).

Drain and dry shrimp. In a large skillet heat 1/3 cup salad oil (Italians invariably use olive oil). Cook shrimp in the oil over medium heat until nicely pink. Add ½ cup dry vermouth, 1 crushed clove of garlic, ¼ teaspoon salt, and ½ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper. Cook until the liquid is almost gone.

MEANTIME BUTTER and heat ramekins or shells. When shrimp are ready sprinkle with 3 tablespoons finely chopped fresh parsley and 3 tablespoons lemon juice. Serve in the ramekins with heated crackers.

And, for your holiday menus here's a suggestion for using fresh oranges which are at their peak this time of the year. Peel 6 large oranges and with a sharp knife section them removing seeds and membrane.

In a saucepan heat ½ cup sweet red wine (a good spot to use any red home-made wine), ¼ cup sugar, a dash each of ground cinnamon and ground cloves. Allow to cool, then pour over the orange sections, cover and chill well before serving to 4. An added touch is to sprinkle the chilled sections with freshly grated coconut.

Do you have a favorite recipe for shrimp, or a question about food?

What's Thawing For Dinner?

Entertain Italian Style

by CHARLOTTE ERICKSON

Italian food has long enjoyed tremendous popularity in this country and well it should. It is very hearty food with great variations, usually economical and fairly simple to prepare.

The following are a few recipes that I think you'll enjoy. They are very quick and easy to prepare but elegant enough to serve at any dinner party. Most of the preparation can be done ahead of time, leaving you to be the relaxed and gracious hostess.

ANTIPASTO

Arrange on a large tray, nicely decorated with greens, a selection of the following. Use as many as you wish in a quantity suitable to the number of persons you are serving. Solid pack tuna, in bite size portions. Anchovy rolled with capers. Green onions. Salami, pepperoni or Prosciutto, sliced thin and rolled. Cherry tomatoes. Green and ripe olives. Hot and mild peppers. Pickled mushrooms. Artichoke hearts. Pimientos. Radishes. Bread sticks. Italian cheeses such as Mozzarella, Provolone, Gorgonzola or Bel Paese, if you can find it. Serve the antipasto with an ample supply of colored picks, along with a nice dry Italian wine and garlic bread, if you wish.

CHICKEN BREASTS BOLOGNESE CON LINGUINE

This simple dish is economical and easy enough to prepare for everyday eating. It also has the flavor and elegance that would suggest a marvelous entree for either a festive dinner or luncheon. Even if you are not planning a dinner party now you'll want to save this recipe for future use.

- Single recipe yields 6 servings.
- 4 skinned and boned chicken breasts (about ½ lb. each)
- 2 eggs
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 cup seasoned Italian bread crumbs
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons oil
- ½ pound thinly sliced, prosciutto ham
- ½ pound mozzarella cheese
- parmesan cheese
- 2 16-oz. cans tomato sauce (optional)

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Boned and skinned chicken breasts should be cut in half. Dip each breast into the eggs which have been beaten with water. Then bread with Italian bread crumbs. Set aside for about 15 minutes. In a large skillet add half the butter and oil. When skillet is hot, saute half the chicken breasts for about 5 minutes on each side. Turn when nicely brown. Repeat with remaining chicken breasts.

In a large 9x13-inch baking dish arrange sauteed chicken breasts. Cover with thin slices of prosciutto ham. Now cover each breast with a thin slice of mozzarella cheese. Sprinkle entire dish with a generous amount of grated parmesan cheese and add tomato sauce if you wish. This ingredient is completely optional — I like it both ways. Bake for 15 minutes at 375 degrees or until heated completely through and cheese is bubbly. Serve at once.

The entire dish can be prepared in advance and heated up for last minute serving, which is ideal when entertaining. Or, when chicken breasts are on sale you may wish to make several pans of this recipe and freeze them.

LINGUINE

To serve with linguine cook 1 pound of linguine 'al dente'. Remove from heat, rinse with hot water briefly and arrange on a large platter. Toss with 4 tablespoons of butter, 2 tablespoons of parmesan cheese, and any prosciutto ham that may be left over may be snipped into the linguine. Toss until all the butter is melted. If you have any tomato sauce left over you may wish to serve this separately, to be spooned over the linguine.

ITALIAN STYLE LOBSTER IN GARLIC SAUCE

As your budget allows, this recipe may be used as an appetizer or an entree. Preparation time is minimal and only a salad and Italian bread need be served with it to make a meal complete.

- Single recipe yields 6 servings.
- 12 Rock lobster tails (about 2 oz. each)
- ½ cup butter
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- ¼ cup minced parsley
- ½ teaspoon oregano, crumbled
- ¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
- ¼ cup bread crumbs

Cook lobster tails while frozen in boiling salted water. Allow 2 minutes per ounce if they are frozen and 1 minute if they are fresh or thawed. Keep heat high until water almost returns to boiling, then lower and simmer until done. Drain and cool lobster slightly under cold running water. When cool enough to handle, remove from shells. Cut each lobster tail into approximately 4 sections. Five minutes before serving, melt butter in a large skillet. Add minced garlic, parsley and oregano. Stir gently for about 2 minutes. Now add lobster, cooking and stirring constantly for about 3 minutes. Meanwhile, combine parmesan cheese with bread crumbs. Sprinkle lobster with this combination. Stir gently. When thoroughly mixed quickly remove from heat and transfer to serving platter. Serve immediately.

Eggnog 'n Cookies

A Jolly Holly Party

Cookies and eggnog are seasonal favorites that add a delicious touch to your buffet. Eggnog is ready to serve right from the carton, or you can add your own imaginative touches to this creamy beverage to please the palate of your guests.

And, of course, butter belongs to the holiday season when it comes to cookie baking. Nothing can compare to butter for quality and taste, and it adds a golden Midas touch of flavor to everything.

- LIGHT FRUITCAKE
- 1 package (15 oz.) light seedless raisins
  - 1 pound candied pineapple, cut up
  - 1 jar (8½ oz.) whole candied red cherries
  - 1 jar (8½ oz.) whole candied green cherries
  - 1 jar (8 oz.) candied orange peel
  - 1 jar (4 oz.) candied lemon peel
  - 2 cups chopped pecans
  - 2 cups chopped walnuts
  - 1 cup regular all-purpose flour
  - 1 cup (2 sticks) butter
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1 tablespoon vanilla
  - 4 eggs
  - 2 cups regular all-purpose flour
  - 2 teaspoons baking powder
  - ¼ teaspoon salt
  - ¼ cup orange juice

Line pans with aluminum foil; set aside. In a large bowl combine raisins, pineapple, red and green cherries, orange peel, lemon peel, pecans and walnuts. Add 1 cup flour and toss to coat fruit.

In a large mixing bowl cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Blend in vanilla. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift together 2 cups flour, baking powder and salt; add to creamed mixture alternately with orange juice, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Stir batter into fruit. Divide evenly into 2 loaf pans 9 x 5 x 2½ inch. Bake 2½ hours in preheated 350 degree oven. Allow to cool in pans on wire rack. Yields 2 cakes.

To make individual fruitcakes: Line 72 small muffin cups, 1¾ x 1-inch with colored foil liners. Fill with above mixture. Bake 1½ hours. Yield: 6 dozen individual cakes.

Note: For individual fruitcakes, cut cherries in half. When thoroughly cool wrap cakes and store in a cool dry place to age and develop flavor.

CHRISTMAS BUTTER COOKIES

- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2½ cups regular all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt

In a large mixing bowl cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Add egg, milk and vanilla and beat thoroughly. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; gradually add to cream mixture. Chill for ease in handling. On lightly floured surface roll to 1/8-inch thickness; with floured cookie cutters cut into desired shapes. Place on baking sheet; bake 9-12 minutes in preheated 350 degree oven. Decorate as desired. Yields 7-8 dozen.

VARIATION

Nut Refrigerator Sandwich Cookies: Add ¼ cup chopped walnuts to dough. Chill. Shape into 2 rolls 1¼-inch in diameter and 12-inches long. Wrap in waxed paper; chill. Slice in 1/8-inch slices; place on baking sheet. Bake 10-12 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Put two cookies together with Vanilla Frosting; place dollop of frosting on top of each sandwich and top with walnut half. Yield: 4 dozen sandwich cookies.

Vanilla Frosting
2 tablespoons butter
1¼ cups confectioners sugar
3-4 tablespoons light cream or half and half ½ teaspoon vanilla
Food coloring

In a small mixing bowl beat together butter, sugar and sufficient cream to spreading consistency. Blend in vanilla and food coloring.

COFFEE EGGNOG PUNCH

- ¼ cup instant coffee powder
- ½ cup boiling water
- 2 quarts dairy eggnog
- Nutmeg

Dissolve coffee powder in boiling water; chill. Add to eggnog. Pour into punch bowl and sprinkle with nutmeg. Yields about 2 quarts.

Decorations Add Festive Touch To Buffet Table

'Tis the season to be jolly and buffets brighten the holidays for everyone. They provide an attractive way of serving a sweet snack or a complete meal. And too, a buffet lightens the work load and provides a busy hostess with an easy and elegant way to entertain.

This year, you can add a creative touch to your table with delightful decorations you've made yourself. They're a breeze to make with aluminum foil. With a twist and a pinch and a fold, you have colorful trees, appropriate flowers and sparkling ornaments to enhance your table and make it more fun and more festive. Aluminum foil is also wonderful when it comes to saving you time and trouble in the kitchen. Use it to bake in, and use it to cook in.

CURRIED SEAFOOD

- 1 package (9 oz.) frozen lobster tails
- 1 package (7 oz.) frozen deveined shrimp
- ¼ cup (½ stick) butter
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 tablespoon regular all-purpose flour
- 1 can (10½ oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup dairy sour cream at room temperature
- 1 package (6 oz.) frozen crab meat, thawed and drained

Cook lobster and shrimp according to package directions; cut up. Meanwhile, in saucepan melt butter; add onion and curry powder and saute until onion is tender. Blend in flour; add soup, then gradually stir in milk. Bring to boil; reduce heat and cook 2 additional minutes. Stir in sour cream, lobster, shrimp and crab meat. Heat to serving temperature. (Do not boil.) Serve over Rice with Mushrooms. Yields 8 servings.

RICE WITH MUSHROOMS

- 1 can (10½ oz.) beef consommé
  - 1¼ cups water
  - 1 cup packaged parboiled rice
  - ½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
  - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
  - ¼ cup (½ stick) butter
  - ¼ cup chopped onion
  - ¼ cup chopped parsley
- In saucepan combine consommé and water; bring to boil. Add rice, cover and cook over low heat about 25 minutes or until tender and all liquid absorbed. Meanwhile, toss mushrooms with lemon juice. In small saucepan melt butter; add mushrooms and onion and saute 5 minutes. Just before serving toss mushroom-onion mixture and parsley with rice. Makes 8 servings.

PARMESAN ROLL RING

- 1 package (13½ oz.) hot roll mix
  - ¼ cup (½ stick) butter
  - ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- Prepare dough according to package directions. Allow to rise until double in volume. In small saucepan melt butter; add Parmesan cheese. Shape dough into 1½ inch balls; dip into butter-cheese mixture and place in ring mold. When all balls are in ring mold, flatten surface with hand. Allow to rise until double in volume. Bake 20 minutes in preheated 375 degree oven. Invert onto serving plate. Serve immediately.

make a cone or by purchasing styrofoam cones. Tear off strips of 12-inch wide aluminum foil shiny side up against the adhesive. Stick them together, gently smoothing to remove air bubbles. From the red sheet cut petals in several shapes and sizes, freehand. From the green sheet, cut leaves in assorted sizes, freehand. (Leaves are same shape as petals).

To decorate top of tree, cover pipe cleaner with narrow strip of foil and shape into a star. Thread small colored beads on second pipe cleaner and form into circle inside star, twisting ends together at bottom. Insert into top of tree.

Silver Christmas Tree

Remove backing from red and green contact paper and place 12-inch wide aluminum foil shiny side up against the adhesive. Stick them together, gently smoothing to remove air bubbles. From the red sheet cut petals in several shapes and sizes, freehand. From the green sheet, cut leaves in assorted sizes, freehand. (Leaves are same shape as petals).

Cut thin strips of the red and green contact paper to make center veins and apply to the foil sides of both petals and leaves. Make side veins with blunt pencil.

For center of poinsettia, cut 1-inch styrofoam ball in half, then cover half with foil. For a stem, form small hook in one end of pipe cleaner, then force it through the styrofoam ball, pulling it through and anchoring the hook on flat side. Crumble small bits of foil and top each with a bit of red contact paper. Attach to flat side of center with common pin.

Assemble flower by pinning petals around center, then covering stem with narrow band of foil and attaching leaves. This forms a lovely silver and red poinsettia with a stem and green and silver leaves. Make several and combine them with natural greens for a beautiful holiday centerpiece.

SPARKLING PUNCH BOWL filled with Coffee Eggnog can be trimmed for the holidays. Measure height and diameter of bowl; tear length of 12-inch aluminum foil about 6 times the diameter. Fold foil in half lengthwise, then trim to same height as bowl. Pleat in ¾ inch sections, joining ends with tape. Slip this over bowl and arrange pleats evenly. Make a second pleated length the same way, trim to half the height of bowl. Slip this over bowl and arrange around base against table. Deck with Christmas greens.

Yes, Fashions Have Changed, Santa Claus!

'Twas the night before Christmas — well, it was really Dec. 10 — and things were really stirring at Corrado's Restaurant in Arlington Heights where Palatine Newcomers' Club was staging a showing of holiday fashions for children.

There weren't any kerchieves for a long winter's nap, but there were a few caps atop tow-headed models.

Yesterday's Santa might have flipped his beard if he'd caught sight of some of today's attire worn by youngsters as they nestle snugly in their sleeping bags or their triple-tiered bunks. He'd recognize the granny gown, but would be a bit confused to see the teeny boppers snoozing in football uniforms complete with numerals.

Boots are staging a comeback, but gone are the knickers and pantalons of yesteryear. Buster Brown is still big, but only the mod Santa would have heard of Buffy pant dresses or Sesame Street fashions with built-in button practice gadgetry.

For a man who hasn't changed his suit in many a year, Mr. Claus must be a bit befuddled by the fashions for the '70s. However, the kids aren't a bit perplexed. They're warmer, more comfortable and better suited than ever before.

FASHIONS FOR the Newcomers' show were from diLustro's Infants and Children's Shoppe in Palatine. Modeling were:

Pam Cizek, daughter of the Fred Cizeks; Matthew Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cox; Deanna and Elise Crimmins, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Crimmins; Jane Elsted, daughter of the Robert Elsteds; Doug Koester, son of the David Koesters; Brent Long, son of the Gordon Longs; Cheryl Polachek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Stevens; David Selinger, son of the Donald Selingers; Lynn Sevey, daughter of the Donald Seveys; and Ronnie Stroschein, son of the Ronald E. Stroscheins.

Commentating the show was Mrs. Gordon Long, who was joined on the runway by the young models to wish "A merry Christmas to all and to all a good night."

Santa himself joined the group, but he didn't fool 2-year-old Deanne Crimmins. She brought down the house with, "Goodnight, Daddy!"

JOE NAMATH NOW shares his numerals with bed-time bound youngsters. Brent Long wore this pajama and robe outfit in Newcomers' fashion show.

UNISEX ENSEMBLES are popular with the young fashion set, too. Doug Koester and his friend, Pam Cizek, model their navy, red and white Sesame Street outfits designed to improve buttoning dexterity. (The other pocket says "On.")

by GENIE CAMPBELL

At first I thought I was watching a live sequel of the television series, "Gilligan's Island." The three-act play, "The Little Hut," currently at Country Club Theatre in Mount Prospect, is written along the same lines, being shipwrecked on a deserted paradise island.

And I continued watching the play for the exact reason I often put "Gilligan's Island" on the television set. It's so ridiculous a situation, so absurd, it becomes funny.

Three people, all dressed in evening clothes, have been washed ashore after their ship goes down.

There are Susan, played by Faith Quabius; her husband, Philip, played by Durward McDonald; and Susan's lover of six years and also Philip's best friend, Henry, played by Rick Riccardo, who in real life is married to Faith.

A Paddock Review

'Hut' An Amusing Comedy

COUNTRY CLUB THEATRE had done an admirable job with the realistic setting of the play, even going as far as to truck in real sod. It did look like a small paradise. It is difficult to see why anyone would even want to leave such a spot.

Yet Susan and Henry have a problem. With living quarters so close, it is next to impossible for them to sneak around behind Philip's back. They decide to do the only proper thing . . . tell him of their affair, and in so doing also convince Philip that Susan should be shared.

"Don't let it upset you," Susan tells her husband. "What a nice thing on our part for not letting you know until now."

Faith is good as happy-go-lucky Susan who feels no guilt whatsoever for having a lover on the side, particularly her husband's best friend. She is flighty and ruled by her belief in the occult, especially white monkeys that turn fiery red and disappear when wished upon.

AS PHILIP, Durward McDonald is also quite good. "There is much to be said for polygamy," he admits when things appear to be working out very well in alternating Susan every other week.

Shaken out of the complacency and doldrums of marriage, Philip appreciates the set-up for keeping him on his toes. "For a marriage to be truly happy, one must be three."

Henry is the only miserable one. He becomes jealous. He suggests then that he and Philip treat Susan like a sister.

Yet before anything can be decided, a stranger happens onto their side of the island. His presence makes the entire situation even more unbelievable . . . even more of a farce.

"The Little Hut" directed by Norman Rice is currently playing at the Country Club Theatre in Mount Prospect through Feb. 21. Tickets, CL 9-5400.

Nurse Is A November Bride

A romance that began when Carol Muehlfelt was studying at Michael Reese Hospital School of Nursing and Al Musur Jr. at Illinois Institute of Technology culminated in marriage for the pair on Nov. 7.

Daughter of the Francis K. Muehlfelts, 186 N. Mozart, Palatine, Carol is now a registered nurse and until her marriage was employed at Michael Reese Hospital. Her bridegroom, son of the Aloisius Musurs of Chicago, is with U. S. Steel.

Rov. T. Braem officiated at the 4:30 p.m. double ring wedding service in Immanuel Lutheran Church in Palatine. Bouquets of large white mums and yellow gladioli decorated the altar as Mr. Muehlfelt gave his daughter in marriage.

Carol was attended by Miss Ruth Ellen Nicholson of Palatine as maid of honor, and her bridesmaids were her sister Jean Muehlfelt of Palatine, Karen Pavic of Chicago and Mrs. Caryn Graham of Warrenville, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Musur Jr.

A MID-VICTORIAN gown of Snowdrift satin with Venice lace trim was Carol's choice in wedding gown. The gown featured a portrait neckline, bishop sleeves, Empire bodice and princess skirt with chapel sweep train. Her tiered veil was held by a Juliet cap trimmed with the same lace, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white orchids.

The maids wore dark moss green velvet Empire gowns with semi trains. Matching Juliet caps and bouquets of orange daisy mums and yellow pompons and lemon leaves completed their ensembles.

Also in the wedding party was a 3-year-old flower girl, Kelly Kasper of Hillside. Her gown matched the bridesmaids' gowns and she carried the same flowers.

Michael Graham of Warrenville was the groom's best man, and ushers were Ron Demski and John Duval of Schiller Park and his brother Steven Musur of Chicago.

The dinner reception for 200 guests was held in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall where Mrs. Muehlfelt received in a turquoise dress and coat ensemble of antique satin with yellow orchid corsage. Mrs. Musur chose a dark rose double-knit dress with matching coat and a pink orchid corsage.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Nassau for eight days and are now making their home in a Des Plaines apartment.

THE "TOP FOUR" will be entertaining in the Top of the Towers Room of the Arlington Park Towers Hotel and Jim Sear.

The Home Line by Dorothy Ritz

If you don't have anything special for your dining table centerpiece for the holiday season there is still time to make colorful — and edible — Christmas trees. Julia Y. gave us the recipe and a teen-ager friend wasted no time making it for us. Beat 5 level tablespoons of butter, 1 cup sugar and 2 eggs until creamy, then cook over low heat until heated through. Add 1½ cups chopped dates and heat for about 10 minutes, watching carefully so the mixture does not stick. Remove from heat and add 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2½ cups Rice Krispies and 1 cup chopped pecans. Mix until cool. Butter hands and shape into cones about 1½ inches high. Roll in green sugar. Then push on some decorative nonpareils if you wish. Cover a silver platter with shredded coconut and set the "trees" in any pattern that suits you. Better keep an eye on busy little fingers or your centerpiece will vanish.

Dear Dorothy: Recently a ballpoint pen went through the washer without being discovered. It opened in the dryer. Everything, of course, was a mess. Tried every method I knew to get the ink off but without much luck as the ink had dried on. Finally used color removers, fabric whiteners and nylon brighteners and lost only two uniforms, which wasn't too bad. Getting off the ink that had baked onto the dryer was even tougher although perseverance won out. We used acetone which is so dangerous if inhaled — especially in a closed space like a dryer. Hope I never have this kind of experience again. —Dodie M.

Dear Dorothy: Can you tell me how to remove spray starch which is stuck to the bottom of my Teflon-coated iron? I've tried just about everything with no luck. —Mrs. George Bendzen

The advantage of a plastic-coated iron is that nothing should be able to stick to it. Readers have reported using a damp cloth sprinkled with baking soda, a stainless steel cleaner, silver polish or the very finest steel wool (0000). One reader used window polish with success and another wiped off the stuff with a soft cloth dipped in a detergent solution which had a little household ammonia in it. If you've used anything harder than the above ingredients, or used too much elbow grease, you've probably taken off the rest. Then you'll be back to an old-fashioned non-Teflon iron (which most of us have).

Dear Dorothy: Last year a friend sent me a cute item to hang on my door during the holiday season. It's simple to make and maybe some of your readers might like to try it. Bend a wire clothes hanger into a circle, cover it with ribbon and holly and tie on candy canes, nuts and suckers. It's not only a gay doorway ornament but especially attractive to young guests who quickly snap off a goodie with the little scissors which hang on the hoop. —Corinne A.

Dear Dorothy: Recently had dinner at my son's and was pleasantly surprised by the simple but elegant hors d'oeuvres served. My daughter-in-law cut 12 pieces of bacon in half and wrapped each piece around a large pimento-stuffed olive, secured by a toothpick. She put them under the broiler about four inches from the flame for about four minutes — until the bacon was brown and crisp. —Mrs. Bert F.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280 Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Santa Gets Aid From Jaycee Wives

This year's Christmas service project for Palatine Jaycee Wives involves the gathering, packing and distribution of toys and clothing to three needy Palatine families.

Mrs. Richard Poppler, service chairman, reports these three families include 15 children, all of whom are fatherless.

In addition to the used clothing and toys from members, each child will receive one new toy and article of clothing from the organization. A Christmas tree will also be donated to each family, compliments of the Palatine Jaycees.

The gifts will be personally delivered to each family by Mrs. Poppler and her committee which consists of Mrs. Hal McCarthy, Mrs. Bill Hibner, Mrs. Dan Zacharski and Mrs. Bob D'Fatta.

Baker May Force Attorney's Resignation

by JERRY THOMAS

Hanover Park Village Pres. Richard Baker is trying to force a resignation from Village Atty. William Davies.

Baker told the Herald Tuesday he has requested Atty. Davies resign because of a "lack of communication."

Davies challenged the president's decision and said if any lack of communication exists, it is on the president's side.

Davies argued that the village trustees don't agree with Baker and said during a meeting held, Tuesday, in Trustee Barry Rogers home four trustees supported his decision not to resign.

Trustee Rogers said he called the meeting of trustees late Tuesday after Baker told him he was contemplating the action.

"I WAS ABSOLUTELY dumbfounded and still don't know why president Baker wants a resignation from Davies, who I think has done an exemplary job for this village, Rogers said.

Rogers said all six trustees were notified by phone of the session, called to discuss the "firing," but the press was not.

Besides Rogers, Trustees Jim Lewis, Louis Barone and the Rev. David Bugh attended. Baker and Davies were also at the meeting.

Rogers insisted Baker could not give a satisfactory explanation for his request for a resignation.

Rogers said Baker told the board he would still try to fire Davies without the boards support and place charges of incompetence if need be.

Trustee Jensen, contacted later, told the Herald he heard of the meeting but argued it was not legal.

"I wouldn't go to a meeting in a trustee's home and it sounded as if the attorney called the meeting," said Jensen. Rogers said he called the meeting but Davies placed the call to Jensen.

JENSEN SAID the message he received said Davies had called his home.

"That's about how he's acted as attorney too," he added. "Davies has assumed too much authority throughout his appointment; it's been one example after another of his overstepping his duties as attorney," Jensen said.

Jensen said he will wait for Baker's reasons for the dismissal before he makes his decision and added "maybe he has a valid reason for firing him.

Trustee Lewis said he agreed with Rogers statement that the request is not justified.

Davies was appointed village attorney when Baker took office in May, 1969. He is also attorney for the Hanover Park Park District, Streamwood Park District and Village of Streamwood.

Village Official Resigns

Mrs. Carol Pierce, Hanover Park village administrative assistant, has resigned her position.

Mrs. Pierce's resignation was announced to The Herald Wednesday.

Village Pres. Richard Baker is expected to read her letter of resignation at tonight's board meeting when he will ask for the resignation of Village Atty. William Davies.

Mrs. Pierce said her resignation is forced by her own decision that "it is the best move for the good of the village and the village board."

She admitted she has faced some village trustees' disapproval since she was appointed to the job by Baker.

"I HAVE ALWAYS done my best and don't understand the criticism," she said.

"Several trustees have argued that they don't know what my duties are, but no one has ever tried to outline them by ordinance," she said.

Baker apparently does not have the full board's support in his request for Davies resignation.

Baker said a lack of communication between himself and the attorney was behind his move to fire him.

Mrs. Pierce has been mentioned by Trustees Barry Rogers and Jim Lewis as "part of the lack of communication" between the president and attorney.

Lewis said that Mrs. Pierce has interpreted ordinances without consulting the attorney.

Davies has argued that Mrs. Pierce has not always left legal interpretation to his decision.

MRS. PIERCE SAID she believes the village needs a full-time administrative assistant but admits the job might be better filled by a man.

"It's been hard for the trustees to accept my role as assistant because I am a woman, but it's a position that must hold some authority and I have always argued for what I believe is the right decision," she maintained.

She admitted to disagreeing with the attorney on several occasions but added that when "he showed me I was wrong I respected his decision."

"My resignation will be effective Jan. 15 unless the board decides otherwise," said Mrs. Pierce. She was appointed administrative assistant last March.

Chino Park Teen Center Site Asked

Acquisition of the Chino Park — Village Hall complex for the development of a teen center in Hoffman Estates has been requested by Frank Alexa, youth commission chairman.

The request was made at the village board meeting Monday.

Alexa said architect's plans for a teen center exist but that a program for development cannot get started until a site is secured.

The Chino Park-Village Hall site on Illinois Blvd. will become available when Hoffman Estates' police department and administrative offices move to a new building on Golf Road in the summer of 1972.

Mayor Frederick Downey told Alexa that the youth commission will be considered when the time comes that the village disposes of the property. "You're always thought of," Downey said.

He added, however, that nobody has given much thought to who will get the Chino Park-Village Hall complex.

The Hoffman Estates Park District is also interested in the Chino Park property, Downey said.

Representatives from the Hoffman Estates Boy's Club also attended Monday's meeting asking for a five or ten year lease on the barn they operate from at the complex.

Boy's Club officials said they will receive a sizable donation if they are assured they will be able to use at the barn site for the next several year.

The Boy's Club current lease expires in two and a half years.

250 DOWN, AND 250 more mittens to sew in time for the Hanover Park Woman's Club and Park District annual Christmas Party planned for Sunday. Woman's Club members

Appoint Park Board Member

Following a 20-minute executive session Tuesday night, William Pichler was appointed to an interim term on the Hoffman Estates Park Board.

Pichler, primarily known in the community for his work with the Hoffman Estates Athletic Assoc., replaces Robert L. Schuhr who resigned his post on the park board last month.

The appointee will serve until the April 4 park board election and will be sworn in as a park commissioner when the board meets on Tues., Jan. 5.

He was chosen from a group of five applicants for the board position including Mrs. Barbara Vidmar, Edwin L. Frank, James Geddes and Rudy Ammer.

In announcing the appointment, Park Pres. Fred Weaver thanked the applicants as a group and said that all would be asked to participate in a number of functioning committees working through the park district.

PICHLER, WHO WAS not present at the meeting due, according to Weaver, to having to attend a once a year function, was the only applicant not in attendance at the Tuesday night park board meeting.

In line with the wishes of the park board, Pichler will be a candidate for election to the balance of Schuhr's term in the April election and has already obtained nominating petitions.

Also expected to be involved in the spring race for three board positions are Mrs. Vidmar, a resident of Winston Knolls which was annexed to the district this week, Frank, Geddes, Ammer, Thomas Barber and William Wermer.

In addition to the two year term which Pichler will seek, two full six-year terms now held by Bernard M. Bartosch and Lyle Button are up for election.

Bartosch also has petitions and will run as an incumbent. He has been a park board member since formation of the district in 1964 and served on the park commission prior to that time.

Button, also an original park board member, will not seek a second term.

$100 Gas Station

Burglary Reported

The theft of $100 in bills and coins from Hugo's Sunoco service station, Higgins and Plum Grove roads, was reported to Schaumburg Village Police at 6:43 a.m. Wednesday.

Hugo Chiripoga, station owner, discovered the break-in when he reported for work. Two windows had been broken and the cash taken. Police found fresh footprints of what appeared to be two adult males along one side of the building.

Resident Elected Society Chaplain

James Robert Waldenmeyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Waldenmeyer, 181 Western St., Hoffman Estates, is chaplain-elect of Pi Kappa Alpha literary society at Bob Jones University, Greenville, S.C. A junior Christian education major, Haldenmeyer is a 1968 graduate of J. B. Conant High School.

Yule Surprises For Moms And Dads, Too!

While Mom and Dad are haunting toy departments in local stores searching for tap-dancing dolls or model supersonic jets, children in Dist. 54 elementary schools are preparing some Christmas surprises of their own.

Parents may receive gaily decorated candle sticks, ceramic pins or tie clips, Christmas trees made from painted spaghetti, wall plaques, wreaths, soap carvings made like Bibles or any one of a multitude of presents hand-crafted by their children. The youngsters are being secretive about their creations, but some school officials have seen the projects, and say they are impressed.

Christmas preparations of all kinds are under way in Dist. 54 schools. Holiday programs, either in concert or dramatic form, have been or will be presented in each building. Trees have sprouted in lobbies and classrooms, and ornaments made by the children have found their places trimming the limbs.

Between now and Tuesday afternoon, when schools will close for the holidays, Santa Claus will visit many classes, passing out candy canes or other favors to flavor Christmas cheer.

THE YOUNGSTERS OF Francis Campanelli School will entertain each other Friday, with an in-school assembly. Monday the children will split into two groups to hear the voices of the Schaumburg High School Choir.

Parents are invited to Thomas Dooley School Tuesday for a presentation by the chorus and plays by different grades. Parents of first, second or third grade children will go at 10 a.m., while those with older youngsters will see the show at 2 p.m. Santa will make the rounds of classrooms starting at 1 p.m. that day, distributing striped canes purchased by the PTA. At 3 p.m. individual classes will hold their own parties.

The Fairview School Winter Holiday program went on stage Tuesday night, offering parents a performance by the chorus and other children. Monday Santa will visit classrooms for parties with ice cream, cookies and candy.

WHILE SANTA WILL not pay a visit to Ann Fox School, he is sending as an emissary Freddie Fredericks, a magician who will perform in assemblies at 10 and 11 a.m. Tuesday. Programs for parents are being held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday this week, with different rooms participating each evening. Class trees have been provided by the PTA.

Festivities started earlier at Blackhawk School, where a PTA program and school sing were held on schedule Tuesday. Next Tuesday parties will be held in each room.

Nathan Hale youngsters gave their PTA program Wednesday night, with the fifth and sixth grade chorus taking the star role. The children's program will be Tuesday, with Santa bringing candy canes to all youngsters. Class parties and trees were left to the discretion of individual teachers. The youngsters have been working for their school in observance of Christmas, supporting a drive for used books for the library. Some classes have taken field trips to Chicago museums or to view store window decorations in the Loop.

MOTHERS AND FATHERS of Hanover Highlands School children are invited to a program at 8 p.m. Monday, while the youngsters will reap their Christmas joys the following afternoon in class parties. The children have thought not only of themselves this year. They held an independent canned goods collection, and school officials will arrange for distribution of the goods to needy families in the area.

Programs for parents of Hillcrest children were planned for Thursday and Friday mornings this week, and the fifth and sixth grade chorus will perform for the PTA at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. While there are to be no room parties, each class has decorated a tree furnished by the PTA. The children made their own ornaments.

SANTA IS TRYING to arrange a visit to Hoffman School Tuesday, when parties will be in progress in classes. Programs there were held Dec. 7 and 8. Party treats are to be furnished by the PTA. Christmas songfests will open at 9:15 and 10:30 a.m. Friday in Lakeview School, when each grade will serenade all other students with Christmas tunes. The youngsters have built a mock-up fireplace in the lobby, and decorated a tree nearby, to give the school a feeling of home. Some classes are having parties, depending on their teachers, and some attended a showing of "A Christmas Carol" at a local theater. A program was given for parents Dec. 8.

DOUGLAS MACARTHUR School is giving a parents' program at 8 p.m. Thursday, when the fifth and sixth grade chorus and the PTA choral group are to perform. Outside talent will be on stage for an assembly Tuesday, and Santa will be among the guests. One group of sixth graders has taken its holiday goodwill outside of school, and sang carols at a local home for the aged.

About 1,500 persons, Schaumburg School children and their parents, last week attended presentations of a play, "Santas from Many Lands." In-school carolling will be Tuesday, and room parties will start 44 minutes before school closes that day. Santa might be on hand.

WHILE MOST OF THE Christmas preparations have been limited to elementary schools, junior highs have gotten into the holiday spirit with some projects of their own.

At Robert Frost, pupils have collected canned goods for distribution to disadvantaged families by the Schaumburg Woman's Club. At last count, 5,000 cans had been donated, and more were coming in. Last year, the first attempt at the food collection netted only 1,500 cans. The pupils also are holding an informal dance, with proceeds to go to charity. A dress-up dance will run from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Friday, with music by the American Revolution. A concert for parents was held Tuesday night.

The band and chorus of Helen Keller Jr. High will perform for parents at 8 p.m. Monday in a Winter Concert. Pupils will hear the same concert in an assembly Tuesday. Student there have been collecting toys to turn over to township Girl Scouts for distribution to foster children.

Farm Fading, 'Quiet Man' Is Remembered

by JUDY BRANDES

People who know Dan Bergman say he is a quiet man.

His family has owned a 178-acre farm on Algonquin Road since 1887. Dan and his father, Dan Sr., used to haul milk to market in Palatine back at the turn of the century.

Now he and his son Harold work the farm. Harold and his family, as well as Dan's daughter Irene, live in the family house at 2150 Algonquin Rd.

"This house was built when I was seven years old," Bergman said. "I was born in the first home, just east of here."

The large family dining room is decorated with one wall paper pattern on three walls, a different one on the fourth. "That's the way they used to do things. You see, we've also got the tile around the lower part."

A DESK, A SEWING machine, and an expandable table fill the room now. "I was married in this very room on Thanksgiving night," he said. His wife died in 1954.

Through the front window you can see the sign on the barn across the road: "Highland Dairy Farm."

"We haven't had any cows on the farm for five years. The forest preserve bought the 140 acres across the road in 1965. We've been allowed to farm it until this year, but next year the preserve wants to have it."

Dan and Harold Bergman will still have the 38 acres on the north side of Algonquin. They will have to move the well off the forest preserve property where it has been for almost a hundred years. The farm is in Hoffman Estates, but water and sewer lines haven't been installed yet.

"We'll farm the north side like we've always done, usually planting corn and beans," said Dan.

WHEN THE FOREST preserve bought the Bergman land on the south side of Algonquin, the school house which Dan and his children attended was torn down.

"That was the Dist. 18 school house. We held out from consolidation because we liked having the school so near."

In 1936, elementary school districts in Palatine Township joined to form Community Consolidated Dist. 15, but Dist. 18 did not join the township district until 1958.

"I got my eighth grade diploma from that school, the Highland Grove School. That was the only education I got. After that I worked as a road engineer in the township for six years and then in 1920 I started farming with my dad."

Dan Bergman says he had no contact with high schools until 1921 when a friend, Fred Rohde, died. "I was attending his funeral down the road at St. John's (United Church of Christ) when Tom Hart and George Butler stopped me outside the door and told me they had picked me to take Fred's place on the high school board."

HART WAS PRESIDENT of the Palatine High School board of education and Butler was principal.

Bergman served for 25 years on the High School Dist. 211 board, the first member to serve continuously for so long. He was never board president or secretary.

"They always had someone qualified to be president and I only had an eighth grade diploma, so I didn't want to be out in the public eye."

Dan remembers Billy Fremd, "a smart boy who was one of the top graduates of the school." William Fremd, for whom the high school is named, joined Bergman on the high school board in 1938, after graduating from Palatine High School in 1920.

Tonight, Fremd and the present Dist. 211 board will give official "thanks" to Bergman for his long service on the board.

"I don't know as I deserve all this. They tried to balance the board with three farmers and four from the village. I ran every year and was never opposed," he said.

BERGMAN RETIRED from the board in 1946. He had served during the difficult years of the 1920's when the voters rejected a referendum to build a new high school, the present Palatine High, three times; the depression, when the board had to cut salaries 10 per cent; and the 1940's, when discussions of adding Schaumburg Township to the school district were prominent. Schaumburg was finally added in 1953, after Bergman left the board.

As a farmer, Bergman was interested in agricultural vocational education, and supported implementing vocational programs in the high school curriculum.

"I don't really want to talk much about the issues. It might bring up some old feelings in people. Let's just say I was a board member."

Bergman "retired" from the board in 1946 when he was 65: "But I didn't retire from farming. I still farm. In fact, today we got the last of the crops in."

Today was also his 89th birthday: "I don't like people to make too much fuss over me. I usually go visiting with friends or relatives, but today I thought I'd stay home. I like my quiet life."

HIGHLAND SCHOOL, an elementary school which eventually joined Elementary Dist. 15, was located on the Highland Dairy Farm on Algonquin

Road. The farm has been owned by the Bergman family for more than 100 years. Dan Bergman, who received his eighth grade diploma from the school, served on the Dist. 211 board 25 years.

Winston Knolls Joins Dist.

Winston Knolls subdivision officially became part of Hoffman Estates Park District Tuesday ending nearly one year of negotiations.

An ordinance annexing the subdivision, which was within the confines of the village of Hoffman Estates but not the park district until this week, was approved by board members.

The area was disconnected from Palatine Rural Park District on Oct. 26 but legal documents were not filed with Cook County Clerk Edward J. Barrett until last week.

Although Hoffman Estates Park District was prepared to immediately annex the territory, the legal delay prevented board action and kept the area temporarily in limbo.

In line with the annexation, the park district will receive between 20 and 25 acres of land from Centex-Winston Corp. as a donation for development for recreational purposes.

NOW THAT the subdivision has become a part of the park district recreational services will be immediately extended to its residents in line with park policy.

Several buildings, now being used by the developer are expected to be vacated next fall, and turned over to the park district.

The agreement, written by the village plan commission, of which Park Pres. Fred Weaver is a member, also provides that the builder will donate land and a residence to be built at builders cost to the park district.

Originally the park board planned to provide housing for its director of parks and recreation, a post now temporarily held by Mrs. Anne M. Schuerings, a resident of the village.

AT THE TIME that portion of the agreement was prepared, the park district employed a professional director, Vaughn R. Black.

When Black resigned last summer the post was given to Mrs. Schuerings on an "acting" basis and board members have not yet decided to keep her permanently in that position or recruit for a professional director.

According to Weaver, the board will be faced with making a decision soon on whether to eliminate the residence agreement.

Lands being given the park district by Centex-Winston will be graded and seeded by the builder who will also plant a number of trees on the property.

Although the park district will extend recreational programs and services to Winston Knolls and make minor park improvements development of baseball diamonds and other areas for physical activities will not come until next spring.

NOW THAT the area is in the district, park board members are expected to begin negotiating for a park-school lease agreement with Dist. 15.

Other areas of the park district are in Dist. 54 and limited to Schaumburg Township, however, the newest territory is in Palatine Township.

Annexation proceedings began nearly one year ago but were delayed due to residents decision to pursue a study which led to investigation of possible alignment with other park districts, formation of their own independent district or remaining in the rural district which is inactive as a recreational body.

On recommendation of representatives of Winston Knolls Home Owners Association, residents agreed to join the Hoffman Estates district and annexation proceedings were picked up early this fall.

IN 1924, THE PALATINE high school board of education met on Tuesday nights in the present Joel Wood School. Board members were, standing, from the left,

A 3-Foot Card! Pity Poor Mailman

by DOUG RAY

Mail carriers may have to enlarge their mail sacks this year, as Christmas cards have taken many unusual forms. An unfortunate postman somewhere will be delivering a three-foot Christmas card.

"We produce a three-foot Santa Claus Christmas card and it sells very well," according to Ed Letwenko, creative director of United Card Co. Inc. in Rolling Meadows.

"Our Christmas cards are contemporary," according to Letwenko. What is a contemporary Christmas card? "It's a Christmas greeting with a smile," Letwenko said.

THE CONTEMPORARY card business began only about 20 years ago, according to officials at United.

"The first cards produced were called studio cards and were much longer than wide. The market has grown steadily and contemporary cards make up about 20 per cent of the total greeting card market. Christmas cards comprise about 5 per cent of the contemporary market, officials said.

A contemporary Christmas card can be made humorous in a number of ways. "Some Christmas cards are classified as contemporary because they send a humorous greeting or message. Others might be given a contemporary classification because of their unusual size or shape, Letwenko said.

SOME OF THE cards produced by the company for this year's Christmas market have washcloth and even wallpaper backgrounds.

The company formulates ideas about a year in advance of holidays. The creative department is now developing ideas for 1971 Christmas cards.

Though some of the ideas for Christmas cards come from the company's creative department, most ideas are submitted by free lance writers. If the writer sends an idea that can be used by the company, he is paid by the firm.

The process of polishing the ideas submitted by free lance writers is the job of the creative department.

"RIGHT NOW A large part of our market is made up of persons under 25 years of age," according to United Sales Manager Dick Prybell. Prybell believes the market will continue to expand as these young people grow older and more youths enter the market. "About half of the country is under 25 years old now," Prybell said.

Servicemen receive many of the contemporary cards, according to Prybell.

The firm many times takes traditional Christmas characters, such as Santa Claus, reindeer, and even elves and adds a humorous touch to make them "contemporary."

What is planned for next Christmas? "We aren't sure, but we are always looking for something funny," Letwenko said.

If this is the case, the postman probably won't be laughing, if he has to deliver a four or five-foot cardboard Santa next year.

Teenage Generation Film To Be Shown

"Happiness Ended Last October," a surrealistic art film on the teenage generation produced by Elk Grove High School instructors, will be shown at the school beginning at 7:30 p.m. today.

Students and former students provide the acting in the film, made by James Walker, art instructor, and Joseph Pendergast, film study instructor.

Other showings, $1.25 each, will be tomorrow at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The show is open to the public.

The film, which was a year in the making, is the third one which Walker has made. He is a surrealist painter.

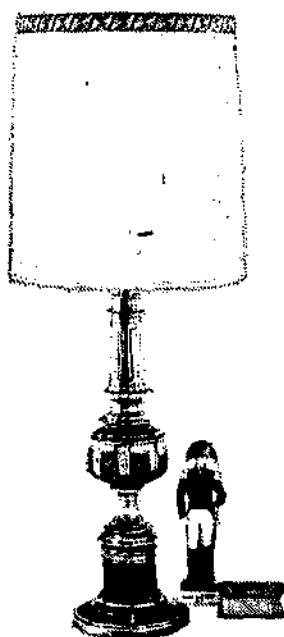

A THREE FOOT Christmas card is only one of the many "contemporary" cards produced at United Card Co. in Rolling Meadows. Mrs. Roger Hintz, an employee of the firm, sizes up the card.

Students at Fremd High School, Palatine, will be asked by their student council representatives to build a school in a foreign country. If they agree, they'll be taking part in the Peace Corps School Partnership Program.

Paul Mack, Midwest representative of the Peace Corps, explained the program to council members yesterday. Should the students decide to build the school, they would have to collect $1,200, Mack said.

If reaction to the proposal is favorable, council members will call a school-wide meeting in February to vote for or against the proposal. If they vote in favor of building a school with the Peace Corps, a fund-raising drive will be started.

The idea for Fremd students getting involved with a Peace Corp program originated with Candy Jacobsen, chairman of the council's services committee.

MACK, WHO JUST returned from Brazil four months ago, served with the Peace Corps for two years. At yesterday's meeting he explained terms of the agreement.

Local residents of the area where the school is to be built would become partners of Fremd students, Mack said. The $1,200 Fremd would donate would pay for three quarters of the school's building materials. The local residents would donate the other quarter of the funds and would supply the labor.

Mack pointed out that the schools are generally built in rural areas. The farmers often build the school themselves with the help of a professional bricklayer.

"It takes about 60 days for them to build a school," Mack said.

He said that even though the farmers grow only enough food on their land to feed themselves and their families, they still take time off from farming to build the school.

MACK HELPED IN five school building projects while he was with the Peace Corps in Brazil. In one case, it was bean harvesting season, but the farmers helped build the school rather than harvest beans.

Entire families of farmers help build the school, Mack said. While the fathers do the heavy work and their children help in small ways, the mothers make meals for all the workers.

"Children take great pride in their school," Mack said. "They would not think of damaging the school building because they may have carried bricks to help build it."

If Fremd can raise $1,200 to build a school, the money would be sent to the Peace Corps in Washington, he explained. It would stay there about a week.

By then, a request for funds to build a school would come in from a Peace Corps field representative. The money would be forwarded.

AFTER THE SCHOOL is built, the local people would exchange a picture of the school along with data about their community with Fremd. Fremd alone would financially assist the local people in building their school, Mack said.

Mack presented a dozen slides showing how a school in Ohio helped a Brazilian village build a new school. The slides illustrated the steps villagers went through in building a modern school to replace their old wooden school which had a thatched roof.

About 1,500 American schools, churches, 4-H Clubs, teacher's groups and other organizations have taken part in the program already, he said.

Council members will now take what they learned from Mack and present it to their classes before the February all-school meeting.

New Interchange Now Open

by ROBERT A. LAHEY

Thousands of Tollway travelers using the spanking new Arlington Heights Road Interchange today will be driving on pavement which was nearly 10 years in the cement mixer.

The interchange was opened to traffic shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie snipped a red ribbon, the last obstacle holding back the horde of commuter cars.

The road will provide access to the Northwest Tollway to eastbound motorists from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows, and an exit for westbound autos.

Ogilvie cited a 1968 consultant's report which estimated the new facility will generate an additional 300,000 Tollway trips in its first year. According to this estimate, the interchange will earn back its initial cost in 10 years, the governor said.

"WE CAN ESTIMATE that this interchange will save a bare minimum of 1,000 man-hours a day in traveling time for the residents of this area," he said.

On hand for the opening ceremonies were many of those who waged the construction campaign which began in 1961.

They included Dr. Carl F. Mees of Arlington Heights and Neil Cooney of Elk Grove Village, co-chairmen of the Toll-way Access Committee, which originated the campaign.

Mees introduced members of the committee and Robert Greenaway, an Illinois Toll Highway Authority commissioner, who told about 200 spectators gathered in a soggy snowfall:

"This facility will add another important factor to the growth of your area, which has been fantastic."

Ogilvie SECONDED that thought, saying the interchange signifies recognition by the authority of the past growth of the Northwest suburbs. "It will itself serve to promote that development during the years to come," he added.

He called the interchange "only one small cog" in the entire tollway system. "But it is a vital one," he said, "located as it is in the very heart of Cook County's most rapidly growing area, astride this artery so indispensable to the daily lives of tens of thousands of commuters."

"Only time will tell if the projections for the importance of this facility are correct. If past experience is any guide, we probably will find them conservative."

Ogilvie also called it a "safe guess" that the interchange will contribute to adding thousands of dollars to the tax rolls in surrounding communities.

ALSO ON THE platform with Ogilvie and local officials from the three communities were state senators John A. Graham, R-Barrington, and John W. Charroll, R-Oak Park; and state representatives Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mt. Prospect. State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, was in Washington.

Ogilvie and his party drove to Arlington Heights from Chicago where he had announced opening of bids for sale of $135 million in bonds to finance the extension of the East-West Tollway from Aurora to Rock Falls.

Rob Station Attendant At Knife Point

Two men, one of them armed with a knife, beat a service station attendant yesterday and escaped with $200 in cash from the Clark Service Station at Hintz and Elmhurst roads, near Wheeling.

The two men, in their early 20s, fled the station in a dark-colored car driven by a third man, according to Cook County Sheriff's Police.

The station attendant, Walter Bjornson, 18, Wheeling, told police that one man held a knife at the back of his neck and told him not to move while a second man searched the station for money.

The two men tied Bjornson's hands with a necktie and put a shirt over his head before leaving. They told him not to move for 10 minutes.

Bjornson summoned police by stopping a passing motorist after he managed to leave the station.

The motorist flagged down a Wheeling police car. Wheeling police called County Police to the scene.

Bjornson told the Herald that the two men jumped him in the station at about 3 a.m. He said three of his teeth were knocked out, and his eye was blackened.

Bjornson said the money was taken from a cabinet in the station's safe.

No O'Hare Growth 'Till '72?

Plans by Chicago to use the military side of O'Hare Airport for expansion probably will not be resolved until 1972 when a new national administration comes in, J. Patrick Dunne, airport manager, said Tuesday.

Dunne, who spoke to a meeting of the Des Plaines Kiwanis Club, said Chicago's airport authority has been unsuccessful in its efforts to relocate Air Force reserve units stationed on the military side at the northeast corner.

He said the airport authority may be unable to get cooperation from the Defense Department "until 1972 when a new administration comes in," indicating that Chicago officials don't feel President Nixon will be reelected to a second term. The City of Chicago reportedly has asked for at least 100 of the more than 350 acres of land occupied by the 91st Air Force Reserve Unit, the 928th Troop Carrier group and other military facilities.

ACCORDING TO Cong. Harold R. Collier (R-10), Chicago plans to build an additional five runways if it can acquire the 100 acres. Collier has said he will try to block any expansion and has opposed relocation of the military units.

Dunne defended growth of O'Hare and said hearings on airport expansion held recently by a state senate subcommittee were "strictly political."

At those hearings, officials from several area suburbs called for a halt to growth of O'Hare and demanded that Chicago release details of its plans for the airport.

Some of the subcommittee members were defeated in their bids for reelection Nov. 3, Dunne told the Kiwanians with a smile, referring to Arthur Swanson and Walter Duda, former Republican state senators from Chicago.

"We want to be good neighbors. We think we've had something to do with the economy of the neighborhood," said

Dunne, who cited the tremendous growth of the northwest suburban area since completion of O'Hare.

LAND PRICES have gone from $400 an acre in the 1950's to $100,000 an acre for O'Hare area land, Dunne said, and most nearby suburbs have increased their population by at least 50 or 60 per cent since the airport opened.

"If they think this just happened and this place (O'Hare) didn't have anything to do with it, they're nutty as a fruitcake," Dunne said of airport expansion critics from this area.

Construction of O'Hare, which Dunne said is both the world's largest and busiest airport, was publicized worldwide and its subsequent growth has not been hidden from area residents.

"It wasn't any secret," he said. "That would be like hiding a bass drum in a closet. We didn't try to hide it. We were proud of it."

Chicago officials have been criticized for not giving adequate notice of a 1969 Chicago Plan Commission hearing on plans for airport expansion.

DUNNE SAID the airport will increase its number of arrival-departure gates from 70 to 115 and provide room for expansion of international flight terminal facilities.

Despite federally imposed delays, so outgoing passengers can be searched for weapons to prevent hijackings and arriving passengers can be searched for smuggled drugs, international traffic is up 17 per cent, he said.

For the first 10 months of this year, Dunne said, air traffic at O'Hare is down six per cent compared to 1969. He blamed the decline on a severe winter last year, the air traffic controllers strike and current economic conditions.

They'll Get A Post Holiday Break

The Wheeling post office will reduce service during the Christmas and New Year holidays.

On Christmas day and New Year's day, the post office, which serves both Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, will be closed and there will be no collection of mail. Only special delivery mail will be delivered on the two days.

The post office, located at 277 E. Dundee Rd., Wheeling, will close early on Christmas eve and New Year's eve. The hours on those days will be 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Mail will be collected on Dec. 26, but there will be no deliveries, except special delivery, and the post office will be closed to all except persons holding lock boxes.

On Jan. 2, mail will be delivered and collected, but the post office will again be closed, except for lock box service.

Normal hours at the post office are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Village Hires Engineer Firm

A contract with the engineering firm of Greeley and Hanson of Chicago, has been entered into by the Village of Hoffman Estates.

The village board hired the firm this week to design and supervise the additional water facilities to be developed in Hoffman Estates.

"With the large amount of additional construction and with the new water system additions coming in it was felt we should employ another firm for these engineering functions," Mayor Frederick Downey said.

"Greeley and Hanson have wide experience in suburban water facility construction," he added. They will be paid according to standard chart of fees charged by engineers, he added.

Water for the Klehm shopping center at Bode and Barrington Roads was also an item of concern for the village board Monday.

Arrangements are being negotiated so the 10 acre center, to be located at the south west corner, will be provided with water from Streamwood.

The bonding ordinance covering Hoffman Estates water system, prohibits a competing system to operate inside the village limits.

ATTORNEY EDWARD HOFERT suggested a letter be written to Streamwood officials stating that terms be worked out so that Hoffman Estates will buy the water from Streamwood and sell it to Klehm.

The 7-Eleven store originally planned for Klehm's shopping center has been canceled, officials said.

The only structure now to be definitely built on the site is a Marathon Oil Co. service station.

Members of the Hoffman Estates judiciary committee, spent much time helping to develop a land plan to include the 7-Eleven store. They were dismayed that the facility's development has been canceled.

"A lesson has been learned that we'll never forget," said Trustee Bruce Lind.

Battery Charge Is Dismissed

A charge of battery against an Elk Grove Village man was dismissed last month by Magistrate Martin Luker in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

Gerald Hamel, of 618 Grosvenor, was found innocent of striking Kenneth P. Serzen, a Commonwealth Edison Co. employee, who turned off the electricity at the Hamel residence because of an alleged unpaid bill last October.

TODD MATTHEISSEN keeps the mail moving as the season in its new building at 277 E. Dundee Rd. Lines Wheeling Post Office experiences its first Christmas were shorter this year because of the larger building.

Office 'Snowed' — Inside

The Wheeling Post Office has had traffic jams this year, but at least this Christmas season patrons have not been forced to wait outside.

Last year, when the post office, which serves Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, was in a rented store front in the Wheeling Shopping Center, the Christmas lines stretched out the front door and into the cold.

This year, the post office has its own building at 277 E. Dundee Rd., Wheeling, and while business is brisker than ever, everyone manages to get inside.

"We now have four windows, instead of the three we had in the old building," Postmaster Edward Swan said, "and the lobby is large enough to hold lines."

Swan said that last Monday the post office handled more mail than on any other day in its history — 47,000 letters and cards and about 240 packages.

The peak day last year saw just under 40,000 cards and letters handled by the post office.

THE BIG PROBLEM this year, according to Swan, is traffic jams on Dundee Road in front of the post office. "We have two entrances but only one exit and everyone tries to get out at once," he said.

To help prevent future traffic jams, Swan said that he will ask the Village of Wheeling to allow post office employees to park at the village municipal building across the street from the post office.

"That way there would be more space for our patrons to park," he said.

The post office will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. On Saturday, it will be open from 8:30 a.m. until noon.

"We'll have a slow close on Saturday," Swan said. "If people are in the lobby we'll still service them even after noon."

A 3-Foot Card! Pity Poor Mailman

by DOUG RAY

Mail carriers may have to enlarge their mail sacks this year, as Christmas cards have taken many unusual forms.

An unfortunate postman somewhere will be delivering a three-foot Christmas card.

"We produce a three-foot Santa Claus Christmas card and it sells very well," according to Ed Letwenko, creative director of United Card Co. Inc. in Rolling Meadows.

"Our Christmas cards are contemporary," according to Letwenko. What is a contemporary Christmas card? "It's a Christmas greeting with a smile," Letwenko said.

THE CONTEMPORARY card business began only about 20 years ago, according to officials at United.

"The first cards produced were called studio cards and were much longer than wide. The market has grown steadily and contemporary cards make up about 20 per cent of the total greeting card market. Christmas cards comprise about 5 per cent of the contemporary market, officials said.

A contemporary Christmas card can be made humorous in a number of ways. "Some Christmas cards are classified as contemporary because they send a humorous greeting or message. Others might be given a contemporary classification because of their unusual size or shape, Letwenko said.

SOME OF THE cards produced by the company for this year's Christmas market have washcloth and even wallpaper backgrounds.

The company formulates ideas about a year in advance of holidays. The creative department is now developing ideas for 1971 Christmas cards.

Though some of the ideas for Christmas cards come from the company's creative department, most ideas are submitted by free lance writers. If the writer sends an idea that can be used by the company, he is paid by the firm.

The process of polishing the ideas submitted by free lance writers is the job of the creative department.

"RIGHT NOW A large part of our market is made up of persons under 25 years of age," according to United Sales Manager Dick Prybell. Prybell believes the market will continue to expand as these young people grow older and more youths enter the market. "About half of the country is under 25 years old now," Prybell said.

Servicemen receive many of the contemporary cards, according to Prybell.

The firm many times takes traditional Christmas characters, such as Santa Claus, reindeer, and even elves and adds a humorous touch to make them "contemporary."

What is planned for next Christmas? "We aren't sure, but we are always looking for something funny," Letwenko said.

If this is the case, the postman probably won't be laughing, if he has to deliver a four or five-foot cardboard Santa next year.

Townhouse Plan Denied By Board

A proposal for a 61-acre townhouse and apartment development south of Wheeling's Meadowbrook West area was denied rezoning approval Tuesday by Wheeling's Zoning Board of Appeals.

The development would have faced Hintz Road and run as far north as Meadowbrook West. Plans called for 576 apartments and 305 townhouses to be built on the property.

More than 2,000 people would live in the proposed complex, developers' representatives testified.

Currently the property is zoned for multifamily residential use which would allow townhouse and apartment development.

The property owners were seeking a rezoning to planned development zoning, however, which would have allowed the development to have a more varied design.

Douglas Cargill, zoning board chairman, pointed out that granting the rezoning would allow the maximum building height of four stories or 40 feet while the R-4 zoning currently on the property has a limit of three stories or 35 feet.

CARGILL SAID during the board deliberations, he was concerned that the developers did not say whether the proposed building heights would be acceptable to the Federal Aviation Administration or by Pal-Waukee Airport officials.

The development would be approximately 2,000 feet from the end of the airport's jet runway, an architect testified Tuesday night.

Another reason cited by the board members for their recommendation included the fact of a 17-acre school-park site designation on the property has not been negotiated between the developers, school and park districts, potential traffic loads from the subdivision were also cited.

The board members mentioned the developer's drainage plans were inadequately researched since no meetings had been held with the Illinois Division of Waterways or the Wheeling Drainage District.

The Wheeling Drainage District runs through the proposed development.

THE BOARD MEMBERS also said the developers had not planned adequately for roadways, and because of those errors, had inaccurately computed the number of units allowed.

One member of the zoning board, Alan Martin, voted against denying the rezoning request.

A final decision on the proposal will be made by the village board.

The proposed plan was presented by Atty. Ray W. Fick and architect Salvatore Balsamo.

They testified the development would have a street connecting to Carpenter avenue as well as an exit to Hintz Road.

The southern portion of the development would consist of townhouses while two and four-story apartment buildings would be built in the rear of the property.

Recreational facilities such as a swimming pool, detention basin lake, and carports were proposed.

Half of the townhouses would be two-bedroom and half would be three-bedroom. Forty per cent of the apartments would be one-bedroom and 60 per cent would be two-bedroom.

There would be 6 four-story apartment buildings and 34 two-story apartment buildings.

Rob Station Attendant At Knife Point

Two men, one of them armed with a knife, beat a service station attendant yesterday and escaped with $200 in cash from the Clark Service Station at Hintz and Elmhurst roads, near Wheeling.

The two men, in their early 20s, fled the station in a dark-colored car driven by a third man, according to Cook County Sheriff's Police.

The station attendant, Walter Bjornson, 18, Wheeling, told police that one man held a knife at the back of his neck and told him not to move while a second man searched the station for money.

The two men tied Bjornson's hands with a necktie and put a shirt over his head before leaving. They told him not to move for 10 minutes.

Bjornson summoned police by stepping a passing motorist after he managed to leave the station.

The motorist flagged down a Wheeling police car. Wheeling police called County Police to the scene.

Bjornson told the Herald that the two men jumped him in the station at about 3 a.m. He said three of his teeth were knocked out, and his eye was blackened.

Bjornson said the money was taken from a cabinet in the station's safe.

Registration Of Voters Is Open

Voter registration opens today at the Wheeling village clerk's office and will continue through Jan. 19.

Village Clerk Evelyn Diens said that unregistered persons planning to vote in village and park district elections in April must register by Jan. 19 if they intend to register locally.

Village offices will not be open again for new registration of voters until April 26.

Voters who do not register before that date will be forced to register at Wheeling Township offices in Arlington Heights or at the County Clerk's office in Chicago, she said.

Mrs. Diens said that the registration dates do not apply for voters registering to vote in the April 10 school district elections.

She reminded residents that voters who are already registered need not reregister.

Persons from age 18 to 21 may file for registrations at the clerk's office, but will not receive actual voter registration cards until a decision is reached on the legality of the 18-year-old vote.

Problems with sanitary sewer permits for the Sandpebble Walk development in southern Wheeling are a direct result of the village of Wheeling ignoring requests for cooperation with the Old Town Sanitary District (OTSD) of Prospect Heights, according to the district's superintendent.

Richard Schuld, OTSD superintendent, told the Herald that his district sent repeated letters to the village explaining the necessity of developers applying for sewer permits to the OTSD. However, he said, the village issued building permits for the development even though no permits had been applied for with the OTSD.

Schuld's comments were in response to a Wheeling village board discussion Monday of the fact that the metropolitan sanitary district had, on the recommendation of the OTSD, stopped sanitary sewer hook-on permits for the development on Palatine Road near Wheeling Road.

WHEELING OFFICIALS were irate that the OTSD was concerning itself with a development in the village limits.

They implied that the OTSD was trying to assess the developer high prices to hook his sewer into an MSD interceptor and that the OTSD was planning to stop all development in southern Wheeling by restricting sewer permits.

Schuld said the village had been notified by his office repeatedly that the OTSD had jurisdiction in the area even though the property had been annexed to the village.

He said the drainage code in state statutes provides that if a village annexes an area already included in an independent sanitary district, "the sanitary district shall remain responsible for providing sewers and collecting and disposing of the sewage."

Explaining that his attempts to meet with the developers of the project and with village officials have failed, Schuld said, "Now all of a sudden they're crying like a bunch of children. The Village of Wheeling has consistently been remarkably good at not wanting to work with us on water problems in this area."

SCHULD SAID the village has not acted to inform the district of annexations in the area despite requests by the OTSD that it do so.

He said that in July he had written to the village president and board of trustees and to the acting manager and planning director for the village introducing himself and enclosing a map of the sanitary district.

The letter explained that he understood the village was considering annexing or had annexed certain property within his district and that he wanted the village to understand that the developers would need to apply for and receive sewer permits and flood control program approval from the OTSD before beginning to build.

A similar letter had been sent a year ago. He received no reply to either one Schuld said.

HE SAID THAT on Aug. 19 he wrote to the village again asking if the village was requiring developers to comply with OTSD ordinances before giving them building permits.

Schuld said a letter of response from village Atty. Paul Hamer had assured him that the village would not issue building permits for any projects in the district until it was satisfied that the necessary OTSD permits had been issued.

Schuld said that in March he had corresponded with the builders of Sandpebble Walk and had met with them. He said the developers had been aware that the project was in the OTSD and that he had told them repeatedly that since it was in the district the OTSD would provide sanitary sewers for the project.

SINCE THAT time he has called the developer and the village repeatedly and has been unable to get an appointment, Schuld said.

How Area Voted On Constitution

Here are unofficial results of Tuesday's constitutional referendum voting in Wheeling Township, with 74 of 89 precincts reporting.

—For the Constitution: Yes, 17,413; No, 4,894.

Proposition 1
—For cumulative voting: 8,386.
—For single member districts: 9,473.
Proposition 2

—For election of judges: 4,515.
—For appointment of judges: 13,468.

Proposition 3
—For abolition of the death penalty: 6,798.
—For retention of the death penalty: 11,175.

Proposition 4
—For a lower voting age: 9,200.
—For a 21-year-old vote: 8,902.

He said that recently after informing village officials and the developer about the need for the OTSD permits he had again called the MSD and explained the OTSD jurisdiction over the property. The MSD had then refused permits for the development based on his recommendation," Schuld said. Building has begun on the project without OTSD permits.

Schuld denied an accusation by the village zoning administrator that the OTSD had recommended septic tank and well systems for the development.

He said his district operates on the basis of a relatively high tap-on fee to avoid reassessing sanitary sewer users at a later date.

HE SAID ANOTHER proposed development, the Swan Lake project on Wheeling road near St. Alphonsus Church, also lies within the OTSD.

"We have a moral obligation to the bondholders of our district to control sanitary sewer hook-ons in our area," Schuld explained. He said the OTSD would have to approve plans for the sewer system and drainage before any sewer pipe could be laid on the project.

He said the OTSD attorney was currently attempting to contact the village and the developer for a meeting on the matter.

DESPITE SNOW AND COLD weather, more than 800 persons waited in line last Friday night for the second moonlight sale to be held at the Sears Roebuck and Co. catalogue outlet store in the Dundee Shopping Center on Dundee Road in Wheeling. Off-duty Wheeling policemen helped control the crowds. Store officials said the sale attracted 3,000 shoppers.

New Interchange Now Open

Thousands of Tollway travelers using the spanking new Arlington Heights Road interchange today will be driving on pavement which was nearly 10 years in the cement mixer.

The interchange was opened to traffic shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie snipped a red ribbon, the last obstacle holding back the horde of commuter cars.

The road will provide access to the Northwest Tollway to eastbound motorists from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows, and an exit for westbound autos.

Ogilvie cited a 1968 consultant's report which estimated the new facility will generate an additional 300,000 Tollway trips in its first year. According to this estimate, the interchange will earn back its initial cost in 10 years, the governor said.

"WE CAN ESTIMATE that this interchange will save a bare minimum of 1,000 man-hours a day in traveling time for the residents of this area," he said.

On hand for the opening ceremonies were many of those who waged the construction campaign which began in 1961. They included Dr. Carl F. Mees of Arlington Heights and Neil Cooney of Elk Grove Village, co-chairmen of the Tollway Access Committee, which originated the campaign.

Mees introduced members of the committee and Robert Greenaway, an Illinois Toll Highway Authority commissioner, who told about 200 spectators gathered in a soggy snowfall.

"This facility will add another important factor to the growth of your area, which has been fantastic," he added.

Ogilvie SECONDED that thought, saying the interchange signifies recognition by the authority of the past growth of the Northwest suburbs. "It will itself serve to promote that development during the years to come," he added.

He called the interchange "only one small cog" in the entire tollway system. "But it is a vital one," he said, "located as it is in the very heart of Cook County's most rapidly growing area, astride this artery so indispensable to the daily lives of tens of thousands of commuters.

"Only time will tell if the projections for the importance of this facility are correct. If past experience is any guide, we probably will find them conservative."

Ogilvie also called it a "safe guess" that the interchange will contribute to adding thousands of dollars to the tax rolls in surrounding communities.

ALSO ON THE platform with Ogilvie and local officials from the three communities were state senators John A. Graham, R-Barrington, and John W. Charroll, R-Oak Park; and state representatives Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mt. Prospect. State Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, was in Washington.

Ogilvie and his party drove to Arlington Heights from Chicago where he had announced opening of bids for sale of $135 million in bonds to finance the extension of the East-West Tollway from Aurora to Rock Falls.

Board Sets Feb. 13 Referendum Date

Voters in River Trails School Dist. 28 will go to the polls Feb. 13 to consider a two-part referendum involving a proposed tax hike and a bond issue.

The school board made the decision at its meeting Tuesday to hold the referendum. In choosing to go ahead with the election, board members followed the recommendation made in November by Winston Harwood, school superintendent.

The first part of the referendum will be for a 20-cent hike in the education fund tax rate. Currently the rate stands at $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation. According to Harwood, it is the lowest rate in the area. It has not been changed in a decade he said. If voters approve the tax hike, the new rate would be $1.60.

The second proposal is for the sale of $525,000 in bonds for the construction of an addition to River Trails Junior High School. Whether the bond issue would result in a tax hike is still to be determined. The tax hike, if any, would be kept to a minimum, according to school officials.

THOUGH DETAILED plans for the addition have not yet been drawn up, Harwood did say Tuesday that it would include additional classrooms, an enlarged home economics area, a larger cafeteria and a larger kitchen.

Architect Wayne Fritch told the board Tuesday he estimated the cost of the addition at about $420,000. Added to this would be an expense of about $42,000 for equipment to be used in the addition.

In a written report to the board James Retzlaff, assistant superintendent, said, "It is becoming more apparent that some provision will have to be made at (the junior high school) for more space by a building addition." Retzlaff indicated that the alternative would be to cut back on certain programs.

Currently the junior high school enrollment stands at 660. According to Retzlaff, "the population for next year would be . . . in the vicinity of 680 to 700." With the addition the school could accommodate about 1,000 students, however.

RETZLAFF INDICATED that growth in the school-age population in the district could come about because there are several large undeveloped tracts and many smaller ones now in the district. If residential structures were built on these sites, it would mean a greater school-age population.

According to school officials an addition was built onto the junior high school about two years ago. The addition, costing about $150,000 was built at the north end of the school.

Harwood said that if the referendum is successful the addition would probably be open in the fall of 1972, though he added it might be ready as early as next fall.

Excavation Begins At New School

Excavation work has started on the new Nathaniel Hawthorne School west of Glendale Avenue and north of the post office in Wheeling, according to Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger.

The school, as well as James Whitcomb Riley School now under construction in Arlington Heights, are scheduled for completion next September.

Brick work on the Riley School, which will serve students in the Northgate subdivision of Arlington Heights, has been completed on the first floor, Barger said. Brick work is now being done on the second floor of the elementary school building.

The school is scheduled to be completely under roof by May, the assistant superintendent said.

The third building project currently underway in the district, construction of a six-room addition to Eugene Field School in Wheeling, is scheduled to be completed next month, Barger said.

Two of the six rooms will be used as a learning center, the others for regular classrooms. The project was started in August.

Barger said that the learning center may be used during the current school year, though students will not use the regular classrooms until next September.

Approval to construct Hawthorne School was granted in a referendum held in 1967. Last February voters approved a referendum to construct Riley and the addition to Field School with funds from the Illinois School Building Commission in February.

'Defectors Will Be Helped'

A fleet of private vessels will begin operations in the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast soon to help Soviet fishermen defect to the United States.

The announcement of the measure was made Tuesday by The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights. Lindstrom is the chairman of the national "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

Rev. Lindstrom told newsmen at Logan International Airport, Boston, that the boats will approach Soviet ships with signs in Russian, saying "The United States welcomes you to freedom. Jump overboard, and we will rescue you and take you safely to the U.S."

Rev. Lindstrom did not say exactly when the operation would start or how long it would last. Rev. Lindstrom was reported to be in New Bedford, Mass. yesterday working on the project.

THE OPERATION is being set up at ter a Soviet fisherman unsuccessfully sought political asylum aboard the Coast Guard vessel "Vigilant" several weeks ago off the Massachusetts coast. Coast Guard officials, at that time, ordered the man returned to his Soviet ship. The incident touched off a controversy that resulted in the suspensions of several Coast Guard officers.

"There are many aboard Soviet fishing vessels who long for freedom as did Simas Kudirka (the fisherman involved in the incident several weeks ago) and they are willing to take the risks involved," Rev. Lindstrom said.

Rev. Lindstrom admitted he expects the U.S. State Department to block the rescue operation. He added, however, the state department has taken no action on the matter. He said, "I do not feel any international incident is going to result from this type of operation."

Seek Aid For Ecology Drive

Two Elk Grove High School students, in behalf of the school's Ecology Club, are seeking village support for their bottle and newspaper recycling project.

The students, Al Benson, 17, of 501 Yarmouth Rd., and Don Baete, 16, of 360 Yarmouth Rd., both of Elk Grove Village, appeared before the village board Tuesday to ask approval of the conservation project.

Although board members appeared receptive to the idea, they requested more information.

The project would involve the designation of collection points in the village where residents may bring their old newspapers and glass bottles. The items would be taken away on a regular basis by firms dealing in reclamation.

Money from the project would be used by the Ecology Club for community educational programs on pollution.

The students indicated they would like to establish the collection points in the Park and Shop Center on Arlington Heights and Higgins roads, and the Grove Shopping Center on Arlington Heights and Biesterfeld roads.

The recycling project is the first undertaken by the Ecology Club, which began this year. Started in September by Benson and Baete, who at first were the only members, the club has grown to a membership of 20 to 30 students.

The club has three leaders, Benson, Kris Borgias and Kathy Carroll, who comprise the coordinating committee.

Two more committees have been formed to handle projects, the education committee and the recycling committee.

"We want to try and educate the people in Elk Grove Village and take action against pollution when the opportunity is open to us," Benson said.

The education committee is planning a "teach-in" this spring, according to Borgias, who is presently lining up a day and a speaker for a program which will be given for the student body.

The club distributed literature in November urging approval of the pollution bond act. Members passed out fact sheets in the school Tuesday on ways people can help fight pollution.

Sponsors of the club are Dave Truelsen and John Peters, biology teachers at the high school.

The club meets once a week, each Tuesday from 3:45 to 4:20 p.m.

Students Favor 18 Voting Age

Illinois voters said "no" to a proposal lowering the voting age to 18 in Tuesday's vote on the new Illinois Constitution.

Wheeling High School students seemed to disagree with their verdict, according to a sampling of opinion taken yesterday.

Commented one boy, "People are responsible enough to vote at 18. I think the voting age should be lowered."

Another said, "I didn't know about the vote, but I think they should be allowed to vote at 18. They know enough to make the right decisions then."

Said a girl student, "I don't know. I guess there are pros and cons to it but I think we can vote at 18 wisely. But I guess the adults don't agree."

Her opinion was echoed by several other students.

"Adults are sometimes pretty conservative about accepting new ideas. But the idea of letting 18 year olds vote is becoming more and more popular and it's now part of federal law," commented one.

Another boy stated, "Students at 18 know more about current events than they did in the past. Why shouldn't they vote?"

No Airport Expansion Until 1972?

Plans by Chicago to use the military side of O'Hare Airport for expansion probably will not be resolved until 1972 when a new national administration comes in, J. Patrick Dunne, airport manager, said Tuesday.

Dunne, who spoke to a meeting of the Des Plaines Kiwanis Club, said Chicago's airport authority has been unsuccessful in its efforts to relocate Air Force reserve units stationed on the military side at the northeast corner.

He said the airport authority may be unable to get cooperation from the Defense Department "until 1972 when a new administration comes in," indicating that Chicago officials don't feel President Nixon will be reelected to a second term.

The City of Chicago reportedly has asked for at least 100 of the more than 350 acres of land occupied by the 91st Air Force Reserve Unit, the 928th Troop Carrier group and other military facilities.

ACCORDING TO Cong. Harold R. Collier (R-10), Chicago plans to build an additional five runways if it can acquire the 100 acres. Collier has said he will try to block any expansion and has opposed relocation of the military units.

Dunne defended growth of O'Hare and said hearings on airport expansion held recently by a state senate subcommittee were "strictly political."

At those hearings, officials from several area suburbs called for a halt to growth of O'Hare and demanded that Chicago release details of its plans for the airport.

Some of the subcommittee members were defeated in their bids for reelection Nov. 3, Dunne told the Kiwanians with a smile, referring to Arthur Swanson and Walter Duda, former Republican state senators from Chicago.

"We want to be good neighbors. We think we've had something to do with the economy of the neighborhood," said Dunne, who cited the tremendous growth of the northwest suburban area since completion of O'Hare.

LAND PRICES have gone from $400 an acre in the 1950's to $100,000 an acre for O'Hare area land, Dunne said, and most nearby suburbs have increased their population by at least 50 or 60 per cent since the airport opened.

"If they think this just happened and this place (O'Hare) didn't have anything to do with it, they're nutty as a fruitcake," Dunne said of airport expansion critics from this area.

Construction of O'Hare, which Dunne said is both the world's largest and busiest airport, was publicized worldwide and its subsequent growth has not been hidden from area residents.

"It wasn't any secret," he said. "That would be like hiding a bass drum in a closet. We didn't try to hide it. We were proud of it."

Chicago officials have been criticized for not giving adequate notice of a 1969 Chicago Plan Commission hearing on plans for airport expansion.

DUNNE SAID the airport will increase its number of arrival-departure gates from 70 to 115 and provide room for expansion of international flight terminal facilities.

Despite federally imposed delays, so outgoing passengers can be searched for weapons to prevent hijackings and arriving passengers can be searched for smuggled drugs, international traffic is up 17 per cent, he said.

For the first 10 months of this year, Dunne said, air traffic at O'Hare is down six per cent compared to 1969. He blamed the decline on a severe winter last year, the air traffic controllers strike and current economic conditions.

High School Sets Concert

The seventh annual Christmas concert will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday by music students at Wheeling High School.

Participating groups will include the symphony band, orchestra, symphonic winds, jazz band, concert choir, chamber choir, varsity choir, male choir, and girls' glee club.

Among the selections will be "A Christmas Festival" and excerpts from Handel's "Messiah," by the orchestra, selections of Russian Christmas music, and Christmas carols of Alfred Burt by the symphonic winds, variations on "Deck the Halls" and "Joy to the World," by the symphony band.

The five choirs will combine with members of the high school drama department to present a Christmas pageant.

The drama students will portray Nativity and other Christmas scenes, while the choir accompanies the tableaux by singing Christmas music.

Additional choir songs will include "A Star From Jacob," "Two Kinds," "O Holy Night," and "Carol of the Manger."

Selections by the jazz band will include "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" and "O Holy Night."

No admission will be charged for the program which will be held in the high school.

Registration Today For Eye, Ear Tests

Registration will be held today at four Dist. 21 schools for preschool hearing and vision tests that will be conducted in January.

The tests will be conducted by SLIDES, a federally funded organization that screens preschoolers throughout the northwest suburbs for hearing and vision defects.

Children ages 3 through 5 years are eligible to take the tests.

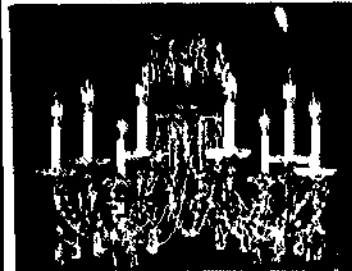

Parents may register their children for the tests from 9:15 a.m. to 3 p.m. today at Edgar Allen Poe School in Arlington Heights, Joyce Kilmer School in Buffalo Grove, Walt Whitman School in Wheeling and Robert Frost School in Prospect Heights.

The tests will be given Jan. 5 and 6 at Poe, Jan. 7 and 8 at Kilmer, Jan. 11 and 12 at Whitman and Jan. 13 and 14 at Frost.

The tests will be given without charge to all children 3 to 5, regardless of whether they live in School Dist. 21.

Five-Week Registration Period Open

Voter registrations will be accepted at the village municipal building for a five-week period beginning today and ending Jan. 19. The municipal building is located at 50 Raupp Blvd.

Registration has been closed for the last month because of the referendum on the new constitution. State election laws state that voter registration will be closed for 28 days prior to an election.

After the January closing date on the village level, voters can still register at the Wheeling Twp. Clerk's office in Arlington Heights or the Cook County Clerk's office in Chicago.

Registration will reopen at the local level next April 26. Registration dates do not apply for voters registering for the school district elections April 10.

Registrations are still being accepted for 18, 19 and 20-year-olds throughout Cook County, but whether they will be able to vote in local elections in the spring still has to be determined by the courts.

Rob Station Attendant At Knife Point

Two men, one of them armed with a knife, beat a service station attendant yesterday and escaped with $200 in cash from the Clark Service Station at Hintz and Elmhurst roads, near Wheeling.

The two men, in their early 20s, fled the station in a dark-colored car driven by a third man, according to Cook County Sheriff's Police.

The station attendant, Walter Bjornson, 18, Wheeling, told police that one man held a knife at the back of his neck and told him not to move while a second man searched the station for money.

The two men tied Bjornson's hands with a necktie and put a shirt over his head before leaving. They told him not to move for 10 minutes.

Bjornson summoned police by stopping a passing motorist after he managed to leave the station.

The motorist flagged down a Wheeling police car. Wheeling police called County Police to the scene.

Bjornson told the Herald that the two men jumped him in the station at about 3 a.m. He said three of his teeth were knocked out, and his eye was blackened.

Bjornson said the money was taken from a cabinet in the station's safe.

Board Votes To Conduct Traffic Study

The Buffalo Grove Village Board has voted to hire a Skokie firm to conduct a traffic survey in the village, if the village finance chairman can find the money to pay for the survey.

Until such a survey is completed, the village will be unable to enforce the 20 mph speed limit posted on most of its streets.

Trustees voted Monday to hire Paul C. Box and Assoc. of Skokie to conduct the survey at a cost not to exceed $2,700. The agreement to hire the firm depends on whether Trustee Robert Gleeson determines if the village has enough money.

Gleeson was not present at the Monday meeting so the board could not take final action on the matter. Gleeson could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Trustees moved to conduct a survey after they discovered the 20 mph speed limit posted in most parts of the village is not in accordance with state law.

Administrative Post At Aged Home Filled

A Buffalo Grove man has been appointed assistant administrator for the Addolorata Villa Home for the Aged in Wheeling.

Sister Mary Lucey, director of the retirement home, announced the appointment of G. Arthur Applequist, of 648 Elmwood Dr., Buffalo Grove, to fill the post Tuesday.

Addolorata Villa is operated by the Servite Sisters, a religious order dedicated to work among the poor, sick, and aged.

Persons have successfully contested traffic tickets they have received on the grounds that it is illegal for a village to reduce the speed limit from the normal 30 mph limit, without first conducting a traffic survey.

The 20 mph limit was posted when Buffalo Grove was incorporated in 1938. Since then, the population has increased tenfold and the 20 mph limit was extended to newer parts of the village without a traffic survey being conducted.

Earlier it was thought that receipts from the state Motor Fuel Tax (MFT) Fund could be used to conduct the survey, instead of using village revenue.

However, Arnold Seeborg, of Hattis Engineering, the village engineering consultant, said this is not true. In a letter to the board, Box also pointed out that motor fuel tax funds could not be used.

In the letter, Box stated, "The speed survey would probably not be eligible by itself for either MFT or grant financing because it is such a very limited type of traffic survey."

The survey would involve taking spot surveys at about 50 locations throughout the village and preparing a summary report outlining recommendations for speed limits on streets in the village.

Trustees considered proposals from three other firms before making a decision. Barton Aschman, Inc. of Chicago submitted an estimate of $3,000 to $5,000 for the work. Christian, Ruge and Assoc. of Chicago submitted a bid of $2,600. Crawford, Bunte, Roden, Inc. of Glen Ellyn quoted a price of $3,150.

A 3-Foot Card! Pity Poor Mailman

by DOUG RAY

Mail carriers may have to enlarge their mail sacks this year, as Christmas cards have taken many unusual forms.

An unfortunate postman somewhere will be delivering a three-foot Christmas card.

"We produce a three-foot Santa Claus Christmas card and it sells very well," according to Ed Letwenko, creative director of United Card Co. Inc. in Rolling Meadows.

"Our Christmas cards are contemporary," according to Letwenko. What is a contemporary Christmas card? "It's a Christmas greeting with a smile," Letwenko said.

THE CONTEMPORARY card business began only about 20 years ago, according to officials at United.

"The first cards produced were called studio cards and were much longer than wide. The market has grown steadily and contemporary cards make up about 20 per cent of the total greeting card market. Christmas cards comprise about 5 per cent of the contemporary market, officials said.

A contemporary Christmas card can be made humorous in a number of ways. "Some Christmas cards are classified as contemporary because they send a humorous greeting or message. Others might be given a contemporary classification because of their unusual size or shape," Letwenko said.

SOME OF THE cards produced by the company for this year's Christmas market have washcloth and even wallpaper backgrounds.

The company formulates ideas about a year in advance of holidays. The creative department is now developing ideas for 1971 Christmas cards.

Though some of the ideas for Christmas cards come from the company's creative department, most ideas are submitted by free lance writers. If the writer sends an idea that can be used by the company, he is paid by the firm.

The process of polishing the ideas submitted by free lance writers is the job of the creative department.

"RIGHT NOW A large part of our market is made up of persons under 25 years of age," according to United Sales Manager Dick Prybell. Prybell believes the market will continue to expand as these young people grow older and more youths enter the market. "About half of the country is under 25 years old now," Prybell said.

Servicemen receive many of the contemporary cards, according to Prybell.

The firm many times takes traditional Christmas characters, such as Santa Claus, reindeer, and even elves and adds a humorous touch to make them "contemporary."

What is planned for next Christmas? "We aren't sure, but we are always looking for something funny," Letwenko said.

If this is the case, the postman probably won't be laughing, if he has to deliver a four or five-foot cardboard Santa next year.

They'll Get A Post Holiday Break

The Wheeling post office will reduce service during the Christmas and New Year holidays.

On Christmas day and New Year's day, the post office, which serves both Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, will be closed and there will be no collection of mail. Only special delivery mail will be delivered on the two days.

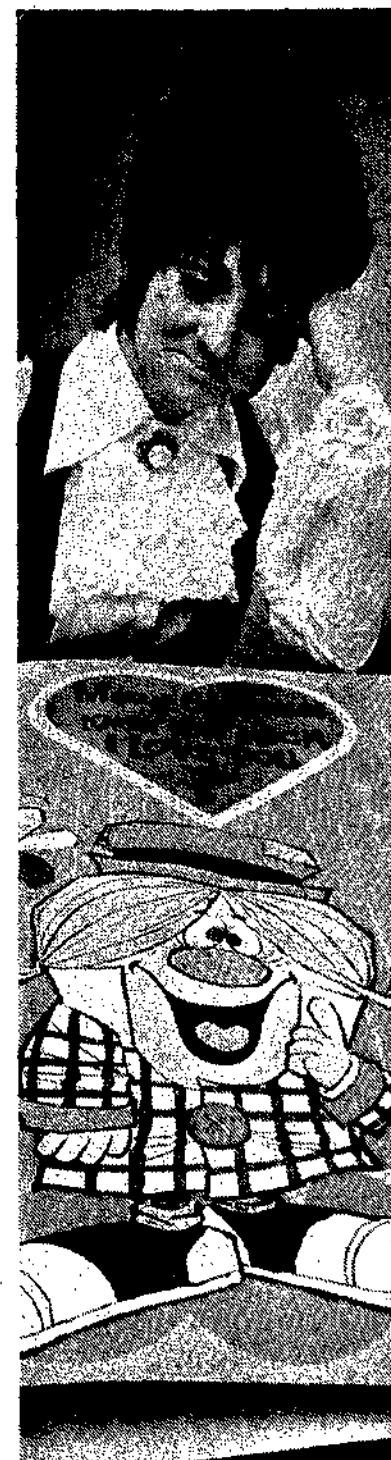

The post office, located at 277 E. Dundee Rd., Wheeling, will close early on Christmas eve and New Year's eve. The hours on those days will be 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Mail will be collected on Dec. 26, but there will be no deliveries, except special delivery, and the post office will be closed to all except persons holding lock boxes.

On Jan. 2, mail will be delivered and collected, but the post office will again be closed, except for lock box service.

Normal hours at the post office are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

A THREE FOOT Christmas card is only one of the many "contemporary" cards produced at United Card Co. in Rolling Meadows. Mrs. Roger Hintz, an employee of the firm, sizes up the card.

Rezoning For Development Denied

A proposal for a 61-acre townhouse and apartment development south of Wheeling's Meadowbrook West area was denied rezoning approval Tuesday by Wheeling's Zoning Board of Appeals.

The development would have faced Hintz Road and run as far north as Meadowbrook West. Plans called for 576 apartments and 305 townhouses to be built on the property.

More than 2,000 people would live in the proposed complex, developers' representatives testified.

Currently the property is zoned for multifamily residential use which would allow townhouse and apartment development.

The property owners were seeking a rezoning to planned development zoning, however, which would have allowed the development to have a more varied design.

Douglas Cargill, zoning board chairman, pointed out that granting the rezoning would allow the maximum building height of four stories or 40 feet while the R-4 zoning currently on the property has a limit of three stories or 35 feet.

CARGILL SAID during the board deliberations, he was concerned that the developers did not say whether the proposed building heights would be acceptable to the Federal Aviation Administration or by Pal-Waukee Airport officials.

The development would be approximately 2,000 feet from the end of the airport's jet runway, an architect testified Tuesday night.

Another reason cited by the board members for their recommendation included the fact of a 17-acre school-park site designation on the property has not been negotiated between the developers, school and park districts, potential traffic loads from the subdivision were also cited.

The board members mentioned the developer's drainage plans were inadequately researched since no meetings had been held with the Illinois Division of Waterways or the Wheeling Drainage District.

The Wheeling Drainage Ditch runs through the proposed development.

THE BOARD MEMBERS also said the developers had not planned adequately for roadways, and because of those errors, had inaccurately computed the number of units allowed.

One member of the zoning board, Alan Martin, voted against denying the rezoning request.

A final decision on the proposal will be made by the village board. The proposed plan was presented by Att. Ray W. Fick and architect Salvatore Balsamo.

They testified the development would have a street connecting to Carpenter avenue as well as an exit to Hintz Road.

The southern portion of the development would consist of townhouses while two and four-story apartment buildings would be built in the rear of the property.

Recreational facilities such as a swimming pool, detention basin lake, and carports were proposed.

Half of the townhouses would be two-bedroom and half would be three-bedroom. Forty per cent of the apartments would be one-bedroom and 60 per cent would be two-bedroom.

There would be 6 four-story apartment buildings and 24 two-story apartment buildings.

DESPITE SNOW AND COLD weather, more than 800 persons waited in line last Friday night for the second moonlight sale to be held at the Sears Roebuck and Co. catalogue outlet store in the Dunhurst Shopping Center on Dundee Road in Wheeling. Off-duty Wheeling policemen helped control the crowds. Store officials said the sale attracted 3,000 shoppers.

New Interchange Now Open

by ROBERT A. LAHEY

Thousands of Tollway travelers using the spanking new Arlington Heights Road interchange today will be driving on pavement which was nearly 10 years in the cement maker.

The interchange was opened to traffic shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie snipped a red ribbon, the last obstacle holding back the horde of commuter cars.

The road will provide access to the Northwest Tollway to eastbound motorists from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows, and an exit for westbound autos.

Ogilvie cited a 1968 consultant's report which estimated the new facility will generate an additional 300,000 Tollway trips in its first year. According to this estimate, the interchange will earn back its initial cost in 10 years, the governor said.

"WE CAN ESTIMATE that this interchange will save a bare minimum of 1,000 man-hours a day in traveling time for the residents of this area," he said.

On hand for the opening ceremonies were many of those who waged the construction campaign which began in 1961.

They included Dr. Carl F. Mees of Arlington Heights and Neil Cooney of Elk Grove Village, co-chairmen of the Tollway Access Committee, which originated the campaign.

Mees introduced members of the committee and Robert Greenaway, an Illinois Toll Highway Authority commissioner, who told about 200 spectators gathered in a soggy snowfall:

"This facility will add another important factor to the growth of your area, which has been fantastic."

OGILVIE SECONDED that thought, saying the interchange signifies recognition by the authority of the past growth of the Northwest suburbs. "It will itself serve to promote that development during the years to come," he added.

He called the interchange "only one small cog" in the entire tollway system. "But it is a vital one," he said, "located as it is in the very heart of Cook County's most rapidly growing area, astride this artery so indispensable to the daily lives of tens of thousands of commuters.

"Only time will tell if the projections for the importance of this facility are correct. If past experience is any guide, we probably will find them conservative."

Ogilvie also called it a "safe guess" that the interchange will contribute to adding thousands of dollars to the tax rolls in surrounding communities.

ALSO ON THE platform with Ogilvie and local officials from the three communities were state senators John A. Graham, R-Barrington, and John W. Charroll, R-Oak Park; and state representatives Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mt. Prospect. State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, was in Washington.

Ogilvie and his party drove to Arlington Heights from Chicago where he had announced opening of bids for sale of $135 million in bonds to finance the extension of the East-West Tollway from Aurora to Rock Falls.

Board Sets Feb. 13 Referendum Date

Voters in River Trails School Dist. 26 will go to the polls Feb. 13 to consider a two-part referendum involving a proposed tax hike and a bond issue.

The school board made the decision at its meeting Tuesday to hold the referendum. In choosing to go ahead with the election, board members followed the recommendation made in November by Winston Harwood, school superintendent.

The first part of the referendum will be for a 20-cent hike in the education fund tax rate. Currently the rate stands at $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation. According to Harwood, it is the lowest rate in the area. It has not been changed in a decade he said. If voters approve the tax hike, the new rate would be $1.60.

The second proposal is for the sale of $523,000 in bonds for the construction of an addition to River Trails Junior High School. Whether the bond issue would result in a tax hike is still to be determined. The tax hike, if any, would be kept to a minimum, according to school officials.

THOUGH DETAILED plans for the addition have not yet been drawn up, Harwood did say Tuesday that it would include additional classrooms, an enlarged home economics area, a larger cafeteria and a larger kitchen.

Architect Wayne Fritch told the board Tuesday he estimated the cost of the addition at about $420,000. Added to this would be an expense of about $42,000 for equipment to be used in the addition.

In a written report to the board James Retzlaff, assistant superintendent, said, "It is becoming more apparent that some provision will have to be made at (the junior high school) for more space by a building addition." Retzlaff indicated that the alternative would be to cut back on certain programs.

Currently the junior high school enrollment stands at 660. According to Retzlaff, "the population for next year would be . . . in the vicinity of 680 to 700." With the addition the school could accommodate about 1,000 students, however.

RETZLAFF INDICATED that growth in the school-age population in the district could come about because there are several large undeveloped tracts and many smaller ones now in the district. If residential structures were built on these sites, it would mean a greater school-age population.

According to school officials an addition was built onto the junior high school about two years ago. The addition, costing about $150,000 was built at the north end of the school.

Harwood said that if the referendum is successful the addition would probably be open in the fall of 1972, though he added it might be ready as early as next fall.

Excavation Begins At New School

Excavation work has started on the new Nathaniel Hawthorne School west of Glendale Avenue and north of the post office in Wheeling, according to Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger.

The school, as well as James Whitcomb Riley School now under construction in Arlington Heights, are scheduled for completion next September.

Brick work on the Riley School, which will serve students in the Northgate subdivision of Arlington Heights, has been completed on the first floor, Barger said. Brick work is now being done on the second floor of the elementary school building.

The school is scheduled to be completely under roof by May, the assistant superintendent said.

The third building project currently underway in the district, construction of a six-room addition to Eugene Field School in Wheeling, is scheduled to be completed next month, Barger said.

Two of the six rooms will be used as a learning center, the others for regular classrooms. The project was started in August.

Barger said that the learning center may be used during the current school year, though students will not use the regular classrooms until next September.

Approval to construct Hawthorne School was granted in a referendum held in 1967. Last February voters approved a referendum to construct Riley and the addition to Field School with funds from the Illinois School Building Commission in February.

'Defectors Will Be Helped'

A fleet of private vessels will begin operations in the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast soon to help Soviet fishermen defect to the United States.

The announcement of the measure was made Tuesday by The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights. Lindstrom is the chairman of the national "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

Rev. Lindstrom told newsmen at Logan International Airport, Boston, that the boats will approach Soviet ships with signs in Russian, saying "The United States welcomes you to freedom. Jump overboard, and we will rescue you and take you safely to the U.S."

Rev. Lindstrom did not say exactly when the operation would start or how long it would last. Rev. Lindstrom was reported to be in New Bedford, Mass. yesterday working on the project.

THE OPERATION is being set up after a Soviet fisherman unsuccessfully sought political asylum aboard the Coast Guard vessel "Vigilant" several weeks ago off the Massachusetts coast. Coast Guard officials, at that time, ordered the man returned to his Soviet ship. The incident touched off a controversy that resulted in the suspensions of several Coast Guard officers.

"There are many aboard Soviet fishing vessels who long for freedom as did Simas Kudirka (the fisherman involved in the incident several weeks ago) and they are willing to take the risks involved," Rev. Lindstrom said.

Rev. Lindstrom admitted he expects the U.S. State Department to block the rescue operation. He added, however, the state department has taken no action on the matter. He said, "I do not feel any international incident is going to result from this type of operation."

Seek Aid For Ecology Drive

Two Elk Grove High School students, in behalf of the school's Ecology Club, are seeking village support for their bottle and newspaper recycling project.

The students, Al Benson, 17, of 501 Yarmouth Rd., and Don Baete, 16, of 360 Yarmouth Rd., both of Elk Grove Village, appeared before the village board Tuesday to ask approval of the conservation project.

Although board members appeared receptive to the idea, they requested more information.

The project would involve the designation of collection points in the village where residents may bring their old newspapers and glass bottles. The items would be taken away on a regular basis by firms dealing in reclamation.

Money from the project would be used by the Ecology Club for community educational programs on pollution.

The students indicated they would like to establish the collection points in the Park and Shop Center on Arlington Heights and Higgins roads, and the Grove Shopping Center on Arlington Heights and Biesterfeld roads.

The recycling project is the first undertaken by the Ecology Club, which began this year. Started in September by Benson and Baete, who at first were the only members, the club has grown to a membership of 20 to 30 students.

The club has three leaders, Benson, Kris Borgias and Kathy Carroll, who comprise the coordinating committee.

Two more committees have been formed to handle projects, the education committee and the recycling committee.

"We want to try and educate the people in Elk Grove Village and take action against pollution when the opportunity is open to us," Benson said.

The education committee is planning a "teach-in" this spring, according to Borgias, who is presently lining up a day and a speaker for a program which will be given for the student body.

The club distributed literature in November urging approval of the pollution bond act. Members passed out fact sheets in the school Tuesday on ways people can help fight pollution.

Sponsors of the club are Dave Truelsen and John Peters, biology teachers at the high school.

The club meets once a week, each Tuesday from 3:45 to 4:20 p.m.

Students Favor 18 Voting Age

Illinois voters said "no" to a proposal lowering the voting age to 18 in Tuesday's vote on the new Illinois Constitution.

Wheeling High School students seemed to disagree with their verdict, according to a sampling of opinion taken yesterday.

Commented one boy, "People are responsible enough to vote at 18. I think the voting age should be lowered."

Another said, "I didn't know about the vote, but I think they should be allowed to vote at 18. They know enough to make the right decisions then."

Said a girl student, "I don't know. I guess there are pros and cons to it but I think we can vote at 18 wisely. But I guess the adults don't agree."

Her opinion was echoed by several other students.

"Adults are sometimes pretty conservative about accepting new ideas. But the idea of letting 18 year olds vote is becoming more and more popular and it's now part of federal law," commented one.

Another boy stated, "Students at 18 know more about current events than they did in the past. Why shouldn't they vote?"

Independents To Seek Trustee Posts

GOP Candidates Challenged By Incumbents

Candidates backed by the Palatine Township Republican Organization will meet with opposition in the April elections for three positions on the Palatine Village Board of Trustees.

Incumbents Clayton Brown, Thomas Kearns and Fred Zajonc said they will seek reelection as a three-man independent party opposing the GOP slate.

To date, only two men have been slated by the GOP. Zajonc was originally selected but declined when Brown and Kearns were not slated.

Merwin E. Soper, 1123 W. Mallard Dr., and Dennis J. Collins, 647 Salem Ct., were nominated by the Republicans. A third spot should be filled soon, as the slatemaking committee has met several times during the last week.

In 1967, Brown, Kearns and Zajonc ran together on the GOP slate and now, as an independent party, have until February to file for candidacy.

THE REPUBLICANS as a national political party have only until Dec. 26 to fill the third position and file with the village clerk, however.

The incumbents said they are running on their record to give residents a choice.

Trustee Clayton Brown said, "What

Thomas Kearns

Fred Zajonc

disturbed me most is that if we do not run for office many people will be affected by the recent results in slating candidates for village trustees."

The vice president of a Chicago steel company, Brown said he knew why he and Kearns were not re-slotted. "We have been told that we are unresponsive."

"Three days before I was interviewed by the slatemaking committee I was told: 'If you don't start giving more favors you're not going to be reelected.'"

"I SAID EXACTLY what I thought about that type of politics. When we were slated by the GOP in 1967 there was a promise of no strings attached. We have lived up to our part of the agreement by running a good, unbiased government," Brown said.

Zajonc, product manager for U.S. Gypsum Co., said "we intend to run on our performance during the past term, not promises."

Referring to the GOP's recent action, he said, "It's obvious there is a difference of opinion. Under those circumstances it becomes necessary to give people a choice."

Zajonc said he will join Brown and Kearns in an effort to become involved to a great extent with any group of Palatine residents which cares to share their problems with the incumbents between now and election day.

Trustee Thomas Kearns, a lawyer with offices in Wheeling and Palatine, was not available for comment.

GOP-less Hats In Ring

Three incumbent Palatine Village Trustees who were not re-slotted by the local GOP one week ago issued a joint statement yesterday saying they will seek reelection.

It is the first statement to come from Clayton Brown and Thomas Kearns, who were dropped by the GOP slatemaking committee, and Fred Zajonc, who was nominated but declined.

The statement is signed by all three trustees and reads as follows:

"Since the events of the week of Dec. 7, the question has frequently been asked as to what we intend to do.

"We have all received many phone calls, held discussions with many people, friends and our families, and the following thoughts have crossed our minds:

"WHEN ELECTED by an overwhelming majority in 1967, everyone agreed that our first duty was to all the citizens of Palatine, whether they voted for us or not.

"We have practiced the concept of good fundamental government, representative of all the people. We have responded to the needs of all citizens, businesses and organizations with service commensurate with income.

"As active trustees we attended meetings of various agencies to keep abreast of the growth in our community and provided good fire and police protection, water, sewers streets and other accommodations as growth occurred.

"We are members of a seven-man board who for four years met the challenge of the most productive period in Palatine's history.

"We stand ready to prove with facts our responsiveness, the action taken in the areas of budgeting, taxation, procuring and upgrading of equipment, expanding of departments, planning, improvements of codes and ordinances.

"WE FURTHER believe that Palatine citizens deserve a choice of who they desire to manage their village and who they believe can carry out constructive programs. Our business backgrounds are an asset to the board and our four years experience should not be wasted.

"Therefore, we have decided to seek reelection in April as an independent party.

"The assistance of all people in the community to help in our campaign will be welcomed. Now is the opportunity for all people to participate in the continuation of good government."

Residents Hear K-Mart Proposal

Developers of a K-Mart department store planned for north Palatine said Tuesday night their aim "is to be a compatible neighbor to both resident and other businesses in the area."

Listening closely to the developer's presentation at a public hearing were about 50 residents of Willow Wood subdivision, which abuts the north end of the K-Mart site at Baldwin and Hicks roads.

The hearing was held before the village plan commission. Jack Jacobs, of Hanover Development in Chicago, has asked the village to rezone the K-Mart site to allow for the complete construction of the project without having to acquire special use permits.

Currently, the 15-acre site is zoned B-1, only allowing for the construction of the K-Mart store. A garden center, automotive center and home furnishings center are also planned for the site, but are not allowed under the present zoning.

JACOBS HAS ASKED that the land be zoned B-2 to accommodate the entire project.

Thomas Moody, chairman of the commission, said another alternative is to amend the present ordinance to allow for these three additional buildings, to which Jacobs agreed.

Moody said he will advise the developer of their decision at a later date.

Donald M. Phares, attorney for Willow Wood property owners, said he could see "no great amount of opposition to the project, but there are several points I'd like to make for the record in the interest of the homeowners."

He said a fence should be constructed on the north and east sides of the development to not only block the view homeowners will have of the K-Mart store but also to deter pedestrian traffic from circling behind the building.

OTHER REQUESTS included landscaping, flood water drainage, lighting, and the installation of traffic signals at Hicks and Baldwin roads.

Gerald Brooks, attorney for the developer, presented three witnesses — Jacobs, an engineer and a site planner, — who, in the course of their testimony, said points Phares brought up would be recognized.

The site was originally 18 acres. It is now owned by the First Bank and Trust of Palatine. Hanover Development has an option to purchase on the property.

At the time he the land was annexed to the village in 1962 the owners put a restrictive covenant on three acres, prohibiting the construction of several types of buildings, including a K-Mart. The developer has agreed to drop the three acres from his plan.

The total development will encompass approximately 878,000 square feet of buildings.

JACOBS SAID the development will do between $14 and $15 million business annually, with a yearly state tax rebate to the village of about $140,000.

In addition, it will employ some 200 to 250 people from the community, he said.

The building is a one-story, L-shaped facility under one roof. The K-Mart store will be supplemented with garden and home furnishings shops, as well as a tire, battery and accessory automotive center. There will be no fuel oil or gasoline on the site.

Jacobs said he hopes construction will start in April or May of next year, enabling the developer to deliver the completed building to Kresge Co. (which is committed to a 25 year lease on the development) in March or April of 1972.

James Bennett, director of public works, advised the developer that any future progress on the project would require working closely with village engineers and the Illinois Division of Highways.

This is to ensure the proper signals at Hicks and Baldwin and to avoid causing any flooding problems in Pebble Creek, which runs just north of the site, he said.

Council Suggests Peace Corps Plan

Students at Fremd High School, Palatine, will be asked by their student council representatives to build a school in a foreign country. If they agree, they'll be taking part in the Peace Corps School Partnership Program.

Paul Mack, Midwest representative of the Peace Corps, explained the program to council members yesterday. Should the students decide to build the school, they would have to collect $1,200, Mack said.

If reaction to the proposal is favorable, council members will call a school-wide meeting in February to vote for or against the proposal. If they vote in favor of building a school with the Peace Corps, a fund-raising drive will be started.

The idea for Fremd students getting involved with a Peace Corps program originated with Candy Jacobsen, chairman of the council's services committee.

MACK, WHO JUST returned from Brazil four months ago, served with the Peace Corps for two years. At yesterday's meeting he explained terms of the agreement:

Local residents of the area where the school is to be built would become partners of Fremd students, Mack said. The $1,200 Fremd would donate would pay for three quarters of the school's building materials. The local residents would donate the other quarter of the funds and would supply the labor.

Mack pointed out that the schools are generally built in rural areas. The farmers often build the school themselves with the help of a professional bricklayer.

"It takes about 50 days for them to build a school," Mack said.

He said that even though the farmers grow only enough food on their land to feed themselves and their families, they still take time off from farming to build the school.

MACK HELPED IN five school building projects while he was with the Peace Corps in Brazil. In one case, it was bean harvesting season, but the farmers helped build the school rather than harvest beans.

Entire families of farmers help build the school, Mack said. While the fathers do the heavy work and their children help in small ways, the mothers make meals for all the workers.

"Children take great pride in their school," Mack said. "They would not think of damaging the school building because they may have carried bricks to help build it."

If Fremd can raise $1,200 to build a school, the money would be sent to the Peace Corps in Washington, he explained. It would stay there about a week.

By then, a request for funds to build a school would come in from a Peace Corps field representative. The money would be forwarded.

AFTER THE SCHOOL is built, the local people would exchange a picture of the school along with data about their community with Fremd. Fremd alone would financially assist the local people in building their school, Mack said.

Mack presented a dozen slides showing how a school in Ohio helped a Brazilian village build a new school. The slides illustrated the steps villagers went through in building a modern school to replace their old wooden school which had a thatched roof.

About 1,500 American schools, churches, 4-H Clubs, teacher's groups and other organizations have taken part in the program already, he said.

Council members will now take what they learned from Mack and present it to their classes before the February all-school meeting.

Farm Fading, 'Quiet Man' Is Remembered

by JUDY BRANDES

People who know Dan Bergman say he is a quiet man.

His family has owned a 178-acre farm on Algonquin Road since 1867. Dan and his father, Dan Sr., used to haul milk to market in Palatine back at the turn of the century.

Now he and his son Harold work the farm. Harold and his family, as well as Dan's daughter Irene, live in the family house at 2150 Algonquin Rd.

"This house was built when I was seven years old," Bergman said. "I was born in the first house, just east of here."

The large family dining room is decorated with one wall paper pattern on three walls, a different one on the fourth. "That's the way they used to do things. You see, we've also got the tile around the lower part."

A DESK, A SEWING machine, and an expandable table fill the room now. "I was married in this very room on Thanksgiving night," he said. His wife died in 1954.

Through the front window you can see the sign on the barn across the road: "Highland Dairy Farm."

"We haven't had any cows on the farm for five years. The forest preserve bought the 140 acres across the road in 1965. We've been allowed to farm it until this year, but next year the preserve wants to have it."

Dan and Harold Bergman will still have the 38 acres on the north side of Algonquin. They will have to move the well off the forest preserve property where it has been for almost a hundred years. The farm is in Hoffman Estates, but water and sewer lines haven't been installed yet.

"We'll farm the north side like we've always done, usually planting corn and beans," said Dan.

WHEN THE FOREST preserve bought the Bergman land on the south side of Algonquin, the school house which Dan and his children attended was torn down.

"That was the Dist. 18 school house. We held out from consolidation because we liked having the school so near."

In 1946, elementary school districts in Palatine Township joined to form Community Consolidated Dist. 15, but Dist. 18 did not join the township district until 1953.

"I got my eighth grade diploma from that school, the Highland Grove School. That was the only education I got. After that I worked as a road engineer in the township for six years and then in 1929 I started farming with my dad."

Dan Bergman says he had no contact with high schools until 1921 when a friend, Fred Rohde, died. "I was attending his funeral down the road at St. John's (United Church of Christ) when Tom Hart and George Butler stopped me outside the door and told me they had picked me to take Fred's place on the high school board."

HART WAS PRESIDENT of the Palatine High School board of education and Butler was principal.

Bergman served for 25 years on the High School Dist. 211 board, the first member to serve continuously for so long. He was never board president or secretary.

"They always had someone qualified to be president and I only had an eighth grade diploma, so I didn't want to be out in the public eye."

Dan remembers Billy Fremd, "a smart boy who was one of the top graduates of the school." William Fremd, for whom the high school is named, joined Bergman on the high school board in 1938, after graduating from Palatine High School in 1920.

Tonight, Fremd and the present Dist. 211 board will give official "thanks" to Bergman for his long service on the board.

"I don't know as I deserve all this. They tried to balance the board with three farmers and four from the village. I ran every year and was never opposed," he said.

BERGMAN RETIRED from the board in 1946. He had served during the difficult years of the 1920's when the voters rejected a referendum to build a new high school, the present Palatine High, three times; the depression, when the board had to cut salaries 10 per cent; and the 1940's, when discussions of adding Schaumburg Township to the school district were prominent. Schaumburg was finally added in 1953, after Bergman left the board.

As a farmer, Bergman was interested in agricultural vocational education, and supported implementing vocational programs in the high school curriculum.

"I don't really want to talk much about the issues. It might bring up some old feelings in people. Let's just say I was a board member."

Bergman "retired" from the board in 1946 when he was 65: "But I didn't retire from farming. I still farm. In fact, today we got the last of the crops in."

Today was also his 89th birthday: "I don't like people to make too much fuss over me. I usually go visiting with friends or relatives, but today I thought I'd stay home. I like my quiet life."

HIGHLAND SCHOOL, an elementary school which eventually joined Elementary Dist. 15, was located on the Highland Dairy Farm on Algonquin Road. The farm has been owned by the Bergman family for more than 100 years. Dan Bergman, who received his eighth grade diploma from the school, served on the Dist. 211 board 25 years.

Lunch For Needy Kids Set

New policies to provide needy children with free or reduced hot lunch rates are being initiated early next year by area public and parochial schools with cafeteria facilities.

Although such privileges are already offered in area schools, the new policy will make determinations of need more uniform.

Women Help Brighten Children's Christmas

Two Palatine women are helping brighten Christmas for homeless children by serving on the 1970 Christmas Stocking Appeal committee for the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

Mrs. Jack A. Kull, 2322 S. Circle Dr., and Mrs. Walker Flaney, 287 N. Elmwood La., are serving on the committee working with the non-sectarian child care agency which, since 1883, has provided protection and care for more than 175,000 children.

Each year, the committee mails "little red stockings" out to area residents. Contributions returned to the committee with the stocking help to pay for Christmas gifts and provide year-round care for the society's children.

The revised policy is the result of legislation put into effect in May, setting up nationwide guidelines for elementary and high school districts throughout the country that participate in the National School Lunch Program and the Community Distribution Program.

Elementary schools affected by the policy change are Carl Sandburg, Gray M. Sanborn, Stuart R. Paddock, Plum Grove, Winston Park and Immanuel Lutheran.

Applications will be distributed to parents whose children attend Dist. 15 schools through the next issue of the monthly periodical Grapevine. Additional applications may be obtained at the Dist. 15 administration building.

PARENTS WHO believe their children may be eligible for free or reduced price lunches should fill out the application forms supplied and send them to William Colburn, Dist. 15 business manager, 505 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine.

Colburn will review all applications within 10 days of their receipt and parents will be notified in writing of the decision. Information provided on the application will be held in confidence.

Guidelines set up call for free or reduced price lunches to be provided to children in families in the following categories:

A family with one child with an annual gross income of $1,920; family of two children with income of $2,520; family of three with income of $3,120; family of four with income of $3,720; family of five with income of $4,270; family of six with income of $4,820; family of seven with income of $5,320; family of eight with income of $5,820. For each additional member of a family the income bracket goes up $450.

ANY UNUSUAL circumstances or hardships which affect a family's ability to pay for the lunches will also be considered when applications are reviewed. If a family is not satisfied with the decision made on the application, an appeal procedure will be set up in which a hearing will be held with the Dist. 15 superintendent.

PARENTS OF children who attend Immanuel Lutheran School should submit applications to O. G. Schaeffer, school principal, at 100 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine. A similar appeal procedure will also be set up at the school in which hearings can be held with the chairman of the school board of education for special consideration.

Hot lunches at Dist. 15 schools are normally provided to children at a daily cost of 45 cents. Lunches at Immanuel Lutheran cost 40 cents.

From The Library

All About People

By the staff of the Palatine Public Library

Everett McKinley Dirksen, senator from Illinois for many years, is now the subject of a biography simply titled "Dirksen." The book on the late senator by Neil MacNeil is one of many new books available at the Palatine Public Library this week.

Another late senator of the United States, this one from Wisconsin, is the subject of another biography. "Joseph R. McCarthy — Great Lines Observed." Edited by Allan J. Matusow, the book tells of the senator's career and his campaigns.

A former European king is the subject of "Frederick the Great," by Nancy Mitford. The founder of one of the first Protestant religions is written about in "Luther: His Life and Times" by Richard Friedenthal.

Loren Eiseley is author of "The Invisible Pyramid," a book relating a naturalist's analysis of what he calls "the rocket century." The famous World War II conference is the subject of Diane Shaver Clemens' "Yalta."

"By the Political Sea" is the inside account of life with the Democrats by Katie Loucheim, who bills herself as a woman who knows all. Martin Holmes is author of "Elizabethan London." It is a viewpoint of those who lived in it.

"What the Hell Are They Trying to Prove, Martha?" is a warty convert's report on the new self-expression in America today. It was authored by Dick Atcheson. The Greensboro sit-ins are the subject of "Lunch At the 5 and 10" by Miles Wolff.

Edgar Cayce fans will revel in the fact that Robert Ferro and Michael Grumley have written another book about the famous psychic. The book is "Atlantis," which is billed as a real journey to find the lost continent as prophesied by Edgar Cayce.

With the Calley trial in session presently, William Bradford Huie specially wrote a book about the last soldier to be executed for desertion of the military.

"The Execution of Private Slovik" tells of the Jan. 31, 1945, execution of Pvt. Edward D. Slovik, the only soldier executed since 1864.

Other new books at the library include "The Primal Scream" by Arthur Janov. It is about primal therapy, the cure for neurosis. Bennett Ceri is author of another collection of anecdotes, stories, jokes, puns and limericks called "The Sound of Laughter."

"Barron's Profiles of American Colleges" tells all about the seats of higher learning. Author Benjamin Fine says the book is "all you need to choose your college."

Malcolm Boyd has written a new book called "My Fellow Americans." Cynthia Proper Seton tells all about motherhood, men, boredom, guilt, permissiveness, PTA LSD, pornography and mothers-in-law in "The Mother of the Graduate."

Ruth Lyons tells all about the early days of radio in "Remember With Me." Leonard Koppett tells the whole story of New York's baseball expansion team in "The New York Mets."

Finally, Morton D. Davis is author of "Game Theory," which he calls a non-technical introduction.

Lindstrom Has Plan To Aid Defectors

A fleet of private vessels will begin operations in the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast soon to help Soviet fishermen defect to the United States.

The announcement of the measure was made Tuesday by The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights. Lindstrom is the chairman of the national "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

Rev. Lindstrom told newsmen at Logan International Airport, Boston, that the boats will approach Soviet ships with signs in Russian, saying "The United States welcomes you to freedom. Jump overboard, and we will rescue you and take you safely to the U.S."

Rev. Lindstrom did not say exactly when the operation would start or how long it would last. Rev. Lindstrom was reported to be in New Bedford, Mass. yesterday working on the project.

THE OPERATION is being set up after a Soviet fisherman unsuccessfully sought political asylum aboard the Coast Guard vessel "Vigilant" several weeks ago off the Massachusetts coast. Coast Guard officials, at that time, ordered the man returned to his Soviet ship. The incident touched off a controversy that resulted in the suspensions of several Coast Guard officers.

Rev. Lindstrom admitted he expects the U.S. State Department to block the rescue operation. He added, however, the state department has taken no action on the matter. He said, "I do not feel any international incident is going to result from this type of operation."

Set Holiday Programs In District 15

Special programs celebrating the holiday season have been held in each of the Dist. 15 schools throughout the week, and some remain. They will be open to students and their parents.

An intermediate grade sing will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Jonas Salk School gym for all children in the school. Parents are also invited to attend the program.

At Carl Sandburg School in Rolling Meadows, a holiday program will be presented at 2 p.m. by the junior high students. The program will follow the regularly scheduled Sandburg PTA meeting.

Winston Park School will present the final performance of "Babes in Toyland" at 8 p.m. tonight in the school cafeteria. The play, which involves almost 200 students at the school, was presented Tuesday to Winston Park students, last night to the public and will be shown again Friday afternoon for more students.

A Christmas sing for first, second and third graders at Kimball Hill School in Rolling Meadows will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday at the school. Another sing for fourth, fifth and sixth graders will be held at 2 p.m. the same day.

A 3-Foot Card! Pity Poor Mailman

by DOUG RAY

Mail carriers may have to enlarge their mail sacks this year, as Christmas cards have taken many unusual forms. An unfortunate postman somewhere will be delivering a three-foot Christmas card.

"We produce a three-foot Santa Claus Christmas card and it sells very well," according to Ed Letwenko, creative director of United Card Co. Inc. in Rolling Meadows.

"Our Christmas cards are contemporary," according to Letwenko. What is a contemporary Christmas card? "It's a Christmas greeting with a smile," Letwenko said.

THE CONTEMPORARY card business began only about 20 years ago, according to officials at United.

"The first cards produced were called studio cards and were much longer than wide. The market has grown steadily and contemporary cards make up about 20 per cent of the total greeting card market. Christmas cards comprise about 5 per cent of the contemporary market, officials said.

A contemporary Christmas card can be made humorous in a number of ways. "Some Christmas cards are classified as contemporary because they send a humorous greeting or message. Others might be given a contemporary classification because of their unusual size or shape, Letwenko said.

SOME OF THE cards produced by the company for this year's Christmas market have washcloth and even wallpaper backgrounds.

The company formulates ideas about a year in advance of holidays. The creative department is now developing ideas for 1971 Christmas cards.

Though some of the ideas for Christmas cards come from the company's creative department, most ideas are submitted by free lance writers. If the writer sends an idea that can be used by the company, he is paid by the firm.

The process of polishing the ideas submitted by free lance writers is the job of the creative department.

"RIGHT NOW A large part of our market is made up of persons under 25 years of age," according to United Sales Manager Dick Prybell. Prybell believes the market will continue to expand as these young people grow older and more youths enter the market. "About half of the country is under 25 years old now," Prybell said.

Servicemen receive many of the contemporary cards, according to Prybell.

The firm many times takes traditional Christmas characters, such as Santa Claus, reindeer, and even elves and adds a humorous touch to make them "contemporary."

What is planned for next Christmas? "We aren't sure, but we are always looking for something funny," Letwenko said.

If this is the case, the postman probably won't be laughing, if he has to deliver a four or five-foot cardboard Santa next year.

Holiday Program Set At Library

A special children's holiday program has been scheduled at 4 p.m. today by the Palatine Public Library, 149 N. Brockway St.

The program will feature two short films, "The Rink" and "The Elves and the Shoemaker." Children may also join in singing Christmas carols with the "Library Singers."

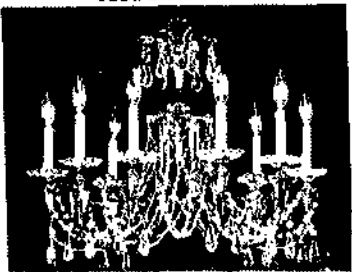

Tickets for the program are free and available in the Children's Services Dept. of the library.

A THREE FOOT Christmas card is only one of the many "contemporary" cards produced at United Card Co. in Rolling Meadows. Mrs. Roger Hintz, an employee of the firm, sizes up the card.

Fromd High School's Viking Ski Club will take their first ski trip of the season Friday. Club members will travel to the Alpine Valley Resort near Elkhorn, Wis., and ski until 11 p.m.

Any student at Fromd may go on the trip, according to Miss Marty Glaser, advisor to the club. Once a student goes on a trip, they are considered a club member, she said.

Students going on the trip will leave for Alpine Valley at 4:20 p.m. in a bus. They will arrive around 6 p.m. and leave the resort at 11 p.m. The bus will return to the Fromd parking lot at 12:30 a.m.

Ski trip costs will be $3 for towing privileges and $1 for bus fare. All beginners will be required to take lessons, which will cost $1. If a student wishes to rent his equipment, another $3 will be assessed.

TO GO ON THE trip, a student must have insurance. Ski insurance will cost $11 unless the student already holds a card indicating ski insurance has already been paid for.

Students must also get parent permit slips and return them signed before the bus pulls out.

Miss Glaser said money for food or a sack lunch is a must for club members going on the trip. Students going on the trip should bring ski clothes and equipment to the school Friday morning so the bus may leave right after school.

All students wishing to go on Friday's ski trip must sign up with the club by 4 p.m. today, Miss Glaser said.

Friday's trip is the first of many trips the club is scheduling this winter. Other trips will be scheduled on an almost weekly basis during the winter. A weekend trip to northern Wisconsin or upper Michigan will be scheduled later, she said.

Most of the trips will be to Alpine Valley.

Friday's trip should be a good one, Miss Glaser commented. It was snowing at Elkhorn, Wis., all day yesterday.

Arrest 7 For Illegal Entry

U.S. Immigration and Naturalization authorities apprehended seven aliens yesterday for allegedly entering the country illegally.

Arlington Heights police, who assisted in the arrest, said the men were arrested at a home on Rohlfing Road in unincorporated Palatine. The home is located just across from the Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

Captain Jack Aldrich of the Arlington Heights police, explained the men would be given the option of accepting funds and leaving the country voluntarily or being sent home involuntarily. Aldrich added that if the individual leaves voluntarily, he can make application to re-enter legally.

Immigration officers would not comment on the apprehension, nor reveal how they knew the men were living in the house.

Major Assigned

Army Major Kenneth S. Rehusch, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Mathias S. Rehusch, 384 E. Wilmette Ave., Palatine, was recently assigned to the First Armored Division's 47th Medical Battalion at Ft. Hood, Texas. He will become its executive officer.

Rehusch's wife, Nancy, lives in Killen, Texas.

Seek Aid For Ecology Drive

Two Elk Grove High School students, in behalf of the school's Ecology Club, are seeking village support for their bottle and newspaper recycling project.

The students, Al Benson, 17, of 501 Yarmouth Rd., and Don Baete, 16, of 360 Yarmouth Rd., both of Elk Grove Village, appeared before the village board Tuesday to ask approval of the conservation project.

Although board members appeared receptive to the idea, they requested more information.

The project would involve the designation of collection points in the village where residents may bring their old newspapers and glass bottles. The items would be taken away on a regular basis by firms dealing in reclamation.

Money from the project would be used by the Ecology Club for community educational programs on pollution.

The students indicated they would like to establish the collection points in the Park and Shop Center on Arlington Heights and Higgins roads, and the Grove Shopping Center on Arlington Heights and Biesterfeld roads.

The recycling project is the first undertaken by the Ecology Club, which began this year. Started in September by Benson and Baete, who at first were the only members, the club has grown to a membership of 20 to 30 students.

The club has three leaders, Benson, Kris Borgias and Kathy Carroll, who comprise the coordinating committee.

Two more committees have been formed to handle projects, the education committee and the recycling committee.

"We want to try and educate the people in Elk Grove Village and take action against pollution when the opportunity is open to us," Benson said.

The education committee is planning a "teach-in" this spring, according to Bor-gias, who is presently lining up a day and a speaker for a program which will be given for the student body.

The club distributed literature in November urging approval of the pollution bond act. Members passed out fact sheets in the school Tuesday on ways people can help fight pollution.

Sponsors of the club are Dave Truelsen and John Peters, biology teachers at the high school.

The club meets once a week, each Tuesday from 3:45 to 4:20 p.m.

No O'Hare Growth 'Till '72?

Plans by Chicago to use the military side of O'Hare Airport for expansion probably will not be resolved until 1972 when a new national administration comes in, J. Patrick Dunne, airport manager, said Tuesday.

Dunne, who spoke to a meeting of the Des Plaines Kiwanis Club, said Chicago's airport authority has been unsuccessful in its efforts to relocate Air Force reserve units stationed on the military side at the northeast corner.

He said the airport authority may be unable to get cooperation from the Defense Department "until 1972 when a new administration comes in," indicating that Chicago officials don't feel President Nixon will be reelected to a second term.

The City of Chicago reportedly has asked for at least 100 of the more than 150 acres of land occupied by the 91st Air Force Reserve Unit, the 920th Troop Carrier group and other military facilities.

ACCORDING TO Cong. Harold R. Collier (R-Ill.), Chicago plans to build an additional five runways if it can acquire the 100 acres. Collier has said he will try to block any expansion and has opposed relocation of the military units.

Dunne defended growth of O'Hare and said hearings on airport expansion held recently by a state senate subcommittee were "strictly political."

At those hearings, officials from several area suburbs called for a halt to growth of O'Hare and demanded that Chicago release details of its plans for the airport.

Some of the subcommittee members were defeated in their bids for reelection Nov. 3, Dunne told the Kiwanians with a smile, referring to Arthur Swanson and Walter Duda, former Republican state senators from Chicago.

"We want to be good neighbors. We think we've had something to do with the economy of the neighborhood," said Dunne, who cited the tremendous growth of the northwest suburban area since completion of O'Hare.

LAND PRICES have gone from $400 an acre in the 1950's to $100,000 an acre for O'Hare area land, Dunne said, and most nearby suburbs have increased their population by at least 50 or 60 per cent since the airport opened.

"If they think this just happened and this place (O'Hare) didn't have anything to do with it, they're nutty as a fruitcake," Dunne said of airport expansion critics from this area.

Construction of O'Hare, which Dunne said is both the world's largest and busiest airport, was publicized worldwide and its subsequent growth has not been hidden from area residents.

"It wasn't any secret," he said. "That would be like hiding a bass drum in a closet. We didn't try to hide it. We were proud of it."

Chicago officials have been criticized for not giving adequate notice of a 1969 Chicago Plan Commission hearing on plans for airport expansion.

DUNNE SAID the airport will increase its number of arrival-departure gates from 70 to 115 and provide room for expansion of international flight terminal facilities.

Despite federally imposed delays, so outgoing passengers can be searched for weapons to prevent hijackings and arriving passengers can be searched for smuggled drugs, international traffic is up 17 per cent, he said.

For the first 10 months of this year, Dunne said, air traffic at O'Hare is down six per cent compared to 1969. He blamed the decline on a severe winter last year, the air traffic controllers strike and current economic conditions.

Rte. 53 North Open To Traffic

Now it's easier going north, but just as difficult going south on Rte. 53 between Rand and Dundee Roads.

At 2:30 p.m., yesterday state highway division officials opened the northbound lanes of Rte. 53 from Rand to Dundee Roads. But because of problems with traffic lights the southbound lanes will remain closed.

Until yesterday, Rte. 53 was closed to traffic at Rand Road. However, access between Rand Road and Dundee Road has been possible by using the frontage roads along the closed highway.

Yesterday afternoon the northbound section of Rte. 53 was opened to traffic.

There will be exit ramps for northbound drivers at both Rand Road and Dundee Road, division officials said.

The southbound traffic pattern will remain exactly as is, however. Because of problems coordinating the traffic signals on Dundee Road at the entrance to southbound Rte. 53, that entrance will remain closed.

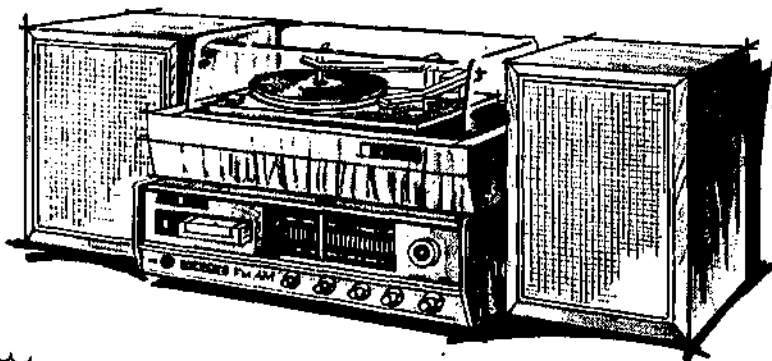

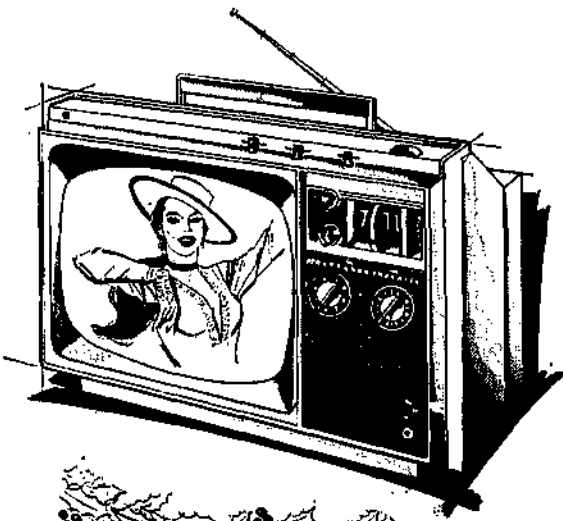

Division officials could not predict when the main portion of southbound Highway 53 would be opened at Dundee Road.

THE FINISHING TOUCHES are being applied to the exterior of the second floor of the $200,000 addition to the city garage on Central Rd. Officials expect the two-story structure to be completed in about a month. The building will house offices and storage area for the city public works department.

City Garage Is Nearing Completion

by DOUG RAY

An addition to the city garage, financed primarily from the city sales tax surplus, will be completed in about a month, according to city officials.

The $200,000 addition to the present facility on Central Rd. will provide the city public works department with a modern office and storage area.

"It's going to be a lot different than the facilities we had previously," Supt. of Public Works James F. McFeggan said.

"This addition is needed for us to operate effectively," according to McFeggan. The department was formed in 1955, when Rolling Meadows was incorporated as a city. According to reports, the public works department started with used equipment and stored the equipment wherever possible.

AN OLD BARN located on a farm near the city was used to store some of the equipment before the present facility was built.

The first permanent home for the department was built in 1962. The building was a joint effort, with the public works department and the city park district providing funds for construction.

The first home for the city public works department cost about $34,000 and as money became available, the building was expanded.

The latest expansion is extensive.

The addition has two floors and will give the department some of the luxuries that were impossible in previous years.

A lunch room, locker room and shower room are located on the first floor. An office for the superintendent and an office for the city foreman will be on the ground level. General office area and a waiting room are also to be located on the first floor.

The floor area is about 2,000 square feet.

The second floor will provide area for future expansion, according to McFeggan. McFeggan also said some city groups may hold meetings on the second floor.

FOR FIRE protection, the building will be equipped with a sprinkler system.

When work is completed, the main entrance to the offices will be on the west side of the building. The main entrance is now located on the south side of the building.

An improved bay will be located in the storage area. City personnel service equipment in the bays, including city police cars.

The department began as a one-man operation in 1955 and has grown to employ 13 full-time men and 5 part-time men.

New Interchange Now Open

by ROBERT A. LAHEY

Thousands of Tollway travelers using the spanking new Arlington Heights Road Interchange today will be driving on pavement which was nearly 10 years in the cement mixer.

The interchange was opened to traffic shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie snipped a red ribbon, the last obstacle holding back the horde of commuter cars.

The road will provide access to the Northwest Tollway to eastbound motorists from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows, and an exit for westbound autos.

Ogilvie cited a 1968 consultant's report which estimated the new facility will generate an additional 300,000 Tollway trips in its first year. According to this estimate, the interchange will earn back its initial cost in 10 years, the governor said.

"WE CAN ESTIMATE that this interchange will save a bare minimum of 1,000 man-hours a day in traveling time for the residents of this area," he said.

On hand for the opening ceremonies were many of those who waged the construction campaign which began in 1961.

They included Dr. Carl F. Mees of Arlington Heights and Neil Cooney of Elk Grove Village, co-chairmen of the Tollway Access Committee, which originated the campaign.

Mees introduced members of the committee and Robert Greenaway, an Illinois Toll Highway Authority commissioner, who told about 200 spectators gathered in a soggy snowfall.

"This facility will add another important factor to the growth of your area, which has been fantastic."

Ogilvie SECONDED that thought, saying the interchange signifies recognition by the authority of the past growth of the Northwest suburbs. "It will itself serve to promote that development during the years to come," he added.

He called the interchange "only one small cog" in the entire tollway system.

"But it is a vital one," he said, "located as it is in the very heart of Cook County's most rapidly growing area, astride this artery so indispensable to the daily lives of tens of thousands of commuters."

"Only time will tell if the projections for the importance of this facility are correct. If past experience is any guide, we probably will find them conservative."

Ogilvie also called it a "safe guess" that the interchange will contribute to adding thousands of dollars to the tax rolls in surrounding communities.

ALSO ON THE platform with Ogilvie and local officials from the three communities were state senators John A. Graham, R-Barrington, and John W. Charroli, R-Oak Park, and state representatives Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mt. Prospect. State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, was in Washington.

Ogilvie and his party drove to Arlington Heights from Chicago where he had announced opening of bids for sale of $135 million in bonds to finance the extension of the East-West Tollway from Aurora to Rock Falls.

Council Suggests Peace Corps Plan

Students at Fremd High School, Palatine, will be asked by their student council representatives to build a school in a foreign country. If they agree, they'll be taking part in the Peace Corps School Partnership Program.

Paul Mack, Midwest representative of the Peace Corps, explained the program to council members yesterday. Should the students decide to build the school, they would have to collect $1,200, Mack said.

If reaction to the proposal is favorable, council members will call a school-wide meeting in February to vote for or against the proposal. If they vote in favor of building a school with the Peace Corps, a fund-raising drive will be started.

The idea for Fremd students getting involved with a Peace Corp program originated with Candy Jacobsen, chairman of the council's services committee.

MACK, WHO JUST returned from Brazil four months ago, served with the Peace Corps for two years. At yesterday's meeting he explained terms of the agreement.

Local residents of the area where the school is to be built would become partners of Fremd students, Mack said. The $1,200 Fremd would donate would pay for three quarters of the school's building materials. The local residents would donate the other quarter of the funds and would supply the labor.

Mack pointed out that the schools are generally built in rural areas. The farmers often build the school themselves with the help of a professional bricklayer.

"It takes about 50 days for them to build a school," Mack said.

He said that even though the farmers grow only enough food on their land to feed themselves and their families, they still take time off from farming to build the school.

MACK HELPED in five school building projects while he was with the Peace Corps in Brazil. In one case, it was bean harvesting season, but the farmers helped build the school rather than harvest beans.

Entire families of farmers help build the school, Mack said. While the fathers do the heavy work and their children help in small ways, the mothers make meals for all the workers.

"Children take great pride in their school," Mack said. "They would not think of damaging the school building because they may have carried bricks to help build it."

If Fremd can raise $1,200 to build a school, the money would be sent to the Peace Corps in Washington, he explained. It would stay there about a week.

By then, a request for funds to build a school would come in from a Peace Corps field representative. The money would be forwarded.

AFTER THE SCHOOL is built, the local people would exchange a picture of the school along with data about their community with Fremd. Fremd alone would financially assist the local people in building their school, Mack said.

Mack presented a dozen slides showing how a school in Ohio helped a Brazilian village build a new school. The slides illustrated the steps villagers went through in building a modern school to replace their old wooden school which had a thatched roof.

About 1,500 American schools, churches, 4-H Clubs, teacher's groups and other organizations have taken part in the program already, he said.

Park Dist. Sets Kid's Yule Party

The Rolling Meadows Park District will sponsor its annual Christmas party for preschoolers to third grade starting at 9:15 a.m. Saturday at the Sports Complex.

Cartoons will be shown to the children at the party and special features will include Denny the Magic Clown and an appearance by Santa Claus. Candy will also be served to the children.

IF HE CAN'T catch them with the rod, maybe he can stare them to death. Dennis Szafran tries to hook a trout as he makes use of the mobile fishing tank in the mall of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center.

Village Purchases New Lighting Unit

Rolling Meadows Civil Defense Department has purchased a mobile lighting unit, according to Civil Defense Deputy Director Carmen Vinezano.

The lighting unit will be used, when the city needs additional lighting

It consists of two bar poles with eight lights. The unit was purchased with federal surplus funds.

Cracker Barrel

COMMUNICATIONS WITH the Rolling Meadows Library were cut off for an entire afternoon one day last week. While installing outside lights in the library parking lot, workmen accidentally cut the telephone cables, killing the phones until that evening.

EVEN THOUGH opening of the Rolling Meadows ice rink has been delayed until after Christmas, park district personnel got in a sneak preview last week. A small patch of the rink was frozen and a few park officials spent the evening on skates testing the area.

MOVIES BEING shown at the local theater are getting more educational all the time. One of the latest offerings was advertised on the outer billboard as "How To Succeed With Sex."

Fishing Popular At Shopping Center

If you can't make it to the fish, bring the fish to you.

Local fishermen have been taking advantage of an alternative to their favorite fresh water lake that has been set up in the mall of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center for the past couple of weeks.

It's a 40-foot tank that comes about waist high on the average sized fisherman and it's stocked with fresh water trout up to 12 inches long. For 50 cents, adults and children are supplied with rods and can fish the waters of the tank for 10 minutes.

A limit of two catches made in each 10 minute fishing period can be kept and taken home for the household aquarium or trying pan.

The mobile trout lake will be open to fishermen until Saturday and provides husbands and children with a source of amusement while the female members of the family do their holiday shopping.

The tank is open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Farm Fading, 'Quiet Man' Is Remembered

by JUDY BRANDES

People who know Dan Bergman say he is a quiet man.

His family has owned a 178-acre farm on Algonquin Road since 1867. Dan and his father, Dan Sr., used to haul milk to market in Palatine back at the turn of the century.

Now he and his son Harold work the farm. Harold and his family, as well as Dan's daughter Irene, live in the family house at 2150 Algonquin Rd.

"This house was built when I was seven years old," Bergman said. "I was born in the first home, just east of here."

The large family dining room is decorated with one wall paper pattern on three walls, a different one on the fourth. "That's the way they used to do things. You see, we've also got the tile around the lower part."

A DESK, A SEWING machine, and an expandable table fill the room now. "I was married in this very room on Thanksgiving night," he said. His wife died in 1954.

Through the front window you can see the sign on the barn across the road: "Highland Dairy Farm."

"We haven't had any cows on the farm for five years. The forest preserve bought the 140 acres across the road in 1965. We've been allowed to farm it until this year, but next year the preserve wants to have it."

Dan and Harold Bergman will still have the 38 acres on the north side of Algonquin. They will have to move the well off the forest preserve property where it has been for almost a hundred years. The farm is in Hoffman Estates, but water and sewer lines haven't been installed yet.

"We'll farm the north side like we've always done, usually planting corn and beans," said Dan.

WHEN THE FOREST preserve bought the Bergman land on the south side of Algonquin, the school house which Dan and his children attended was torn down.

"That was the Dist. 18 school house. We held out from consolidation because we liked having the school so near."

In 1946, elementary school districts in Palatine Township joined to form Community Consolidated Dist. 15, but Dist. 18 did not join the township district until 1958.

"I got my eighth grade diploma from that school, the Highland Grove School. That was the only education I got. After that I worked as a road engineer in the township for six years and then in 1920 I started farming with my dad."

Dan Bergman says he had no contact with high schools until 1921 when a friend, Fred Rohde, died. "I was attending his funeral down the road at St. John's (United Church of Christ) when Tom Hart and George Butler stopped me outside the door and told me they had picked me to take Fred's place on the high school board."

HART WAS PRESIDENT of the Palatine High School board of education and Butler was principal.

Bergman served for 25 years on the High School Dist. 211 board, the first member to serve continuously for so long. He was never board president or secretary.

"They always had someone qualified to be president and I only had an eighth grade diploma, so I didn't want to be out in the public eye."

Dan remembers Billy Fremd, "a smart boy who was one of the top graduates of the school." William Fremd, for whom the high school is named, joined Bergman on the high school board in 1938, after graduating from Palatine High School in 1920.

Tonight, Fremd and the present Dist. 211 board will give official "thanks" to Bergman for his long service on the board.

"I don't know as I deserve all this. They tried to balance the board with three farmers and four from the village. I ran every year and was never opposed," he said.

BERGMAN RETIRED from the board in 1946. He had served during the difficult years of the 1920's when the voters rejected a referendum to build a new high school, the present Palatine High, three times; the depression, when the board had to cut salaries 10 per cent; and the 1940's, when discussions of adding Schaumburg Township to the school district were prominent. Schaumburg was finally added in 1963, after Bergman left the board.

As a farmer, Bergman was interested in agricultural vocational education, and supported implementing vocational programs in the high school curriculum.

"I don't really want to talk much about the issues. It might bring up some old feelings in people. Let's just say I was a board member."

Bergman "retired" from the board in 1946 when he was 65: "But I didn't retire from farming. I still farm. In fact, today we got the last of the crops in."

Today was also his 89th birthday: "I don't like people to make too much fuss over me. I usually go visiting with friends or relatives, but today I thought I'd stay home. I like my quiet life."

HIGHLAND SCHOOL, an elementary school which eventually joined Elementary Dist. 15, was located on the Highland Dairy Farm on Algonquin

Road. The farm has been owned by the Bergman family for more than 100 years. Dan Bergman, who received his eighth grade diploma from the school, served on the Dist. 211 board 25 years.

Lunch For Needy Kids Set

New policies to provide needy children with free or reduced hot lunch rates are being initiated early next year by area public and parochial schools with cafeteria facilities.

Although such privileges are already offered in area schools, the new policy will make determinations of need more uniform.

Women Help Brighten Children's Christmas

Two Palatine women are helping brighten Christmas for homeless children by serving on the 1970 Christmas Stocking Appeal committee for the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

Mrs. Jack A. Kull, 2322 S. Circle Dr., and Mrs. Walker Finney, 287 N. Elmwood Ln., are serving on the committee working with the non-sectarian child care agency which, since 1883, has provided protection and care for more than 175,000 children.

Each year, the committee mails "little red stockings" out to area residents. Contributions returned to the committee with the stocking help to pay for Christmas gifts and provide year-round care for the society's children.

The revised policy is the result of legislation put into effect in May, setting up nationwide guidelines for elementary and high school districts throughout the country that participate in the National School Lunch Program and the Commodity Distribution Program.

Elementary schools affected by the policy change are Carl Sandburg, Gray M. Sanborn, Stuart R. Paddock, Plum Grove, Winston Park and Immanuel Lutheran.

Applications will be distributed to parents whose children attend Dist. 15 schools through the next issue of the monthly periodical Grapevine. Additional applications may be obtained at the Dist. 15 administration building.

PARENTS WHO believe their children may be eligible for free or reduced price lunches should fill out the application forms supplied and send them to William Colburn, Dist. 15 business manager, 505 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine.

Colburn will review all applications within 10 days of their receipt and parents will be notified in writing of the decision. Information provided on the application will be held in confidence.

Guidelines set up call for free or reduced price lunches to be provided to children in families in the following categories:

A family with one child with an annual gross income of $1,820; family of two children with income of $2,520; family of three with income of $3,120; family of four with income of $3,720; family of five with income of $4,270; family of six with income of $4,820; family of seven with income of $5,320; family of eight with income of $5,820. For each additional member of a family the income bracket goes up $450.

ANY UNUSUAL circumstances or hardships which affect a family's ability to pay for the lunches will also be considered when applications are reviewed. If a family is not satisfied with the decision made on the application, an appeal procedure will be set up in which a hearing will be held with the Dist. 15 superintendent.

PARENTS OF children who attend Immanuel Lutheran School should submit applications to O. G. Schaeffer, school principal, at 160 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine. A similar appeal procedure will also be set up at the school in which hearings can be held with the chairman of the school board of education for special consideration.

Hot lunches at Dist. 15 schools are normally provided to children at a daily cost of 45 cents. Lunches at Immanuel Lutheran cost 40 cents.

From The Library

'No-No' Books

by VIRGINIA CONNELL

The most interesting and informative section of the Rolling Meadows Library and one that few people trouble to browse through is the small room at the left of the adult reading area. Behind the gold-colored drapes is the actual storehouse of the library's source of knowledge.

Here are housed the no-no books. In other words, this tiny room houses the library's reference collection — the books that under no circumstances circulate. We have dictionaries and current sets of encyclopedias behind the desk also that do not circulate. But for the in-depth reference collection one turns to the Reference Room.

Each year there are hundreds of requests for answers to problems that may be found by using encyclopedias. Then there are a few hundred that momentarily stump the librarian. Far from being "walking books of knowledge," a term that years ago applied to librarians, they don't know the answers to all questions, but do have access to the in-depth reference collection to answer the request. Librarians must know the collection of the little room at the left.

ONE SUCH RECENT request was whether Japanese poetry is written in the same meter as American poetry and an example of a Japanese poem. It took a little time but the request was filled from "The World Anthology of Poetry."

Did you know the first white child born on American soil of European parents was Snorro in 1007? A fun book to browse through is "Famous First Facts."

We are all conscious of the State Constitution revision just now but did you know the first copies of the United States Constitution were printed June 21, 1788? I'm not sure that Patuxent, Md. had ever heard the term "Women's Lib." The amusing point, however, is, the first jury composed of all women was held in the little town in Maryland on September 22, 1856.

Some of the unusual dictionaries in the collection are rhyming, electronics, physics, Swahili, Hawaiian and more will be added this year.

The encyclopedia collections boasts Encyclopedia of Religion and Ethics;

Encyclopedia of Mental Health; Encyclopedia of Philosophy; Encyclopedia of Technology; Encyclopedia of Social Sciences and Oxford History of Music.

"GRANGE'S INDEX" is the book that is perhaps used the most with the exception of "World Almanac." Grange's lists poems by first lines, authors and titles. Grange's is also probably the most dog-eared volume in the library. There is scarcely a day goes by that someone doesn't request the title of a well-known poem or quote a line from a poem that perhaps they learned in second or third grade of school.

Another subject of interest in the Reference Room is a series of cumulative volumes entitled "Current Biography." The December issue for 1970 has current biographies on Golda Meir, under Foreign Government; Jessie Jackson, Social Service; Necrology, Cardinal Richard Cushing; Charles De Gaulle, Peter II of Yugoslavia.

The library tools or work books mentioned are just a few of our collection. In addition the room houses many rare volumes that cannot be replaced at any cost, especially in the fields of art and music.

Lindstrom Has Plan To Aid Defectors

A fleet of private vessels will begin operations in the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast soon to help Soviet fishermen defect to the United States.

The announcement of the measure was made Tuesday by The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights. Lindstrom is the chairman of the national "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

Rev. Lindstrom told newsmen at Logan International Airport, Boston, that the boats will approach Soviet ships with signs in Russian, saying "The United States welcomes you to freedom. Jump overboard, and we will rescue you and take you safely to the U.S."

Rev. Lindstrom did not say exactly when the operation would start or how long it would last. Rev. Lindstrom was reported to be in New Bedford, Mass. yesterday working on the project.

THE OPERATION is being set up after a Soviet fisherman unsuccessfully sought political asylum aboard the Coast Guard vessel "Vigilant" several weeks ago off the Massachusetts coast. Coast Guard officials, at that time, ordered the man returned to his Soviet ship. The incident touched off a controversy that resulted in the suspensions of several Coast Guard officers.

Rev. Lindstrom admitted he expects the U.S. State Department to block the rescue operation. He added, however, the state department has taken no action on the matter. He said, "I do not feel any international incident is going to result from this type of operation."

Set Holiday Programs In District 15

Special programs celebrating the holiday season have been held in each of the Dist. 15 schools throughout the week, and some remain. They will be open to students and their parents.

An intermediate grade sing will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Jonas Salk School gym for all children in the school. Parents are also invited to attend the program.

At Carl Sandburg School in Rolling Meadows, a holiday program will be presented at 8 p.m. by the junior high students. The program will follow the regularly scheduled Sandburg PTA meeting.

Winston Park School will present the final performance of "Babes in Toyland" at 8 p.m. tonight in the school cafeteria. The play, which involves almost 200 students at the school, was presented Tuesday to Winston Park students, last night to the public and will be shown again Friday afternoon for more students.

A Christmas sing for first, second and third graders at Kimball Hill School in Rolling Meadows will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday at the school. Another sing for fourth, fifth and sixth graders will be held at 2 p.m. the same day.

WENDY WARD PACESETTERS, the teen fashion board of Montgomery Ward at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect, wrap Christmas presents for about 250 children of Maryville Academy in Des Plaines. Darcy Busch, left, Linda Kravets, Louise Bonheim and Denise Freund wrap presents they have selected themselves for the children. The 27-member board will host a Christmas party at Maryville Tuesday.

Bond Issue Planned For Fire Station

An addition to the fire station facilities of the Prospect Heights Fire Department will be built if a referendum, proposed by fire officials, is approved.

Officials discussed the bond issue referendum during a meeting Tuesday.

Fire officials plan to set both the amount of the bond issue and the date of the referendum only after final architect's plans are ready.

Trustees decided Tuesday that an addition would be built to the department's existing station on Camp McDonald Road. This alternative was chosen instead of building a separate new station.

However, trustees did review preliminary architect's plans for a separate new station. The plans were drawn up by James M. Ray, an Arlington Heights architect.

The plans called for a two-story structure. The ground floor would include a garage area and an office wing. Use of the second floor would not have to be decided, Ray suggested, until more funds were available.

FIREMEN POINTED out the second floor could be used for meetings and community events. Later if the firemen became fulltime, salaried employees, the second floor could be made into a dormitory.

Fire trustees asked Ray to revise his plans so the new structure would be an addition to the existing station instead of a separate building. The existing station could be used for offices one trustee pointed out.

Discussing the enlarged station, Trustee Henry Valley said an alley just east of the station would have to be moved farther east if the addition were built. The west side of the station is adjacent to a store.

A house now stands on the lot across the alley from the fire station. According to the firemen, the house was recently put up for sale.

If the owners of the lot and the trustees can't agree on a selling price, the fire district may condemn the land.

Trustee Norman Johnson said he was reluctant to enter into condemnation proceedings. "I can't condemn a man's home. A man's home is his castle."

"Condemnation shouldn't deter us in doing what is necessary to provide adequate fire protection," said Valley. Bob Blaine, president of the firemen's association, supported Valley's position.

WHILE THE COST of the land is not known, trustees estimate the building addition will cost between $100,000 and $175,000.

Trustees decided to set the cost at a maximum of $14 per square foot.

A bond issue will be necessary to build the addition, according to the trustees, because the district's annual tax revenue totals only $30,000. This revenue may even decrease in the future, according to Johnson because of neighboring villages' annexations.

"I see the district going before my eyes all of the time," said Johnson. "This district is going down the drain, and it isn't our fault."

One of the factors that persuaded the trustees to attempt to build an addition rather than a second, new building was that they felt it would be cheaper.

Before the trustees authorized the architect to make plans for an addition, they considered the possibility of purchasing a site for a new building.

THE FIREMEN proposed sites at either Wheeling and Camp McDonald roads or at Elmhurst and Palatine roads. They said that the first property is up for sale.

Property at Elmhurst and Camp McDonald roads and just east of Eisenhower School were also suggested, but ruled out immediately because of high cost.

Valley said the site of the present station is best because it is "centrally located in the district." The other trustees concurred with his statement.

Rob Station Attendant At Knife Point

Two men, one of them armed with a knife, beat a service station attendant yesterday and escaped with $200 in cash from the Clark Service Station at Hintz and Elmhurst roads, near Wheeling.

The two men, in their early 20s, fled the station in a dark-colored car driven by a third man, according to Cook County Sheriff's Police.

The station attendant, Walter Bjornson, 18, Wheeling, told police that one man held a knife at the back of his neck and told him not to move while a second man searched the station for money.

The two men tied Bjornson's hands with a necktie and put a shirt over his head before leaving. They told him not to move for 10 minutes.

Bjornson summoned police by stopping a passing motorist after he managed to leave the station.

The motorist flagged down a Wheeling police car. Wheeling police called County Police to the scene.

Bjornson told the Herald that the two men jumped him in the station at about 3 a.m. He said three of his teeth were knocked out, and his eye was blackened.

Bjornson said the money was taken from a cabinet in the station's safe.

'Disney On Parade' Party Feature

A performance by "Disney On Parade" is scheduled to highlight a Christmas party Tuesday for children of Maryville Academy in Des Plaines.

The teen fashion board of Montgomery Ward at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect will host the party — complete with Santa Claus, gifts, games, refreshments and a performance by "Disney On Parade" — Tuesday afternoon at Maryville Academy, Central and River roads.

About 250 children between the ages of six and 12 will be entertained by Santa and the 27-member teen board that planned the Christmas party. A performance of "Disney On Parade," songs and dances by Walt Disney characters such as Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Mickey Mouse and Pinocchio, is scheduled by the Disney company currently on tour.

The party is the idea of the Wendy Ward Pacesetters, the teen fashion board of high school girls from the Northwest suburban area. Jenese Busch, director of Wendy Ward, said the board planned the program and pledged to buy gifts for the children as a Christmas project this year.

TO HELP finance the project, the board sponsored a teen dance Dec. 5. Proceeds from the dance, which Montgomery Ward matched more than dollar for dollar, will be used to purchase the gifts.

"Each girl is buying presents, personally selecting the gifts, for nine children. In November, the staff at Maryville asked the children to write letters to Santa asking for the one present they'd like the most. And we're trying to fill these Christmas wishes," Mrs. Busch explained.

She said most of the children asked for traditional presents such as dolls, toy trucks, games and footballs or basketballs.

The party has been planned as a surprise for the children. They don't know anything about the party or the presents," Mrs. Busch said.

Board Sets Feb. 13 Referendum Date

Voters in River Trails School Dist. 26 will go to the polls Feb. 13 to consider a two-part referendum involving a proposed tax hike and a bond issue.

The school board made the decision at its meeting Tuesday to hold the referendum. In choosing to go ahead with the election, board members followed the recommendation made in November by Winston Harwood, school superintendent.

The first part of the referendum will be for a 20-cent hike in the education fund tax rate. Currently the rate stands at $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation. According to Harwood, it is the lowest rate in the area. It has not been changed in a decade he said. If voters approve the tax hike, the new rate would be $1.60.

The second proposal is for the sale of $525,000 in bonds for the construction of an addition to River Trails Junior High School. Whether the bond issue would result in a tax hike is still to be determined. The tax hike, if any, would be kept to a minimum, according to school officials.

THOUGH DETAILED plans for the addition have not yet been drawn up, Harwood did say Tuesday that it would include additional classrooms, an enlarged home economics area, a larger cafeteria and a larger kitchen.

Architect Wayne Fritch told the board Tuesday he estimated the cost of the addition at about $420,000. Added to this would be an expense of about $42,000 for equipment to be used in the addition.

In a written report to the board James Retzlaff, assistant superintendent, said, "It is becoming more apparent that some provision will have to be made at (the junior high school) for more space by a building addition." Retzlaff indicated that the alternative would be to cut back on certain programs.

Currently the junior high school enrollment stands at 660. According to Retzlaff, "the population for next year would be . . . in the vicinity of 680 to 700." With the addition the school could accommodate about 1,000 students, however.

RETZLAFF INDICATED that growth in the school-age population in the district could come about because there are several large undeveloped tracts and many smaller ones now in the district. If residential structures were built on these sites, it would mean a greater school-age population.

According to school officials an addition was built onto the junior high school about two years ago. The addition, costing about $150,000 was built at the north end of the school.

Harwood said that if the referendum is successful the addition would probably be open in the fall of 1972, though he added it might be ready as early as next fall.

Woman Charged In Traffic Accident

A Mount Prospect woman was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident after a rear end collision Tuesday on Algonquin Road.

Gail A. McDonald, 17, of 1305 Cottonwood, Mount Prospect, was charged after her car collided with one driven by Consuelo D. Jorego, 40, of 115 N. Garden, Bensenville.

Police said both cars were going southeast on Algonquin Road and the Jorego car was stopped waiting for another car to turn onto Goebbert Road.

Miss McDonald and Mary Ann Cortez, 16, a passenger in the second car, were treated and released at Northwest Community Hospital.

Permit Dispute Blamed On Village

Problems with sanitary sewer permits for the Sandpebble Walk development in southern Wheeling are a direct result of the village of Wheeling ignoring requests for cooperation with the Old Town Sanitary District (OTSD) of Prospect Heights, according to the district's superintendent.

Richard Schuld, OTSD superintendent, told the Herald that his district sent repeated letters to the village explaining the necessity of developers applying for sewer permits to the OTSD. However, he said, the village issued building permits for the development even though no permits had been applied for with the OTSD.

Schuld's comments were in response to a Wheeling village board discussion Monday of the fact that the metropolitan sanitary district had, on the recommendation of the OTSD, stopped sanitary sewer hook-on permits for the development on Palatine Road near Wheeling Road.

WHEELING OFFICIALS were irate that the OTSD was concerning itself with a development in the village limits.

They implied that the OTSD was trying to assess the developer high prices to hook his sewer into an MSD interceptor and that the OTSD was planning to stop all development in southern Wheeling by restricting sewer permits.

Schuld said the village had been notified by his office repeatedly that the OTSD had jurisdiction in the area even though the property had been annexed to the village.

He said the drainage code in state statutes provides that if a village annexes an area already included in an independent sanitary district, "the sanitary district shall remain responsible for providing sewers and collecting and disposing of the sewage."

Explaining that his attempts to meet with the developers of the project and with village officials have failed, Schuld said, "Now all of a sudden they're crying like a bunch of children. The Village of Wheeling has consistently been remarkably good at not wanting to work with us on water problems in this area."

SCHULD SAID the village has not acted to inform the district of annexations in the area despite requests by the OTSD that it do so.

He said that in July he had written to the village president and board of trustees and to the acting manager and planning director for the village introducing himself and enclosing a map of the sanitary district.

The letter explained that he understood the village was considering annexing or had annexed certain property within his district and that he wanted the village to understand that the developers would need to apply for and receive sewer permits and flood control program approval from the OTSD before beginning to build.

A similar letter had been sent a year ago. He received no reply to either one Schuld said.

HE SAID THAT on Aug. 19 he wrote to the village again asking if the village was requiring developers to comply with OTSD ordinances before giving them building permits.

Schuld said a letter of response from village Atty. Paul Hamer had assured him that the village would not issue building permits for any projects in the district until it was satisfied that the necessary OTSD permits had been issued.

Schuld said that in March he had corresponded with the builders of Sandpebble Walk and had met with them. He said the developers had been aware that the project was in the OTSD and that he had told them repeatedly that since it was in the district the OTSD would provide sanitary sewers for the project.

SINCE THAT time he has called the developer and the village repeatedly and has been unable to get an appointment, Schuld said.

He said that recently after informing village officials and the developer about the need for the OTSD permits he had again called the MSD and explained the OTSD jurisdiction over the property. The MSD had then refused permits for the development based on his recommendation" Schuld said Building has begun on the project without OTSD permits.

Schuld denied an accusation by the village zoning administrator that the OTSD had recommended septic tank and well systems for the development.

He said his district operates on the basis of a relatively high tap-on fee to avoid reassessing sanitary sewer users at a later date.

HE SAID ANOTHER proposed development, the Swan Lake project on Wheeling road near St. Alphonsus Church, also lies within the OTSD.

"We have a moral obligation to the bondholders of our district to control sanitary sewer hook-ons in our area," Schuld explained. He said the OTSD would have to approve plans for the sewer system and drainage before any sewer pipe could be laid on the project.

He said the OTSD attorney was currently attempting to contact the village and the developer for a meeting on the matter.

DESPITE SNOW AND COLD weather, more than 800 persons waited in line last Friday night for the second moonlight sale to be held at the Sears Roebuck and Co. catalogue outlet store in the Dun-hurst Shopping Center on Dundee Road in Wheel-ing. Off-duty Wheeling policemen helped control the crowds. Store officials said the sale attracted 3,000 shoppers.

New Interchange Now Open

Thousands of Tollway travelers using the spanking new Arlington Heights Road interchange today will be driving on pavement which was nearly 10 years in the cement mixer.

The interchange was opened to traffic shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie snipped a red ribbon, the last obstacle holding back the horde of commuter cars.

The road will provide access to the Northwest Tollway to eastbound motorists from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows, and an exit for westbound autos.

Ogilvie cited a 1968 consultant's report which estimated the new facility will generate an additional 300,000 Tollway trips in its first year. According to this estimate, the interchange will earn back its initial cost in 10 years, the governor said.

"WE CAN ESTIMATE that this interchange will save a bare minimum of 1,000 man-hours a day in traveling time for the residents of this area," he said.

On hand for the opening ceremonies were many of those who waged the construction campaign which began in 1961.

They included Dr. Carl F. Mees of Arlington Heights and Neil Cooney of Elk Grove Village, co-chairmen of the Tollway Access Committee, which originated the campaign.

Mees introduced members of the committee and Robert Greenaway, an Illinois Toll Highway Authority commissioner, who told about 200 spectators gathered in a soggy snowfall:

"This facility will add another important factor to the growth of your area, which has been fantastic."

Ogilvie SECONDED that thought, saying the interchange signifies recognition by the authority of the past growth of the Northwest suburbs. "It will itself serve to promote that development during the years to come," he added.

He called the interchange "only one small cog" in the entire tollway system. "But it is a vital one," he said, "located as it is in the very heart of Cook County's most rapidly growing area, astride this artery so indispensable to the daily lives of tens of thousands of commuters."

"Only time will tell if the projections for the importance of this facility are correct. If past experience is any guide, we probably will find them conservative."

Ogilvie also called it a "safe guess" that the interchange will contribute to adding thousands of dollars to the tax rolls in surrounding communities.

ALSO ON THE platform with Ogilvie and local officials from the three communities were state senators John A. Graham, R-Barrington, and John W. Charroll, R-Oak Park; and state representatives Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mt. Prospect. State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, was in Washington.

Ogilvie and his party drove to Arlington Heights from Chicago where he had announced opening of bids for sale of $135 million in bonds to finance the extension of the East-West Tollway from Aurora to Rock Falls.

Skating Rink Hours Told

Although employees of the Mount Prospect Park District are still working on ice rinks, the hours that both skating and hockey rinks will be open have already been announced.

The rinks will be located at Lions Park, Meadows Park, High Ridge Knolls Park, Emerson Park, Devonshire School Park and the Mount Prospect Country Club. The opening date for the rinks will be announced later.

The rinks will be open weekdays from 4 to 9 p.m. and Saturdays, Sundays and during school vacations from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Christmas Eve, New Year's Eve and New Year's Day the rinks will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The rinks will be closed Christmas Day.

The rink at Lions Park will be open for hockey from 8 to 10 a.m. and 6 to 7 p.m. during school vacations and Saturdays and Sundays and from 6 to 7 p.m. on school days.

The lighted hockey rink, located at the Lions Park tennis courts, is also available for skating during the same hours as the other rinks.

All the skating facilities are complete with warming shelters and there is a toboggan hill located at Lions.

Lindstrom Has Plan To Aid Defectors

A fleet of private vessels will begin operations in the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast soon to help Soviet fishermen defect to the United States.

The announcement of the measure was made Tuesday by The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights. Lindstrom is the chairman of the national "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

Rev. Lindstrom told newsmen at Logan International Airport, Boston, that the boats will approach Soviet ships with signs in Russian, saying "The United States welcomes you to freedom. Jump overboard, and we will rescue you and take you safely to the U.S."

Rev. Lindstrom did not say exactly when the operation would start or how long it would last. Rev. Lindstrom was reported to be in New Bedford, Mass. yesterday working on the project.

THE OPERATION is being set up after a Soviet fisherman unsuccessfully sought political asylum aboard the Coast Guard vessel "Vigilant" several weeks ago off the Massachusetts coast. Coast Guard officials, at that time, ordered the man returned to his Soviet ship. The incident touched off a controversy that resulted in the suspensions of several Coast Guard officers.

Rev. Lindstrom admitted he expects the U.S. State Department to block the rescue operation. He added, however, the state department has taken no action on the matter. He said, "I do not feel any international incident is going to result from this type of operation."

Library Slates Yule Story Hour

Children participating in the story hour program at the Mount Prospect Public Library will be treated to a special Christmas story hour today at 10:30 a.m. at the library, located at 14 E. Busse Ave.

Coffee and refreshments will be served to parents and children attending the program as well as refreshments for the children.

There will be no story hour Dec. 24. The library will be closed that day.

Reduction In Swimming Passes Is Approved

The price of winter season swim passes for residents of the Mount Prospect Park District will be reduced each month from now until the indoor season ends this June.

Family passes can be purchased this month for $18, marked down from $27 when the family passes first went on sale for the nine-month season last September. The family passes will be reduced $3 each month until the end of the indoor season.

Adult passes will cost $2 less per month. They are currently on sale for $12, or $6 less than the September price. Children's passes are now on sale for $6 and will be reduced $1 per month.

Winter Concert Is Set Tonight

Students at Westbrook School will present their annual Winter Concert tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of the school, located at 105 S. Busse Rd., Mount Prospect.

The concert will be open to the public at no charge. Participating in the event will be the primary grades and the Cadet Band under the direction of Dave Metzler.

Year-round swim passes for the family will go on sale in June for $36. Previously, purchasing summer and winter passes separately for the family would amount to $40: $18 for summer passes and $22 for winter passes.

Like the current winter passes, the price of year-round family swim passes will be reduced $3 each month for the 12-month period.

Adult year-round passes will cost $24. Children's passes will be priced at $12. The adult passes will be reduced $2 per month and the children's passes will be reduced $1 per month.

Persons wishing to purchase family swim passes for the summer can do so for $18, the same cost as last year. Adult summer passes will be sold for $10 and children's for $6.

Summer passes for families will be reduced $4 per month for the three-month season; adult passes will be reduced $2 per month; and children's passes will be reduced $1 per month.

All swim passes for non-residents of the Mount Prospect Park District will cost twice that for residents.

Paul Caldwell, assistant director of parks and recreation, said the cost of swim passes was reduced on a monthly basis to encourage persons to buy them despite the fact that a portion of either the summer or winter season may have ended.

2 Charged In Burglary

Des Plaines police have charged two men in connection with a $5,000 burglary that took place early Monday morning at Maryville Academy, 1150 N. River Rd., Des Plaines.

According to police, the men, who were aided in preparing the theft by two Maryville students, climbed into the office window, forced open one door and climbed over another door once inside to reach a room where two safes are kept.

After opening the safes, the men allegedly took $5,000 in cash and a $6,797 check for the Maryville Christmas Fund, police said.

Arrested were Richard Clark, 46 C Wil-low Way Trailer Park, Arlington Heights, and Thomas Trybus, for whom police did not give an address. Trybus was arrested at Niles felony court, where he was appearing on charges of burglarizing a manufacturing company in Niles, police said.

No O'Hare Growth 'Till '72?

Plans by Chicago to use the military side of O'Hare Airport for expansion probably will not be resolved until 1972 when a new national administration comes in, J. Patrick Dunne, airport manager, said Tuesday.

Dunne, who spoke to a meeting of the Des Plaines Kiwanis Club said Chicago's airport authority has been unsuccessful in its efforts to relocate Air Force reserve units stationed on the military side at the northeast corner.

He said the airport authority may be unable to get cooperation from the Defense Department "until 1972 when a new administration comes in," indicating that Chicago officials don't feel President Nixon will be relocated to a second term.

The City of Chicago reportedly has asked for at least 100 of the more than 150 acres of land occupied by the 91st Air Force Reserve Unit, the 92nd Troop Carrier group and other military facilities.

ACCORDING TO Cong Harold R. Collier (R-Ill) Chicago plans to build an additional five runways, if it can acquire the 100 acres Collier has said he will try to block any expansion and has opposed relocation of the military units.

Dunne defended growth of O'Hare and said hearings on airport expansion held recently by a state senate subcommittee were "strictly political."

At those hearings, officials from several area suburbs called for a halt to growth of O'Hare and demanded that Chicago release details of its plans for the airport.

Some of the subcommittee members were defeated in their bids for reelection Nov. 3, Dunne told the Kiwanians with a smile referring to Arthur Swanson and Walter Duda, former Republican state senators from Chicago.

"We want to be good neighbors. We think we've had something to do with the economy of the neighborhood," said Dunne, who cited the tremendous growth of the northwest suburban area since completion of O'Hare.

LAND PRICES have gone from $400 an acre in the 1950's to $100,000 an acre for O'Hare area land, Dunne said, and most nearby suburbs have increased their population by at least 50 or 60 per cent since the airport opened.

"If they think this just happened and this place (O'Hare) didn't have anything to do with it, they're nutty as a fruitcake," Dunne said of airport expansion critics from this area.

Construction of O'Hare, which Dunne said is both the world's largest and busiest airport, was publicized worldwide and its subsequent growth has not been hidden from area residents.

"It wasn't any secret," he said. "That would be like hiding a bass drum in a closet. We didn't try to hide it. We were proud of it."

Chicago officials have been criticized for not giving adequate notice of a 1969 Chicago Plan Commission hearing on plans for airport expansion.

DUNNE SAID the airport will increase its number of arrival-departure gates from 70 to 115 and provide room for expansion of international flight terminal facilities.

Despite federally imposed delays, so outgoing passengers can be searched for weapons to prevent hijackings and arriving passengers can be searched for smuggled drugs, international traffic is up 17 per cent, he said.

For the first 10 months of this year, Dunne said, air traffic at O'Hare is down six per cent compared to 1969. He blamed the decline on a severe winter last year, the air traffic controllers strike and current economic conditions.

Charge 5 Teens With Burglary

Five youths were charged yesterday by Des Plaines police in connection with an early morning burglary at Bud's Auto Body Shop, 1865 Busse Hwy., Des Plaines.

Police said the youths, all five from Mount Prospect, were stopped in a car near the body shop after officers, responding to a burglary in progress call, saw them dump what turned out to be a cash drawer from the auto.

According to police reports, about $20 in cash and several checks were taken in the theft, after burglars had entered the body shop by prying open a door about 5 a.m.

Charged with burglary were Vito Badlamenti, 18, of 1727 E Foundry Rd., Vincent Badlamenti, 18, also of 1727 E Foundry, Burkhard Stern, 18, of 146 Anita, Stephen Bass, 17, of 234 Graylawn Ave., and a 16-year-old youth.

Set Tax Rate, Bond Vote For February 13

Voters in River Trails School Dist. 26 will go to the polls Feb. 13 to consider a two-part referendum involving a proposed tax hike and a bond issue.

The school board made the decision at its meeting Tuesday to hold the referendum. In choosing to go ahead with the election, board members followed the recommendation made in November by Winston Harwood, school superintendent.

The first part of the referendum will be for a 20-cent hike in the education fund tax rate. Currently the rate stands at $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation. According to Harwood, it is the lowest rate in the area. It has not been changed in a decade he said. If voters approve the tax hike, the new rate would be $1.60.

The second proposal is for the sale of $525,000 in bonds for the construction of an addition to River Trails Junior High School. Whether the bond issue would result in a tax hike is still to be determined. The tax hike, if any, would be kept to a minimum, according to school officials.

THOUGH DETAILED plans for the addition have not yet been drawn up, Harwood did say Tuesday that it would include additional classrooms, an enlarged home economics area, a larger cafeteria and a larger kitchen.

Architect Wayne Fritch told the board Tuesday he estimated the cost of the addition at about $420,000. Added to this would be an expense of about $42,000 for equipment to be used in the addition.

In a written report to the board James Retzlaff, assistant superintendent, said, "It is becoming more apparent that some provision will have to be made at (the junior high school) for more space by a building addition." Retzlaff indicated that the alternative would be to cut back on certain programs.

Currently the junior high school enrollment stands at 660. According to Retzlaff, "the population for next year would be... in the vicinity of 760 to 780." With the addition the school could accommodate about 1,000 students, however.

RETZLAFF INDICATED that growth in the school-age population in the district could come about because there are several large undeveloped tracts and many smaller ones now in the district. If residential structures were built on these sites, it would mean a greater school-age population.

According to school officials an addition was built onto the junior high school about two years ago. The addition, costing about $150,000 was built at the north end of the school.

Harwood said that if the referendum is successful the addition would probably be open in the fall of 1972, though he added it might be ready as early as next fall.

Filing Date Set Dec. 28 For Election

Persons wishing to run for a post on the Mount Prospect Park District board of commissioners can make their intentions official Dec. 28. That is the first day persons can file for the election, which will be held April 6.

The only vacancy on the board this spring will be that of the president of the park board, Robert Jackson. Jackson's six-year term will expire at that time.

Jackson told the Herald yesterday "I have no idea if I'll run for reelection or not."

"I will say that there are

"I will say that there are many park district programs which have begun and that I would like to see continued," said Jackson.

Terms on the park board of commissioners run for six years. Elections are held on odd-numbered years with the last election taking place in 1969.

IT WAS DURING the last election that two residents of Des Plaines, William Selep and Michael Buckley, were elected to the board.

Residents of the park district are eligible to vote in the election. The boundaries of the park district include a large portion of Mount Prospect and the Eighth Ward in Des Plaines.

The last day for filing for a seat on the board is Feb. 1, and the last day for officially withdrawing from the race is Feb. 6.

THE FIRST DAY on which voters can apply for an absentee ballot is March 8, 30 days prior to election day. The last day on which absentee voters can request a ballot by mail is April 1, five days prior to the election. The last day on which absentee ballots will be distributed in person is April 3, or three days prior to the election.

Persons wishing to apply for filing for the election must do so by contacting Roland Becker, secretary of the park board, or by visiting the park district offices, located at 600 S. See-Gwon Ave., Mount Prospect.

According to law, persons wishing to run for a post on the park board must solicit the signatures of approximately 35 eligible voters. This is equal to two per cent of those who voted in the 1969 election.

'Disney On Parade' Party Feature

A performance by "Disney On Parade" is scheduled to highlight a Christmas party Tuesday for children of Maryville Academy in Des Plaines.

The teen fashion board of Montgomery Ward at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect will host the party — complete with Santa Claus, gifts, games, refreshments and a performance by "Disney On Parade" — Tuesday afternoon at Maryville Academy, Central and River roads.

About 250 children between the ages of six and 12 will be entertained by Santa and the 27-member teen board that planned the Christmas party. A performance of "Disney On Parade," songs and dances by Walt Disney characters such as Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Mickey Mouse and Pinocchio, is scheduled by the Disney company currently on tour.

The party is the idea of the Wendy Ward Pace setters, the teen fashion board of high school girls from the Northwest suburban area. Jenese Busch, director of Wendy Ward, said the board planned the program and pledged to buy gifts for the children as a Christmas project this year.

TO HELP finance the project, the board sponsored a teen dance Dec. 5. Proceeds from the dance, which Montgomery Ward matched more than dollar for dollar, will be used to purchase the gifts.

"Each girl is buying presents, personally selecting the gifts, for nine children. In November, the staff at Maryville asked the children to write letters to Santa asking for the one present they'd like the most. And we're trying to fill these Christmas wishes," Mrs. Busch explained.

She said most of the children asked for traditional presents such as dolls, toy trucks, games and footballs or basketballs.

The party has been planned as a surprise for the children. They don't know anything about the party or the presents," Mrs. Busch said.

Sewer Installation Begins

Work on the installation of outlet sewers to service three subdivisions south of Golf Road and west of Elmhurst Road in Mount Prospect is scheduled to begin today.

David Creamer, director of the Mount Prospect public works department, said crews from S. H. Cassidy Inc. of Skokie will probably begin digging trenches today in the area of Weller Creek and South Wa-Pella Street.

Creamer said his personnel spent yesterday acquainting workmen with the construction area. "We located and staked all our underground utilities such as water and sewer lines so they won't be accidentally damaged during construction," he said.

TWO VILLAGE WATER mains were damaged last summer by another construction company contracted for the improvements of Golf and Busse roads.

Creamer said equipment and machinery were delivered to the work site yesterday.

He said workmen will begin digging trenches for the installation of underground sewer lines in the area of Weller Creek and South Wa-Pella Street, working south to Golf Road. Underground pipes will be installed in the parkway on the east side of Wa-Pella Street south to the south property line of Sunset Park School.

The line will then be continued west on the school property to Can-Dota Street and south on the east side of Can-Dota to Golf Road. The line will provide outlet sewers for Windsor Estates, Huntington Estates (a planned unit development by Kenroy Builders, Inc.) and the Kaplan and Braun subdivision south of Golf Road and west of Elmhurst Road.

The project, scheduled for completion within three months, will provide the outlet sewers in this area with a direct line to the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) interceptor sewer at Weller Creek, Creamer said.

"WE WANT TO HOOK directly into the MSD interceptor sewer rather than tie in with our distribution system sewers because they're already overloaded. By tying directly into the MSD sewer, we can eliminate some of the sewer problems we have in this section of the village," Creamer explained.

In addition to the installation of outlet sewers, a lift station will be built on the south side of Golf Road at Wa-Pella Street.

Cost of the outlet sewers and lift station is estimated at about $137,000. Village Engr. Bill McManamon said the cost will be shared by the developers of the three subdivisions.

Draft Lottery Officials Say:

195 Is The 'Magic' Number

Young men holding student or other deferments whose draft lottery numbers are 195 or higher will have a better chance of avoiding the draft if they ask for reclassification before the end of this year.

According to William Jacobs, government appeals agent for Selective Service Board 161, which covers many Northwest suburban communities, several thousand area men with deferments and high numbers will be thrown into next year's lottery pool if they don't request 1-A classification by Dec. 31.

Draft boards are almost certain not to call anyone with a number higher than 195 this year, Jacobs said, and men without deferments who are not called most likely will never be drafted.

However, men with deferments will be put in the eligible pool the year their deferments run out, and will be called up by their original lottery number, if draft boards go as high as their number that year, Jacobs said.

TO AVOID BEING thrown into the eligible pool in some future year when draft calls could possibly reach higher numbers than the estimated 195 for 1970, men with numbers higher than 195 this year who hold deferments should ask for reclassification, said Jacobs.

"If someone has a number less than 195, it would not be advisable generally to request such a reclassification," he said.

"Under the present lottery system, if you have a number like 175 and you have a 2-S (student deferment) running out next year, your number will be placed at the same point as the people who have 175 in the 1971 lottery. If they don't go that high next year, you won't be called," said Jacobs.

On the other hand, he explained, a man with a lottery number of 200, for example, who has a deferment running out next year and does not ask for reclassification before Dec. 31, will be put in next year's pool at the same point as other eligible men with the number 200.

IF THE LOTTERY reaches 200 next year, he will most likely be drafted, Jacobs said, but if he had asked to be reclassified to 1-A before Dec. 31, 1970, he would have been put in the 1970 pool and most likely not have been called, assuming this year's lottery does not go higher than expected.

Draft registrants can be reclassified by writing their letter to their local draft boards, asking for 1-A classification, said Jacobs.

Boys Chased, Then Arrested

Two youths were arrested for criminal damage to property Wednesday morning after two Arlington Heights police detectives were allegedly harassed near Forest View High School.

Police said the youths, Joseph J. Eschenbrenner, 17, of 1712 E. Palatine, and James J. Houldsworth, 18, of 2802 Hawk Ln., Rolling Meadows, were arrested in the school after police chased them into the building.

The detectives were parked in the parking lot of a church north of the school when a group began to throw snowballs and to shout obscenities at them, police said.

AFTER THE OFFICERS tried to leave the scene, the police said they decided to arrest the "instigators" and chased two youths into the high school.

After the accused were arrested as many as 40 youths gathered in the halls and shouted obscenities at the officers, police said.

Another youth, Larry A. Paddock, 17, of 2405 Hawk Ln., Rolling Meadows, was arrested later when he appeared at the police station saying he was the lawyer for the other two, police said.

He was arrested and charged with impersonating a judicial officer.

Each of the three youths was released on $1,000 bond for court appearance Feb. 12.

DESPITE SNOW AND COLD weather, more than 800 persons waited in line last Friday night for the second moonlight sale to be held at the Sears Roebuck and Co. catalogue outlet store in the Dunhurst Shopping Center on Dundee Road in Wheeling. Off-duty Wheeling policemen helped control the crowds. Store officials said the sale attracted 3,000 shoppers.

New Interchange Now Open

by ROBERT A. LAHEY
Thousands of Tollway travelers using the spanking new Arlington Heights Road Interchange today will be driving on pavement which was nearly 10 years in the cement mixer.

The interchange was opened to traffic shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie snipped a red ribbon, the last obstacle holding back the horde of commuter cars.

The road will provide access to the Northwest Tollway to eastbound motorists from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows, and an exit for westbound autos.

Ogilvie cited a 1968 consultant's report which estimated the new facility will generate an additional 300,000 Tollway trips in its first year. According to this estimate, the interchange will earn back its initial cost in 10 years, the governor said.

"WE CAN ESTIMATE that this interchange will save a bare minimum of 1,000 man-hours a day in traveling time for the residents of this area," he said.

On hand for the opening ceremonies were many of those who waged the construction campaign which began in 1961. They included Dr. Carl F. Mees of Arlington Heights and Neil Cooney of Elk Grove Village, co-chairmen of the Tollway Access Committee, which originated the campaign.

Mees introduced members of the committee and Robert Greenaway, an Illinois Toll Highway Authority commissioner, who told about 200 spectators gathered in a soggy snowfall:

"This facility will add another important factor to the growth of your area, which has been fantastic."

OGILVIE SECONDED that thought, saying the interchange signifies recognition by the authority of the past growth of the Northwest suburbs. "It will itself serve to promote that development during the years to come," he added.

He called the interchange "only one small cog" in the entire tollway system. "But it is a vital one," he said, "located as it is in the very heart of Cook County's most rapidly growing area, astride this artery so indispensable to the daily lives of tens of thousands of commuters."

"Only time will tell if the projections for the importance of this facility are correct. If past experience is any guide, we probably will find them conservative."

Ogilvie also called it a "safe guess" that the interchange will contribute to adding thousands of dollars to the tax rolls in surrounding communities.

ALSO ON THE platform with Ogilvie and local officials from the three communities were state senators John A. Graham, R-Barrington, and John W. Charroil, R-Oak Park; and state representatives Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mt. Prospect. State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, was in Washington.

Ogilvie and his party drove to Arlington Heights from Chicago where he had announced opening of bids for sale of $135 million in bonds to finance the extension of the East-West Tollway from Aurora to Rock Falls.

Skating Rink Hours Told

Although employees of the Mount Prospect Park District are still working on ice rinks, the hours that both skating and hockey rinks will be open have already been announced.

The rinks will be located at Lions Park, Meadows Park, High Ridge Knolls Park, Emerson Park, Devonshire School

Park and the Mount Prospect Country Club. The opening date for the rinks will be announced later.

The rinks will be open weekdays from 4 to 9 p.m. and Saturdays, Sundays and during school vacations from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Christmas Eve, New Year's Eve and New Year's Day the rinks will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The rinks will be closed Christmas Day.

The rink at Lions Park will be open for hockey from 8 to 10 a.m. and 6 to 7 p.m. during school vacations and Saturdays and Sundays and from 6 to 7 p.m. on school days.

The lighted hockey rink, located at the Lions Park tennis courts, is also available for skating during the same hours as the other rinks.

All the skating facilities are complete with warming shelters and there is a toboggan hill located at Lions.

Lindstrom Has Plan To Aid Defectors

A fleet of private vessels will begin operations in the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast soon to help Soviet fishermen defect to the United States.

The announcement of the measure was made Tuesday by The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights. Lindstrom is the chairman of the national "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

Rev. Lindstrom told newsmen at Logan International Airport, Boston, that the boats will approach Soviet ships with signs in Russian, saying "The United States welcomes you to freedom. Jump overboard, and we will rescue you and take you safely to the U.S."

Rev. Lindstrom did not say exactly when the operation would start or how long it would last. Rev. Lindstrom was reported to be in New Bedford, Mass. yesterday working on the project.

THE OPERATION is being set up after a Soviet fisherman unsuccessfully sought political asylum aboard the Coast Guard vessel "Vigilant" several weeks ago off the Massachusetts coast. Coast Guard officials, at that time, ordered the man returned to his Soviet ship. The incident touched off a controversy that resulted in the suspensions of several Coast Guard officers.

Rev. Lindstrom admitted he expects the U.S. State Department to block the rescue operation. He added, however, the state department has taken no action on the matter. He said, "I do not feel any international incident is going to result from this type of operation."

Library Slates Yule Story Hour

Children participating in the story hour program at the Mount Prospect Public Library will be treated to a special Christmas story hour today at 10:30 a.m. at the library, located at 14 E. Busse Ave.

Coffee and refreshments will be served to parents and children attending the program as well as refreshments for the children.

There will be no story hour Dec. 24. The library will be closed that day.

Dist. 25 Tax Vote Slated March, 1971

Voters in Elementary School District 25 will be asked to approve a tax rate increase of 50 cents per 100 dollars assessed valuation on Saturday, March 13, 1971.

Meeting last night, the Board of Education of the district approved the referendum by a unanimous vote. Board member Clayton Savers ended a two-and-a-half hour discussion by saying that all information conclusively showed the need of the tax increase for the district to get through the next two years without drastic cuts.

Board members, however, remain deeply divided on the question of where to make cuts in the 1971-72 budget. At a meeting last Thursday, the board directed Supt. Donald Strong to bring in recommendations for cuts of at least $272,000. That amount would be the deficit even if the voters approve the tax rate increase, because additional tax money will not come to the district until the 1972-73 school year.

Strong presented the board with proposed cuts of $166,000 in non-personnel purchases by the district, and cuts of $148,000 which would require either reduction or failure to hire staff members.

THE CUTS INCLUDED the reduction of the junior high school French program from a two-year to a one-year program and recommended that needed extra teachers not be hired for special education.

Board members asked whether the recommended cuts gave all possible alternatives for budget changes. Board member James Penn questioned the cuts affecting special education, and suggested that other programs, including elementary school instrumental music, be considered for reduction or elimination.

Penn said, "The special education cuts affect all programs, and it's an awful lot of money to take from one far-reaching and significant program."

Strong explained that the reduction in special education would mean that no services would be eliminated but that services would not be expanded. He said, "I don't know where you go for total elimination of whole programs."

Penn and board member Robert Powell said, however, that budget figures seemed to indicate the need for reduction in whole programs. Even though Strong said such reduction would not be necessary if the state legislature changes the state aid formula, Powell said, "My concern is about the gamble we are taking that formulas will change that have not changed to help us in the past."

POWELL ADDED THAT he was not in favor of elimination of programs except where necessary, but said, "In terms of the electorate, if we make surgery on specific programs, we will have demonstrated good faith. I don't really believe

No O'Hare Growth 'Till '72?

Plans by Chicago to use the military side of O'Hare Airport for expansion probably will not be resolved until 1972 when a new national administration comes in, J. Patrick Dunne, airport manager, said Tuesday.

Dunne, who spoke to a meeting of the Des Plaines Kiwanis Club, said Chicago's airport authority has been unsuccessful in its efforts to relocate Air Force reserve units stationed on the military side at the northeast corner.

He said the airport authority may be unable to get cooperation from the Defense Department "until 1972 when a new administration comes in," indicating that Chicago officials don't feel President Nixon will be reelected to a second term.

The City of Chicago reportedly has asked for at least 100 of the more than 350 acres of land occupied by the 91st Air Force Reserve Unit, the 928th Troop Carrier group and other military facilities.

ACCORDING TO Cong. Harold R. Collier (R-10), Chicago plans to build an additional five runways if it can acquire the 100 acres. Collier has said he will try to block any expansion and has opposed relocation of the military units.

Dunne defended growth of O'Hare and said hearings on airport expansion held recently by a state senate subcommittee were "strictly political."

At those hearings, officials from several area suburbs called for a halt to growth of O'Hare and demanded that Chicago release details of its plans for the airport.

Some of the subcommittee members were defeated in their bids for reelection Nov. 3. Dunne told the Kiwanians with a smile, referring to Arthur Swanson and Walter Duda, former Republican state senators from Chicago.

"We want to be good neighbors. We think we've had something to do with the economy of the neighborhood," said Dunne, who cited the tremendous growth of the northwest suburban area since completion of O'Hare.

LAND PRICES have gone from $400 an acre in the 1950's to $100,000 an acre for O'Hare area land, Dunne said, and most nearby suburbs have increased their population by at least 50 or 60 per cent since the airport opened.

"If they think this just happened and this place (O'Hare) didn't have anything to do with it, they're nutty as a fruitcake," Dunne said of airport expansion critics from this area.

Construction of O'Hare, which Dunne said is both the world's largest and busiest airport, was publicized worldwide and its subsequent growth has not been hidden from area residents.

"It wasn't any secret," he said. "That would be like hiding a bass drum in a closet. We didn't try to hide it. We were proud of it."

Chicago officials have been criticized for not giving adequate notice of a 1969 Chicago Plan Commission hearing on plans for airport expansion.

DUNNE SAID the airport will increase its number of arrival-departure gates from 70 to 115 and provide room for expansion of international flight terminal facilities.

Despite federally imposed delays, so outgoing passengers can be searched for weapons to prevent hijackings and arriving passengers can be searched for smuggled drugs, international traffic is up 17 per cent, he said.

For the first 10 months of this year, Dunne said, air traffic at O'Hare is down six per cent compared to 1969. He blamed the decline on a severe winter last year, the air traffic controllers strike and current economic conditions.

Boy Scouts To Clean Village

Anyone who visits downtown Arlington Heights Saturday will see a Boy Scout "Troop movement."

Scout Troop 150, sponsored by St. Simon's Episcopal Church, Arlington Heights, plans to work downtown beginning at 10 a.m. to make the area a more pleasant place.

The scouts will either pick up litter or, if it snows, shovel walks and crosswalks.

Approximately 65 to 70 scouts are expected to take part. They will begin at village hall and fan out through the downtown area.

Eye Drug Abuse Problem

After taking a long, hard look at themselves and their community, a group of Arlington Heights residents has identified we can afford all these programs — even with the 50 cent tax rate increase.

Board president Theodore Seiler disagreed, saying, "Over a long period of time, we have built up this district and have lived on a year-to-year basis. I don't think it is our responsibility to make the cuts all in one whack when we are dealing with projections that may change."

Board member Robert Bates added, however, that spending in the district has increased beyond increasing income and said, "The ultimate result of that is bankruptcy, and we must quickly get to where revenue meets expenses."

The board took no action on budget cuts last night, but agreed to study possible areas of cutting further and to take some kind of action within 60 days.

36 problems in the village leading to drug abuse.

As a part of the community action program on drugs, chairmen of various committees met at Forest Hospital in Des Plaines Tuesday night and discussed the list. The master list of problems was compiled by staff members at Forest Hospital who condensed the various lists submitted by each committee.

The group includes high, junior high and elementary school principles; community leaders; officers of parent-teacher organizations, homeowner associations and civic groups; lawyers; doctors; students and others.

Members of the various committees will now work on planning and developing specific problems to help correct existing village problems. The problems include:

- Laws are too liberal in relation to drug pushers.
- Laws are too harsh on drug users.
- Lack of local facilities for youths who get into legal trouble.
- Lack of local facilities for youths who are not wanted by parents.
- Adults and youths have much misinformation about the effects of drugs.
- Lack of community facilities to meet the needs of the youths.
- Lack of a system to follow up and help youths who are arrested for drugs and other problems.
- Too much pressure, in schools and home, for achievement.
- Youths have no voice in what happens in school.
- Youths have no voice in what happens in local government.

—Adults do not respect the rights of youth, nor do youths respect the rights of adults.

—THERE IS MUCH tension between youths and the police.

—Communication within families is deteriorating.

—Parents are allowed to abuse their children and the children have no recourse.

—Parents do not assume responsibility for their children's behavior.

—Lack of effective drug education programs in the schools.

—Lack of community facilities for people with drug problems.

—Lack of community emergency resource that youths trust when they are having a bad drug experience.

—Lack of organized drug information program for adult citizens.

—Scarcity of local employment opportunities for youths.

—Lack of local public transportation which keeps youths from participating in events.

—The majority of Arlington Heights citizens are apathetic about youth programs.

—The schools fail to provide adequate counseling to youths who are in trouble.

—THERE ARE NO community services to help kids who want to kick the drug scene.

—Schools are too large and students feel a loss of identity.

—Drug companies and distributors do not seem to take the responsibility for their drugs.

—There is little control over the legal drugs that youths use for experimentation.

—Lack of street workers to help kids who are in trouble.

—Lack of community activities to bring youths and adults together.

—No coordinated community system for early detection and remediation of youths who are potential drug users.

—Youths have very little voice in determining their own lives.

—LACK OF community-wide programs to help people understand themselves and others.

—Failure of youths to assume the responsibility for correcting many youth problems.

—Lack of community services to help families who are in trouble.

—The news media does not alert the citizens to the seriousness of the growing drug problem.

—Lack of a centralized source of information relating to community services.

Bye, Bye, FBI; Hello Credit Due

The FBI's restriction on personal publicity no longer applies to former Arlington Heights resident Dr. R. B. Yadon, and now his wife thinks it's time he got a little credit for his contributions to the community.

Dr. Yadon retired from the bureau earlier this year and he and his wife, Maryann, are now living in Alva, Okla., where he is in charge of the Law Enforcement Education Program at Northwestern State College.

Mrs. Yadon's civic contributions to Arlington Heights were well known, but her husband's name was seldom mentioned in connection with community projects.

"For the 14 years we lived in Arlington Heights," she wrote recently, "and before that in Des Plaines and Chicago, I got all the write-ups." The policy of the publicity-shy FBI precluded similar recognition for her husband.

BUT, SHE SAID, "He did his share (behind the scenes) for Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, school referendums and bond issues."

Mrs. Yadon's key role in the creation of Harper Junior College was also public knowledge. "I never could have made it through the three years of campaigning for the community college without his help and support," she said.

Dr. Yadon received his BA degree in government from the University of Oklahoma in 1937 and his law degree in 1939. He joined the FBI in 1940 and served in Detroit, New York, Washington, D.C., and Newark, N.J., before being assigned to the Chicago office in 1947. After moving to Arlington Heights, he also became active in the Christian

Dr. R. B. Yadon

Church of Arlington Heights, his last position being president of the board of elders.

Orchesis Show Set

PYE Hurls At Pollution

Polluters had better watch out — a new organization is watching for them.

The organization, called Protect Your Environment (PYE), has been formed at Miner Junior High School and is looking for projects.

"We haven't done much yet, but a couple of other kids and me went around and picked stuff up one day," said founder Charles Pedersen.

Charles got the idea for the group from a Junior Scholastic magazine that is distributed in social studies classes. He sent away for information and then passed around a sheet in his sixth grade social studies class to recruit members.

NOW ABOUT 15 STUDENTS, two of whom are from North School, are members and they are planning action.

They are concerned about pollution from the smoke-stack at their own school, Charles said. "We might get a petition to stop the smoke-stack," he said.

They have also been collecting pamphlets on pollution and have made flyers and posters. The posters have been placed in some store windows near the school.

"Our flyers are pretty messy, but maybe we can get some better," Charles said.

Members of PYE are Tammie Mace, Linda Larson, Kathy Aronson, Barb Lollar, Kelle Durtz, Rob Petteruzzo, John Zedrow, Alan Purves, Kevin Smith, Bill Jackson, Frank Friel, Mona Allen, John Kessmer and Scott Schultz.

All the members are dedicated to combating air, water and land pollution and presumably agree with Charles, who said, "If air pollution keeps going, pretty soon we'll be wearing gas masks."

Yule Concert Set Sunday

The seventh annual Christmas concert will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday by music students at Wheeling High School.

Participating groups will include the symphony band, orchestra, symphonic winds, jazz band, concert choir, chamber choir, varsity choir, male choir, and girls' glee club.

Among the selections will be "A Christmas Festival" and excerpts from Handel's "Messiah," by the orchestra; selections of Russian Christmas music, and Christmas carols of Alfred Burt by the Symphonic winds; variations on "Deck the Halls" and "Joy to the World," by the symphony band.

The five choirs will combine with members of the high school drama department to present a Christmas pageant.

The drama students will portray the Nativity and other Christmas scenes, while the choir accompanies the tableaux with Christmas music.

Bus Driver's Case Dismissed

A case involving Michael Bird, 23, charged with driving too fast for conditions Nov. 2, was dismissed Monday in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

Bird, of 941 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, a bus driver for David Meyer Business Service Inc., was driving an empty school bus when it collided on wet pavement with a truck making a left turn at Elmhurst Road and Rte. 62 near Des Plaines.

Bird, who no longer works for the bus company, was temporarily suspended from driving by the firm after the accident.

Students at Fremd High School, Palatine, will be asked by their student council representatives to build a school in a foreign country. If they agree, they'll be taking part in the Peace Corps School Partnership Program.

Paul Mack, Midwest representative of the Peace Corps, explained the program to council members yesterday. Should the students decide to build the school, they would have to collect $1,200, Mack said.

If reaction to the proposal is favorable, council members will call a school-wide meeting in February to vote for or against the proposal. If they vote in favor of building a school with the Peace Corps, a fund-raising drive will be started.

The idea for Fremd students getting involved with a Peace Corps program originated with Candy Jacobsen, chairman of the council's services committee.

MACK, WHO JUST returned from Brazil four months ago, served with the Peace Corps for two years. At yesterday's meeting he explained terms of the agreement.

Local residents of the area where the school is to be built would become partners of Fremd students, Mack said. The $1,200 Fremd would donate would pay for three quarters of the school's building materials. The local residents would donate the other quarter of the funds and would supply the labor.

Mack pointed out that the schools are generally built in rural areas. The farmers often build the school themselves with the help of a professional bricklayer.

"It takes about 50 days for them to build a school," Mack said.

He said that even though the farmers grow only enough food on their land to feed themselves and their families, they still take time off from farming to build the school.

MACK HELPED IN five school building projects while he was with the Peace Corps in Brazil. In one case, it was bean harvesting season, but the farmers helped build the school rather than harvest beans.

Entire families of farmers help build the school, Mack said. While the fathers do the heavy work and their children help in small ways, the mothers make meals for all the workers.

"Children take great pride in their school," Mack said. "They would not think of damaging the school building because they may have carried bricks to help build it."

If Fremd can raise $1,200 to build a school, the money would be sent to the Peace Corps in Washington, he explained. It would stay there about a week.

By then, a request for funds to build a school would come in from a Peace Corps field representative. The money would be forwarded.

AFTER THE SCHOOL is built, the local people would exchange a picture of the school along with data about their community with Fremd. Fremd alone would financially assist the local people in building their school, Mack said.

Mack presented a dozen slides showing how a school in Ohio helped a Brazilian village build a new school. The slides illustrated the steps villagers went through in building a modern school to replace their old wooden school which had a thatched roof.

About 1,500 American schools, churches, 4-H Clubs, teacher's groups and other organizations have taken part in the program already, he said.

'Defectors Will Be Helped'

A fleet of private vessels will begin operations in the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast soon to help Soviet fishermen defect to the United States.

The announcement of the measure was made Tuesday by The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights. Lindstrom is the chairman of the national "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

Rev. Lindstrom told newsmen at Logan International Airport, Boston, that the boats will approach Soviet ships with signs in Russian, saying "The United States welcomes you to freedom. Jump overboard, and we will rescue you and take you safely to the U.S."

Rev. Lindstrom did not say exactly when the operation would start or how long it would last. Rev. Lindstrom was reported to be in New Bedford, Mass., yesterday working on the project.

THE OPERATION is being set up after a Soviet fisherman unsuccessfully sought political asylum aboard the Coast Guard vessel "Vigilant" several weeks ago off the Massachusetts coast. Coast Guard officials, at that time, ordered the man returned to his Soviet ship. The incident touched off a controversy that resulted in the suspensions of several Coast Guard officers.

"There are many aboard Soviet fishing vessels who long for freedom as did Simas Kudirka (the fisherman involved in the incident several weeks ago) and they are willing to take the risks involved," Rev. Lindstrom said.

Rev. Lindstrom admitted he expects the U.S. State Department to block the rescue operation. He added, however, the state department has taken no action on the matter. He said, "I do not feel any international incident is going to result from this type of operation."

Arrest 7 For Illegal Entry

U.S. Immigration and Naturalization authorities apprehended seven aliens yesterday for allegedly entering the country illegally.

Arlington Heights police, who assisted in the arrest, said the men were arrested at a home on Rohwing Road in unincorporated Palatine. The home is located just across from the Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

Captain Jack Aldrich of the Arlington Heights police, explained the men would be given the option of accepting funds and leaving the country voluntarily or being sent home involuntarily. Aldrich added that if the individual leaves voluntarily, he can make application to re-enter legally.

Immigration officers would not comment on the apprehension, nor reveal how they knew the men were living in the house.

Coaches Sought For Net League

Six volunteer coaches for a fourth and fifth grade basketball league are being sought by Christopher Edginton of the Arlington Heights Park District.

The coaches are needed for Saturday games to be played at six locations, including Camelot Park, Brighton Place and Suffolk Drive, Frontier Park, Kenilcott Drive and Palatine Road, and Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St.

Other locations include Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave.; Juliette Low School, 1530 S. Highland Ave.; and Hasbrook Park, 333 W. Maude St.

Residents interested in volunteering to coach may contact Edginton at the park district's administration office, 253-0620.

Teenage Generation Film To Be Shown

"Happiness Ended Last October," a surrealist art film on the teenage generation produced by Elk Grove High School instructors, will be shown at the school beginning at 7:30 p.m. today.

Students and former students provide the acting in the film, made by James Walker, art instructor, and Joseph Pendergast, film study instructor.

Other showings, $1.25 each, will be tomorrow at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The show is open to the public.

The film, which was a year in the making, is the third one which Walker has made. He is a surrealist painter.

'Dear Santa, Please...'

Santa Claus, the most popular man in town, will have to be a strongman again this year if he is to fulfill the wishes of all the Des Plaines children for Christmas gifts.

Hundreds of letters from hopeful children have poured into various special Santa Claus mailboxes and to the Herald/Day Santa Calls receptacles this month.

Among the dropoff points is the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce mailbox at the First National bank of Des Plaines, 733 Lee St.

From this box came all kinds of pleas from Des Plaines children, telling Santa how good they've been, then following with a list of Christmas goodies they would like to find under the tree Christmas morning.

"Dear Santa Claus," one letter starts out, "I am writing a letter for my sister because she can't write yet she's only 4 years old. And she wants a little white and a snooty telephone and a baby set."

"She said she likes you too. And I've got a little brother 2 years old and he can't write either and get him some toys for two-years-olds. From Andy 2 and Lisa 4, Barbara."

On a second enclosed sheet of paper Barbara wrote, "Dear Santa Claus Do you know what I want for Christmas? Well I want some ice skates and a baton and a little stereo. Some doll clothes but they have to be big because I have a big doll. Thank you for the toys. I'm eight years old."

"MERRY CHRISTMAS from Barbara."

Another "friend" of Santa as he calls himself is Matty who, after listing his preferences for Christmas gifts, told Santa he was three years old and getting bigger every day. "I know how to write my name but mommy had to write this long letter for me," Matty said.

Another girl, Caryn, said she wanted some velvet among other things. One boy wrote "Ho, Ho, Ho," all over the envelope addressed to Santa and several writers asked Mr. Claus how Mrs. Claus was feeling.

Among the true joys of the Christmas spirit is the knowledge that many people, including Herald/Day personnel, are taking time to personally answer the requests made by these children to make their holiday season a brighter one.

Deny Fire Unit Injunction

A circuit court judge yesterday denied a City of Des Plaines request for a temporary injunction against the city's fire pension board in a case involving two children of a deceased fireman who the city claims are receiving too much pension money.

Judge Edward Egan set Jan. 8 as a hearing date on a defense motion to dismiss the city suit against the pension board and Mrs. Jean Hansen of Des Plaines, former wife of the fireman who is receiving the pension for support of their two children.

If Mrs. Hansen, 27, had been married to her husband, Leonard, at the time of his death in April 1968, she and the children would be receiving 40 per cent of his salary as a pension. But the two were divorced in 1966.

WHEN MRS. HANSEN, as legal guardian, applied for support payments for the children, Laura, 3, and Jeffrey, 5, she was awarded 12 per cent of her former husband's salary for each child.

The pension board decided on the 12 per cent figure despite advice from City Attorney Robert DiLeonardi that Mrs. Hansen by law should get only eight per cent for each child, according to the board secretary, Capt. David Wolf of the Des Plaines Fire Department.

The suit, authorized by the city council early this year, asks for an injunction against the pension board to halt the alleged overpayments and a ruling on the state law involved, which the pension board considered sufficiently unclear to permit the higher payment. The city is also asking Mrs. Hansen to return about $1,800 of the pension payments, the difference between the 12 per cent she has been getting for each child and the eight per cent she allegedly should have been receiving.

Students To Control Own Activity Funds

Student activity funds, under a new plan, will be under almost total student control within two years at Oakton Community College.

The Oakton board of education, Tuesday night, accepted an administration recommendation to allow the dean of student personnel and an interim committee to control student funds until the student government is established and can set up a budget committee.

The new committee, under the plan, would control the supply of funds for all student activities, except for student publication funds, to avoid student government pressure on a "potential critic," administration spokesmen said.

Newspaper funds would be controlled by the dean of student personnel, based on budget recommendations by a student faculty publications board. The administration feels this plan would also free student publications from administration financial pressure.

Student funds come from student activity fees and profits from the school bookstore and rented vending machines, according to John Donohue, dean of student personnel.

STUDENT FUNDS should be used "by students for social, cultural and educational enhancement, and the general welfare of the entire student body," according to the administration statement.

During this school year, the dean will administer funds for the intramural sports and student publications, because of the present need, Donohue said.

Student government funds will be based on its needs, according to the interim student government and its faculty advisors, the plan states.

Each student activity can ask for funds from an interim budget committee, which the dean will form.

In the 1971-72 school year, after a student government is formed, this government will set up a budget committee which will have responsibility for allotting funds to student activities, except for the publications the plan states.

In other actions, the board approved a holiday schedule for the college.

This schedule, with 10 holidays, was produced by an administration-board committee, established after administration plans failed twice to receive approval at two previous meetings.

BOARD MEMBERS objected to inclusion of holidays which aren't observed by businesses or other educational institutions.

They also objected to a "lack of logic" in the administration plan, and the possible effect the holidays would have on the educational program.

The administration had said the plan, which included religious holidays, was similar to that used at other colleges. They said the holidays were like days off, in a union contract, without ceremonial meaning. They said the holidays did not apply to the educational program.

The accepted plan includes only non-religious holidays, including state and federally established holidays. It leaves to the administration the decision on what actions it will take if students of a religious group desire not to attend class on a religious holiday.

Since the school doesn't require attendance — only completion of school work and mastery of a subject — a student can be absent from class without penalty. If a majority of the class doesn't attend, on a certain day, it will be up to the administration if class will be held, under the plan.

MRS. DORIS SOKPIN, the only board member to vote against the plan, said the school should be closed on those days in which a large "absenteeism" might be anticipated, to the extent that the normal educational process would be hampered.

In other actions, a purchasing policy was presented to the board by an administration-board committee for further study. After the report is studied by board members and the college attorney, the report will be discussed and amended for future administration use in purchasing supplies and awarding bids, they said.

The junior college has accepted 183 more students for the Spring 1971 semester. The 120 full-time and 63 part-time students will bring the total up to about 900, according to Donohue.

The board authorized the purchase of $12,404 in science supplies and equipment.

The board accepted an administration recommendation to create the job of Campus Security Officer, to work for 5 p.m. through midnight each day, and from 8 to noon Saturdays.

THE BOARD ALSO created a position of custodian, security man, who could do maintenance work and provide protection for the campus, from midnight until 8 a.m. weekdays.

The jobs were suggested by the administration because it felt the present security work, done by the Pinkerton agency, was not adequate. Agents visit the campus, but do not check often enough spokesmen said. They do not visit the boiler rooms often enough to prevent long periods when the boilers have accidentally shut down, according to business manager Arthur Kent.

OK Seeking Bids For Campus Work

Oakton Community College architects have been given permission to seek bids on the estimated $500,000 renovation for the Morton Grove Campus.

Contracts may be awarded by late February, according to Arthur Kent, business manager. Construction could begin in March and be completed in September in time for the increased student body, expected to triple from the present 900 full and part-time student population, according to college officials.

Funds for the renovation would come out of general building fund tax of five cents per $100 of assessed evaluation. Additional taxes would not have to be levied, Kent said.

Proposed renovation would increase the number of classrooms from 10 to 25. It would increase the number of labs from 10 to 17 and the number of offices from 48 to 57, according to plans.

The new junior college, which opened in September and which now serves more than 150 Des Plaines students, has 10 year leases on its four building campus, which was formerly the industrial site of the Cook Electric Co. The total area of the campus buildings is 70,000 square feet.

The board has asked the administration to do research on the safety requirements of the buildings, Paul Gilson, board member, said.

The administration will also contact the village of Morton Grove about village supply of street lighting.

Referendum Promotion Is Ready To Go

Illustrated brochures containing information about the Des Plaines Park District's proposed sports complex and its referendum will be distributed shortly after Jan. 1.

The referendum on the proposed $1.4 million complex, which would include an indoor professional hockey-sized ice skating rink, a large multi-purpose room and smaller meeting rooms, will be held Jan. 23. The complex would be built at Lake Park.

The brochures will be distributed door-to-door by volunteers, according to Robert Kunkel, director of parks and recreation. Each brochure will have a picture of the proposed complex, a description of the building's facilities and a list of the polling places which will be open for the referendum.

Kunkel said the pamphlet will also contain an explanation of the $123,000 yearly operating budget for the complex. The figures were arrived at by the building's architect, John Heinzlmann Jr., and include the cost for a general manager, skate instructors, maintenance and various building personnel.

The $123,000 operating expense figure also includes utility costs, repairs, insurance, supplies and other miscellaneous expenses.

Walton League In Bridge Fight

Members of the Isaac Walton League, Des Plaines chapter, are circulating petitions in this area that call for the removal of the Sexton bridge in the Des Plaines River north of Central Road.

The petitions, which will be sent to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, ask the state officials to revoke a permit given to the John Sexton Sand and Gravel Corp. that has allowed it to maintain the culvert bridge, according to Wayne Quilico, Isaac Walton League member.

"Our aim in this thing is to alert the governor and local officials and to alert the people to what's happening," he said. "We will need help in getting the petitions distributed and taking them around so people can sign them."

Sexton's bridge and its filling of a flood plain area on the river's west bank about one half mile north of Central have been the target of criticism from the Isaac Walton League and other conservation groups.

Persons interested in signing or distributing the petitions, Quilico said, can call him at 827-0631 or contact League member Richard Tabatt at 827-7342.

A biographical sketch of Richard R. Short, Supl. of schools, Maine Township High School Dist. 207, is included in the new edition of Who's Who in the Midwest, an extension of Who's Who in America, and a biographical dictionary of noteworthy men and women in the central and midwestern states and central Canada.

Short, a well known and respected educational administrator, has been superintendent of the Dist. 207 since 1966. Before coming to Dist. 207, Short was superintendent of Dist. 207 since 1966. braska, his home state.

In addition to his administrative duties with the district, Short is legislative counselor for the Cook County regional office for the State of Illinois; chairman of the board of directors of the Institute for Educational Research; director of Dist. 3 of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools; and regional director of the Associated Public School Systems organization.

For the past two years Short served as technical consultant in connection with Illinois activities for the 1970 White House Conference on Children and Youth, providing specialized help in varied areas of educational planning. Before coming to Park Ridge, and while superintendent of schools in Hastings, Nebraska, he participated in the Governor's Commission on Children and Youth in that state, and was also a representative to President Eisenhower's 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

Short obtained his Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts and Doctor of Education degrees from the University of Nebraska. He and his wife, Ella Mae, and their two children live in Park Ridge.

A 3-Foot Card! Pity Poor Mailman

A THREE FOOT Christmas card is only one of the many "contemporary" cards produced at United Card Co. in Rolling Meadows. Mrs. Roger Hintz, an employee of the firm, sizes up the card.

Mail carriers may have to enlarge their mail sacks this year, as Christmas cards have taken many unusual forms.

An unfortunate postman somewhere will be delivering a three-foot Christmas card.

"We produce a three-foot Santa Claus Christmas card and it sells very well," according to Ed Letwenko, creative director of United Card Co. Inc. in Rolling Meadows.

"Our Christmas cards are contemporary," according to Letwenko. What is a contemporary Christmas card? "It's a Christmas greeting with a smile," Letwenko said.

THE CONTEMPORARY card business began only about 20 years ago, according to officials at United.

"The first cards produced were called studio cards and were much longer than wide. The market has grown steadily and contemporary cards make up about 20 per cent of the total greeting card market. Christmas cards comprise about 5 per cent of the contemporary market, officials said.

A contemporary Christmas card can be made humorous in a number of ways. "Some Christmas cards are classified as contemporary because they end a humorous greeting or message. Others might be given a contemporary classification because of their unusual size or shape," Letwenko said.

SOME OF THE cards produced by the company for this year's Christmas market have wallcloth and even wallpaper backgrounds.

The company formulates ideas about a year in advance of holidays. The creative department is now developing ideas for 1971 Christmas cards.

Though some of the ideas for Christmas cards come from the company's creative department, most ideas are submitted by free lance writers. If the writer sends an idea that can be used by the company, he is paid by the firm.

The process of polishing the ideas submitted by free lance writers is the job of the creative department.

"RIGHT NOW A large part of our market is made up of persons under 25 years of age," according to United Sales Manager Dick Prybell. Prybell believes the market will continue to expand as these young people grow older and more youths enter the market. "About half of the country is under 25 years old now," Prybell said.

Servicemen receive many of the contemporary cards, according to Prybell.

The firm many times takes traditional Christmas characters, such as Santa Claus, reindeer, and even elves and adds a humorous touch to make them "contemporary."

What is planned for next Christmas? "We aren't sure, but we are always looking for something funny," Letwenko said.

If this is the case, the postman probably won't be laughing, if he has to deliver a four or five-foot cardboard Santa next year.

Charge 5 Teens With Burglary

Five youths were charged yesterday by Des Plaines police in connection with an early morning burglary at Bud's Auto Body Shop, 1865 Busse Hwy., Des Plaines.

Police said the youths, all five from Mount Prospect, were stopped in a car near the body shop after officers, responding to a burglary in progress call, saw them dump what turned out to be a cash drawer from the auto.

According to police reports, about $20 in cash and several checks were taken in the theft, after burglars had entered the body shop by prying open a door about 5 a.m.

Charged with burglary were: Vito Badlamenti, 18, of 1727 E. Foundry Rd.; Vincent Badlamenti, 18, also of 1727 E. Foundry; Burkhard Stein, 18, of 146 Anita; Stephen Bass, 17, of 234 Graylyn Ave.; and a 16-year-old youth.

Bat Mitzvah Tonight

Laura Pine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pine of Des Plaines, will celebrate her Bat Mitzvah tonight at Maine Township Jewish Congregation in Des Plaines.

Larry Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Small of Des Plaines, will celebrate his Bar Mitzvah during Saturday morning Sabbath services. Rabbi Jay Karzen and Cantor Harry Solowinich will officiate at both services.

The Sunday Minyan breakfast will begin at 9 a.m. and will be followed by a discussion on the holiday season.

The Chanukah festival begins next Tuesday evening at sundown. All holiday supplies are available daily at the Sisterhood Bazaar located on the first floor of the Synagogue building.

Maryville Yule Party Set

A performance by "Disney On Parade" is scheduled to highlight a Christmas party Tuesday for children of Maryville Academy in Des Plaines.

The teen fashion board of Montgomery Ward at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect will host the party — complete with Santa Claus, gifts, games, refreshments and a performance by "Disney On Parade" — Tuesday afternoon at Maryville Academy, Central and River roads.

About 250 children between the ages of six and 12 will be entertained by Santa and the 27-member teen board that planned the Christmas party. A performance of "Disney On Parade," songs and dances by Walt Disney characters such as Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Mickey Mouse and Pinocchio, is scheduled by the Disney company currently on tour.

The party is the idea of the Wendy Ward Paesettlers, the teen fashion board of high school girls from the Northwest suburban area. Jonese Busch, director of Wendy Ward, said the board planned the program and pledged to buy gifts for the children as a Christmas project this year.

TO HELP finance the project, the board sponsored a teen dance Dec. 5. Proceeds from the dance, which Montgomery Ward matched more than dollar for dollar, will be used to purchase the gifts.

"Each girl is buying presents, personally selecting the gifts, for nine children. In November, the staff at Maryville asked the children to write letters to Santa asking for the one present they'd like the most. And we're trying to fill these Christmas wishes," Mrs. Busch explained.

She said most of the children asked for traditional presents such as dolls, toy trucks, games and footballs or basketballs.

The party has been planned as a surprise for the children. They don't know anything about the party or the presents," Mrs. Busch said.

Concert At Iroquois

A Christmas concert will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Iroquois Junior High School, Touhy and Maple.

The Iroquois girls chorus, band and orchestra will perform.

Refreshments will be served by the Iroquois Adult Council.

Filing Date Set Dec. 28 For Election

Persons wishing to run for a post on the Mount Prospect Park District board of commissioners can make their intentions official Dec. 28. That is the first day persons can file for the election, which will be held April 6.

The only vacancy on the board this spring will be that of the president of the park board, Robert Jackson, Jackson's six-year term will expire at that time.

Jackson told the Herald yesterday "I have no idea if I'll run for reelection or not."

"I will say that there are a number of people who are interested in running for the board. I will say that there are many park district programs which have begun and that I would like to see continued," said Jackson.

Terms on the park board of commissioners run for six years. Elections are held on odd-numbered years with the last election taking place in 1968.

IT WAS DURING the last election that two residents of Des Plaines, William Selep and Michael Buckley, were elected to the board.

Residents of the park district are eligible to vote in the election. The boundaries of the park district include a large portion of Mount Prospect and the Eighth Ward in Des Plaines.

The last day for filing for a seat on the board is Feb. 1, and the last day for officially withdrawing from the race is Feb. 6.

THE FIRST DAY on which voters can apply for an absentee ballot is March 8, 30 days prior to election day. The last day on which absentee voters can request a ballot by mail is April 1, five days prior to the election. The last day on which absentee ballots will be distributed in person is April 3, or three days prior to the election.

Persons wishing to apply for filing for the election must do so by contacting Roland Becker, secretary of the park board, or by visiting the park district offices, located at 600 S. See-Gwon Ave., Mount Prospect.

According to law, persons wishing to run for a post on the park board must solicit the signatures of approximately 35 eligible voters. This is equal to two percent of those who voted in the 1969 election.

'In Person' Sign-Up Best

Officials of the Mount Prospect Park District have learned it is more efficient asking people to register in person for park district programs than requiring that they use the telephone.

Last fall persons wishing to enroll in various park district programs were asked to telephone the park district offices between the hours of 9:30 a.m. to noon, and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Problems arose on days when sign-ups for popular programs were taking place. Often the telephone lines would be tied up, and an early caller would not necessarily be the first one registered.

Residents of the park district voiced criticism over the system of telephone registration to both the Herald and the park district offices.

Monday and Tuesday the park district began the system of in-person registration and, according to the secretarial staff at the park district offices, the system worked "beautifully."

"Many of the mothers told us how easy and convenient it was to register for the programs," said one secretary.

The present system includes a card catalogue. Cards listing a particular program and the necessary information is handed out to persons at the park district offices. There are as many cards as there are openings in each program.

REGISTRATIONS Monday and Tuesday were handled on a first-come, first-served basis. Names of persons arriving at the park district offices before it opened at 9 a.m. were given first priority.

Paul Caldwell, assistant director of parks and recreation, inquired into the registration procedures of six area park districts before the decision was made to revert to the present system. Park districts surveyed were in Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Wheeling, Prospect Heights and Glenview.

Caldwell said mailing registrations was "cumbersome" in that "some of the registrations would be lost or mishandled in the mailing process."

He said a combination of both telephone and "in-person" registration would not be adequate because persons calling the office would have a better opportunity than those registering in person.

Skating Rink Hours Told

Although employees of the Mount Prospect Park District are still working on ice rinks, the hours that both skating and hockey rinks will be open have already been announced.

The rinks will be located at Lions Park, Meadows Park, High Ridge Knolls Park, Emerson Park, Devonshire School Park and the Mount Prospect Country Club. The opening date for the rinks will be announced later.

The rinks will be open weekdays from 4 to 9 p.m. and Saturdays, Sundays and during school vacations from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Christmas Eve, New Year's Eve and New Year's Day the rinks will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The rinks will be closed Christmas Day.

The rink at Lions Park will be open for hockey from 8 to 10 a.m. and 6 to 7 p.m. during school vacations and Saturdays and Sundays and from 6 to 7 p.m. on school days.

The lighted hockey rink, located at the Lions Park tennis courts, is also available for skating during the same hours as the other rinks.

All the skating facilities are complete with warming shelters and there is a toboggan hill located at Lions.

The Way We See It

A Tribute to Wisdom

Approval of the new Illinois Constitution was, as Constitutional Convention Pres. Samuel W. Witter called it, "a monumental victory for Illinois citizens."

Twelve times in recent years, voters in other states faced constitutional reform measures and on seven occasions, they turned them down.

Last month, two of three proposed new constitutions were defeated by voters in statewide referenda.

But in Illinois Tuesday, the margin of victory for the new Constitution was of overwhelming proportions.

It was not only a victory for the citizens of the state, it also was tribute to the wisdom of the delegates at the Sixth Illinois Constitutional Convention and the wisdom of the voters.

The delegates deserve praise for their decision to submit the new Constitution to the voters in separate sections, rather than as one package. Had any of the four controversial proposals which were defeated Tuesday been included in the main body of the document, the Constitution itself would have been likely to go down in defeat.

As it was, however, the voters could approve a new Constitution while at the same time they could determine certain provisions to be included in the Constitution.

The campaign leading to Tuesday's referendum was, as many political campaigns are, marked with frequent distortions, misrepresentations and half-truths.

Yet the voters rejected the false arguments and ratified the charter, giving the state its first new Constitution since 1870.

So it was indeed a monumental victory and a tribute to delegates and voters alike. Illinois will move into the 21st Century with a Constitution that was written for that century, not for the horse and buggy days of the late 1800s.

If Illinois citizens decide they do not like certain provisions of the new document, they will have ample opportunity to change them since the new Constitution is much easier to amend than the old, and because the voters will have a chance to call another constitutional convention during the next 20 years. That provision is contained in the Constitution.

There is some disappointment among proponents of the four separate submission items which were defeated Tuesday.

We would have preferred to have the voting age lowered, the death penalty abolished, single member districts and merit selection of judges.

But even defeat of the four proposals cannot lessen the magnitude of the victory. The voters had their say on each proposal, and each was rejected. Nothing could be fairer, and nothing could be a better indication of voter sentiment.

So we and others who wished a different outcome on the special propositions will not weep over those results. The important vote was on the Constitution itself and the others, if they are right for Illinois, can come later through amendments.

Nothing should be allowed to detract from the resounding victory of the new Illinois Constitution. It placed Illinois in the forefront among the states in constitutional revision and has proved that, even in a state where political party lines are drawn on most issues, good government can succeed.

Illinois could have received no nicer Christmas present.

Spotlight:

A Lesson To Be Learned

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Wheeling's Village Board approved a new gas station in the village a year ago on the premise that a clean, uncluttered station which sold only gas and oil products and was open 24 hours a day would be a benefit to the community.

The idea behind the station seemed palatable at the time, but the gas station is far from what developer promised.

The station is a maze of brightly-colored signs advertising giveaway prizes for buying gas and the sale of various items such as milk and paper tissues.

When the village approved the zoning for the station, a covenant limiting sales at the station was submitted to the village. The covenant, which is on file with the village, specifies that the station cannot be used for rental of trailers, sale of tires, batteries or accessories, or for lubrication, automotive maintenance service or towing.

The covenant also specifies "there will be no grocery items sold or given away in any form as a part of the operation of said service station. This does not preclude the sale of refreshment items normally sold at auto servicing stations for the convenience and needs of customers."

The covenant is signed by Martin Oil Service Inc. president, Carl Green and is in effect for 50 years.

Despite the covenant, the station has been giving away everything from candy bars to glasses ever since it opened. Moreover, a milk machine has been installed advertising the lowest milk prices in town.

Signs advertising the various unrelated products give a garish cluttered look to the station far from the clean simple lines shown on drawings presented to the village board last year.

In January 1970, when five of the village trustees voted to allow the station, they overrode the objections of the village manager.

The trustees said that an all-night service would be an asset to the village.

The resulting station is a good example of what happens when you try to make something as unpopular as a gas station more palatable by limiting its activities.

The last thing Wheeling needed a year ago was another gas station in a town with 15 operating stations and four abandoned ones.

In the short run, village officials might consider enforcing the covenant; have on file to bring the new Martin station up to the standards the developer promised the village.

In the long run, the new station should serve as an example to encourage board members to seek more varied business development for prime Dundee Road sites.

Coping with Teen Drug Problem

If you have a teenager, the chances are better than 50-50 that he's tried marijuana. How can parents meet this problem without making it worse?

Ask your child about it. This is the advice of drug experts who say you might be surprised at his willingness to talk. Don't, however, react angrily to the news. Tell him how you feel, but avoid a rejection, which might simply confirm, or worsen, his drug habit.

Dr. Joel Fort, an author and drug specialist, suggests that you try to find out just what drugs mean to your child and why he thinks he uses them. His answers may give you some insight into your youngster's feelings about his friends, his school, and his family. Regular drug use is a symptom of inner problems, not the problem itself.

All experts agree that a disconnected family life can push young people toward the drug experience, from which they derive sensations of love and belonging that they fail to get elsewhere. The major thing a parent can do to ward off the drug threat is to maintain a close and loving family circle during the years when their children are growing up.

Finally, don't lecture your teenager on the law; he knows what the drug laws say, and he considers them unjust. Instead, discuss the value of facing tension and uncertainty — whether as an adolescent or as an adult — without artificial aids.

By the same token, most experts advise that voting money to put more policemen on the streets is simply handling the problem, not facing it. All citizens should exert pressure on federal and state legislators for more funds to develop professional treatment centers, drug research, and drug education programs in every school grade.

Good Utilization of Federal Funds

A pilot program, to stimulate creativity in sixth graders, is earning approving reviews in Des Plaines Elementary Dist. 62.

Children have found the program stimulating and have responded well to it. Seventy-five sixth graders working in the program choose their own topics and do research in them under the guidance of social studies, math and art teachers and librarians.

According to educators, school children lose much of their creativity by fifth grade, and the project is designed to rekindle it. The pilot course begins with a creativity test, asking the student to suggest ways of handling a problem. Answers are compared and evaluated by teachers.

The student then picks a research topic and uses the facilities of the school library — books, tapes, records and other teaching aids — to piece together answers.

Recognizing the value of this program, the state superintendent of public instruction recently approved a Dist. 62 request of $13,194 to pay the cost of this year's program. This is a good example of how state and federal funds can be used as seed money to permit local districts to improve their teaching methods and concepts.

Between the Lines

A Political 'Happening'

by STEVE NOVICK

The Republicans in Hoffman Estates held a convention Sunday night to select their candidates for three village board seats available in next April's election.

The convention can be best termed "a success," and should be used as a guide other suburban party organizations can use in their selection of candidates.

Prior to the convention, there was talk that the entire event was a publicity stunt and that the winners were established before the roll call of delegates was taken.

The delegates numbered 189, and the chain of events Sunday night indicated that nothing was fixed.

In the weeks before the convention the names of six contenders were announced. They were names put out with the endorsement of the Republican organization's endorsement after a series of interviews were held.

The contenders then had the task of mustering support from key party leaders, precinct captains and individuals before the convention date.

Steve Novick

One contender, William Lewis, dropped out of the race because business demands did not permit him to campaign properly.

It was said also that he could not concede to the thoughts of certain key precinct captains in the village.

William Catlin, another contender, never got his campaign off the ground, blaming illness and business to his limited effort.

Catlin, however, accrued limited support, kept his name in the running on convention night and helped others by swaying his votes back and forth between the four major contenders in the five ballots taken.

Mrs. Diane Jensen and Dyrle Rathman each had strong campaigns prior to the convention and came to the event looking like winners.

In the third ballot taken, Mrs. Jensen swung her supporters into Rathman's camp to give him the 36 votes needed to secure a ticket on the slate.

In the next ballot, Mrs. Jensen was given a ticket position in a mutual exchange.

Incumbent Trustee William Cowin and Arnold Nikula, a plan commissioner contending, tied with 33 votes each in the fourth ballot . . . and no one knew who would win.

Cowin came out victorious, but it was not the result of any power block held by precinct captains or any other party leaders in Hoffman Estates.

Cowin won because 111 Republicans wanted him to run again and only 77 Republicans preferred Nikula, according to the final ballot.

Any Republican who had been registered in Hoffman Estates for the preceding two political primaries was eligible to vote at the convention.

The Republican candidates were selected by the 189 persons who cared enough to attend the convention on a cold Sunday night.

Two of the candidates were victorious because during advance campaigns they drummed up the support needed from the people.

Cowin won on an expression by 111 party members which said he's been a good trustee in the past, let's slate him again.

As the convention process matures in Hoffman Estates, it is possible that "favorite son" candidates could be selected from the floor without advance blessings from the party slate-making committee.

The convention was a fine democratic exercise to observe, and a happening that hopefully will spread across the suburbs.

Valid Concern For 'Implied Consent Law'

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

Women members of the Des Plaines Safety Council are advocating passage of the Implied Consent Law which deals with people who drive while under the influence of alcohol.

Under the law, enforced in 46 states, a citizen granted the privilege to drive agrees in advance that he will take an alcohol test, upon request, if he is arrested for being in control of a vehicle while under the influence of an intoxicating liquor.

If the driver violates that agreement by refusing to take the test the motorist's privilege to drive would be suspended by the state for six months.

Considering the statistics compiled by the Illinois State Police which show that more than one-half of the state's fatal motor vehicle accidents were the result of intoxication, the concern for such a law is valid. The implied consent law would certainly act as a deterrent to those who consider the risks in drinking and driving as small.

Presently, police officers in Illinois, when making an arrest, must make a judgment as to whether the person in a motor vehicle is obviously drunk and incapable of driving safely. The officer is asked to act as a doctor on the spot which puts him in a difficult and unfair position.

There are times when a driver does in fact have alcohol in his system but not the 10 per cent legal limit. And there are numerous diseases whose symptoms resemble those associated with intoxication. The implied consent law would require positive testing and would eliminate charges based on incriminating circumstances alone.

The Illinois Department of Health has certified over 1,500 breath-testing devices but these tests can now only be given to drivers who have given their spoken consent. If they now refuse it can't be proved they have reached the legal limit and the driver is not charged.

Under the implied consent law a driver may refuse to submit to the breath test and none will be given. However, the driver's license or permit to operate an automobile will then be suspended. If the driver's license is revoked he may request a hearing.

Revocation of a motorist's license is totally separate from the criminal proceedings against him for drunken driving. The revocation is made solely because of the driver's refusal to take the test — not because of his guilt or innocence decided in the courts.

The implied consent law should be passed in Illinois. It should have the support of all local residents. The roadways belong to all of us and every person who sits behind the wheel is responsible not only for himself and his passengers but everyone else entitled to use the roads safely.

The story is an old one and everyone has been reminded that drinking and driving don't mix but perhaps the passage of the implied consent law would serve as a stricter reminder.

In any case there are too many lives wasted because Illinois drunken driving laws are not stringent enough. The implied consent law could serve as that added impetus which would help make our roadways safer.

'Defectors Will Be Helped'

A fleet of private vessels will begin operations in the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast soon to help Soviet fishermen defect to the United States.

The announcement of the measure was made Tuesday by The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights. Lindstrom is the chairman of the national "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

Rev. Lindstrom told newsmen at Logan International Airport, Boston, that the boats will approach Soviet ships with signs in Russian, saying "The United States welcomes you to freedom. Jump overboard, and we will rescue you and take you safely to the U.S."

Rev. Lindstrom did not say exactly when the operation would start or how long it would last. Rev. Lindstrom was reported to be in New Bedford, Mass. yesterday working on the project.

THE OPERATION is being set up after a Soviet fisherman unsuccessfully sought political asylum aboard the Coast Guard vessel "Vigilant" several weeks ago off the Massachusetts coast. Coast Guard officials, at that time, ordered the man returned to his Soviet ship. The incident touched off a controversy that resulted in the suspensions of several Coast Guard officers.

"There are many aboard Soviet fishing vessels who long for freedom as did Simas Kudarka (the fisherman involved in the incident several weeks ago) and they are willing to take the risks involved," Rev. Lindstrom said.

Rev. Lindstrom admitted he expects the U.S. State Department to block the rescue operation. He added, however, the state department has taken no action on the matter. He said, "I do not feel any international incident is going to result from this type of operation."

Golf Cost On Upswing

Using the golf course at the Mount Prospect Country Club will cost duffers a little more next season.

The board of commissioners for the Mount Prospect Park District voted unanimously to increase season passes for adults from $90 to $100 per person. Husband and wife passes will be increased from $145 to $160 for the season.

Youths from 17 to 20 years of age can purchase passes next season for $52.50, an increase of $5 over last year's price. Passes for 14 to 17-year-olds will be increased from $27.50 to $45 and passes for 12 to 13-year-olds will be increased from $25 to $30.

Senior citizens will have to pay $50 for season passes, an increase of $5 over last year's fee of $45.

The daily fee for nine holes Monday through Friday will remain $3, the same as last year. The weekday fee for 18 holes will jump from $4 to $4.50.

On Saturdays, Sundays and holidays the fee for playing 18 holes will increase from $5.50 to $6. On those days the nine-hole fee will be the same as for 18 holes.

A special fee of $5 will be charged persons wishing to play after 4 p.m. any day.

Golf teams at both Prospect High School and Forest View High School will be charged $300 for the use of the golf course for practice and competitive purposes. Single rounds for visiting high school teams will cost $2 per player.

Paul Caldwell, assistant director of parks and recreation, said both schools have indicated they were pleased with the fee. He said that the charge was over the length of a season cheaper than most surrounding park districts which charge high school teams on the basis of cost per round.

Named Division Head

Dr. Edgar M. Fox of 8700 Dempster St., Des Plaines, was reappointed as North Cook County division chairman for The Salvation Army's Metropolitan Area Service Unit Council. Dr. Fox, with offices in Lincolnwood, is also coordinator of the division's vision care project.

The Metropolitan Area Service Unit Council is composed of 153 service units in a seven-county area around Chicago, including the Counties of Cook (excluding Chicago), Lake, McHenry, Kane, DuPage, Will and Lake County, Indiana. Service units provide emergency mobile canteen services at fire and disaster sites in communities outside of the city of Chicago and day-to-day welfare services to individuals and families in need.

Dist. 214 Alters School Busing Policies

Students who attend "early bird" or "reville" classes in High School Dist. 214 can have a free bus ride to school providing they live more than 1½ miles from their high school.

That was one of several decisions which came out of a lengthy discussion Monday night as the Dist. 214 board approved transportation plans for the 1971-72 school year.

The board also hiked the amount of money students must pay for busing if they live less than 1½ miles from school, despite objections by Supt. Edward Gilbert.

Gilbert recommended to the board the district charge a $50 annual fee to students who choose that busing. However, the board's decision means the district will charge students the "cost" of busing, which could be about $70, according to district administrators.

GILBERT POINTED out persons paying the $50 busing fee would also be taxed, as other persons are, to cover district busing. Several board members added they would like to see the results of the transportation study which the Northwest Educational Cooperative is undertaking.

The board also agreed that students outside the 1½ mile limit to any high school should receive free bus transportation, as in past years (the only students excluded are those who are in a shifted attendance area and choose to remain at their present school; they may receive pay transportation).

The continuation of activity buses for after-school activities was also approved.

In other action, the board heard William Williams, president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, object to an annexation proposal from the village of Wheeling.

Three weeks ago, several Wheeling officials told the Dist. 214 board they wanted to annex a school site in Prospect Heights to Wheeling.

WILLIAMS ASSERTED that the proposal would give Wheeling an "open end" to annexing an adjacent 40-acre site, which he said would be used for a large, congestion-producing apartment project.

At the end of the regular meeting, the board received copies of official notification of John Kirkland's lawsuit against Dist. 214 for its November boundary decision.

"The whole thing is so ridiculous, it falls of its own weight," said board member Richard Bachhuber. He and Mrs. Leah Cummins argued that the lawsuit should be discussed next week in open session, but the board voted to hold a closed session next Monday.

The board then went into a brief closed session and announced that Evan Shull, a district instructional coordinator, had been named assistant principal for instructional services at Rolling Meadows High School.

The board also approved Richard Schnell, currently dean of students at Wheeling High School, as the assistant principal for administrative services at the new high school.

THE MEETING lasted until approximately 1:30 a.m. At 1:08 a.m. before the closed session, the board agreed to hold an adjourned meeting next Monday to cover agenda items not covered this Monday.

Bachhuber apologized to the six persons in the audience who had waited almost six hours for late agenda items. Board member Jack Costello added that "a lot of board members would like to apologize for the wait."

At the beginning of the meeting, the board had tabled a request to keep a Forest View student at Forest View, rather than transferring him to Rolling Meadows High School in line with the recent attendance boundary decision.

The administration will take time to consider the policy and to study a medical letter submitted by the student's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lloyd of Rolling Meadows.

Board Sets Feb. 13 Referendum Date

Voters in River Trails School Dist. 26 will go to the polls Feb. 13 to consider a two-part referendum involving a proposed tax hike and a bond issue.

The school board made the decision at its meeting Tuesday to hold the referendum. In choosing to go ahead with the election, board members followed the recommendation made in November by Winston Harwood, school superintendent.

The first part of the referendum will be for a 20-cent hike in the education fund tax rate. Currently the rate stands at $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation. According to Harwood, it is the lowest rate in the area. It has not been changed in a decade he said. If voters approve the tax hike, the new rate would be $1.60.

The second proposal is for the sale of $525,000 in bonds for the construction of an addition to River Trails Junior High School. Whether the bond issue would result in a tax hike is still to be determined. The tax hike, if any, would be kept to a minimum, according to school officials.

THOUGH DETAILED plans for the addition have not yet been drawn up, Harwood did say Tuesday that it would include additional classrooms, an enlarged home economics area, a larger cafeteria and a larger kitchen.

Architect Wayne Fritch told the board Tuesday he estimated the cost of the addition at about $420,000. Added to this would be an expense of about $12,000 for equipment to be used in the addition.

In a written report to the board James Retzlaff, assistant superintendent, said, "It is becoming more apparent that some provision will have to be made at (the junior high school) for more space by a building addition." Retzlaff indicated that the alternative would be to cut back on certain programs.

Currently the junior high school enrollment stands at 680. According to Retzlaff, "the population for next year would be . . . in the vicinity of 800 to 700." With the addition the school could accommodate about 1,000 students, however.

RETZLAFF INDICATED that growth in the school-age population in the district could come about because there are several large undeveloped tracts and many smaller ones now in the district. If residential structures were built on these sites, it would mean a greater school-age population.

According to school officials an addition was built onto the junior high school about two years ago. The addition, costing about $150,000 was built at the north end of the school.

Harwood said that if the referendum is successful the addition would probably be open in the fall of 1977, though he added it might be ready as early as next fall.

Two Elk Grove High School students, in behalf of the school's Ecology Club, are seeking village support for their bottle and newspaper recycling project.

The students, Al Benson, 17, of 501 Yarmouth Rd., and Don Baete, 16, of 390 Yarmouth Rd., both of Elk Grove Village, appeared before the village board Tuesday to ask approval of the conservation project.

Although board members appeared receptive to the idea, they requested more information.

The project would involve the designation of collection points in the village where residents may bring their old newspapers and glass bottles. The items would be taken away on a regular basis by firms dealing in reclamation.

Money from the project would be used by the Ecology Club for community educational programs on pollution.

The students indicated they would like to establish the collection points in the Park and Shop Center on Arlington Heights and Higgins roads, and the Grove Shopping Center on Arlington Heights and Biesterfeld roads.

The recycling project is the first undertaken by the Ecology Club, which began this year. Started in September by Benson and Baete, who at first were the only members, the club has grown to a membership of 20 to 30 students.

The club has three leaders, Benson, Kris Borgias and Kathy Carroll, who comprise the coordinating committee.

Two more committees have been formed to handle projects, the education committee and the recycling committee.

"We want to try and educate the people in Elk Grove Village and take action against pollution when the opportunity is open to us," Benson said.

The education committee is planning a "teach-in" this spring, according to Borgias, who is presently lining up a day and a speaker for a program which will be given for the student body.

The club distributed literature in November urging approval of the pollution bond act. Members passed out fact sheets in the school Tuesday on ways people can help fight pollution.

Sponsors of the club are Dave Truelsen and John Peters, biology teachers at the high school.

The club meets once a week, each Tuesday from 3:45 to 4:20 p.m.

'Y' Girls Rout Elmhurst

The Northwest 'Y' girls swimming team whipped the Elmhurst Park District girls team this past weekend 250-93 to claim their second win of the season.

Taking first place in all but one relay, the Northwest girls overpowered their competition individually while setting three team records.

Cindy Antonik set a new record in the Prep 50-yard butterfly with a 31.4 clocking. Betty Lou Evans set a new record in the 200-yard freestyle with a 2:23.0. A junior division record was set by Kay Corbett in the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:55.0 clocking.

In the Cadet Division (eight year olds and under) Linda Stanhke was first in two events — the 25-yard freestyle and the 25-yard backstroke. Jill Kallos nabbed first place in the 25-yard butterfly and the 100-yard freestyle relay team of Therese Drezen, Sheryl Pritchett, Lorraine Behnke and Linda Stanhke took first.

The Northwest 200-yard medley relay Midget (nine and 10 year olds) team took first place with Barb Loner, Laurie Nelson, Barb Behnke and Wendy Meyers. Wendy Meyers, Terri Westdale, Kathie Schrieber and Barb Behnke won the 200-yard freestyle relay. Barb Behnke won the 50-yard freestyle, Terri Wilken the 100-yard freestyle and Barb Loner the 25-yard backstroke.

In the Prep Division (11 and 12 year olds) the 200-yard medley relay of Josie Fitzsimmons, Cindy Antonik, Dawn Grunwald and Ann Di Francesca was victorious. Northwest won the 200-yard freestyle relay with Cheryl Takata, J. Grunwald, Josie Fitzsimmons and Cindy Antonik.

Individual winners were Jemma Allen in the 100-yard individual medley, Cindy Antonik in the 50-yard butterfly, Cheryl Takata in the 100-yard freestyle and Josie Fitzsimmons in the 50-yard backstroke.

The Northwest Junior Division team (13 and 14 year olds) swept both relays with Lisa Baysinger, Sue Stanhke, Jodi Epstein and Karen Jore in the 200-yard medley relay and Carol Geisler, Karen Jore, Kay Corbett and Lee Anne Doehler in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

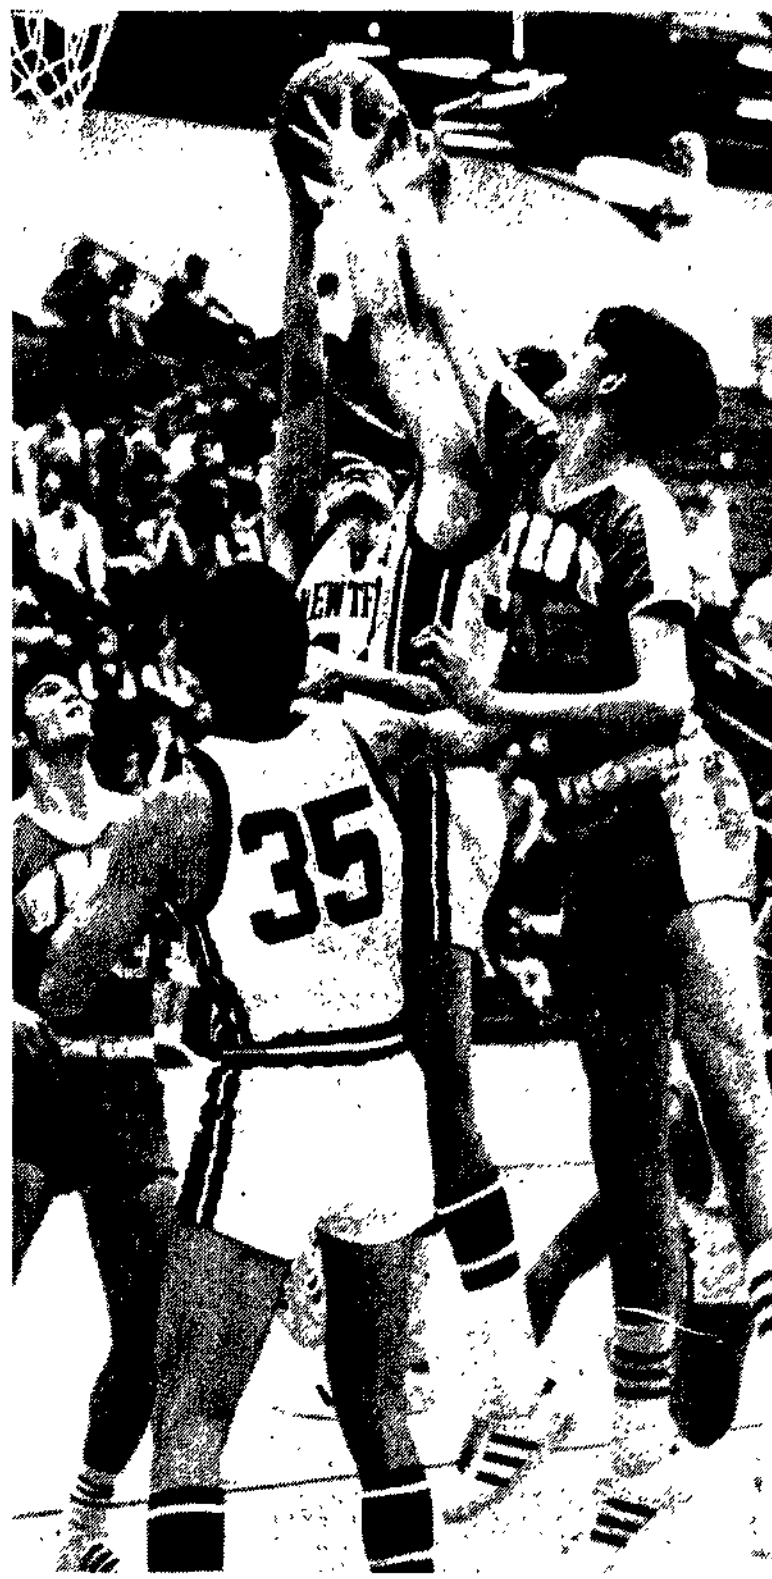

Betty Lou Evans won the 200-yard freestyle, Lee Anne Doehler the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard freestyle, Kay Corbett the 200-yard individual medley, Jodi Epstein the 100-yard butterfly, Kay Corbett the 100-yard backstroke and Sue Stanhke the 100-yard breaststroke.

In the Intermediate Division (15 and over) Sue Dragon, Kathie Dalton, Sue Chips and Claudia Gentzler won the 200-yard medley relay.

Individual winners were Barb Volden in the 200-yard freestyle, Kathie Dalton in the 50-yard freestyle, Sue Chips in the 200-yard individual medley and Jan Takata in the 100-yard breaststroke.

The Intermediate 200-yard freestyle relay team of Sue Chips, C. Gentzler, Sandy Gabler and Kathy Dalton also won.

The Northwest girls will again be in action against LaGrange at LaGrange on Saturday, Jan. 9.

Baseball Sign-Up Set In January

There may be snow on the ground January 9 and 10, but that won't stop determined aspirants to the Maine-Northfield Little League from registering for the 1971 season, said League president Ed Karlins of Niles. For those who can't make it at that time, a last chance will be offered on the following Saturday and Sunday, January 16 and 17.

All boys eight years old before August 1, through 15 years old by July 31, who live within the MNLL boundaries (Lake-Encid Rd., including Timber Trails and the Willows; Dempster St., Sherman and River Rd.) and who would like to play in 1971, should bring a parent or guardian to Flick Park, three blocks north of Glenview Rd., between Pflingston and Longmeadow in Glenview, between 9 a.m. and Noon on Sat., Jan. 9, or between Noon and 3 p.m. on Sun., Jan. 10. The same hours will prevail Jan. 16 and 17.

Karlins said the registration periods are for boys who played last year as well as newcomers. He added that because of a realignment of the league this year, only a limited number of boys in each age group can be accepted. To assist in notifying as many boys in the area as possible, special notices are being distributed through the schools and Karlins advises the boys to take them home to their parents.

The earlier registration period proved satisfactory last year and is being repeated because it allows the officers and managers more time to make up equal teams and give more boys an equal opportunity to play according to their own capabilities. This year, for the first time, MNLL will consist of two major leagues in addition to the minors and the senior division. To be called the National and American Leagues, the two majors will be equal in all respects. Another MNLL innovation this year will be a school for managers, which will begin operation next month.

League vice president Jack Muly, Glenview, said a new system of scheduling helpers for field maintenance is expected to keep the diamonds in top shape all season. Sponsors are now being solicited, according to treasurer Harry Sutphen of Glenview, who said interested parties may call him at 965-7016. Secretary Manny Lubelfeld, Des Plaines, said opening dates will be announced when schedules are completed. Plans for next July's picnic are also under way, president Karlins said.

Auxiliary officers this year include Carol Hall, Glenview, president; Joanne Pearson, Glenview, vice president; Lois Karlins, Niles, treasurer, and Rosemary McCarty, Des Plaines, secretary.

Holiday Cage Action Set For Maine West

Maine West's varsity and freshman basketball teams will be in action during the holiday period.

The Warrior varsity team will compete in the Proviso West Holiday Tournament and the frosh team will compete in the Hersey Froshman Invitational.

Maine West's varsity will start tournament action on Saturday, Dec. 26, against Lake Forest at 12:30 p.m.

The tournament is quite loaded with strong teams and the Dec. 26 lineup includes York against East Leyden at 8:45 a.m., Elgin against Morton West at 10:30 a.m., Maine West-Lake Forest, Proviso East against Joliet West at 2:15 p.m., Downers Grove North against St. Joseph at 4 p.m., LaGrange against Hinsdale South at 6 p.m., Proviso West against Addison Trail at 7:45 p.m. and Willowbrook against Riverside-Brookfield at 9:30 p.m.

If the Warriors win against Lake Forest they will play against the winner of the Proviso East-Joliet West game on Monday, Dec. 28, at 6 p.m. The semifinal game is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on the following Tuesday with the championship game at 7:30 p.m. on the following Wednesday.

If the Warriors should lose to Lake Forest they will move into the consolation bracket against the loser of the Proviso East-Joliet West game on Monday, Dec. 28, at 10:30 a.m.

The Maine West freshman team will open tournament play on Monday, Dec. 21, against East Leyden. If the Warrior frosh win they will play on Wednesday, Dec. 23, at 9:30 a.m.

Bowling Tourneys Began In 1952

Paddock bowling tournaments have become legend in this area, ever since that first tournament for Men's leagues at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine in 1952.

Year before, a trio of golfers had persuaded Bob Paddock, now publisher of Paddock Publications newspapers, to sponsor a tournament between leading teams of twilight golf leagues in the area for "the grand championship."

The initial golf event was such a success, the same formula was followed that fall in drumming up interest in a bowling tournament with the first place team of each league in the area eligible.

THE FIRST MEN'S event was held in Palatine with 18 leagues represented.

The following year, another tourney for women's leagues was developed with the two events moved from one establishment to another. Tournament for mixed leagues was initiated in 1966.

Locations of all of the tournaments to date:

'Y' Boys Back In Win Column

The Northwest Suburban YMCA Boys' Swim Team, coached by John Elliot, got back on the winning trail with a resounding win over High Ridge YMCA 296-49, in their first Blue League meet of the season.

The Blue League is made up of the top five of the District I (Chicago Area) YMCA swim teams according to the way they scored in the District I Championships last March.

Since taking over the reins four years ago, Coach Elliot has guided his boys to the top spot in the District Championships three years in a row, and has high hopes of capturing the top spot again this year.

The NWSY tankers made a clean sweep, taking first places in every event, along with setting seven records: Rick Schwartzing — the team and pool record for the (15-17 yr. old) 50 yd. Freestyle; Mark Funk — the team and pool record for the (8 & under) 50 yd. Freestyle, and pool records for the 25 yd. Butterfly, and 25 yd. Backstroke; and the 15-17 yr. old Freestyle Relay — Jim Smoker, Jeff Arhart, Steve Smoker, Mike Freeman.

New Interchange Is Now Open To Traffic

AL VOLZ, 99-YEAR-OLD resident of Arlington Heights, wields oversized ceremonial scissors as he and Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie simultaneously cut ribbon opening interchange providing access to the Northwest Tollway to motorists travelling east from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows.

by ROBERT A. LAHEY

Thousands of Tollway travelers using the spanking new Arlington Heights Road interchange today will be driving on pavement which was nearly 10 years in the cement mixer.

The interchange was opened to traffic shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie snipped a red ribbon, the last obstacle holding back the horde of commuter cars.

The road will provide access to the Northwest Tollway to eastbound motorists from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows, and an exit for westbound autos.

Ogilvie cited a 1968 consultant's report which estimated the new facility will generate an additional 300,000 Tollway trips in its first year. According to this estimate, the interchange will earn back its initial cost in 10 years, the governor said.

"WE CAN ESTIMATE that this interchange will save a bare minimum of 1,000 man-hours a day in traveling time for the residents of this area," he said.

On hand for the opening ceremonies were many of those who waged the construction campaign which began in 1961.

They included Dr. Carl F. Mees of Arlington Heights and Neil Cooney of Elk Grove Village, co-chairmen of the Tollway Access Committee, which originated the campaign.

Mees introduced members of the committee and Robert Greenaway, an Illinois Toll Highway Authority commissioner, who told about 200 spectators gathered in a soggy snowfall.

"This facility will add another important factor to the growth of your area, which has been fantastic."

Ogilvie seconded that thought, saying the interchange signifies recognition by the authority of the past growth of the Northwest suburbs. "It will itself serve to promote that development during the years to come," he added.

He called the interchange "only one small cog" in the entire tollway system. "But it is a vital one," he said, "located as it is in the very heart of Cook County's most rapidly growing area, astride this artery so indispensable to the daily lives of tens of thousands of commuters."

"Only time will tell if the projections for the importance of this facility are correct. If past experience is any guide, we probably will find them conservative."

Ogilvie also called it a "safe guess" that the interchange will contribute to adding thousands of dollars to the tax rolls in surrounding communities.

ALSO ON THE platform with Ogilvie and local officials from the three communities were state senators John A. Graham, R-Barrington, and John W. Charrobb, R-Oak Park; and state representatives Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mt. Prospect. State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, was in Washington.

Ogilvie and his party drove to Arlington Heights from Chicago where he had announced opening of bids for sale of $135 million in bonds to finance the extension of the East-West Tollway from Aurora to Rock Falls.

Yule Party Planned

A Christmas party will be held today row at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Orchard Place school, 2727 Maple St., Des Plaines.

Fifth and sixth graders will perform Christmas songs from around the world, spokesmen said.

Boys Chased, Then Arrested Keep Christmas Safe

Two youths were arrested for criminal damage to property Wednesday morning after two Arlington Heights police detectives were allegedly harassed near Forest View High School.

Police said the youths, Joseph J. Eschenbrenner, 17, of Rte. 2, Box 28, Palatine and James J. Houldsworth, 18, of 2802 Hawk Ln., Rolling Meadows, were arrested in the school after police chased them into the building.

The detectives were parked in the parking lot of a church north of the school when a group began to throw snowballs and to shout obscenities at them, police said.

AFTER THE OFFICERS tried to leave the scene, the police said they decided to arrest the "instigators" and chased two youths into the high school.

After the accused were arrested as many as 40 youths gathered in the halls and shouted obscenities at the officers, police said.

Another youth, Larry A. Paddock, 17, of 2405 Hawk Ln., Rolling Meadows, was arrested later when he appeared at the police station saying he was the lawyer for the other two, police said.

He was arrested and charged with impersonating a judicial officer.

Each of the three youths was released on $1,000 bond for court appearance Feb. 12.

Des Plaines Fire Chief Frank Haag warns Des Plaines residents, "Don't let the jungle bells you hear in your driveway this Christmas be those of the fire engine."

Haag reminds everyone that Christmas trees and other beautiful and traditional decorative symbols of yuletide can be quickly transformed into sources of deadly and destructive fires.

Christmas trees should be freshly cut and kept in water, according to Haag. Before setting up the tree saw off at least an inch of the trunk at a steep angle so it can absorb the maximum amount of water. Then place and keep the tree in water until it's discarded which should be as soon as possible after Christmas Day.

Never rely on self-applied chemical coatings or solutions to flameproof a natural tree, Haag warns, because none of these processes is completely effective.

In setting up the Christmas tree place it well away from the fireplace, radiator, stove and other sources of heat. Support it firmly and place it so that, upright or fallen, it won't block any stairway or doorway which are vital escape routes in case of fire.

Choose only lighting equipment which carries the Underwriters' Laboratory (UL) label, indicating it meets safety standards, Haag said.

If you use tree lights, extension cords, plugs or any electrical equipment already on hand, check them carefully for frayed wires, loose connections and broken sockets. UL labeled cord sets which have a fuse in the plug are recommended.

Pupils To Perform Nutcracker Suite

About 90 kindergarten students at the Adlai Stevenson School, Ballard and Capital Rd., Des Plaines, will perform Thursday night to Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite.

Also performing at the 7 p.m. presentation will be the Stevenson school chorus with Christmas and Chanukah songs, according to Stevenson principal, Barry Ekman.

The students are from classes taught by Mrs. Sue Nelson and Miss Cathy O'Donovan.

2 Charged In Burglary

Des Plaines police have charged two men in connection with a $5,000 burglary that took place early Monday morning at Maryville Academy, 1150 N. River Rd., Des Plaines.

According to police, the men, who were aided in preparing the theft by two Maryville students, climbed into the office window, forced open one door and climbed over another door once inside to reach a room where two safes are kept.

After opening the safes, the men allegedly took $5,000 in cash and a $6,707 check for the Maryville Christmas Fund, police said.

Arrested were Richard Clark, 46 C. Willow Way Trailer Park, Arlington Heights, and Thomas Trybus, for whom police did not give an address. Trybus was arrested at Niles felony court, where he was appearing on charges of burglary.

Student Films Being Distributed By NU

Films made by students of Notre Dame High School, Niles, are currently being distributed by the Northwestern University Film Library.

Two reels of twelve student films are available on a rental basis. The announcement of the new releases contained the following statement: "For many years Notre Dame High School has been in the forefront of the secondary film education movement. Its film appreciation course, required of all seniors, has served as a model. Under Northwestern alumnus David Coyne, Director of the Film Study program at the school, a course in film production was added to the curriculum two years ago. The films, selected from over 500, offer a unique opportunity to see some of the finest of recent high school films."

Some of the existing descriptions indicate the caliber of the films. "The longest film in this reel ('Rabbit') is perhaps the most sensitive treatment of the problems of love and freedom ever done by high school students. 'The action ('Face-Phases') is simple, the photography haunting, the meaning deep." "Dancer 43" emphasizes editing and double exposure to create a striking interpretation of an original modern dance. An excellently done animation (Spring Morning Serenade) demonstrates precise technique."

All of the films on the Northwestern Film Library release reels are winners of past Notre Dame film festivals and many of them are top award winners in the Columbia College Film Festival.

Gorski Promoted

Robert Gorski has been named to head the North Suburban Division of H & R Block, Inc., America's largest tax preparation service.

He will be responsible for the suburbs of Des Plaines, Glenview, Arlington Heights and Niles, and will be headquartered at 1566 Miner St., Des Plaines.

He is a native Chicagoan, attended El Camino College in Southern California and served three years in the U. S. Marine Corps.

He is married the father of two children, and will reside in Schaumburg.

Paintings Exhibited

Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge now has a group of 20 paintings by Chicago artist Gianni Giffone on display in the hospital's lobby.

Many midwestern scenes are included in the exhibit which will be on display through the end of this month.

The artist's paintings have been widely shown and he is the recipient of many awards.

The display is open to the public.

Fetterer Named Mgr. Of Common Control

Gerald F. Fetterer, 3808 Leslie Ln., Des Plaines, has been named manager, common control section, of the switching laboratory at Automatic Electric Laboratories, Northlake.

Fetterer, previously staff assistant to the manager of the department, becomes project manager of an electronic system for recording billing information for long distance telephone calls.

He joined the electronics and communications systems manufacturing company in 1963 as a co-operative engineering student while completing his studies school. He is married to the former LouAnn Keilsmeier of Sheboygan.

SONY'S FM Stereo FM-AM Receiver with an 8-track tape player...

starts off small. But it grows on you.

Sony's HST-388 is the growing thing in stereo. Basically, it's a fine FM Stereo/FM-AM Receiver and an 8-track stereo tape cartridge player on one neat little unit.

To make it bloom into a complete music system, just feed it a pair of speakers.

It can flower into a record player too, if you decide to add a turntable.

However you listen to it, the HST-388 gives you clean, clear, powerful sound—at every frequency.

The tuner has an easy-to-read tuning dial, a local/distant switch that lets you pick up weak stations, AFC for drift-free FM listening, and stereo indicator lights.

Plus a headphone jack and controls conveniently located on the front panel. All in a handsome walnut cabinet.

Come in for a demonstration and we'll show you how to grow a complete stereo music system with Sony's HST-388.

The Doctor Says: The Wonder Drug Of Many Uses

by LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell me the "side effects" of the steady use of cortisone. Just what is cortisone supposed to do for the system?

Dear Reader — Cortisone is one of the hormone preparations that belongs to the group from the powerful adrenal glands over the kidneys. The adrenal hormones are necessary for life. They affect metabolism of fat, protein and carbohydrates. They influence the function of almost all other organs in the body as well as the body's salt and water content.

Cortisone and related hormones have a powerful anti-inflammatory action and were considered as a miracle medicine when patients crippled with rheumatoid (inflammatory) arthritis threw their crutches and canes away and were remarkably improved after taking the medicine. Unfortunately the effects were not always lasting.

These preparations have wide application in medicine. They are useful in many inflammatory and allergic-type disorders. Sometimes they are lifesaving in severe acute rheumatic fever with heart involvement or in a patient with a severe asthmatic attack. They are even used in some disorders of the digestive tract, notably "ulcerative colitis," a disease characterized by repeated episodes of severe diarrhea.

OF COURSE, the hormone is also used in people who have low adrenal gland function, just as thyroid is given for low thyroid function. Individuals with abnormally low-functioning adrenal glands have a decrease in physical tolerance, are easily fatigued, have digestive problems, loss of weight and many other medical difficulties. These are reversed with proper hormone replacement.

Prolonged use of cortisone and related products cause changes similar to an overactive adrenal gland. The trunk of the body may become fat while the arms and legs are thin. The face becomes bloated. We call it a "moon face." There are changes in the chemistry of the body. Ulcers may form in the stomach and first part of the small intestine. Loss of bone structure may also occur.

Insomnia is common. Many people develop a higher level of activity. Their mood may be elevated. The happy, overactive individual always on the go, not needing much sleep is characteristic of the effects of cortisone. Within limits, patients sometimes like the boost in their energy. The late President Kennedy was reported to have taken these hormones daily because his adrenal function was low. Some have speculated that his use of the hormone gave him the drive and physical capacity to be president.

A person rarely may become depressed or have other psychic disturbances while taking the medicine. These problems disappear when the medicine is stopped.

Thus, although cortisone and related medicines are wonderful and sometimes lifesaving, they must be used carefully and always under the close supervision of a doctor.

The Lighter Side Problems Of Yuletide Are Easily Solved

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON UPI — Coping with Christmas — four handy hints for overcoming Yuletide problems before they overcome you, compiled after reading the December issues of several household magazines:

PROBLEM: HOW TO dispose of old Christmas cards. Each year the question arises, "What shall we do with our old Christmas cards? They are so pretty it seems a shame to throw them away."

Solution: Enjoy the cards for as long as you like, then put them into envelopes and mail them back to the people who sent them to you.

PROBLEM: HOW TO dispose of leftover eggnog. Tradition decrees that you prepare a bowl of eggnog for your Christmas party. Experiences show, however, that very few, if any, guests are going to drink the stuff. The cop-out most commonly used is that eggnog is fattening. Experience shows, however, that the real reason most guests turn down eggnog is because they prefer something stronger.

Solution: After the party, take the leftover eggnog into the arbor and pour it into the birdbath. Unlike your guests, birds love eggnog. A few of them may become a bit obstreperous but that is a small price to pay for getting rid of a bowl of eggnog.

PROBLEM: HOW TO dispose of leftover guests. Each Christmas party produces a certain quota of leftover guests. The trick is to get rid of them. For if they suspect that, they will never leave.

Solution: Leap upon the eggnog table and call out, "Hey, everybody! I've got a great idea! Let's all go caroling!" As the guests are lurching out the door, make certain each has his or her wrap, so they will not have an excuse to come back in again.

Once outside, start them lurching down the street singing "We Three Kings." Quickly slip back inside, douse lights, lock doors, disconnect doorbell.

PROBLEM: HOW TO dispose of Christmas carolers. Each year your neighbors have a Christmas party, after which some of the guests go caroling. Experience shows they will appear on your lawn at 3 a.m. singing "We Three Kings."

Solution: There is only one sure way to ward them off. Invite them to come in for a cup of eggnog.

The Almanac

by United Press International

Today is Thursday, Dec. 17, the 351st day of 1970.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history:

In 1903 Orville and Wilbur Wright made the first successful airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. It lasted 42 seconds.

In 1925 Gen. William "Billy" Mitchell, advocate of a separate air force, was found guilty of criticizing the Army and Navy and suspended for five years. In 1945 the Senate voted to award Mitchell the Medal of Honor posthumously and promoted his rank to major general.

In 1939 the Nazi warship Graf Spee, being chased by British attack vessels, was scuttled off the coast of Uruguay.

In 1941 Adm. Chester Nimitz replaced Adm. Husband Kimmel as commander of the U.S. Fleet in the Pacific, 10 days after the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

A thought for today: Writer Sydney Smith said, "When you rise in the morning, for: a resolution to make the day a happy one for a fellow creature."

Doris Day's Never Alone On Her Strolls

by VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD UPI — Doris Day is the most visible star in Beverly Hills. Tourists need only seek out a pack of assorted dogs in a tangle of loashes, in the midst of which they will find the freckle-faced actress who walks her mutts as many as five miles a weekend. Miss Day refuses to divulge the number of dogs she harbors under her roof for four some official will descend on her with a show cause order why she should be keeping a kennel in the heart of Southern California's most exclusive community. Owning dogs herself is only the beginning, Doris is convinced everyone with a suitable yard should own at least one pooch.

"Do you know how many dogs they incinerate every day in the pound?" she asked with the fervor of an evangelist. "It's terrible."

"WHY DO YOU THINK I have so many dogs? To save them from being put to sleep."

One must take pains not to admire any of her pets. A pat on the head, a scratch on the back or cooing sounds made in the direction of one of the animals is a virtual invitation to ownership.

If Doris is too fond of the particular fleahound you've admired, she will give you instructions and directions to the nearest pound.

This great good fortune has befallen most of her friends as well as cast and crew members of her weekly CBS television show.

Doris brings wall-to-wall dogs to her dressing room. One treads carefully and sits in a chair only after making sure it is not already occupied by one of Miss Day's furry friends.

IT ISN'T ENOUGH that Doris has a compulsion to find homes for stray curs, she is obsessed with seeing all dogs are not abused.

"On my walks, I must admit I look into yards and dog runs to see that dogs aren't being penned up or treated cruelly," Doris said.

"It probably makes some people angry. But not half as angry as I get when I see some poor dog chained or locked up for days on end."

As a one-woman SPCA, Doris is determined to see that homeless dogs are cared for other than by execution.

Her intentions, clearly noble, have had a curious effect on the actress' acquaintances. They greet her warmly and talk of many things, but they have learned to ignore the animals as though they were stuffed

Defending Home With Force Legal-If

The law protects the person who may have to use force to protect his home against the unlawful intruder.

However, the Illinois State Bar Assoc. warns that persons should not consider that this law allows them to indiscriminately "shoot to kill."

Only under two conditions is a person justified in using force which is intended or likely to cause death or great bodily harm.

One, is that the intruder or intruders made or attempted to make the entry in a "violent, riotous or tumultuous manner" and the person believed that the force was necessary to prevent an assault or violence upon himself or others who were in the dwelling at the same time.

The word dwelling doesn't refer only to one's home. It can be "a building or portion thereof, a tent, a vehicle, or other enclosed space which is used or intended for use as a human habitation, home or residence."

THE SECOND circumstance where a person is justified in using force capable of causing death or great bodily harm is if there is an attack on his dwelling and he "reasonably believes that such force is necessary to prevent the commission of a felony in the dwelling."

Before the state legislature changed the law in 1967 the only way a person could employ great force was if he were trying to prevent a "forcible felony." This meant rape, murder, armed robbery, burglary, arson or other serious crimes.

While a person has the authority to use force, he is not relieved of his legal obligation to exercise great discretion and restraint, the bar group stated.

'Born To Be King'

A Sunday School Christmas play "Born to Be King" will be presented at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Cumberland Baptist Church, 1500 E. Central Road, Mount Prospect.

THANK HEAVEN FOR little girls, and big ones too, who wear the green of the Girl Scout organization. Mrs. L. E. Copeland, Des Plaines community chairman, engages in her favorite occupation — helping girls, in this case Dawn Reichl, 9, of 1559 Campbell, turn into fine young women.

by ELEANOR RIVES

Aileen Copeland likes girls — 2,157 of them — all Girl Scouts, all in Des Plaines.

And girls like Mrs. Copeland. Girls who were in her Brownie troop and are now through college. Girls who enjoyed all the happy summer experiences of day camp when she was an adult group leader and later director of the camp.

"If you want to help a girl at 18, begin when she's eight," said Aileen, "for a woman is what happens to a girl."

Mrs. L. E. Copeland of 1596 Algonquin did better than that. She began when her daughter and all the other girls in her Brownie Troop were seven.

"I had a friend who was a Girl Scout adult trainer, and I just automatically planned to be a Brownie leader as soon as Carol reached Brownie age," she said. Daughter Carol continued her Girl Scout career clear through senior scouting, with the thrilling experience of attending the Girl Scout National Round Up at Faragut, Idaho, in 1965 with 10,000 other girls and adults.

AFTER THREE years as a Brownie leader, Mrs. Copeland served three years as neighborhood chairman of central Des Plaines, bringing together the adult leaders of troops in that area for planning, exchanging ideas and organizing neighborhood projects. The following three years she served as district chairman, then as council treasurer for two years. As a delegate she attended four National Council meetings (conventions) in Philadelphia, St. Louis, Miami and Seattle.

The past six years she has served as community chairman of Des Plaines, meeting monthly with the six service unit chairmen (formerly called neighborhood chairmen) of the area on the one hand and meeting monthly with 12 other community chairmen from other areas and a field vice president on the other. She also has available the help of a professional staff adviser.

"I'm just a liaison between the two groups," she said. "I carry questions, problems, answers and ideas back and forth."

WHEN AILEEN and the six service unit chairmen get together, they discuss the community level activities of the 102 Girl Scout troops in Des Plaines and plan for all community-wide Girl Scout projects. They keep a community "Kaper Chart" designating which service unit has responsibility for which job.

The Girl Scouts of Des Plaines carry out several large community projects each year in addition to their self-planned troop activities. An annual affair is the February Golden Agers party for Des Plaines senior citizens, for which the girls make the decorations, provide the entertainment (skits, singing, dancing) and serve the refreshments.

A week in March is set aside as Girl Scout Week. Seven Des Plaines business windows are decorated, one by each of the six service units (neighborhoods) and one by senior Girl Scouts. On Sunday of that week, girls and adult volunteers attend their place of worship in uniform. Many churches present on that day special combined church-scout awards to girls who have earned them.

ANOTHER ANNUAL event occurs early in May when the Sports Show is held at Rand Park. "It's quite a deal," said Aileen. "Anywhere from 6,000 to 10,000 people go through there on Saturday and Sunday."

The girls have their own booth at which they represent the joys of scouting in various ways each year, perhaps showing slides of camping activities or exhibiting Girl Scout skills such as knot-tying or tent-living.

In June are the "Fly-Up" ceremonies when girls of all troops move from one level to another: from Brownies to Juniors to Cadettes to Seniors. In July there are two-week day camp sessions in a nearby Forest Preserve, and throughout June, July and August, girls may experience the thrill of established or primitive camping at Norwesco, the Council's established camp north of Eau Claire.

"THE PUBLIC thinks Girl Scouts do little else but sell cookies and make tray favors," said Mrs. Copeland. "You can see that's far from the truth."

Examples of some typical Girl Scout activities among Des Plaines troops include presenting gifts and caroling for residents of old people's homes. One troop spends one evening a month at Brookwood Nursing Home entertaining the convalescents there. Senior scouts have taken under their wing the girls at the American Indian Center in Chicago, helping to outfit them in uniforms and to organize their own troop. Three other troops had the Indian girls as guests at a daytime roller skating party in Chicago, then feasted them to a cookout in the woods.

Seniors also help the handicapped learn to swim at Northwest Suburban YMCA. A Des Plaines troop of girls decorated and cleaned the Santa Claus house in the center of town. Another decorated the Historical Society's Christmas tree.

THERE ARE 464 volunteer adults helping Des Plaines Girl Scouts in one capacity or another. "They work so hard," said Aileen, "especially the leaders. I have to give them a lot of credit."

Aileen Copeland is moving into the council level again when her term as community chairman expires Jan. 2. She will be a board member-at-large. Mrs. R. Tompkins will step into the job of community chairman.

"But I'll still do something for my community," she said. "There is so much satisfaction in working with girls. They are so delighted with the little things you do for them." Then she added wistfully, "I'd almost like to start over again as a Brownie leader."

OVER AT THE council office at 444 Lee St., they refer to Aileen Copeland as "that wonderful woman." They are delighted with the not-so-little things she does for them, for example using her know-how as state treasurer of the Garden Club of Illinois to deck the halls of the Girl Scout office with the beauty of Christmas.

How much she does in her own quiet way is inspiration for adults and girls alike. Helping girls become women is the reward she enjoys most.

Captures Christmas Spirit

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Most everyone is familiar with the classic Charles Dickens' tale, "A Christmas Carol." I've read the book. I've seen it performed as a play on television. Recently I saw it in a different version.

Amidst an audience of grammar school children, I watched as the celebrated story was enacted on live stage with the addition of music. It is playing currently at Mill Run Theatre in Niles.

The play will do more than delight the children. Adults should take time to see it, too. The performance radiates the Christmas spirit. Harry Lee Rogers has supervised this entire production which stars George Womack as Scrooge with a cast of Tiffany Players, Mill Run's resident acting company.

The production can be labeled appropriately "cozy." It's warm, something to sit back and enjoy. It's the type of thing one could make into an annual event, a yearly preparation for Christmas Day itself.

WOMACK IS GOOD as the cantankerous Scrooge who views Christmas as a frivolous weakness of mankind. He is led to see the error of his way by the Ghost of Christmas Past, played by Bruce Wright, who doubles as Bob Cratchit.

Much of the success of this one-of-a-kind musical must be credited to the elaborate costuming, the colorful setting and expert lighting.

Special effects, like smoke rising as the spirits of past acquaintances greet Scrooge, read for bed in nightgown and cap, are the finishing details that tailor the performance.

Musical numbers are gay and light. It is not strange at all to see the various members of the cast break out in song. Many of the numbers are taken from popular Broadway musicals. One I thoroughly enjoyed was "Need A Little Christmas" from "Mame."

THE TIFFANY Players prove they are as able dancers as singers. This can be counted as another ingredient in the success of the production.

Only drawback I discovered was the lack of volume experienced while sitting in the top row of the theater. When the characters weren't facing my direction, it was difficult to distinguish the words. It made little difference to me since I am already familiar with "A Christmas Carol." Yet, for someone who doesn't know the story, it might be bothersome.

"A Christmas Carol" is open to the general public for matinee performances Saturday, Dec. 19, and Wednesday, Dec. 23. It also is staged mornings during the week for groups of school children. Tickets are all general admission with no reserved seating. Tickets, 299-2333.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

If you don't have anything special for your dining table centerpiece for the holiday season there is still time to make colorful — and edible — Christmas trees. Julia Y. gave us the recipe and a teen-ager friend wasted no time making it for us. Beat 5 level tablespoons of butter, 1 cup sugar and 2 eggs until creamy, then cook over low heat until heated through. Add 1½ cups chopped dates and heat for about 10 minutes, watching carefully so the mixture does not stick. Remove from heat and add 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2½ cups Rice Krispies and 1 cup chopped pecans. Mix until cool. Butter hands and shape into cones about 1½ inches high. Roll in green sugar. Then push on some decorative nonpareils if you wish. Cover a silver platter with shredded coconut and set the "trees" in any pattern that suits you. Better keep an eye on busy little fingers or your centerpiece will vanish.

Dear Dorothy: Recently a ballpoint pen went through the washer without being discovered. It opened in the dryer. Everything, of course, was a mess. Tried every method I knew to get the ink off but without much luck as the ink had dried on. Finally used color removers, fabric whiteners and nylon brighteners and lost only two uniforms, which wasn't too bad. Getting off the ink that had baked onto the dryer was even tougher although perseverance won out. We used acetone which is so dangerous if inhaled — especially in a closed space like a dryer. Hope I never have this kind of experience again. —Dodie M.

Dear Dorothy: Can you tell me how to remove spray starch which is stuck to the bottom of my Teflon-coated iron? I've tried just about everything with no luck. —Mrs. George Bendzen.

The advantage of a plastic-coated iron is that nothing should be able to stick to it. Readers have reported using a damp cloth sprinkled with baking soda, a stainless steel cleaner, silver polish or the very finest steel wool (0000). One reader used window polish with success and another wiped off the stuff with a soft cloth dipped in a detergent solution which had a little household ammonia in it. If you've used anything harder than the above ingredients, or used too much elbow grease, you've probably taken off the rest. Then you'll be back to an old-fashioned non-Teflon iron (which most of us have).

Dear Dorothy: Last year a friend sent me a cute item to hang on my door during the holiday season. It's simple to make and maybe some of your readers might like to try it. Bend a wire clothes hanger into a circle, cover it with ribbon and holly and tie on candy canes, nuts and suckers. It's not only a gay doorway ornament but especially attractive to young guests who quickly snap off a goodie with the little scissors which hang on the hoop. —Corlaine A.

Dear Dorothy: Recently had dinner at my son's and was pleasantly surprised by the simple but elegant hors d'oeuvres served. My daughter-in-law cut 12 pieces of bacon in half and wrapped each piece around a large pimento-stuffed olive, secured by a toothpick. She put them under the broiler about four inches from the flame for about four minutes — until the bacon was brown and crisp. —Mrs. Bert F.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

Home Still Wife's Domain

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — "It takes a heap of living to make a house a home," the saying goes. And it takes a heap of time and money, too.

Care of the home — whether it's a newlywed's small city apartment or the big family's rambling country place — is a topic that has occupied the attention of the professional fact finders recently.

And, it would seem, home still is the domain chiefly of the distaff partner.

The National Consumer Finance Association says the American husband contributes, on the average, about 16 hours a day in helping around the house, whether or not his wife works outside the home. For most part, the association said, "wives do most in-the-home work and husbands do yard work, home maintenance, help with marketing, record-keeping and socializing types of activities with children."

QUOTING STATISTICS given before the National Agricultural Outlook Conference in Washington, D.C. based on 1967-68 tests, the association said time put in by wives in household work varied from an average 8.1 hours daily for those not in paid employment to 4.6 hours for those employed outside the home for 30 or more hours per week. A woman's total work week varied from 70 hours, on average, if she had young children or if she worked outside the home 15 or more hours a week, to 40-50 hours a week if she was employed less than 15 hours outside the home and had no children.

The Eureka Williams Co., Bloomington, Ill., a division of National Union Electric Corp. that manufactures vacuum cleaners, asked homemakers some interesting questions in its 1970 Home Care Survey, conducted by telephone in Boston, Atlanta, Chicago and San Diego.

THE WOMEN, married, selected at random, and divided just about evenly above and below the 35-year age mark and the $12,000 family income mark, were asked a series of questions about their home care and decor, plans for the future, factors influencing decisions.

It found, incidentally, that 95.5 per cent of the women interviewed considered a vacuum cleaner essential for house-keeping, followed by the automatic clothes washer, 86.5 per cent, the automatic clothes dryer, 75 per cent, and the automatic self-defrosting refrigerator, 52 per cent — the only appliances considered a necessity rather than a luxury by more than 50 per cent of the women.

A random sampling of the questions turns up these interesting tidbits about women and their homes:

SIXTY PER CENT of the women selected their present home decor because it pleased them — as compared with 41.5 per cent who said they chose to please their husbands and 25.5 per cent because it suited the needs of their families.

Of six factors which influence the selection and purchase of home furnishings, the women listed in order of importance: Style, price, color, type of fiber, brand name and practicality. The age and income breakdown here revealed that, although everyone seemed concerned first with styling, those in the lower age and income groups ranked practicality last. Young people ranked brand name second only to style; those over 35 were more concerned with price and type of construction, material or fiber, rating brand names last.

QUERIED ABOUT THEIR housekeeping habits, 67 per cent of the women said they tried to keep their homes "top clean" always, but only half felt they succeeded. Fifty-seven per cent of the women do chores as they are needed, 42 per cent organize jobs on a schedule. Just about half the women said their housekeeping methods and routines were pretty much the same as their mothers'; 45.5 per cent rated themselves about the same type of housekeeper as their mothers.

Given notice that unexpected guests would be arriving in one hour, 43 per cent of the women said they would pick up the kitchen, 38 per cent prepare a snack for the guests, 33 per cent dust the furniture, 32 per cent vacuum.

And — woman before housekeeper — 54 per cent said they would freshen up and change their clothes!

COTTON CALICO PRINTS, sewn together in bright patchwork fashion, make Jake the Snake a welcome visitor to couch or bed. He's stuffed with cotton batting and even has a zippered pocket that can be used as a secret hiding place. His whimsical turtle companion — done up in two shades of ribless cotton corduroy — is designed for door-stop duty. Both were created by the Talon Department of Design. For free instructions, readers may send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the National Cotton Council, Dept. PR, Box 12285, Memphis, Tenn. 38112.

Demo Women Meet Tonight

The upcoming park district referendum will be the topic at tonight's meeting of the Maine Township Democratic Women's Club. David Markworth, superintendent of the park district, will talk about the need for the proposed recreational center to be built at Lake Park.

The meeting will be held at the Democratic Headquarters in Des Plaines, Oakton and Cora streets, beginning at 8 p.m. The Democratic Women will also hold their Christmas party at this meeting.

Decorating Child's Room Can Be Fun

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
NEW YORK (UPI) — Bunk beds, or maybe a four poster; a dresser, desk, perhaps some shelves for books and toys; bright wallpaper, colorful bedspreads and curtains; some pictures — and you have the typical youngster's bedroom.

Attractive. Practical. But it could be so much more!

Fixing up the children's rooms can be the most fun in home decorating. It's one place where imagination can hold sway. You're only the occupant to please.

Go ahead, create a clubhouse for the would-be smokester, a garage for the young sportsman buff; a planetarium for the neophyte astronomer; a space setting for the astronaut-to-be; a storybook room for the little girl who lives in the world of make-believe; a mirrored practice hall for tomorrow's prima ballerina; an indoor garden, complete with window greenhouse, for a budding garden club-ber; even a tack room for the young equestrian.

YOU REMEMBER what fun it was working on the very first nursery, planning every detail with care — the perfect setting for a very special little person. It's even more fun when the room's occupant is a little older, has his own ideas and can help with the planning and the work.

A very special room need not cost a lot. You'd be surprised what imagination, ingenuity and a handy mother and dad can accomplish with hand-me-downs, paper, paint, bits and pieces and scraps of this and that. The home magazines and handyman books are full of ideas and plans, too.

If you want to splurge a bit, even the furniture manufacturers are getting in on the act, and high time, according to Robert S. Fogarty, Jr., president of Habitat Resources, Inc., Los Angeles.

FOGARTY FINDS the children's furniture field generally has been lacking in imagination and innovation. "It is a tremendous market that has gone relatively unnoticed," he said.

Fogarty's firm acquired Mode Furniture Manufacturing Co. early this year and promptly commissioned Darrell Howe & Associates to design a special line of furnishings for youngsters.

Howe, widely known as a decorator of children's rooms he created to attract would-be home purchasers made a big hit with the youngsters.

"Even toddlers today are aware of the world around them," he said. "My three-year-old son, Tony, for example, can easily spot the difference between a Ford and Ferrari, thanks to television."

Whether you go whole hog, buy just a piece or two, or work out a completely different idea on your own, there are a few basics to consider in planning a room for a youngster.

A COMFORTABLE BED is a must — space for overnight guests is nice. You should have practical flooring, good lighting, easy-to-care-for finishes and fabrics. There should be work space for studies and hobbies, a place to lack up pictures, souvenirs and what-not, storage for clothing and for the very special possessions so precious to youngsters; whether or not mother thinks they're junk really doesn't matter. And she won't care as long as they don't create unmanageable clutter. Where possible leave floor space for play and have stools, cushions and seating of some sort for young guests.

Even if youngsters must share a room, try to give each his own space — a bed, a desk, some storage — is there a youngster who doesn't want some drawer or chest that only he holds the key to? Often, even in the smallest room, a partial divider will provide privacy.

And, don't forget, it's a room for your boy or girl, not the boy or girl YOU were!

For A Happy Life

It's Fun In December To:

1. Give your favorite book of inspiration to someone you love.
2. Plan to attend a Christmas concert.
3. Bring home a bag of bird seed for the birds.
4. Invite a live-aloner to your house for Christmas dinner.
5. Consider what has been the most valuable thing you have learned this year.
6. Grate your favorite kind of sharp cheese and keep in the freezer for when needed.
7. Study your natural expression. Is it bright and pleasant or forbidding and downcast?
8. See if you share Ralph Waldo Emerson's feeling: "What I need is somebody to make me do what I can."

Citizenship Award Applicants Sought

JUDY ANDREWS, popular Chicago television and recording starlet, is appearing Wednesday through Saturday evenings at the new Chateau Carol on Milwaukee Avenue, one mile north of Deerfield Road and one mile south of Route 22. Weekday cocktail hour is from 4 to 6 p.m.; dinner hour begins at 5 p.m.

The Soroptimist Club of Des Plaines is seeking applications for its annual citizenship award. The award is given to recognize and reward the outstanding contributions of the youth of Des Plaines.

Mrs. Robert Hinde, chairman, stresses that this is not a scholarship award, but rather is given in recognition of unselfish service in the areas of home, life, school, church or community activities.

To qualify, the applicant must be a senior boy or girl with a Des Plaines mailing address, in good standing with his or her school. All applications, completed in accordance with the rules of the club, must be returned to Mrs. Hinde, 381 Oxford Rd., Des Plaines, 60016, by Jan. 4.

ALL APPLICATIONS will be read and rated by a panel of citizens, among them, Ralph J. Frost, assistant superintendent of Dist. 207; and Robert Sherward, 2nd Ward alderman and chairman of the city's Youth Activity Committee.

Applications may be obtained at the personnel office at Maine West High School and have been left with Soroptimist members Mrs. John Guthardt at the First National Bank of Des Plaines, and Mrs. Donald Hayd at the Des Plaines National Bank.

"We hope other service clubs and community leaders who work with young people will take advantage of this opportunity and see that their candidate applies for the award," Mrs. Hinde said.

Juniors Sponsor Brookwood Fete

Members of the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines, held a Christmas Party for the residents of the Brookwood Convalescent Home in Des Plaines, Dec. 11.

Mrs. John Clearwater, Mrs. Bill Poruba, Mrs. Norman Riese and Mrs. Lawrence Sionski organized the party and presented painted Christmas trees to the patients.

Another group of Woman's Club members, directed by Mrs. Metullus Barnes, sang Christmas carols and led the group in a song fest.

Members of the Junior Woman's Club go monthly to Brookwood for bingo parties and other entertainment for the patients.

THE "TOP FOUR" will be entertaining in the Top of the Towers Room of the Arlington Park Towers Hotel through the first of the year. The musical-vocal-comedy group consists of Raye Snider, Curtiss Lau, Lou Gold and Jim Sear.
